(II) In determining the maximum annual dollar amount of state sales tax increment revenue that can be dedicated to the transit investment project pursuant to subsection (3)(b)(I)(E) of this section, the commission shall consider the amount identified by the applicant pursuant to section 24-46-403 (3)(i)(II) and shall attempt to ensure that the maximum annual dollar amount does not prevent dedicating the total cumulative dollar amount established by the commission pursuant to this subsection (3)(d) to be paid to the transit investment project. After adopting the resolution required pursuant to this subsection (3)(d), the commission may adopt a subsequent resolution that increases the maximum annual dollar amount that can be dedicated to the transit investment project, but the commission shall not increase the maximum annual dollar amount by an amount that would result in dedicating a total dollar amount to the transit investment project that exceeds the total cumulative dollar amount established by the commission pursuant to this subsection (3)(d).

(III) (A) In determining the total cumulative dollar amount of state sales tax increment revenue that can be dedicated to the transit investment project pursuant to subsection (3)(d)(I)(F) of this section, the commission shall award an amount equal to the total cumulative dollar amount of state sales tax increment revenue that the third-party analyst determines can be dedicated to the transit investment project as reported pursuant to section 24-46-403 (3)(j).

(B) Notwithstanding subsection (3)(d)(III)(A) of this section, if the estimated eligible costs identified pursuant to section 24-46-403 (3)(c)(II) are less than the total cumulative dollar amount of state sales tax increment revenue that the third-party analyst determines can be dedicated to the transit investment project as reported pursuant to section 24-46-403 (3)(j) and the application did not affirm that state sales tax increment revenue that exceeds the estimated eligible costs will be spent on additional eligible costs incurred in connection with the transit investment project, in determining the total cumulative dollar amount of state sales tax increment revenue that can be dedicated to the transit investment project pursuant to subsection (3)(d)(I)(F) of this section, the commission shall award a total cumulative dollar amount of state sales tax increment revenue equal to the estimated eligible costs identified pursuant to section 24-46-403 (3)(c)(II).

(C) Notwithstanding subsection (3)(d)(III)(A) of this section, if the estimated eligible costs identified pursuant to section 24-46-403 (3)(c)(II) are less than the total cumulative dollar amount of state sales tax increment revenue that the third-party analyst determines can be dedicated to the transit investment project as reported pursuant to section 24-46-403 (3)(j) and the application affirmed that state sales tax increment revenue that exceeds the estimated eligible costs will be spent on additional eligible costs incurred in connection with the transit investment project, in determining the total cumulative dollar amount of state sales tax increment revenue that can be dedicated to the transit investment project pursuant to subsection (3)(d)(I)(F) of this section, the commission shall award a total cumulative dollar amount of state sales tax increment revenue equal to the estimated eligible costs identified pursuant to section 24-46-403 (3)(c)(II) and allow for the expenditure of additional state sales tax increment revenue for additional eligible costs incurred in connection with the transit investment project beyond those estimated in the application such that the applicant can spend in total, on additional and estimated eligible costs, up to the total cumulative dollar amount of state sales tax increment revenue determined by the third-party analyst.

(e) The commission shall not approve any proposed transit investment project that would likely create a state sales tax increment revenue dedication of more than seventy-five million dollars to all transit investment projects in any given fiscal year.

(f) (I) The commission shall not approve more than three transit investment projects pursuant to this subsection (3) in any calendar year and shall not approve more than six transit investment projects pursuant to this subsection (3) in total.

(A) Inclusion in or fit with local, regional, or state transportation plans;

(B) Statewide geographic equity;

(C) Scale of impact; and

(D) The dedication of matching local, special district, or other nonstate provided funding for the project.

(III) If the commission does not approve a proposed transit investment project because doing so would cause the commission to approve more than three proposed transit investment projects in the same calendar year, the commission may consider such a project for approval, approval with conditions, or denial in the next calendar year, subject to the prioritization of all applications received in the next year and all applications being reconsidered from the prior year being considered in a single pool.

(4) (a) As part of the approval of a proposed transit investment project, the commission shall authorize:

(I) The department to collect the state sales tax increment revenue in connection with the proposed transit investment project on behalf of the relevant financing entity for the duration of

(II) The department to adjust the base year revenue by the amount of the baseline growth rate specified in the resolution approving a transit investment project;

(III) A financing entity to receive and use the state sales tax increment revenue up to the maximum annual and total cumulative dollar amounts that can be dedicated to the transit investment project for the duration of the financing term; and

(b) In implementing the authorization described in subsection (4)(a)(II) of this section, the department shall remit state sales tax increment revenue to the financing entity on a monthly basis promptly after collecting that revenue.

(5) (a) For each year of the financing term, the amount of state sales tax increment revenue dedicated to a transit investment project must not exceed the maximum annual dollar amount specified by the commission pursuant to subsection (3) of this section. The total amount of state sales tax increment revenue dedicated to a transit investment project for the entire duration of the project shall not exceed the total cumulative dollar amount specified by the commission pursuant to subsection (3) of this section. The department shall track the maximum annual and total cumulative dollar amounts of state sales tax increment revenue remitted to the financing entity in connection with a transit investment project and shall notify the commission when cumulative payments equal ninety percent of the limits set by the commission pursuant to subsection (3) of this section for the commission's concurrence regarding the dollar limits.

(b) (I) After the department has remitted the maximum annual dollar amount of state sales tax increment revenue specified by the commission pursuant to subsection (3) of this section to the financing entity for a calendar year, the department shall not remit any additional state sales tax increment revenue from the state to the financing entity until the following year.

(II) After the department has remitted the total cumulative dollar amount of state sales tax increment revenue specified by the commission pursuant to subsection (3) of this section to the financing entity, the department shall not remit any additional state sales tax increment revenue from the state to the financing entity, even if the approved financing term is not completed.

(III) After the financing term specified by the commission pursuant to subsection (3) of this section is completed, the department shall not remit any additional state sales tax increment revenue from the state to the financing entity, even if the total cumulative dollar amount of state sales tax increment revenue specified by the commission pursuant to subsection (3) of this section has not been reached.

(IV) The department shall notify the commission if it is no longer remitting state sales tax increment revenue to the financing entity pursuant to this subsection (5)(b).

(6) Following the commission's approval of an application, and the establishment of the terms of award including the items described in subsection (3)(d)(I) of this section, the commission shall promptly transmit written notice and a copy of the approval to the executive director of the department. The commission shall include any information deemed necessary by the department to fulfill its obligations pursuant to this part 4 in the written notice.

An individual business, an employer association, or a labor organization sponsors a registered apprenticeship. (2) "Career pathway" means a series of connected education and training strategies and support services that enable an individual to secure industry-relevant skills or certification where applicable, to obtain employment within an occupational area, and to advance to higher levels of future education and employment.

(3) "Certificate of completion" means a certificate awarded to an apprentice in recognition of the successful completion of an apprenticeship program.

(4) "Department" means the department of labor and employment.

(5) "Federal act" means the federal "Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act", 29 U.S.C. sec. 3101 et seq.

(6) "Growing industries" means industries that are:

(b) Aligned with the state's economic development strategy.

(6.5) [Editor's note: Subsection (6.5) is effective January 1, 2027.] "Older adult" means an individual who is fifty-five years old or older.

24-46.3-103. Growing industries and in-demand occupations talent pipeline working group - annual Colorado talent report - legislative declaration.

(1) (a) The general assembly finds and declares that:

(I) Colorado's economy is diverse and constantly changing, and its growing industries are dependent on an appropriately skilled workforce to continue to thrive;

(II) Colorado's growing industry employers continue to lack the skilled workers they need to stay and grow in the state;

(III) These continuously unfilled roles in growing industries constitute in-demand occupations in Colorado, and it is imperative to the state's communities and economy that there is a public understanding of how to:

(A) Determine which occupations are in demand; and

(B) Access training opportunities for job placement in in-demand occupations;

(IV) Coloradans miss opportunities for good jobs in growing industries because they do not have access to the right education, training, or adequate hands-on experience to secure employment in in-demand occupations;

(V) Maintaining a coordinated strategy across state agencies to promote access to industry-driven career pathways is critical to supporting the economic well-being of Coloradans and of Colorado's industries;

(VI) Ensuring that providers of education and training, workforce development experts, economic developers, the state, and local communities have a clear understanding of the labor market and the state's occupational needs is the most promising way to advance Coloradans and supply industry with the talent it demands;

(VII) Deep, authentic, and ongoing employer engagement and input are critical to ensure that education and training programs are designed to meet the real and current needs of industry; and

(VIII) Sector partnerships are a proven, established model of engaging employers and coordinating workforce development, economic development, and education strategies in response to the needs of industry and on behalf of individuals seeking good jobs.

(b) The general assembly further finds and declares that it is beneficial to create a working group with the state council, comprised of representatives from the relevant state departments and offices, to discuss and determine the most effective way to use sector partnerships at the regional level to align workforce development, economic development, and education with the needs of growing industries and in-demand occupations.

(2) The state council, the department of higher education, the department of education, the department of labor and employment, and the Colorado office of economic development shall work collaboratively to:

(a) Analyze Colorado's labor market conditions to identify growing industries and in-demand occupations and identify challenges to and opportunities for developing and growing relevant talent pipelines;

(b) Identify the in-demand and high-wage occupations in Colorado that are eligible for federal support, as defined in the federal "Higher Education Act of 1965", 20 U.S.C. sec. 1001 et seq., or a successor act;

(c) Ensure that the talent pipeline development infrastructure includes:

(I) A listening process to collect feedback on occupational demand from employers;

(II) Analysis of the state's current training capacity and ability to support workforce development for in-demand occupations;

(III) Analysis of the skills essential for in-demand occupations to assist training providers in maintaining the relevance of their programs; and

(IV) Academic career counseling;

(d) Utilize sector partnerships to:

(I) Advise the development of career pathway programs for in-demand occupations in growing industries;

(II) Ensure the coordination of education and workforce initiatives to develop a strong talent pipeline; and

(III) Provide resources to, participate in, and promote career exploration activities that are aligned with in-demand occupations, as appropriate; and

(e) Utilize existing measures and data systems to improve alignment and interagency communication.

(3) (a) In doing the work specified in subsection (2) of this section, the state council, in partnership with the department of higher education, the department of education, the department of labor and employment, and the Colorado office of economic development, shall produce an annual Colorado talent report. In preparing the annual Colorado talent report, the state council, the departments, and the office may use previously collected data and are not required to collect new data. The talent report must:

(I) Utilize state-level data generated from state-level sources whenever possible;

(II) Utilize and, as appropriate, expand existing data-sharing agreements between agencies and partners;

(III) Provide an analysis of data regarding the skills required for in-demand occupations; and

(IV) Include recommendations for advancing talent pipeline and career pathways development.

(b) The department of higher education, the department of education, the department of labor and employment, and the Colorado office of economic development may share their analysis on how data in the report impacts the state's strategic goals through their regular reporting mechanisms.

(c) In January of each year, the department of higher education, the department of education, the department of labor and employment, and the Colorado office of economic development shall summarize the Colorado talent report, their recommendations, and other comments in a presentation to the senate business, labor, and technology committee and the house of representatives business affairs and labor committee, or their successor committees, during the hearings held pursuant to the "SMART Act", part 2 of article 7 of title 2.

24-46.3-104. Career pathways - design - legislative declaration.

(1) The general assembly finds that creating industry-driven career pathways for education assists students in entering the workforce and provides industries with the talent pipeline necessary to fuel Colorado's economy. Recognizing the need for the coordinated development of career pathways for students, the general assembly enacted section 24-46.3-103 in 2014, tasking the state council to work collaboratively with the department of higher education, the department of education, the department of labor and employment, and the Colorado office of economic development to analyze Colorado's labor market conditions and in-demand occupations to inform the creation and evolution of career pathways for students. Creating career pathways for job placement in growing industries and in-demand occupations will:

(a) Improve education and career advising and navigation for Coloradans interested in postsecondary opportunities designed to meet labor market needs;

(b) Increase the number of Coloradans completing degrees, apprenticeships, and other credentials;

(c) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2026.)

(d) Increase entry into in-demand occupations and increase wages over time;

(e) Create better transitions for students in the career pathways from high school, community colleges, or adult education programs to apprenticeships, higher education, or into the workforce;

(f) Create better connections between postsecondary education and workforce readiness initiatives in high school and adult workforce programs; and

(g) Through partnerships with industry, assist students in obtaining work experience and employment during and after their participation in training and educational programs.

(2) Repealed.

(3) (a) The state council, in collaboration with its partners, and after consulting with local workforce boards and a task force within the department of education consisting of leadership from the department of education and superintendents of local school districts, shall design, maintain, and update integrated career pathways for students within industry sectors identified in the annual Colorado talent report prepared pursuant to section 24-46.3-103 as growing industries and that have in-demand occupations.

(b) (I) In collaboration with its partners pursuant to subsection (3)(a) of this section, and at the beginning of the 2026-27 academic year and at the beginning of each academic year thereafter, the state council shall, subject to available appropriation or money from other sources, design or update career pathways that are ready for implementation for in-demand occupations in growing industries.

(II) The state council shall continue to work to identify growing industries and in-demand occupations that are appropriate for career pathway development based on the data provided in the annual Colorado talent report.

24-46.5-103. Intergovernmental agreements.

(1) (a) The state of Colorado is hereby authorized to enter into intergovernmental agreements with local governments or the Colorado housing and finance authority, or both, under which moneys from the Colorado business incentive fund shall be expended for economic development purposes. (b) (I) Any entity establishing a new business facility or operation and participating in this article 46.5 shall give due consideration to the provision of intrastate air service to all areas of Colorado. The state shall consider each of the following guidelines in determining whether to enter into an intergovernmental agreement:

(A) The significance of the support and financial incentives to be provided by the local jurisdiction in which the new business facility or operation is to be located;

(E) The extent of the public benefits to be derived from the agreement.

(II) The guidelines set forth in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) shall not be a basis for challenging or voiding all or any portion of any intergovernmental agreement.

(2) At a minimum, any intergovernmental agreement relating to the establishment of a new business facility shall be subject to the following requirements:

(a) No intergovernmental agreement shall be entered into unless there is an agreement between the local government or the Colorado housing and finance authority, or both, and the entity which is to establish a new business facility that the entity will operate the facility for no less than thirty years;

(b) The terms of the intergovernmental agreement shall provide that the entity shall employ no less than three thousand employees at the new business facility by July 1 of the tenth year following the effective date of such agreement for the operation of said facility and that the average annual salaries of all employees at the facility at the time specified in the agreement shall be at least forty-five thousand dollars. The terms of such agreement shall further provide for sanctions, including but not limited to termination of the agreement or any benefits thereunder, if the entity fails to meet reasonable projections of the rate of growth in the number of employees.

The terms of such agreement shall further provide for sanctions, including but not limited to termination of the agreement or any benefits thereunder, if the entity fails to meet reasonable projections of the rate of growth in the number of employees.

(d) An intergovernmental agreement shall provide that the agreement between the local government or the Colorado housing and finance authority, or both, and the entity include procedures and remedies to enforce the terms of such agreement including, but not limited to, the forfeiture of real and personal property rights and interests or liens upon real and personal property, or both.

(3) Effective January 1, 1992, local governments may enter into intergovernmental agreements in relation to the establishment of new business facilities which shall employ a substantial number of new employees receiving an average annual salary of no less than the average annual salary for such local government. Said local governments shall apply to the state of Colorado in order to qualify for financing pursuant to this article; except that no intergovernmental agreement shall be entered into or financed by the state pursuant to this subsection (3) if the person or entity which would benefit from such agreement is establishing a new business facility for which financing could have been received under the provisions of subsection (1) of this section or has established a new business facility for which financing was received pursuant to said subsection (1). The general assembly may appropriate such moneys as may be available for purposes of funding intergovernmental agreements entered into pursuant to this subsection (3).

(4) As used in subsections (2) and (3) of this section, "salary" means the total compensation paid or stipulated to be paid by the entity to employees, before deductions, for services rendered while on the payroll of the entity. "Salary" does not include any amount paid by the entity on behalf of employees for fringe benefits, including, but not limited to, contributions for group health or life insurance, employee retirement, social security, and workers' compensation. For determining the average annual salaries of the employees at the new business facility and ancillary facilities, each employee's salary shall only be counted up to the amount of one hundred twenty-five thousand dollars.

24-47-103. Advanced industry - export acceleration program - definitions - repeal.

(1) Legislative declaration.

(a) The general assembly finds and declares that:

(I) Most consumers live outside of the United States of America;

(II) The international monetary fund forecasts that over the next five years eighty-seven percent of world economic growth will occur outside of this country;

(III) It is difficult for Colorado businesses, particularly small and mid-sized ones, to become exporters because of a lack of the requisite information and market research and other challenges related to international trade;

(IV) The Colorado international trade office has several exporting programs that enjoy significant returns on investment as measured by a business's international sales per dollar received.

(b) It is the intent of the general assembly to create a new program that combines financial resources, training, and consulting services to provide a robust and comprehensive trade export promotion service for Colorado businesses.

(2) Definitions. As used in this section:

- (f) The office may establish conditions based on export sales under which the office receives payments from a business that received an international export development expense reimbursement. The office shall transfer any moneys so received to the state treasurer for deposit in the fund.
- (g) On or before December 1, 2013, the office shall establish procedures and timelines for reimbursement applications; criteria for determining reimbursement amounts; recipient reporting requirements; and any other program policies. The office may amend these policies at any time.
- (5) Export training.
 - (a) The office shall provide export training for advanced industry businesses to learn about the fundamentals of exporting. The office may collaborate with private trade organizations and federal export assistance organizations to conduct the training. To the extent possible, the office shall tailor the curriculum to the needs and demands of each type of advanced industry.

(b) Export training may include conferences, seminars, and workshops on trade-related topics, which include challenges and opportunities in international trade. The conferences may include trade experts, exporting businesses, industry partners, and the office.

The office shall transfer any of these fees to the state treasurer for deposit in the fund.

(7) Reporting.

(a) On or before November 1, 2014, and each November 1 through November 2034, the office shall submit a report to the finance and the business, labor, economic, and workforce development committees of the house of representatives and to the business, labor, and technology and the finance committees of the senate, or any successor committees, summarizing program activities during the preceding fiscal year.

(b) Section 24-1-136 (11) does not apply to the report required by subsection (7)(a) of this section.

The office shall transmit all private and public moneys received through gifts, grants, or donations to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the fund.

(II) The general assembly finds that the implementation of this program does not rely entirely or in any part on the receipt of adequate funding through gifts, grants, or donations. Therefore, the office is not subject to the notice requirements specified in section 24-75-1303 (3).

(c) The moneys in the fund are subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly to the office for the purpose of administering the program. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys from an appropriation made pursuant to this paragraph (c) remain available for expenditure by the office in the next fiscal year without further appropriation. The office's administrative expenses for the program in a fiscal year shall not exceed five percent of the moneys transferred or appropriated to the fund in the fiscal year. The office shall make all export expense reimbursements from moneys in the fund.

(d) As provided by law, the state treasurer may invest any unexpended moneys in the advanced industries acceleration cash fund. All interest and income derived from the investment and deposit of moneys in the fund are credited to the fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the fund at the end of a fiscal year shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or another fund; except that any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the fund upon the repeal of this section are transferred to the general fund.

(b) To be eligible for an advanced industry investment tax credit, a qualified investor must file a completed application with the office within ninety days after making a qualified investment in a certified and qualified small business. The office shall prescribe the manner and form of the application. The office shall note the time and date of each application received. In addition to any other requirements established by the office, the application must include the name, address, and federal income tax identification number of the applicant, and any additional information that the office requires. The authorization is limited to disclosure of income tax information for the latest two years for which returns were filed with the department of revenue preceding the date the application is filed and for all tax years through the year in which the investment was made for which a return was not filed as of the date of the application. The applicant must also provide in the written authorization income tax information for all tax years in which the applicant actually claims a tax credit or carries forward a tax credit on a return filed with the department of revenue. An applicant that is a partnership, S corporation, or trust that may allocate the credit among its partners, shareholders, or beneficiaries pursuant to section 39-22-532 (7) must provide a written authorization with content similar to the authorization, and in the same manner, as any other applicant is required to provide. If an applicant or qualified small business fails to comply with this subsection (2)(d), an applicant is ineligible for a tax credit.

(e) As part of the application for an advanced industry investment tax credit, the applicant must state that the tax credit was a significant factor in the applicant's decision to make the investment and that without the tax credit, the applicant would not have made the investment or would have made an investment at a substantially lower level.

(f) The office shall review and make a determination with respect to each application for an advanced industry investment tax credit within ninety days after receiving the application. The office may request additional information from the applicant in order to make an informed decision regarding the eligibility of the qualified investor or qualified small business.

(3) (a) Subject to the limitations set forth in subsection (3)(b) of this section, the office shall authorize an advanced industry investment tax credit for each qualified investor who makes a qualified investment in a qualified small business. The amount of the tax credit is twenty-five percent of the amount of the qualified investment or thirty-five percent of the qualified investment if the qualified small business is located in a rural area or economically distressed area of the state as determined by the office. The office shall issue a tax credit certificate to the qualified investor for each qualified investment stating the amount of the tax credit that is authorized for purposes of section 39-22-532. A tax credit certificate is nontransferable. The office shall certify to the department of revenue the name of each qualified investor who receives a tax credit certificate, the amount of the tax credit, and other relevant information relating to the tax credit.

If the qualified investor fails to timely file the tax credit certificate, the tax credit expires for that taxable year and there is no carry forward of the expired tax credit. The office shall not reissue a tax credit certificate for a credit that expires or that otherwise is not timely used by the qualified investor.

(4) No later than April 30 of each year following a year during which the office authorizes an advanced industry investment tax credit, the office shall provide to the department of revenue an electronic report that includes the information set forth in paragraph (b) of subsection (2) and paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section and any other information required to administer section 39-22-532, C.R.S. 24-48.5-121. Procurement technical assistance program - fund - legislative declaration - definitions.

(1) Legislative declaration.

(a) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that:

(I) Colorado businesses need the capability and capacity to compete for government contracts at the federal, state, and local levels;

(II) Government contracting, at all levels, is a competitive and complex process;

(III) A procurement technical assistance program offers education, counseling, and technical assistance to businesses to compete for government contracts; and

(IV) The federal government will match the state's investment in a program to provide procurement technical assistance.

(b) The general assembly further finds and declares that:

(I) The creation of a procurement technical assistance fund and operating terms are necessary to ensure that the state procurement technical assistance program receives federal matching moneys and provides efficient and effective statewide procurement technical assistance resources to Colorado businesses;

(II) The procurement technical assistance program in Colorado is a public-private partnership with a target budget of at least eight hundred thousand dollars in each contract year to provide procurement technical assistance to businesses throughout the state, of which fifty percent is provided through the state by the state's investment and fifty percent is provided by the federal government; and

(III) It is the general assembly's intent that, in each contract year, the office and the qualified entity together obtain at least four hundred thousand dollars for the state's investment in the procurement technical assistance program, which will be matched by the federal government and shall be used for the purposes of the program.

(2) Definitions. As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(e) "Qualified entity" means one or more organizations exempt from taxation under section 501 (c)(3) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, that have been designated, by the federal defense logistics agency, as a federal defense logistics agency grantee serving Colorado for the procurement technical assistance program to provide procurement technical assistance statewide. The organizations shall have no other mission or deliverables that are not consistent with federal eligibility criteria for the procurement technical assistance program.

(f) "Small business development center" means the small business development center based in Colorado, hosted by the office, and funded jointly by the state, the federal small business administration, and other private sources.

(g) "State's investment" means the funding for the procurement technical assistance program that is from the state general fund or any other source of state moneys and from cash and in-kind donations obtained by the qualified entity through gifts, grants, and donations.

(3) Contract.

(a) On or before September 15, 2014, the office shall enter into a contract with the qualified entity or entities that were selected by the federal defense logistics agency to provide procurement technical assistance statewide. The contract term and requirements shall be in effect for up to six years and shall align with the federal defense logistics agency requirements for such contract.

(b) On or before September 15, 2020, the office may renew an existing contract with a qualified entity or entities. The renewed contract must be in effect for up to five years and must align with the federal defense logistics agency requirements for the contract.

(4) State's investment.

(a) It is the general assembly's intent that in each contract year, the office and the qualified entity obtain at least four hundred thousand dollars for the state's investment in the procurement technical assistance program, which will be matched by the federal government and shall be used for the purposes of the program.

(b) (I) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (4)(b)(II) of this section, in each contract year, the state, through the office, shall contribute the lesser of the qualified entity's contribution to the previous contract year's state's investment or two hundred thousand dollars to the total amount of the state's investment in the procurement technical assistance program for the then-current contract year. Therefore, the general assembly shall provide not more than two hundred thousand dollars from the state general fund or from any other source of state money in each contract year; except that the general assembly may provide more than two hundred thousand dollars from the state general fund or from any other source in any contract year so long as the qualified entity provides a one hundred percent match, in the manner specified in subsection (4)(c)(II)(C) of this section, to the additional amount provided by the general assembly in the applicable contract year.

(II) (A) For the 2020-21 state fiscal year, the state, through the office, shall contribute the lesser of the qualified entity's contribution to the previous contract year's state's investment or two hundred thousand dollars to the total amount of the state's investment in the procurement technical assistance program for the applicable contract year; except that, for the 2020-21 state fiscal year, the general assembly shall not provide more than one hundred seventy-five thousand dollars from

(C) For the 2022-23 state fiscal year and each state fiscal year thereafter for the remainder of the term of the contract, the amount of the contribution made to the state's investment and the amount provided by the general assembly for such contribution shall be determined pursuant to subsection (4)(b)(I) of this section.

(c) (I) The qualified entity shall contribute at least fifty percent to the total amount of the state's investment. Therefore, the qualified entity shall obtain, through the solicitation of gifts, grants, and donations, at least two hundred thousand dollars in each contract year.

(II) The gifts, grants, or donations that the qualified entity obtains may be comprised of both cash and in-kind contributions; except that, of the two hundred thousand dollars that the qualified entity is required to obtain in each contract year, at least the following percentages shall be in the form of cash:

(A) For the first contract year, at least fifteen percent;

(B) For the second contract year, at least twenty percent; and

(C) For the third through sixth contract years, and for each contract year of a contract that is renewed pursuant to subsection (3)(b) of this section, at least twenty-five percent.

(III) If, in any contract year, the qualified entity obtains more than the minimum required percentage of cash contributions for the applicable contract year, the qualified entity may apply the excess cash to the minimum required cash contribution for the next contract year.

(d) (I) By November 1 of each contract year, the office shall determine whether the qualified entity obtained at least two hundred thousand dollars in gifts, grants, or donations and the minimum required cash contribution as specified in paragraph (c) of this subsection (4) for the previous contract year. If the office determines that the qualified entity failed to obtain the total required amount of gifts, grants, and donations and the minimum required cash contribution for the previous contract year, the office shall notify the state treasurer, and the state treasurer shall transfer an amount equal to the amount of the shortfall from the moneys that the state treasurer transferred to the procurement technical assistance fund pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (8) of this section for the then-current contract year to the general fund.

(II) The office shall ensure that by December 1 of the third contract year, the qualified entity is projected to provide at least a cumulative amount of six hundred thousand dollars of the state's investment for the first through third contract years, of which amount at least one hundred twenty thousand dollars is in the form of cash. If, based on the office's review, the qualified entity is not projected to satisfy such requirements, the office shall notify the members of the house of representatives and senate committees with jurisdiction over business issues, and the general assembly may determine whether to continue the annual appropriation to the office for the purposes of the procurement technical assistance program. This subsection (4)(d)(II) does not apply to any contract year of a contract that is renewed pursuant to subsection (3)(b) of this section.

(5) Qualified entity's contract requirements.

(III) Any other information requested by the office.

(6) Reporting. In each contract year, the office shall include in the annual report submitted to the general assembly pursuant to section 24-48.5-101 (7) the information that the qualified entity provided to the office pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (5) of this section.

(e) A plan for the qualified entity, the small business development center, and the minority business office to share locations, where possible, throughout Colorado; and

(f) Anything else deemed necessary and appropriate by the qualified entity, the small business development center, and the minority business office.

(8) Fund.

(a) The procurement technical assistance cash fund is created in the state treasury. The fund consists of:

(I) (A) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (8)(a)(I)(B) of this section, two hundred twenty thousand dollars that the state treasurer is required to transfer from the general fund to the fund on July 1, 2015, and July 1 of the next nineteen years thereafter, plus any additional amount the general assembly provides pursuant to subsection (4)(b) of this section.

(II) Any moneys that the general assembly appropriates to the fund.

(b) To allow alignment between state and federal fiscal years, the moneys in the fund are continuously appropriated to the office to be used for the procurement technical assistance program. The office may use the moneys in the fund to pay for the costs of administering the procurement technical assistance program; except that the office's administrative expenses for the program in a fiscal year shall not exceed nine percent of the moneys transferred to the fund in a fiscal year pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (8).

(c) Any unexpended and unencumbered money remaining in the fund at the end of a fiscal year shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or another fund.

24-48.5-128. Program - marijuana entrepreneurs - social equity licensees - marijuana entrepreneur fund - creation - legislative declaration - definitions - repeal.

(1) Legislative declaration.

(a) The general assembly finds that:

(I) Colorado voters legalized the personal use of marijuana in 2012 and a robust regulatory framework was established to provide important safeguards and guardrails for the new and growing marijuana industry that resulted;

(II) From the onset of legalization in Colorado, statute specifically disqualified Coloradans with past marijuana convictions from participating in the regulated marijuana industry and, until recently, those persons were unable to participate in the industry;

(III) While the marijuana industry has ballooned into a two billion two hundred million dollar economic engine that employs more than forty thousand people across two thousand eight hundred businesses, very few of all regulated marijuana businesses are owned by Coloradans with past marijuana convictions;

(IV) The state is at a critical juncture where it must act to ensure Colorado remains a leader in the marijuana industry and ensure equal opportunity for all Coloradans to participate in this market; and

(V) Providing technical and financial support to eligible entrepreneurs and small businesses will help ensure their endeavors get off the ground and succeed, which will benefit the state economy.

(b) Therefore, it is beneficial to create a program in the office of economic development to address these concerns and achieve these benefits.

(2) Definitions. As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Office" means the Colorado office of economic development created in section 24-48.5-101.

(b) "Program" means the program established in subsection (3)(a) of this section.

(c) "Social equity licensee" has the same meaning as set forth in section 44-10-103 (68.5).

(3) Loans, grants, and technical assistance.

(a) There is created within the office a program to support entrepreneurs in the marijuana industry. The office shall use the money specified in subsection (4) of this section for the following purposes, including any related administrative expenses:

(I) Loans to social equity licensees for seed capital and ongoing business expenses, which include but are not limited to rent, leases, local and state application and licensing fees, regulatory adherence, testing of marijuana, equipment, capital improvements, and training and retention of a qualified and diverse workforce;

(II) Grants to:

(A) Social equity licensees to support innovation and job creation; and

(B) Organizations that support marijuana businesses to be used to support innovation and job creation of social equity licensees;

(III) Technical assistance for marijuana business owners, which consists of assisting with business plan development, providing consulting services, and supporting existing public or private technical assistance programs. In providing the technical assistance, the office or a technical assistance program provider shall prioritize social equity licensees who have been awarded a loan or grant in accordance with subsection (3)(a)(I) or (3)(a)(II) of this section.

(b) (I) The office shall establish a process for social equity licensees and organizations to apply for a loan or grant under the program, including application deadlines, the information and documentation required to be submitted to the office to demonstrate eligibility for a loan or a grant, and any other requirements determined by the director to be necessary.

(II) The program may be administered directly by the office or one or more partner entities based on the office's determination. This authority includes contracting with an entity to make the grants or loans specified in subsection (3)(a) of this section, and in such case, the office may grant the money to or use other appropriate procurement mechanisms to provide the money to the entity to be used for the grants or loans.

(c) The office, in consultation with other relevant state agencies, industry experts, and other stakeholders, shall establish policies setting forth the parameters and eligibility for the program, including:

(I) The terms of and eligibility for a loan or grant, in addition to qualifying as a social equity licensee;

(II) Caps on the amount of loan or grant;

(III) Deadlines for applying for a loan or grant;

(IV) Grant requirements and loan repayment terms; and

(V) Any other policies necessary to operate the program.

(d) The office shall consult with the Colorado economic development commission created in section 24-46-102 about the administration of the program.

(4) Funding.

(a) The marijuana entrepreneur fund is hereby created in the state treasury. The fund consists of money transferred or appropriated to the fund in accordance with subsection (4)(b) of this section. The state treasurer shall credit all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of money in the marijuana entrepreneur fund to the fund. Money in the fund is continuously appropriated to the office for the office to use for the program as set forth in this section.

(b) (I) On March 21, 2021, the state treasurer shall transfer four million dollars from the marijuana tax cash fund created in section 39-28.8-501 (1) to the marijuana entrepreneur fund created in subsection (4)(a) of this section. For fiscal years commencing on or after July 1, 2022, the general assembly may appropriate money from the marijuana tax cash fund to the marijuana entrepreneur fund.

(II) (A) On July 1, 2025, and on July 1, 2026, the state treasurer shall transfer three hundred thousand dollars from the general fund to the marijuana entrepreneur fund created in subsection (4)(a) of this section.

(I) Cultivate and promote the state's coordinated development of the outdoor recreation industry in Colorado;

(II) Protect and conserve our public lands, waters, air, and climate; and Thereafter, the state treasurer shall credit all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of money in the fund to the general fund.

(c) Money transferred to the outdoor recreation economic development cash fund pursuant to section 44-40-111 (12)(b) and any income and interest derived from the deposit and investment of such money is exempt from any restriction on spending, revenue, or appropriations, including, without limitation, the restrictions of section 20 of article X of the state constitution.

(d) Subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly, the outdoor recreation industry office may expend money from the outdoor recreation economic development cash fund to execute its duties as set forth in subsection (3) of this section. 24-48.5-131. Colorado startup loan program - fund - creation - policies - report - legislative declaration - definitions.

- (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:
 - (a) The COVID-19 pandemic has had devastating economic and health consequences across the state;
 - (b) The COVID-19 pandemic has affected entrepreneurs in multiple ways. Many were forced to close their business permanently, others temporarily closed or downsized, and some had their credit impacted due to no fault of their own.
 - (c) Entrepreneurs affected by the COVID-19 pandemic need access to capital to restart, restructure, or scale up their businesses;
 - (d) As communities recover from the COVID-19 pandemic, there is also an opportunity to support entrepreneurs trying to start new businesses who demonstrate strong character and a successful business plan but have lacked meaningful access to traditional sources of capital;
 - (e) Startup and small businesses create jobs, often to a greater degree than large businesses, and support a healthy and diverse economy;

(f) There is a well-functioning network of respected community development financial institutions and other nonprofit lenders across Colorado that are committed to the health of Colorado's economy and provide assistance to businesses and entrepreneurs that can demonstrate a successful business plan but may have lacked meaningful access to traditional sources of capital;

(g) Creating a revolving startup loan fund to provide capital to entrepreneurs can help Colorado communities and businesses recover from the COVID-19 pandemic while also supporting long-term economic growth in the state;

(h) Pursuant to 31 C.F.R. 35.6 (b)(6), providing assistance in the form of loans and grants to entrepreneurs and small businesses to respond to the negative economic impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic is an eligible use of money received by the state under the "American Rescue Plan Act of 2021", Pub.L. 117-2;

(i) By providing entrepreneurs and businesses who face barriers in establishing borrower relationships with traditional lenders to access capital, a startup loan program can provide financial support to unserved or underserved populations;

(j) Community development financial institutions and other nonprofit lenders across Colorado provide critical financial support to unserved and underserved populations with more flexible loan criteria not regularly offered by traditional financial institutions, and their customers often obtain loans from traditional financial institutions after they grow their businesses over time;

(k) Community development financial institutions and other nonprofit lenders across Colorado have experience and expertise in evaluating loan applications and in determining which loan criteria an applicant meets;

(l) Community development financial institutions and other nonprofit lenders across Colorado use their expertise and existing relationships to refer applicants to traditional lenders if the applicants meet typical traditional lending criteria and traditional lenders will provide more favorable loan terms to the applicant;

(m) A startup loan program will assist underserved entrepreneurs and businesses in making connections with community development financial institutions and other nonprofit lenders which provides an opportunity for businesses and entrepreneurs to develop their first borrower relationships with financial institutions that can provide access to capital and lead these businesses to eventually becoming customers of traditional lending institutions like banks; and

(n) A revolving loan fund ensures that these funds are evergreen and recycled many times across multiple businesses, thereby supporting new entrepreneurs far into the future.

The office may advance money to an entity under a contract in preparation for issuing loans and grants and administering the program. The office shall not have any direct lending authority to make loans to small businesses.

(4) A contract with an administrator may require the administrator to repay all lending capital that is not committed to loans or grants under the program and all principal and interest that is repaid by borrowers under the program at the end of the contract period if, in the judgment of the office, the administrator has not performed successfully under the terms of the contract. (II) The ability of a new business to fill gaps left in a community or industry by closures resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic;

(III) The financial losses or other impacts resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic that may inhibit an entrepreneur from obtaining capital through traditional sources;

(IV) Whether the applicant or the community served by the applicant's business faces other barriers to accessing capital from traditional sources or is otherwise underserved;

(V) The applicant's financial need and the likelihood the business would need to be supported by a nontraditional lender, including whether the applicant's credit standing was negatively affected by the COVID-19 pandemic, the applicant's expenses ratios, and the applicant's repayment ability over an extended time period or with adjusted rates as demonstrated through projections and business plans; and

(VI) Any technical assistance the applicant is receiving to help the applicant validate the applicant's business plans.

(b) To the extent practicable, the program may prioritize applications from eligible businesses that have completed a business development program offered by the office.

(c) If an administrator determines that an applicant would likely be eligible for a loan from a traditional financial institution and could receive more favorable loan terms through a traditional financial institution, the administrator shall notify the applicant in a timely manner and refer the applicant to a traditional commercial lender such as a bank.

(7) The office shall work with the minority business office created in section 24-49.5-102, small business development centers, community development financial institutions, and stakeholder partners to promote the program to businesses owned by women, veterans, and minorities and to businesses located in rural counties and other communities that are underserved or disadvantaged. (b) The office may expend, deploy, or leverage money received from federal government programs that support loans and investments for small business to make loans and grants under the program or to otherwise market, promote, or support loans and grants under the program, if allowed under federal law.

(9) (a) The Colorado startup loan program fund is hereby created in the state treasury. 24-48.5-132. Innovative housing incentive program - fund report - legislative declaration - definitions.

(1) The general assembly finds and declares that:

(a) Colorado is experiencing a lack of affordable housing at critical levels. The state continues to attract new residents and jobs, but with this growth has come ever-increasing housing prices, placing unsustainable demands on our limited housing stock. These underlying issues have only been exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic.

(b) The general assembly approved House Bill 21-1329, enacted in 2021, which directed the executive committee of the legislative council to create a task force to meet during the 2021 interim and issue a report with recommendations to the general assembly and the governor on policies to create transformative changes in the area of housing;

(c) By subsequent executive committee resolution, the affordable housing transformational task force and subpanel (task force), made up of legislators, executive branch members, and nonlegislative members including industry experts, was formed to provide funding and policy recommendations to:

(I) Address the issue of affordable housing;

(II) Achieve the goals outlined by the committee that were developed in accordance with section 24-75-229 (6); and

(III) Support Coloradans and their housing needs; and

(d) The task force recommended that the general assembly create a program to provide direct funding for innovative housing businesses through grants that reimburse operating expenses, incentives for per-unit development, and loans for factory development to further grow the innovative housing industry in the state and create jobs in the industry, to increase the supply of affordable housing units in the state, and to lower the cost of affordable housing for local governments and organizations.

(I) Manufactures one or more manufactured homes, as defined in section 24-32-3302 (20); or

(II) Manufactures housing in any other manner that the office determines to be innovative and eligible for funding including, but not limited to, prefabricated panelized construction, which may include structural insulated panels or insulating concrete forms, 3D-printed housing, kit homes installed on a permanent foundation, or tiny homes installed on a permanent foundation.

(e) "Office" means the Colorado office of economic development created in section 24-48.5-101.

(f) "Program" means the innovative housing incentive program created in subsection (3) of this section.

(3) (a) There is created within the office the innovative housing incentive program to support innovative housing businesses through funding from grants and loans and the growth of affordable housing. The office shall use the money specified in subsection (5) of this section for the purposes set forth in subsections (3)(b) and (4) of this section, in addition to any related administrative expenses.

(b) In addition to the provisions set forth in subsection (4) of this section, the office shall establish a process for innovative housing businesses to apply for a grant or a loan under the program, including application deadlines, the information and documentation required to be submitted to the office to demonstrate eligibility for a grant or a loan, and any other requirements determined by the director of the office to be necessary. The office shall consult with the division, industry experts, and stakeholders to establish the process outlined in this subsection (3)(b). The office may contract with one or more third parties to administer the program.

(4) (a) The office may award grants for operating expenses on a basis of no more than twenty percent of demonstrated operating expenditures and in an amount not less than fifty thousand dollars; except that, for an innovative housing business located in a coal transition community the amount shall be not less than seventy-five thousand dollars. The office may consult with the division, industry experts, and stakeholders to consider other areas warranting an amount not less than seventy-five thousand dollars, including but not limited to concentrated areas with limited economic opportunity and inadequate or poor-quality housing. Grants awarded for operating expenses may be used for operating expenses including, but not limited to, payroll, inventory, or materials.

(b) (I) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (4)(b)(III) of this section, the office may award grants for performance-based, per-unit incentives for units manufactured by an innovative housing business and installed in Colorado. Grants for performance-based, per-unit incentives may be used directly by the innovative housing business or may be passed on to any supply chain participant as a reduced cost or benefit for that participant.

(II) The office shall establish the incentives for which a unit manufactured by an innovative housing business may qualify, which may vary, and may include as consideration for a base incentive different levels of affordability to the end user, with additional cumulative incentives for installation in certain areas of the state as identified by the office, resiliency criteria, compliance with international energy conservation code requirements, or energy efficiency such as pre-wiring for solar improvements, home energy rating system score of fifty or less, and near net-zero energy efficiency. The office, in consultation with the division, industry experts, and other stakeholders, may determine other opportunities for additional incentives. In order to identify certain areas of the state eligible for additional cumulative incentives pursuant to this subsection (4)(b)(II), the office may consider whether the area has limited economic opportunity or inadequate or poor-quality housing, whether the area has a lack of housing inventory, especially workforce housing, due to population migration from urban areas, and other relevant data as determined by the office.

(III) An innovative housing business is not eligible to receive any grant for performance-based, per-unit incentives set forth in this subsection (4)(b) for units installed in a mobile home park, as defined in section 38-12-201.5 (6), that is owned by a for-profit entity or for-profit individuals.

(c) (I) The office may award loans to fund a new privately owned housing factory or the expansion of an existing privately owned housing factory located in the state by an innovative housing business that produces a percentage of affordable housing units that are installed in the state. The office may establish loans, or a portion of loans, awarded through the program as revolving loans.

(II) In consultation with the division, the office shall:

(A) Establish a fair and rigorous open competition process among eligible applicants to award loans; and

(B) Review loan applications and the approval of loan awards, which may include negotiations with an applicant.

(III) Parameters and eligibility to be considered for a loan under the program may include, but are not limited to:

(B) An applicant's operational capability and financial viability and sustainability;

(C) The level of subsidy required by the applicant in the interest rate structure, the degree to which the loan is forgivable, position in the capital stack, or other terms of the loan;

(E) The economic impact of the proposed factory in the community where it will be located, including job creation; or

(F) An applicant's commitment to production of energy efficient units within the proposed factory.

(IV) The office and the division shall collaborate on reviewing loan applications and the approval of loan awards. In connection with the review of loan applications and awards, the office shall solicit input from a stakeholder group that includes representatives from the office, the division, geographically diverse industry experts, affordable housing experts, and other relevant stakeholders.

(V) The office may contract with a third-party entity, such as the Colorado housing and finance authority created in section 29-4-704 (1), to administer program loans. If the office contracts with the Colorado housing and finance authority, the office may do so without a competitive procurement process. Loan terms and agreements shall be set by the third-party entity in accordance with the terms agreed to in the loan application review and negotiation process.

(5) (a) The innovative housing incentive program fund is hereby created in the state treasury. The fund consists of money transferred to the fund in accordance with subsection (5)(e) of this section, any other money that the general assembly appropriates or transfers to the fund, and any gifts, grants, or donations credited to the fund pursuant to subsection (5)(b) of this section.

The office may expend up to two percent of the money transferred to the fund pursuant to subsection (5)(e) of this section on an annual basis to pay for its direct and indirect costs in implementing and administering this section.

(e) On July 1, 2022, the state treasurer shall transfer forty million dollars of money from the affordable housing and home ownership cash fund, created in section 24-75-229 (3)(a), that originates from the general fund to the fund.

(f) Repealed.

(6) (a) On or before September 1, 2022, and on or before September 1 of each year thereafter, innovative housing businesses participating in the program shall provide an annual report to the office. The report shall include:

24-48.5-133. Rural opportunity office - creation - duties - legislative declaration.

(1) (a) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(I) Rural Colorado is crucially important to the culture and economy of the entire state; however, rural communities face economic challenges that are not experienced in more urban areas;

(II) Rural communities do not benefit from the economies of scale or diversification found in larger, metropolitan regions;

(III) Most rural communities are missing foundational data, strategies, capacity, and connections to planning and implementation resources to help them respond, innovate, and diversify from a prevalence of single-industry economies;

(IV) An extended support system that provides consistent economic development education, technical assistance, and implementation funding is desperately needed in rural Colorado where local leadership positions turn over more rapidly than in urban areas;

(V) Every rural community is different, and outreach and programming needs to be customized to an individual community's needs, conditions, and capacity;

(VI) Rural economic development and business support require personal connections in addition to targeted programs to support long-term resilience;

(VII) There is a demonstrated need in the state for a centralized office to help connect communities with the wide range of rural-focused recovery programming resulting from state and federal stimulus efforts;

(VIII) Since the rural opportunity office began its work in the office of economic development in 2019, the rural opportunity office has:

(A) Provided critical community-specific support to the state's rural areas and built important individual connections with rural stakeholders;

(B) Provided support to the state's rural partners by connecting them to relevant programs provided by the office of economic development and aligned state, federal, nonprofit, and private partner agencies and organizations and facilitated collaboration with state agencies regarding rural issues; and

(C) Provided feedback to improve state programs that provide assistance to rural Colorado and informed the development of new initiatives, policy decisions, and legislation that influences rural economic development statewide;

(b) Therefore, the general assembly finds and declares it to be the policy of the state to continue to:

(I) Increase the economic resiliency of rural Colorado with coordinated, on-the-ground outreach to rural communities across the state;

(II) Increase access to specific and customized education, technical assistance, and implementation funding provided to rural communities; and

(III) Coordinate messaging and relationship building with rural communities to increase access to the office of economic development and other state and federal programs to benefit the health and vitality of rural Colorado.

(c) The general assembly further finds and declares that the rural opportunity office, as codified by this section, is the division within the office of economic development that is best situated to effectively curate and present to rural stakeholders the full scope of the programs available through the office, the state, and federal partners to foster and promote rural prosperity in the state.

(2) The rural opportunity office is hereby created within the office of economic development. The director of the rural opportunity office is designated by and shall report to the director of the office of economic development.

(3) The rural opportunity office shall:

(a) Serve as Colorado's central coordinator of rural economic development matters with certain staff physically located in rural communities across Colorado. In particular, the rural opportunity office shall coordinate the programs and initiatives available to rural communities through the office, connect rural communities to grant writing technical support opportunities, and provide support and coordination with other state agencies and programs that deal with rural economic development matters, including the just transition office created in section 8-83-503 (1).

(b) Work with coal transitioning communities to explore unique business and economic development opportunities, including working with coal transitioning communities and state agencies to access federal, state, and local funding sources for those unique business and economic development opportunities. The director and coal transitioning communities may work in coordination with state agencies, including but not limited to the just transition office created in section 8-83-503 (1), the division of local government in the department of local affairs, federal agencies, and community nonprofits.

(c) Make recommendations that inform the governor's policy on rural economic development matters, including policy on economic development issues unique to rural communities;

(d) Measure the success of program outreach and conduct research to determine whether Colorado's rural communities receive more statewide funding as a result of the efforts of the rural opportunity office; and

(e) In coordination with county commissioners, municipal officials, local chambers of commerce and economic development organizations, institutions of higher education, private industry, an employee organization representing rail workers, and any local organizations dedicated to increased rail usage, pursue opportunities for new, early stage, and existing businesses and support business and industry development and economic diversification in coordination with workforce training opportunities and existing state and federal programs that are designed for coal transition communities.

24-48.5-302. Council on creative industries - legislative declaration.

(1) The general assembly finds and declares:

(a) That encouragement and support of the arts and humanities, while primarily a matter for private and local initiative, is also an appropriate matter of concern to the state government;

(b) That many of our citizens lack the opportunity to view, enjoy, or participate in living theatrical performances, musical concerts, operas, dance and ballet recitals, art exhibits, examples of fine architecture, and the performing and visual arts generally;

(c) That, with increasing leisure time, the practice and enjoyment of the arts and humanities are of increasing importance;

(d) That many of our citizens possess talents of an artistic and creative nature that cannot be utilized to their fullest extent under existing conditions;

(e) That the general welfare of the people of the state will be promoted by giving further recognition to the arts and humanities as a vital part of our culture and heritage and as an important means of expanding the scope of our community life;

(f) That it is desirable to establish a council on creative industries and to provide such recognition and assistance as will encourage and promote the state's artistic and cultural progress;

(g) That it is the policy of the state to cooperate with private patrons, private and public institutions, and professional and nonprofessional organizations concerned with the arts and humanities to ensure that the role of the arts and humanities in the life of our communities will continue to grow and to play an ever more significant part in the welfare and educational experience of our citizens and to establish the paramount position of this state in the nation and in the world as a cultural center;

(h) That all activities undertaken by the state in carrying out the policy set out in this section shall be directed toward encouraging and assisting, rather than in any way limiting, the freedom of artistic expression that is essential for the well-being of the arts and humanities.

The chair shall serve at the pleasure of the governor, but not longer than six consecutive years, and shall not be eligible for reappointment during the three-year period following the expiration of such six-year period. The chair shall advise the governor with respect to the development in the arts and humanities in the state of Colorado. If any vacancy occurs in the office of the chair, the governor shall fill within sixty days the vacancy by the appointment of a qualified person in the same manner in which the original appointment was made.

24-48.5-312. Art in public places program - allocations from capital construction costs - guidelines - fund created - definitions.

(1) (a) The state of Colorado, in recognition of its responsibility to create a more humane environment of distinction, enjoyment, and pride for all of its citizens and in recognition that public art is a resource that stimulates the vitality and economy of the state's communities and that provides opportunity for artists and other skilled workers to practice their crafts, declares it to be a matter of state policy that, when appropriate, a portion of each capital construction appropriation be allocated for the acquisition of works of art to be placed in public places.

(b) There is hereby established an art in public places program to be administered by the council; except that, on and after July 1, 2010, the program shall be administered by the director of the division. All works of art purchased and commissioned under the art in public places program shall become a part of the state art collection developed, administered, and operated by the council. All works of art purchased or commissioned under this section prior to March 19, 1987, shall be considered a part of the state art collection to be administered by the council.

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(b) "Artist" means a practitioner in the visual arts generally recognized by peers or critics as a professional who produces works of art. "Artist" does not include the architect of a public building under construction or any member of the architect's firm.

(b.5) "Capital construction" has the same meaning as in section 24-30-1301 (2)(a), (2)(b), and (2)(c).

(c) "Public construction project" means a capital construction project subject to the provisions of section 24-30-1303 (3).

(d) "Works of art" means all forms of original creations of visual art including, but not limited to:

(I) Sculpture, in any material or combination of materials, whether in the round, bas-relief, high relief, mobile, fountain, kinetic, or electronic;

(II) Painting, whether portable or permanently fixed, as in the case of murals;

(III) Mosaics;

(IV) Photographs;

(V) Crafts made from clay, fiber and textiles, wood, glass, metal, plastics, or any other material, or any combination thereof;

(VI) Calligraphy;

(VII) Mixed media composed of any combination of forms or media;

(VIII) Unique architectural stylings or embellishments, including architectural crafts;

(IX) Environmental landscaping; and

(X) Restoration or renovation of existing works of art of historical significance.

(3) (a) (I) (A) Except as provided in subsections (3)(a)(III) and (3)(a)(IV) of this section, each appropriation for a capital construction project must include as a nondeductible item an allocation of not less than one percent of the state funded portion of the total construction costs to be used for the acquisition of works of art.

(B) An appropriation for professional services may include planning for acquisition of works of art as required under sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I). Such appropriation may be applied to the funding specified in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I).

(II) (A) Except as provided in subsection (3)(a)(III) of this section, commencing after August 11, 2010, any capital construction project that is the subject of a financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement, as defined in section 24-82-801 (4), that provides for payments from money that has been appropriated in full or in part by the state must include as a nondeductible item in the project budget an allocation of not less than one percent of the state-funded portion of the total construction costs to be used for the acquisition of works of art.

(B) An appropriation for professional services may include planning for acquisition of works of art as required under sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (II). Such appropriation may be applied to the funding specified in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (II).

(III) The requirements specified in this subsection (3)(a) do not apply to:

(A) Capital construction appropriations covered by section 24-48.5-313;

(B) Agricultural facilities where livestock are housed or agricultural products are grown;

(C) Capital construction appropriations for controlled maintenance as defined in section 24-30-1301 (4);

For appropriations made for the 2022-23 fiscal year only, a state agency or institution of higher education that received an appropriation for a capital construction project is not required to allocate not less than one percent of the state funded portion of the total costs of a capital construction project for the acquisition of works of art in accordance with subsection (3)(a)(I)(A) of this section. A state agency or an institution of higher education that opts not to allocate a portion of the total construction costs for the acquisition of works of art in accordance with subsection (3)(a)(I)(A) of this section may use the money that would otherwise be allocated for such purposes for any other costs associated with the capital construction project.

Whenever the funds for any state agency equal or exceed one thousand dollars, the council shall select a jury as described in subsection (6)(a) of this section.

(d) The works of art acquired under this part 3 shall be placed in a publicly accessible location within the state agency for which the capital construction project is to be constructed. A collection of works of art may be selected for placement within the state agency and, at the discretion of the state agency and the council, made available for loan, circulation, and exhibition in other public facilities.

(4) The office of state planning and budgeting is responsible for insuring compliance with the provisions of subsection (3) of this section.

(5) The administration of the art in public places program includes supervision of the jury process that convenes to select the site and the artwork, contracting, purchase, commissioning, and reviewing of design, execution, and placement. Acceptance of works of art shall be the responsibility of the council. These activities shall be conducted in consultation with the executive directors of the respective state agencies. The administration of the art in public places program shall not include bearing the costs of maintaining or insuring the works of art. Such costs shall be the responsibility of the respective state agencies.

(6) All works of art acquired with funds allocated under subsection (3) of this section shall be contracted for separately from all other items in the original construction plans pursuant to the following guidelines:

- (7) Repealed.
- (8) For the 2010-11 fiscal year and each fiscal year thereafter, all moneys allocated for the acquisition of works of art pursuant to subsection (3) of this section shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the creative industries cash fund created in section 24-48.5-301.

24-48.5-314. Creative districts - creation - certification - powers of coordinator and division - legislative declaration - definitions.

(1) (a) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that:

(I) A creative district is a well-recognized, designated mixed-use area of a community in which a high concentration of cultural facilities, creative businesses, or arts-related businesses serve as the anchor of attraction. In certain cases, multiple vacant properties in close proximity may exist within a community that would be suitable for redevelopment as a creative district. Creative districts may be found in all sizes of communities, from small and rural to large and urban. Creative districts may be home to both nonprofit and for-profit creative industries and organizations.

(II) The arts and culture transcend boundaries of race, age, gender, language, and social status. Creative districts promote and improve their communities in particular and the state more generally in many ways. Specifically, such districts:

(A) Attract artists and creative entrepreneurs to a community, thereby infusing the community with energy and innovation, which enhances the economic and civic capital of the community;

(B) Create a hub of economic activity that helps an area become an appealing place to live, visit, and conduct business, complements adjacent businesses, and results in the creation of new economic opportunities and jobs in both the cultural sector and other local industries. Cultural resources attract businesses and assist in the recruitment of employees.

(C) Are a highly adaptable economic development tool that is able to take a community's unique conditions, assets, needs, and opportunities into account, thereby addressing the needs of large and small and rural and urban areas;

(D) Establish marketable tourism assets that highlight the distinct identity of communities, attract in-state, out-of-state, and even international visitors, and become especially attractive destinations for cultural, recreational, and business travelers;

(E) Revitalize and beautify neighborhoods, cities, and larger regions, reverse urban decay, promote the preservation of historic buildings, and facilitate a healthy mixture of business and residential activity that contributes to reduced vacancy rates and enhanced property values; and

(F) Provide a focal point for celebrating and strengthening a community's unique cultural identity, providing communities with opportunities to highlight existing cultural amenities as well as mechanisms to recruit and establish new artists, creative industries, and organizations.

(b) By enacting this section, the general assembly intends that the state provide leadership and a helping hand to local communities desirous of creating their own creative districts by, among other things, certifying districts, offering available incentives to encourage business development, exploring new incentives that are directly related to creative enterprises, facilitating local access to state assistance, enhancing the visibility of creative districts, providing technical assistance and planning help, ensuring broad and equitable program benefits, and fostering a supportive climate for the arts and culture, thereby contributing to the development of healthy communities across the state and improving the quality of life of the state's residents.

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Coordinator" means the person employed on the professional staff of the division who is responsible for overseeing the duties and responsibilities of the division under this section and performing the specific tasks delegated to such person under this section.

(b) "Creative district" or "district" means a land area designated by a local government in accordance with this section that contains either a hub of cultural facilities, creative industries, or arts-related businesses or multiple vacant properties in close proximity that would be suitable for redevelopment as a creative district.

(c) "Local government" means a city and county, county, city, or town.

(d) "State-certified creative district" means a creative district whose application for certification has been approved by the division pursuant to subsection (4) of this section.

(3) (a) A local government may designate a creative district within its territorial boundaries subject to certification as a state-certified creative district by the division pursuant to subsection (4) of this section.

24-48.5-601. Short title.

The short title of this part 6 is the "Colorado Loans for Increasing Main Street Business Economic Resiliency Act" or "CLIMBER Act".

Source: L. 2024: Entire part added with relocations, (HB 24-1453), ch. 355, p. 2414, § 1, effective September 1.

Editor's note: This section is similar to former § 24-36-201 as it existed prior to 2024.

24-48.5-602. Legislative declaration.

- (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:
 - (a) There are nearly one hundred forty thousand small businesses with employees in Colorado;

(b) Small businesses in Colorado make up a disproportionately larger share of the economy of the state compared to the United States as a whole;

(c) Small businesses collectively employed over one million Coloradans before the public health crisis caused by COVID-19 began;

(d) The COVID-19 pandemic has harmed public health and economic conditions across the entire world, including the state of Colorado, across metropolitan regions, small towns, and rural communities, and has had a particularly deep negative financial impact on small businesses, their employees, and their home communities;

(e) The wide-ranging and continuing health and economic impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic are unprecedented in recent history and create unique challenges for the state;

(f) The health, safety, and welfare of the people of the state depend on the recovery of the state's economy, including the small businesses that make up a significant share of that economy;

(g) On March 27, 2020, the president of the United States signed the federal "Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act", also known as the "CARES Act", Pub.L. 116-136, to provide necessary federal funding for COVID-19 response and recovery;

(h) The CARES Act, along with other federal laws and programs, provided many critical resources for small businesses, but those resources are not expected to be sufficient to sustain the large and diverse small business community in the state as it recovers from the COVID-19 crisis and the resulting ongoing economic hardships;

(i) The governor's council on economic stabilization and growth, made up of volunteers from the private, public, and philanthropic sectors with diverse backgrounds from across Colorado, has recommended that the state seed the establishment of a fund of over one hundred million dollars to stimulate loans from lending institutions doing business in Colorado to Colorado small businesses to support the state's recovery and resiliency from the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic;

(j) There is a well-functioning network of respected lending institutions across the state who are committed to the health of Colorado's economy and want to contribute their expertise and community relationships to support the success of Colorado's small business community;

(k) The state will rely on those lending institutions as essential partners in a small business recovery loan program; and

(l) Authorizing the creation of a small business recovery and resiliency loan program seeded by money provided by the state will support Colorado small businesses affected by the COVID-19 crisis, assist in the overall economic recovery of the state, and support resiliency for small businesses as new challenges emerge.

(2) The general assembly further finds and declares that:

(a) While the loan program authorized by this part 6 will be predominately capitalized by private sector investments, the limited use of state money obtained through the sale of insurance premium tax credits that will result in future state tax expenditures incurred for the purpose of supporting the program will, under the current economic conditions, result in the formation of more private capital at better terms for small business borrowers than would otherwise be available;

(b) The loan program, if successful, has the potential to help small businesses survive the crisis caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, protect jobs across the state, and support resiliency for small businesses as new challenges emerge, which in turn will generate and sustain tax revenues to both the state and local governments;

(c) Preserving jobs with small businesses will also reduce public expenditures on safety net programs and other forms of assistance needed by those who have become unemployed as a result of the crisis caused by COVID-19;

(d) The state money contributed to the loan program therefore serves an important and discrete public purpose in securing the state's economic and overall recovery from the crisis caused by COVID-19 and in ensuring the state's resiliency among small businesses as new challenges emerge; and

(e) Supporting the state's recovery from the crisis caused by COVID-19 and ensuring the state's resiliency among small businesses as new challenges emerge is the primary purpose of the loan program and outweighs any benefit to private individuals or entities.

(3) The general assembly further finds and declares that:

(a) The insurance premium tax credits authorized by this part 6 as a method to provide money to the loan program are available only to insurance companies that incur premium tax liability in the state;

(b) The tax credits can only be used by an insurance company to offset tax liability actually incurred by the insurance company;

(c) The tax credits are not refundable and do not impose an obligation of payment in any future year upon the state;

(d) The use of proceeds from the sale of insurance premium tax credits to seed the loan program allows the state to accomplish this important public purpose through the use of future tax expenditures and therefore:

(I) Does not require the state to borrow money, extend or pledge the state's credit, or obligate the state to make future payments from state revenues; and

(II) Does not otherwise create any multiple-fiscal year direct or indirect district debt or other financial obligation whatsoever for purposes of section 20 (4)(a) of article X of the state constitution.

(1) (a) The office is authorized to enter into a contract or contracts to establish a small business recovery and resiliency loan program in accordance with this part 6.

(b) The purpose of the loan program is to support Colorado small businesses by making loans, acquiring participation interest in loans, leveraging private small business lending through the Colorado credit reserve program, or other activities that accomplish the same purpose. The loan program is also designed to support resiliency for small businesses as new challenges emerge. The loan program may only make loans directly if federal or state bank regulators prohibit the banking industry from originating loans for the loan program.

(2) The office may contract with the Colorado housing and finance authority created in part 7 of article 4 of title 29 or with a bank, nonprofit organization, nondepository community development financial institution, business development corporation, certified public accountant firm, or fund manager to administer a loan program. If the office contracts with an entity other than the Colorado housing and finance authority to administer a loan program, the office shall use an open and competitive process to select the entity. The office shall consult with the oversight board in selecting and contracting with a loan program manager.

(3) (a) Notwithstanding any restriction on the investment of state money set forth in section 24-36-113 or in any other provision of law, subject to the availability of money in the small business recovery and resiliency fund and the requirements of this part 6, the office may provide first loss capital to a loan program or programs or to the Colorado credit reserve from the small business recovery and resiliency fund.

(I) and (II) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2024.)

(b) The money provided under this subsection (3) must be provided in tranches of ten million dollars or less.

(4) Any contract for the administration of a loan program must include the following terms in order to receive money provided by the office pursuant to subsection (3) of this section:

(a) Except for money contributed to the Colorado credit reserve, the money from the small business recovery and resiliency fund provided by the office in a single tranche may not be committed pursuant to a contract relating to a loan program until money is committed pursuant to a contract relating to a loan program from other sources at a ratio of at least one dollar from other sources for each one dollar provided by the state from the small business recovery and resiliency fund. If a loan program manager does not secure sufficient investments from other sources to meet this requirement within the time allowed by a contract, the money provided by the state must be returned to the small business recovery and resiliency fund.

(b) Except for money contributed to the Colorado credit reserve, once the money in a tranche is matched in accordance with subsection (4)(a) of this section, it must be used to make loans or purchase participation interest in loans for businesses as determined by the oversight board, including working capital and the purchase of equipment. The oversight board shall consult with lending industry leaders and representatives of small businesses with regard to subsections (4)(b)(I) to (4)(b)(VI) of this section. Each loan must be subject to the following terms:

(I) The loan must be in an amount of at least ten thousand dollars but not more than five hundred thousand dollars, as determined by the oversight board;

(II) The loan must have a maximum initial maturity of up to ten years, based on the need of the eligible borrower, with no penalty for prepayment, as determined by the oversight board. The originating lender may extend the term for purposes of restructuring the loan;

(III) The principal must be amortized over the term of the loan or a longer period, as determined by the oversight board;

(IV) Principal and interest payments may be deferred for up to one year, as determined by the oversight board, with the unpaid interest being capitalized. Deferrals must be limited to circumstances of hardship.

(V) The loan must carry an interest rate that is lower than would otherwise be available on a risk-adjusted basis from a commercial lender or that bears terms that are not otherwise available from a commercial lender, as determined by the oversight board; and

(VI) The eligible borrower may provide a personal guarantee, collateral, or other security as determined by the oversight board, which may be subordinate to existing debt.

(c) The loan program shall be used to fund businesses across the state over the duration of the program and, in accordance with section 24-48.5-604 (8)(d), shall maintain targets and support businesses located in rural counties and businesses owned by women, minorities, or veterans. The program shall track the distribution of capital to counties.

(d) (I) A loan program manager shall make every effort to achieve benchmarks published by the oversight board pursuant to section 24-48.5-604 (8)(d) for the percentage of loans supported by the program that are made to businesses owned by socially and economically disadvantaged individuals, including businesses owned by women, minorities, and veterans, and to businesses located in rural counties. A loan program manager shall consult with the minority business office within the office of the governor and the division of business funding and incentives within the office to develop an outreach strategy for marketing the loan program to businesses owned by women, minorities, and veterans and businesses located in rural counties.

(II) For money contributed to the Colorado credit reserve, the oversight board may waive the requirements of this subsection (4)(d) or may establish alternative benchmarks for the percentage of loans supported by the program that are made to businesses owned by socially and economically disadvantaged individuals, including businesses owned by women, minorities, and veterans, and to businesses located in rural counties.

(e) A loan program manager shall work with the division of business funding and incentives within the office to align the program with other access to capital programs in the state.

(5) If the money in a tranche is not fully invested in small business loans as determined by the oversight board in the time period allowed under a contract, the portion of the unused money provided by the state must be returned to the small business recovery and resiliency fund.

(6) Distributions or revenue paid to the state pursuant to a contract under this section must be deposited in the small business recovery and resiliency fund.

(7) The loan program manager shall report on the implementation of the loan program to the oversight board at least quarterly, within one month after the end of each calendar quarter, or more often if requested by the oversight board. The report must include the information necessary to allow the oversight board to provide the reports required in section 24-48.5-604 (12), and any additional information requested by the board.

The offer must include all of the following:

(a) The requested amount of tax credits, which must not be less than any minimum amount established in procedures by the department or, if applicable, the independent third party;

(e) A qualified taxpayer that fails to pay the tax credit sale proceeds within the time specified by the department may avoid the imposition of the penalty by transferring the allocation of tax credits to a new or existing qualified taxpayer within thirty days after the due date of the defaulted installment. 24-49.7-110. Colorado dark sky designation technical assistance grant program - funding - report - legislative declaration - definitions.

- (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:
 - (a) The aesthetic beauty and wonder of natural dark skies at night are inherent to the character and allure of the state;
 - (b) The growing problem of light pollution, including sky glow, glare, and light trespass, which is also known as spill light, is attributed to the use of artificial light at night and has been scientifically linked to negative effects on the health and well-being of people, plants, and animals, while natural dark skies at night have been scientifically linked to positive health effects;
 - (c) The nighttime environment is both a natural and cultural resource;
 - (d) Dark sky tourism combines elements of astrotourism, cultural heritage tourism, nature and wildlife tourism, and health and wellness tourism and emphasizes stewardship of the nighttime environment;
 - (e) The International Dark-Sky Association, referred to in this section as the "IDA", endeavors to preserve dark skies at night and to increase the number of places that have dark skies at night by reducing artificial light pollution through a variety of means, including an international dark sky places program, hereinafter referred to as the "IDSP program". Under the IDSP program, a community or other place that satisfies specified criteria can be certified by the IDA as one of the following types of designated dark sky places:
 - (I) An international dark sky community;
 - (II) An international dark sky park;
 - (III) An international dark sky reserve;
 - (IV) An international dark sky sanctuary; or
 - (V) An urban night sky place;

(f) Increasing numbers of Coloradans and Colorado communities are recognizing the economic, ecological, cultural, and societal benefits of preserving and expanding dark sky places by implementing IDA-approved lighting initiatives and applying for designated dark sky place status under the IDSP program, but many Coloradans and Colorado communities either do not yet know about the benefits of preserving and expanding dark sky places or about the IDSP program or require technical assistance to take the steps necessary to achieve designated dark sky place status for a community or other place;

(g) Through dark sky education, outreach, practices, and policies, a connection to the natural nighttime environment can be reestablished for present and future generations; and

(h) It therefore serves primarily a public purpose and is necessary, appropriate, and in the best interest of all Coloradans to provide funding to the office so that the office can:

(I) Provide technical assistance grants to applicants seeking support for an application to the IDA for a community or place to be certified by the IDA as a designated dark sky place; and

(II) Contract with the IDA and the Colorado chapter of the IDA to help the office administer the grant program, promote the preservation and expansion of designated dark sky places in the state in accordance with best stewardship practices, and promote tourism opportunities in designated dark sky places in the state.

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Additional source fund" means the Colorado travel and tourism additional source fund created in section 24-49.7-106 (2).

(b) "Applicant" means a community, individual, group of individuals, or entity that has applied to the IDA to have a community or other place certified by the IDA as a designated dark sky place and that applies for a grant.

(c) "Colorado chapter of the IDA" means a Colorado single member limited liability company that has the IDA as its sole member relationship.

(d) "Designated dark sky place" means a place in Colorado that is certified by the IDA through the IDSP program as an international dark sky community, international dark sky park, international dark sky reserve, international dark sky sanctuary, or urban night sky place.

(e) "IDA technical assistance" means assistance provided by the IDA to an applicant for the purpose of helping the applicant satisfy the requirements for the certification by the IDA of a community or place as a designated dark sky place.

(f) "Program" means the Colorado dark sky designation technical assistance grant program established by the office as required by subsection (3) of this section.

(g) "Technical assistance grant" or "grant" means an award made by the office to an applicant to pay for IDA technical assistance in accordance with the requirements of this section and the policies established by the office pursuant to subsection (3) of this section.

(3) (a) The office shall establish the Colorado dark sky designation technical assistance grant program in accordance with the requirements of this section and the policies that the office establishes pursuant to this subsection (3). The program may provide technical assistance grants from the additional source fund to applicants. The office shall establish policies for the program including policies that govern the grant application process and require applicants to demonstrate community and stakeholder support, as defined in the policies, for the designated dark sky place application for the community or other place to which the grant application pertains. The office may contract with the IDA and the Colorado chapter of the IDA to help the office develop its program policies, evaluate grant applications, and make recommendations to the office regarding which applicants should receive grant awards and what the amount of each award should be.

(b) The office, on its own, in consultation with the IDA and the Colorado chapter of the IDA, or by contracting with the IDA and the Colorado chapter of the IDA, shall provide general education and outreach about dark skies and specifically promote responsible and sustainable tourism opportunities in designated dark sky places in the state.

(4) On July 1, 2022, the state treasurer shall transfer thirty-five thousand dollars from the general fund to the additional source fund. Notwithstanding section 24-49.7-106 (3)(b), the office shall spend this money, which is continuously appropriated to the office, only:

(a) To make technical assistance grants;

(b) If the office contracts with the IDA and the Colorado chapter of the IDA as authorized by subsection (3) of this section, to pay the IDA and the Colorado chapter of the IDA in accordance with the terms of the contract to:

(I) Assist in administering the grant program;

(II) Provide general education about and promote general awareness of the benefits of preserving and expanding dark sky places and the importance of using best stewardship practices when managing access to dark sky places; and

(III) Specifically promote responsible and sustainable tourism opportunities in designated dark sky places in the state; and

(c) To cover the office's direct and indirect costs of administering and implementing the program.

(5) On or before November 1, 2023, the office shall submit a report detailing the expenditure of the money transferred to the additional source fund pursuant to subsection (4) of this section to the house of representatives business affairs and labor committee and the senate business, labor, and technology committee, or their successor committees. The report shall specify the grant-supported actions taken in furtherance of designating new dark sky places and indicate how many grant recipients have opened and maintained an active case file with the IDA or have had a community or other place certified by the IDA as a designated dark sky place.

and laws enacted pursuant thereto, including all employees of the state colleges and universities not otherwise exempted by law.

(2) Whenever, in any law of this state relating to state employees, reference is made to the civil service, the state civil service, or the classified service, such terms shall be deemed to refer to the state personnel system. Whenever reference is made to the civil service commission in any law of this state relating to the administration of the state personnel system, such term shall be deemed to refer to the state personnel director. Whenever reference is made to the civil service commission in any law of this state relating to rule-making powers, administrative appeals, or any power vested by the state constitution in the state personnel board, such term shall be deemed to refer to the state personnel board.

(3) (a) It is the purpose of the state personnel system, as a merit system, to assure that a qualified and competent work force is serving the residents of Colorado and that any person has an equal opportunity to apply and compete for state employment. Recruitment shall be from appropriate sources.

(b) It is the duty of the state personnel board to provide fair and timely resolution of cases before it.

(c) It is the duty of the state personnel director to establish the general criteria for adherence to the merit principles and for fair treatment of individuals within the state personnel system. It is the responsibility of the state personnel director to provide leadership in the areas of policy and operation of the state personnel system as well as to provide consultant services to executive branch agencies and institutions of higher education to further their professional management of human resources in state government. The state personnel director, pursuant to the "State Administrative Procedure Act", article 4 of this title, shall provide necessary directives and oversight for the management of the state personnel system and in the discharge of his constitutional duty to administer the state personnel system.

(d) The heads of principal departments and presidents of colleges and universities shall be responsible and accountable for the actual operation and management of the state personnel system for their respective departments, colleges, or universities. Such operation and management shall be in accordance with rules and directives of the state personnel director who may conduct a review of such operation and management. Presidents of colleges and universities shall be the appointing authorities for employees of their respective institutions. The appointing authority for a principal department is specified in section 13 (7) of article XII of the state constitution.

(e) The state personnel director shall establish and administer an affirmative action program, including annual documentation by appointing authorities listing methods of remedying, within a time period established by the director, the underutilization of persons covered by part 4 of article 34 of this title.

(4) It is also the policy of the state to base employee advancement and compensation on demonstrated ability and quality of performance in order to encourage and achieve high levels of performance and productivity by state employees.

Constitutionality under § 14 of art. XII, Colo. Const. The statutory scheme enacted in subsections (3)(c) and (d) is consistent with § 14 of art. XII, Colo. Const. Colo. Ass'n of Pub. Employees v. Lamm, 677 P.2d 1350 (Colo. 1984) (decided prior to 1984 amendment to subsection (3)(c)).

through a competitive and impartial method. Spickard v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 31 Colo. App. 450, 505 P.2d 32 (1972).

The state personnel system provisions are to be liberally construed to enforce their ostensible purpose, which is to promote the efficiency of the state personnel system, by employing only persons who, by examination, have shown qualifications for positions therein. For purposes of subsection (3)(d), the secretary of state is responsible and accountable for the overall management of the secretary of state's office; however, that does not necessarily mean that the secretary can be held personally responsible under ethical standards for every activity of each individual employee. Legislation is unnecessary to give effect to § 13 of art. XII, Colo. Const. People v. Bradley, 66 Colo. 186, 179 P. 871 (1919).

State personnel board and the state department of personnel are distinct entities with separate powers and responsibilities. Spahn v. Dept. of Personnel, 44 Colo. App. 446, 615 P.2d 66 (1980).

Board reviews actions of department head. The state department of personnel does not oversee the state personnel board's activities. Rather, the board reviews the actions of the head of the personnel department. Spahn v. State Dept. of Personnel, 44 Colo. App. 446, 615 P.2d 66 (1980).

There is a right to mandamus to the state personnel director where clear legal duty to act. The right to mandamus government officials, a category encompassing the state personnel director, requires a showing of a positive right to compel the particular action sought to be commanded. In this regard, the official, or officials, must have a clear legal duty to act. Aspgren v. Burrell, 160 Colo. 302, 417 P.2d 782 (1966).

Applied in Bernstein v. Livingston, 633 P.2d 519 (Colo. App. 1981).

24-50-103. State personnel board.

(1) The state personnel board is created pursuant to the provisions of section 14 of article XII of the state constitution. The board consists of five members to be selected in the manner provided in the state constitution and this section.

(2) The board is a type 1 entity, as defined in section 24-1-105, and exercises its powers and performs its duties and functions under the department of personnel and the state personnel director.

(3) (a) In the year 2015 and every third year thereafter and in the year 2016 and every third year thereafter, an election shall be held for a member of the board in the manner provided in this subsection (3).

(b) The elected members of the board shall be elected by persons certified to classes and positions in the state personnel system in accordance with rules promulgated by the board, in consultation with the secretary of state and pursuant to section 24-4-103; except that the ballots for such elections shall be distributed to each employee qualified to vote with any payroll or other type of distribution otherwise made to said employees. However, such distribution shall be no later than fifteen days before the ballots are to be submitted by the voters.

(c) (I) The election of any person declared duly elected to the position of a member of the board may be contested:

(A) When the candidate is not eligible to be a member of the board;

(B) When illegal votes have been received or legal votes rejected at the time of the election in sufficient numbers to change the outcome of the election;

(C) For any error or mistake on the part of the board administrator in conducting, counting, or declaring the result of the election, if such error or mistake would be sufficient to change the outcome of the election;

(D) For misconduct, fraud, or corruption on the part of the board administrator, if such misconduct, fraud, or corruption would be sufficient to change the outcome of the election;

(E) For any other cause which shows that another individual was the legally elected board member.

(II) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 24-50-125.4 (3), an action to contest an election under this subsection (3) shall be brought pursuant to rule 106 (a)(3) of the Colorado rules of civil procedure; except that the action shall be brought only in the Denver district court and only after the contesting party has complied with the rules of the board concerning prior notice and opportunity to cure, and the provisions of rule 106 concerning district attorneys shall not apply to this subsection (3).

(d) The general assembly shall appropriate to the board sufficient funds to carry out the provisions of this subsection (3).

(4) A vacancy in office shall be filled in the manner used for the selection of the person vacating the office and for the unexpired term. Elected member vacancies shall be filled within three months after the date of the vacancy, and, in the event of a vacancy for an elected member position, the governor shall request a supplemental appropriation in an amount sufficient to conduct the election, and the general assembly shall appropriate such amount for that purpose.

(5) A member of the board may be removed in accordance with section 14 (2) of article XII of the state constitution.

(6) An action of the state personnel director or an appointing authority which is appealable to the board pursuant to this article or the state constitution may be reversed or modified on appeal to the board only if at least three members of the board find the action to have been arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to rule or law. Unless otherwise limited by this article or the state constitution, a decision of the board shall be subject to review pursuant to section 24-50-125.4.

(7) The board may authorize administrative law judges, who shall be lawyers with at least five years' experience, to conduct hearings on any matter within the jurisdiction of the board upon terms and conditions determined by the board and subject to the provisions of article 4 of this title. The board shall employ such personnel as may be necessary for the performance of its duties, including an administrator who shall serve as secretary to the board. The administrator shall maintain full records of the proceedings of the board and shall be responsible for any other duties as the board may assign. Funds for these purposes shall be appropriated by the general assembly.

(8) Members of the board shall be compensated at the rate of seventy-five dollars per day for each day in which they are actually engaged in the performance of their duties plus reimbursement for actual and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties. The board shall meet as often as necessary to conduct its business. The board shall elect a chairman and a vice-chairman, one of whom shall be a gubernatorial appointee, from among its members. Meetings shall be called by the chairman or a majority of the board. All members of the board shall be given reasonable notice of all meetings, and three members of the board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. The affirmative vote of at least three members of the board shall be necessary to reverse or modify any action of the state personnel director or appointing authority.

(9) The board and any political subdivision of the state may contract for the furnishing of personnel services by the department of personnel to such subdivision.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Relevant cases decided under law in effect prior to 1963 have been included in the annotations to this section.

State personnel board and the state department of personnel are distinct entities with separate powers and responsibilities. Spahn v. Dept. of Personnel, 44 Colo. App. 446, 615 P.2d 66 (1980).

Board reviews actions of department head. The state department of personnel does not oversee the state personnel board's activities. Rather, the board reviews the actions of the head of the personnel department. Spahn v. Dept. of Personnel, 44 Colo. App. 446, 615 P.2d 66 (1980).

State personnel board did not have authority to review a nonemployee's claim that the Colorado state patrol acted arbitrarily or capriciously in declining to reinstate the nonemployee. The board has the express authority pursuant to § 24-50-125.3 to review nonemployee claims based on discrimination in the employee selection process. The state personnel director has the express authority pursuant to § 24-50-112.5 to review a nonemployee's claim that an appointing authority acted in an arbitrary or capricious manner. One cannot infer that the general assembly intended to implicitly provide the board with the same authority that is expressly provided to the director. Williams v. Dept. of Pub. Safety, 2015 COA 180, 369 P.3d 760.

Terms of office of board members begin when statutory amendment becomes effective. The office of state personnel board members created by a statutory amendment exists from and after the time the amendment goes into effect, and the term of office of the board members begins when the office begins. People ex rel. Quereau v. Hamrock, 74 Colo. 411, 222 P. 391 (1924).

State personnel board is given a great deal of discretion when dealing with employees subject to its jurisdiction. Spickard v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 31 Colo. App. 450, 505 P.2d 32 (1972).

A large discretion as to the method of testing applicants for positions in the personnel system is vested in the board. The courts will not interfere with the exercise of that discretion except in the clearest cases of abuse. Hewitt v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 114 Colo. 561, 167 P.2d 961 (1946).

Whether board examination is promotional or open is matter within board's discretion. Hewitt v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 114 Colo. 561, 167 P.2d 961 (1946).

Rules and regulations of state personnel board may not be applied retroactively. Reeb v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 31 Colo. App. 488, 503 P.2d 629 (1972).

The board may pass regulatory rules, such as one that a person separated from a position by the abolition of the position shall be entered on a preferred list of eligibles, and also a rule providing for the expiration of the eligible list. Wood v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 113 Colo. 135, 155 P.2d 153 (1945).

The board is authorized to rule on tenure of provisional appointees. The board is authorized to make rules to carry out the purposes of the personnel system, and this includes the right to make rules with reference to the tenure of provisional appointees. Wilson v. People ex rel. Cochrane, 71 Colo. 456, 208 P. 479 (1922); Roberts v. People ex rel. Duncan, 81 Colo. 338, 255 P. 461 (1927).

Board is subject to open meetings law. Lanes v. State Auditor's Office, 797 P.2d 764 (Colo. App. 1990).

Subsection (6) requires that hearings held by or on behalf of the board give a degree of deference to the appointing authority's disciplinary decision. The arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to rule or law standard of review set forth in subsection (6) applies to hearings of an appeal of an appointing authority's decision to discipline a certified state employee. Under this standard of review, the board or administrative law judge must determine whether the appointing authority honestly considered all of the relevant evidence; whether reasonable people fairly and honestly considering the evidence must reach contrary conclusions; and whether the disciplinary action contravened any rule or law. Dept. of Corr. v. Stiles, 2020 CO 90M, 477 P.3d 709.

24-50-103.5. Department of personnel - review.

(1) The general assembly finds that state government actions have produced a substantial increase in numbers of agencies, growth of programs, and proliferation of rules and regulations and that the whole process developed without sufficient legislative oversight, regulatory accountability, or a system of checks and balances. The general assembly further finds that by establishing a system for review, it will be in a better position to evaluate the need for modification of the department of personnel, referred to in this section as the "department", and for modification of the rules and regulations of the board.

(2) (a) The legislative audit committee shall cause to be conducted a performance audit of the department and the board. The performance audit shall be completed at least seven months prior to July 1, 1981. In conducting the audit, the legislative audit committee shall take into consideration, but not be limited to considering, the factors listed in paragraph (b) of subsection

(3) of this section. Upon completion of the audit report, the legislative audit committee shall hold a public hearing for purposes of review of the report.

(b) A further performance audit as required in this section shall be completed at least seven months before July 1, 2020, and shall be completed thereafter at the discretion of the state auditor.

(3) (a) Committees of reference in each house of the general assembly shall hold public hearings, receiving testimony from the public, the state personnel director, and the chairman of the board, and in such a hearing the department and the board shall have the burden of demonstrating the extent to which a change in the administration, rules and regulations, or operations of the department or the board may increase the efficiency of administration or operation of the department or the board.

(b) In such hearing, the committee shall take into consideration the following factors, among others:

(I) The extent to which the department and the board have operated in the public interest and economy, and the extent to which their operations have been impeded or enhanced by existing statutes, procedures, and any other circumstances, including budgetary, resource, and personnel matters;

(II) The extent to which the department and the board have recommended statutory changes to the general assembly which would benefit the public as opposed to the persons they regulate;

(III) The extent to which the board has adopted rules and regulations, procedures, or practices which enhance or impede the efficiency or economy of state government;

(IV) The efficiency with which formal complaints filed with the department or the board concerning regulation policies, procedures, or practices have been processed to completion by the department or the board and the decisions thereof;

(V) The effectiveness of the department and the board in implementing incentive systems to reward and encourage excellence in public service, particularly in middle and top management levels;

(VI) The effectiveness of the department or the board in filling job vacancies;

(VII) The effectiveness of staffing levels of the department, particularly in view of the decentralization of functions of the department to other departments of state government;

(VIII) The effectiveness of the department and the board as perceived by executive directors of other departments of state government and members of the general assembly;

(IX) The extent to which changes are necessary in the enabling laws of the department or the board to adequately comply with the factors listed in this paragraph (b); and

(X) The extent to which the authority of the department or the board should be or has been restricted by the annual general appropriation bill.

24-50-104. Job evaluation and compensation - state employee reserve fund - created - study - report - definitions.

(1) Total compensation philosophy.

(a)(I) It is the policy of the state to provide innovative total compensation that meets or exceeds total compensation provided by public or private sector employers or a combination of both, to officers and employees in the state personnel system to ensure the recruitment, motivation, and retention of a qualified and competent workforce. For purposes of this section, "total compensation" includes, but is not limited to, salary, group benefit plans, retirement benefits, step pay, incentives, premium pay practices, and leave as specified in statute or in policies of the state personnel director. For purposes of this section, "group benefit plans" means group benefit coverages as described in section 24-50-603 (9). Any monetary components of total compensation are subject to available appropriations by the general assembly.

(II) The state personnel director shall establish technically and professionally sound survey methodologies to assess total compensation practices, levels, and costs. Except as provided in subsection (1)(a)(III) of this section, for purposes of this subsection (1)(a), to determine and maintain salaries, state contributions for group benefit plans, and step pay that meet or exceed total compensation provided by public or private sector employment or a combination of both, the state personnel director shall quadrennially review the results of appropriate surveys by public or private organizations, including surveys by the state personnel director set forth in subsection (4)(b)(I) of this section. Any surveys provided on a confidential basis shall not be revealed except to the state auditor's office and the private firm conducting the audit required in subsection (4)(b) of this section. The state personnel director shall adopt appropriate procedures to determine and maintain other elements of total compensation, including the payment of incentive awards to employees in the state personnel system. The state personnel director's review and determination of total compensation practices shall not be subject to appeal except as otherwise authorized by law or state personnel director procedures.

(II.5) When establishing pay plans in accordance with subsection (5) of this section and recommending compensation for state employees in accordance with subsection (4) of this section, the state personnel director shall develop, after negotiations with the certified employee organization pursuant to section 24-50-1112, an equitable pay structure for employees in the state personnel system that provides consistent and predictable salary increases in compliance with any federal or state laws and keeps the state employee workforce competitive with market compensation. The requirements of this subsection (1)(a)(II.5) do not apply to employees of the state auditor, in accordance with subsection (1)(h) of this section.

(III) (A) The methodologies used for purposes of determining and maintaining compensation for state law enforcement officers employed by the Colorado state patrol shall be the same as the methodologies established pursuant to subsection (1)(a)(II) of this section; except that the amount of salary shall be at least ninety-nine percent of the actual average salary provided to the top three law enforcement agencies within the state that have both more than one hundred commissioned officers and the highest actual average salary.

(B) As used in this subparagraph (III), "state law enforcement officer" means the chief and any commissioned or noncommissioned officer and trooper of the Colorado state patrol.

(b) The state personnel director shall use a systematic approach to objectively determine classes of positions and the uniform alignment of classes and occupational groups for all jobs in the state personnel system. The state personnel director shall conduct timely, ongoing, and technically sound evaluation and analyses of jobs in order to group similar duties and responsibilities into clearly distinguished classes and occupational groups that relate to the compensation structure through the assignment of appropriate pay grades. If the state personnel director proposes or the department of personnel recommends any changes to classes or occupational groups or to the pay grades for such classes or groups as a result of the evaluation and analyses required under this paragraph (b), the director shall notify all affected employees and employee organizations of such changes. Upon request of any affected employee or employee organization, the state personnel director shall meet and confer in good faith with such employee or organization regarding the proposed or recommended changes prior to finalizing and implementing any such change.

(c) (I) The state personnel director shall establish a step pay system in order to provide periodic salary increases for employees in the state personnel system; except that the step pay system does not apply to employees of the state auditor, in accordance with subsection (1)(h) of this section. The purpose of the step pay system is to provide salary increases for employees based on salary placement within the appropriate salary range.

(A) to (E) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2024).

(I.1) to (I.9) Repealed.

(II) In addition to any other requirements set forth in this subsection (1)(c)(II), the department of personnel shall develop the step pay system so that it:

(A) Is simple and understandable to employees in the state personnel system;

(B) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2003, p. 1931, § 5, effective May 22, 2003.)

(C) Is developed with input from employees in the state personnel system, managers, and other affected parties; and

(D) to (G) Repealed.

(H) Minimizes employee pay disruptions resulting from implementation or modification of step pay.

(IV) The state personnel director shall encourage state departments and institutions of higher education to implement performance evaluations of employees that are as objective as possible and that, as soon as possible and wherever feasible, include an assessment from multiple sources of each employee's performance. Such sources shall include, where applicable, the employee's self-assessment; the employee's superiors, subordinates, and peers; and any other applicable sources of an employee's performance. The state personnel director shall adopt procedures to establish a process to resolve employee disputes related to performance evaluations that do not result in corrective or disciplinary action against the employee. Each program established by a state department or institution of higher education pursuant to this subsection (1)(c)(IV) is subject to the director's approval.

(c.5) (I) The state personnel director shall provide for the evaluation of employee performance. Each employee shall be evaluated at least once a year.

(II) Repealed.

(III) The head of each principal department and each state-supported institution of higher education, respectively, shall determine annually on May 1 whether each supervisor in the department or institution has completed the mandatory performance evaluation required for each employee in the state personnel system during the preceding twelve months. If any evaluations have still not been completed by July 1, the supervisor may be subject to demotion. If a supervisor has not timely completed annual performance evaluations for two consecutive years, the supervisor shall be demoted to a nonsupervisory position.

(IV) The state personnel director shall adopt procedures for the implementation of the provisions of this paragraph (c.5). Nothing in this paragraph (c.5) shall be construed to limit the ability of the state personnel director to provide for additional sanctions for noncompliance with the provisions of this paragraph (c.5).

(V) Repealed.

(c.7) Repealed.

(d) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2000, p. 1117, § 1, effective May 26, 2000.)

(e) The state personnel director shall sustain an employee's base salary in the event such employee's position is placed in a lower pay range due to an allocation of such employee's position, a system maintenance study of all positions in a class, a general job evaluation study of the state personnel system, or the quadrennial compensation survey for a period not to exceed three years from the effective date of such placement.

(f) Initial hiring shall typically be at the minimum rate in the pay grade. On a showing of recruiting difficulty or other unusual condition, the appointing authority may authorize the appointment of a person at a higher base salary within the pay grade.

(g) Benefits shall include insurance, retirement, and leaves of absence with or without pay and may include jury duty, military duty, or educational leaves. The state personnel director shall prescribe procedures for the types, amounts, and conditions for all leave benefits, subject to the provisions governing the benefits provided in subsection (7) of this section. The general assembly shall approve any changes to leave benefits granted by statute before such changes are implemented. The state personnel director shall prescribe by procedure any nonstatutory benefits.

(h) The state personnel director may, following consultation with the state auditor and consistent with article III and sections 13, 14, and 15 of article XII of the state constitution, establish special procedures for classifying those employees of the state auditor's office who are within the state personnel system in order to take into consideration the special situations, circumstances, and duties unique to such employees. Such special procedures shall incorporate the directives, requirements, and elements of sections 13, 14, and 15 of article XII of the state constitution, including, but not limited to, the grading and compensation of persons in the state personnel system according to standards of efficient service that are the same for all persons having like duties.

(2) Records. To facilitate the reporting of estimated costs required of the state personnel director pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection (4) of this section, the records of all positions in the state personnel system shall be current and included in the state personnel data system by January 1 of each year.

(3) Repealed.

(4) Quadrennial compensation process.

(a) The purpose of the quadrennial compensation process is to determine any necessary adjustments to state employee salaries, state contributions for group benefit plans, and step pay. The quadrennial compensation survey, based on an analysis of surveys by public or private organizations, including surveys by the state personnel director, shall include a fair sample of public and private sector employers and jobs, including areas outside the Denver metropolitan area. In order to establish confidence in the selection of surveys, the state personnel director shall meet and confer in good faith with management and state employee representatives.

(b) (I) On October 1, 2025, and on October 1 of each fourth year thereafter, the state personnel director shall prepare a quadrennial compensation report based on the analysis of surveys conducted pursuant to subsection (4)(a) of this section. The purpose of the quadrennial compensation report shall be to reflect all adjustments necessary to maintain the salary structure, state contributions for group benefit plans, and step pay for the upcoming fiscal year. The state personnel director shall also include a detailed analysis of salary ranges for all employees in the state personnel system and how employees' salaries are distributed within these ranges. The state personnel director shall also publish the report. Notwithstanding the requirement in section 24-1-136 (11)(a)(I), the requirement to submit the report required in this subsection (4)(b)(I) continues indefinitely. The state auditor is responsible for contracting with a private firm to conduct a performance audit of the procedures and application of data, including any survey conducted by the state personnel director. Beginning January 1, 2005, through January 1, 2021, and beginning on January 1, 2026, the audits shall be conducted every four years. A report shall be submitted to the governor and the general assembly by the December 30 immediately following the completion of the audit.

(II) Repealed.

(c) By September 15, 2017, and by September 15 of each year thereafter through September 15, 2021, and on or before October 1, 2022, and on or before October 1 of each year thereafter, the state personnel director shall submit recommendations and estimated costs for state employee compensation for the next fiscal year, covering salaries, state contributions for group benefit plans, and step pay, to the governor and the joint budget committee of the general assembly. The recommendations shall reflect a consideration of the results of the quadrennial compensation survey, fiscal constraints, the ability to recruit and retain state employees, appropriate adjustments with respect to state employee compensation, and those costs resulting from implementation of section 24-50-110 (1)(a). The recommendations for state contributions for group benefit plans shall specify the annual group benefit plan year established pursuant to section 24-50-604 (1)(m). The compensation report shall include the results of the surveys of public or private employers and jobs. The state personnel director shall also publish such report. This subsection (4)(c) is exempt from the provisions of section 24-1-136 (11), and the periodic reporting requirements of this section are effective until changed by the general assembly acting by bill.

(d) (I) For fiscal years commencing prior to the 2003-04 fiscal year and after the 2003-04 fiscal year, the recommended changes to salaries and any adjustments to the recommended changes made by the general assembly in the annual general appropriation act shall be effective on July 1 of the ensuing fiscal year unless the general assembly, acting by bill, establishes a different effective date for that fiscal year or the governor orders otherwise pursuant to section 24-50-109.5 and such order is adopted by the general assembly through a joint resolution declaring a fiscal emergency and approved by the governor in accordance with section 39 of article V of the Colorado constitution.

(II) For the 2003-04 and 2004-05 budget years, to the extent such changes are funded, the recommended changes in state contributions for group benefit plans and any adjustments to the recommended changes made by the general assembly in the annual general appropriation act for the next fiscal year shall be effective January 1 of the next fiscal year. For the 2005-06 fiscal year and each fiscal year thereafter, to the extent such changes are funded, the recommended changes in state contributions for group benefit plans and any adjustments to the recommended changes made by the general assembly in the annual general appropriation act for the next fiscal year shall be effective on the first day of the annual group benefit plan year established pursuant to section 24-50-604 (1)(m).

(IV) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2010, (HB 10-1181), ch. 351, p. 1624, § 13, effective June 7, 2010.)

(f) Any moneys appropriated pursuant to this subsection (4) shall not be used to achieve parity for employees outside the state personnel system.

(5) Pay plans.

(a) The state personnel director shall establish pay plans as technically and professionally necessary and shall establish any procedures and directives required to implement the state's innovative total compensation philosophy as defined in subsection (1) of this section.

(b) No employee in any pay plan may exceed an established maximum salary amount for such plan, except as provided in subsection (1)(e) of this section. The maximum monthly salary for any employee whose position is assigned to a nonmedical pay plan in effect prior to July 1, 1991, shall be calculated based on the 1991 maximum of five thousand seven hundred ninety-four dollars, plus the subsequent adjustments made under this subsection (5)(b) since July 1, 1991; except that classes in the medical pay plan requiring licensure as a physician or dentist shall be subject to a maximum monthly salary calculated on the basis of the 1991 maximum of seven thousand eight hundred twelve dollars, plus the subsequent adjustments made under this subsection (5)(b) since July 1, 1991. Effective July 1, 2010, the maximum monthly salary in the medical pay plan shall be seventeen thousand nine hundred twenty-seven dollars, plus any subsequent adjustments made under this subsection (5)(b). Such amounts shall be adjusted by the state personnel director in accordance with the change in the employment cost index for the preceding calendar year or the percentage increase in state general fund appropriations in relation to such appropriations for the preceding fiscal year, whichever is greater. In no event shall such amounts exceed the maximum found in the market as determined by the annual recommendations submitted by the state personnel director. The maximum monthly salary for the senior executive service plan shall not exceed the maximum monthly salary of any nonmedical pay plan by more than twenty-five percent.

(c) The state personnel director shall establish criteria for inclusion in the senior executive service and shall review each nominated position before it is placed in the pay plan for the senior executive service. The head of the department or agency or state auditor for employees of the state auditor's office shall make appointments to the senior executive service based on competitive selection and is responsible for the management of the employees in such plan. Any person in the senior executive service has no right to any position within the state.

(d) In the medical pay plans, there are no anniversary-based step increases. The salaries in such pay plans are based on the negotiation of an annual contract between the employee and the department head or the state auditor, when appropriate, and the amount of such salaries may increase, decrease, or remain unchanged from year to year. Any employee dismissed for failure to perform under such contract may only appeal directly to the state personnel board.

(e) In the pay plans for the senior executive service and those positions specified in section 13 (2)(a)(XI) of article XII of the state constitution, there are no anniversary-based step increases. The salaries in such pay plans are based on policies set forth by the state personnel director. The amount of such salaries may increase, decrease, or remain unchanged from year to year.

(6) Job evaluation.

(a) System maintenance studies involving the assignment of classes to increased pay grades shall be incorporated into the annual total compensation request reported to the general assembly and shall be effective on July 1 of each year unless otherwise ordered by the governor acting pursuant to section 24-50-109.5.

(b) (I) The state personnel director shall allocate individual positions to the proper classes based on an objective evaluation of the job assignment.

(II) Any employee directly affected by the allocation of the employee's position to a class in a lower pay grade under subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) may file a written appeal with the state personnel director within ten days after receiving the notice of allocation of positions. The state personnel director, or the director's designee, shall review the appeal in summary fashion on the basis of written material that may be supplemented by oral argument at the sole discretion of the director or designee. At the director's discretion, an advisory panel of qualified job evaluators may be convened to assist the director in making a decision. Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (b), the director shall issue a written decision within ninety calendar days after the receipt of a timely appeal. If the director does not issue a decision within ninety calendar days after receipt of a timely appeal, the original allocation decision shall be final. An allocation decision may be overturned only if the director finds it to have been arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to rule or law. The state personnel director shall establish a process for timely resolving appeals within the ninety-day period and the criteria for selection of and method of service upon an advisory panel. Any decision shall be subject to judicial review pursuant to section 24-4-106.

(III) When an employee who has filed an appeal with the state personnel director pursuant to subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b) also files an appeal with the state personnel board pursuant to section 24-50-123 or the Colorado civil rights division pursuant to section 24-50-125.3, the ninety-day period specified in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b) shall be tolled until there is a final agency action by the board only if the appeal filed with the board or the civil rights division arises out of the same incident as the appeal filed with the director, is filed before the expiration of the ninety-day period, and is filed before the director has issued a written decision.

(7) Leaves.

(a) No employee may retain accumulated sick leave in excess of forty-five days at the end of any fiscal year; except that any employee who had accumulated sick leave prior to July 1, 1988, shall retain such leave and may accumulate a maximum of forty-five additional days. Any excess accumulation may be converted to annual leave at the rate of five days of sick leave to one day of annual leave up to a total of two days per fiscal year. A medical certificate form from a health-care provider shall be required for absences of more than three full consecutive working days, or the use of sick leave shall be denied.

(b) The procedures of the state personnel director shall provide that no more than two days of paid leave per fiscal year shall be granted for organ, tissue, or bone marrow donation for transplants. Such leave may not be accumulated.

(c) The state personnel director may establish procedures to allow the transfer of annual leave between employees when one employee, or an immediate family member of the employee, experiences an unforeseeable life-altering event beyond the employee's control. The recipient of any annual leave shall have a minimum of one year of state service and exhausted all applicable paid leave, including any compensatory time.

(d) An employee certified as a disaster service volunteer of the American red cross may be granted paid leave for specialized disaster relief services. Such leave shall not exceed five days for a local disaster or fifteen days for a national disaster in a twelve-month period. Such leave may not be accumulated. During this period of leave, an employee shall not be deemed to be an employee for purposes of the "Workers' Compensation Act of Colorado", as provided in articles 40 to 47 of title 8, C.R.S. The leave authorized by this paragraph (d) shall run concurrent with and shall not be in addition to any paid leave of absence required by law for service by a member in a Colorado civil air patrol mission as provided in section 28-1-104, C.R.S., or for qualified volunteer service in a disaster as provided in section 24-33.5-825.

(7.5) Repealed.

(8) Payroll.

(a) Salaries paid on a monthly basis shall be paid as of the last working day of the month; except that:

(I) Salaries for the month of June shall be paid on the first working day of July; and

(II) For state personnel employees in the department of transportation hired before August 5, 1998, as amended, salaries for the month of December shall be paid on the first working day in January, unless any such employee informs the controller of the department of transportation of the employee's desire to be paid in the same manner as other employees in the state personnel system as provided in this subsection (8), in which case, the employee shall be paid in such manner.

(a.5) Salaries paid on a monthly basis for the month of June shall be paid on the first working day of July. This subsection (8)(a.5) does not apply to institutions of higher education.

(a.6) For state employment positions that are not otherwise covered by subsection (8)(a) of this section, whether or not the positions are in the state personnel system:

(I) and (II) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2015.)

(III) Salaries paid on a biweekly basis shall be paid fourteen days after the last day of the fourteen-day pay period.

(b) and (c) Repealed.

(d) Monthly salaries shall be converted to annual salary as the basis for calculating amounts due for periods other than monthly.

(e) The state personnel director or the director's designee shall regulate, approve, and review all payroll deductions other than those expressly authorized by statute or state-sponsored for all state employees. The state personnel director may assess a charge to the organization that receives the benefit from such a payroll deduction to offset the cost to the state for this service.

(f) No payroll deduction shall be made on behalf of a state employee without prior written authorization from the state personnel director or the director's designee. The state personnel director or the director's designee may authorize a payroll deduction only after receiving a written request for such payroll deduction from the employee, a department or agency representative, or an organization.

(g) Repealed.

(9) Liability.

(a) Except for gross negligence or fraud, no state employee responsible for calculating pay shall be in any manner liable for overpayment or underpayment of salaries.

(b) No employee whose salary may be increased by an allocation of the employee's position to a class in a higher pay grade shall have any claim against the state unless the final allocation decision is made effective more than one year from the time the written allocation request was received by the appropriate personnel office. In such case, the employee is entitled to the difference between the salary of the old grade and the new salary for such period over twelve months.

(10) Total compensation study including retirement benefits.

(a) By January 15, 2015, by October 1, 2025, and by October 1 every fourth year thereafter, the state personnel director shall submit to the governor and the joint budget committee, along with the quadrennial compensation report required pursuant to subsection (4)(b) of this section, an addendum with a total compensation study that includes retirement benefits. Notwithstanding the requirement in section 24-1-136 (11)(a)(I), the requirement to submit the addendum required in this subsection (10) continues indefinitely.

(b) The state personnel director shall contract with a third-party compensation consulting firm with actuarial expertise and national standing to perform the total compensation study that includes retirement benefits required pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (10). The study must compare total and component costs and values of the state's total compensation against similar workforce structures, including private companies and other states.

(c) For purposes of the addendum to the quadrennial compensation report required pursuant to this subsection (10), the public employees' retirement association created in article 51 of this title 24 shall provide access to official association member information and data under a confidentiality agreement with the third-party compensation consulting firm.

(d) The state personnel director shall notify the joint budget committee of the general assembly if he or she determines that the amount appropriated by the general assembly for the purpose of the study required pursuant to this subsection (10) is insufficient to procure a vendor to complete the scope of the work required.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "The Fair Labor Standards Act: Criminal and Civil Liability", see 14 Colo. Law. 1802 (1985).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1998 repeal and reenactment.

Former subsection (3)(g) unconstitutional under § 13(1) of art. XII, Colo. Const. because the statute's wording of "upward allocation of a position" read together with "movement of the incumbent employee with his position" is nothing but a euphemistic description of a promotion and as such must comply with the requirements of § 13(1) of art. XII, Colo. Const. for competitive tests. Colo. Ass'n of Pub. Employees v. Lamm, 677 P.2d 1350 (Colo. 1984) (decided prior to 1984 repeal and reenactment of subsection (3)).

Subparagraph (1)(a)(II) allows the state personnel director to supplement independent third party salary and benefits surveys, but does not allow the director to determine prevailing practices without using such independent third party surveys. Colo. Ass'n of Pub. Employees v. Colo. Dept. of Pers., 991 P.2d 827 (Colo. App. 1999).

Former subparagraph (2)(c)(I) language that the "state personnel director shall be responsible for the development, implementation, and administration of a total compensation program" did not grant the state personnel director any specific authority, but merely outlined general responsibilities, and did not relieve the director of the duty to comply with former subsection (5)(a) of this section. Colo. Ass'n of Pub. Employees v. Colo. Dept. of Pers., 991 P.2d 827 (Colo. App. 1999).

Subparagraph (5)(b)(I)(A) of this section requires the state personnel director to meet and confer with both the total compensation advisory council and state employee representatives. Colo. Ass'n of Pub. Employees v. Colo. Dept. of Pers., 991 P.2d 827 (Colo. App. 1999).

Challenges to salary survey results. Summary procedure employed by the department of personnel in processing state employees' challenge to salary and fringe benefits survey did not violate due process. Anderson v. State Dept. of Pers., 756 P.2d 969 (Colo. 1988) (decided under law in effect prior to 1984 amendment to subsection (5)(g) making salary recommendations not appealable).

Study conducted by the department pursuant to the department's responsibility to revise and maintain the classification system was not conducted as a salary survey, the department was not required to comply with the specific procedures applicable to salary and fringe benefit surveys under subsection (5), and plaintiffs' due process rights were not violated. The data used was sufficiently current, and reliance on it was not arbitrary and capricious nor contrary to law. Blake v. Dept. of Pers., 876 P.2d 90 (Colo. App. 1994).

Out-of-state employee compensation data is not prohibited by the constitution from being used to determine appropriate salary levels for state employees. Blake v. Dept. of Pers., 876 P.2d 90 (Colo. App. 1994).

Director's authority under paragraphs (f) and (g) of subsection (3) of this section, regarding allocation of individual positions, derives from director's duty under section 14 of article XII of the state constitution to administer day-to-day activities of state personnel system and is distinctly separate from personnel board's authority under section 13 of the said article to hear appeals from disciplinary decisions. Therefore, paragraph (g) does not intrude upon the board's exclusive jurisdiction. Renteria v. State Dept. of Pers., 811 P.2d 797 (Colo. 1991).

Director's decisions are vested with a presumption of validity. Bernstein v. Livingston, 633 P.2d 519 (Colo. App. 1981).

Burden of proof is on employee in appeal under subsection (3)(g) of this section to show that decision was arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to rule or law. Renteria v. State Dept. of Pers., 811 P.2d 797 (Colo. 1991).

Failure to provide employee with performance evaluations pursuant to § 24-50-118 does not furnish basis on which to invalidate reallocation decision. Renteria v. State Dept. of Pers., 811 P.2d 797 (Colo. 1991).

Personnel analyst's alleged lack of authority to make preliminary reallocation decision does not furnish basis on which to invalidate decision. Renteria v. State Dept. of Pers., 811 P.2d 797 (Colo. 1991).

A 1991 amendment to subsection (6) does not render moot a claim by state employees that former version of the subsection was unconstitutional. Dempsey v. Romer, 825 P.2d 44 (Colo. 1992); Dept. of Corr. Employees v. Romer, 879 P.2d 485 (Colo. App. 1994).

Authority granted under subsection (6) to state personnel director to establish pay plans justified by salary survey does not prevent the general assembly from establishing maximum monthly salary levels. Dempsey v. Romer, 825 P.2d 44 (Colo. 1992).

The statutory scheme set forth in this section does not unconstitutionally transfer legislative authority of appropriation to the state personnel director. The state constitution grants to the general assembly primary responsibility for determining the amount of revenue to be expended in the state. To construe this section as authorizing the state personnel director to control the appropriation process as it is impacted by classification and reclassification of state employees would alter the check and balance system of governmental fiscal responsibility. Dempsey v. Romer, 825 P.2d 44 (Colo. 1992).

This section does not authorize the state personnel director to establish specific levels of compensation for state employees.

The authority in subsection (6) granted the state personnel director to develop pay plans is limited by subsections (3), (4), and (5). When construed as a whole, this section clearly prohibits the director from developing pay plans compensating state employees in excess of levels established by the legislature. Dempsey v. Romer, 825 P.2d 44 (Colo. 1992).

State personnel department required to follow the statutory mandates of former subsection (4)(d)(II), where a downward adjustment in personnel salaries was a reorganization with a "fiscal impact" in that it reduced the funds expended on revenue department salaries. Alexander v. Colo. Dept. of Pers., 952 P.2d 814 (Colo. App. 1997), rev'd on other grounds, 970 P.2d 459 (Colo. 1998). (decided under law in effect prior to 1998 repeal and reenactment).

Governor, by communicating his or her approval of reorganization of statewide system of pay grades and salary rates in a letter to the joint budget committee and by submitting with the letter the annual salary and fringe benefits survey for implementing the reorganization, satisfied statutory requirements for indicating governor's approval of reorganization. Colo. Dept. of Pers. v. Alexander, 970 P.2d 459 (Colo. 1998) (decided under law in effect prior to 1998 repeal and reenactment).

This section does not prohibit the general assembly from establishing specific monthly salary levels for specific grades of employees. Dempsey v. Romer, 825 P.2d 44 (Colo. 1992).

This section does not violate equal protection standards. The monthly maximum salary level limit set forth in subsection (6) represents a reasonable exercise of the legislature's responsibility for maintaining the fiscal integrity of the state personnel system and does not discriminate between members of specific classes or grades of employees. Dempsey v. Romer, 825 P.2d 44 (Colo. 1992).

Challenge to occupational grouping of port of entry officers under subsection (3)(d). Where personnel director, by process of elimination, placed port of entry officers in the Office Support & Related Services grouping, which did not typify the primary duties performed by the officers, the director failed to comply with the statutory mandate included in subsections (3) and (5) and was ordered to modify or create an occupational grouping to accommodate the officers. Bostron v. Colo. Dept. of Pers., 860 P.2d 595 (Colo. App. 1993).

The classifications authorized in subsections (4) and (5) of this section bear a rational relationship to the state's interest in maintaining the fiscal integrity of the personnel system. Plaintiffs are not deprived of their right to equal protection of the law. Dept. of Corr. Employees v. Romer, 879 P.2d 485 (Colo. App. 1994).

Subsection (5)'s requirement that the director of the department of personnel use wage surveys conducted by nonstate public or private agencies does not violate the doctrine of separation of powers by interfering with the department of personnel's power as established in the constitution. Dept. of Corr. Employees v. Romer, 879 P.2d 485 (Colo. App. 1994).

Subsection (5)(c) does not provide that entry into senior executive service alone waives all future rights to return to a position outside the senior executive service. Subsection (5)(c) prohibits an employee's return to an outside position only while the employee serves in the senior executive service. Kirkmeyer v. Dept. of Local Affairs, 313 P.3d 562 (Colo. App. 2011).

Plaintiff whose senior executive service contract has expired lacks standing to attack subsection (5)(c) on its face because the statutory preclusion of an outside position applies to employees only while in the senior executive service, not to an employee whose senior executive service contract has expired, and plaintiff neither seeks relief for any injury suffered while she was in the senior executive service nor any longer holds a senior executive service position. Kirkmeyer v. Dept. of Local Affairs, 313 P.3d 562 (Colo. App. 2011).

Department of corrections does not have to verify the qualifications of all certified employees before implementing layoff. Halverstadt v. Dept. of Corr., 911 P.2d 654 (Colo. App. 1995).

For longevity salary increments under previous statutory provision, see Colo. Ass'n of Pub. Employees v. Colo. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 31 Colo. App. 369, 505 P.2d 54 (1972).

Subsection (8)(c) gives the state personnel director discretion to grant or deny automatic payroll deductions. State employees and their labor organizations who alleged that an executive order and resulting personnel policy deprived them of the right to even be considered for automatic payroll deductions of union dues and that the employees had unsuccessfully requested such deductions, therefore, asserted both a legally protected right and injury in fact and had standing to sue the governor. Ainscough v. Owens, 90 P.3d 851 (Colo. 2004).

Applied in Spahn v. State Dept. of Pers., 44 Colo. App. 446, 615 P.2d 66 (1980); Eliopulos v. State Pers. Bd., 705 P.2d 1035 (Colo. App. 1985) (decided under law in effect prior to 1984 repeal and reenactment).

24-50-104.5. Compliance with federal laws.

(1) The state personnel director shall establish the general criteria and processes necessary for the state personnel system to fully comply with all applicable federal employment laws. Holidays and periods of authorized paid leave falling within a regularly scheduled workweek shall be counted as work time in determining overtime for employees performing essential law enforcement, highway maintenance, and other support services directly necessary for the health, safety, and welfare of patients, residents, and inmates of state institutions or state facilities.

(2) The state personnel director may establish an internal review process of alleged violations of such federal laws. Such a review shall be conducted in summary fashion on the basis of written material. Except as otherwise provided in subsection (3) of this section, the state personnel director shall issue a written decision within ninety days after receipt of the written complaint. Any aggrieved party may also seek judicial review as specified by the applicable law.

(3) When an employee who has sought a review with the state personnel director pursuant to subsection (2) of this section also files an appeal with the state personnel board pursuant to section 24-50-123 or the Colorado civil rights division pursuant to section 24-50-125.3, the ninety-day period specified in subsection (2) of this section shall be tolled until there is a final agency action by the board only if the appeal filed with the board or the civil rights division arises out of the same incident as the review sought with the director, is filed before the expiration of the ninety-day period, and is filed before the director has issued a written decision.

ANNOTATION

This section is ambiguous as to whether an employer has the discretion to "de-authorize" previously authorized leave by cancelling or withdrawing its authorization. However, it is clear that the meaning of "authorized paid leave" in this section is time during which an employee has received formal approval to be away from work during scheduled work hours. Idowu v. Nesbitt, 2014 COA 97, 338 P.3d 1078.

A state agency may not retroactively cancel previously approved and taken leave time of essential state employees to avoid having to pay the employees overtime compensation pursuant to this section. It is clear that the general assembly intended to ensure that essential employees are appropriately compensated when they have to work beyond forty hours at unexpected or unusual work times, even if they did not actually work some of their normally scheduled hours that week. Idowu v. Nesbitt, 2014 COA 97, 338 P.3d 1078.

This section does not permit the state personnel director to enact regulations to administer the statute beyond ensuring that the state personnel system complies with federal employment laws. Idowu v. Nesbitt, 2014 COA 97, 338 P.3d 1078.

24-50-109.5. Fiscal emergencies - emergency orders.

(1) As used in this section, "fiscal emergency" means any crisis concerning the fiscal condition of state government which is caused by a significant general fund revenue shortfall or significant reductions in cash or federal funds received by the state, which threatens the orderly operation of state government and the health, safety, or welfare of the citizens of the state, and which is declared a fiscal emergency by joint resolution adopted by the general assembly and approved by the governor in accordance with section 39 of article V of the state constitution.

(2) With the advice and assistance of the state personnel director, the governor shall take such actions as necessary to be utilized by each principal department and each institution of higher education, including the Auraria higher education center established in article 70 of title 23, to reduce state personnel expenditures in the event of a fiscal emergency. Such actions include, but need not be limited to, separations, voluntary furloughs, mandatory furloughs, suspension of increases in salary and state contributions for group benefit plans, suspension of step pay, job-sharing, hiring freezes, forced reallocation of vacant positions, or a combination thereof. Any suspension of salary increases or increases in state contributions for group benefit plans shall apply statewide to all employees in the state personnel system. If mandatory furloughs are utilized in any principal department or institution of higher education, including the Auraria higher education center established in article 70 of title 23, such furloughs shall be implemented by each appointing authority so that all employees under such authority, regardless of status, position, or level of employment, are furloughed for the same length of time, consistent with section 24-2-103 (2). Employees of the following agencies and employees with duties as described shall not be subject to mandatory furlough: The Colorado state patrol, correctional officers, police officers, employees of the department of human services providing hands-on care, and employees providing hands-on nursing care.

(3) Promptly after the adoption of a joint resolution declaring a fiscal emergency, the head of each principal department and the governing board of each institution of higher education and the Auraria higher education center established in article 70 of title 23, C.R.S., shall order into effect, on an emergency basis and in accordance with the actions taken by the governor pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, those measures they find necessary and appropriate to reduce the personnel expenditures of their departments or institutions to enable them to operate within available revenues. No such order shall have an effect beyond the time period specified in the joint resolution declaring the fiscal emergency.

ANNOTATION

Suspension of positions within the division of disaster emergency services to decrease general fund expenditures is warranted regardless of whether the funding source of the positions is the general fund or federal funds. Bardsley v. Dept. of Pub. Safety, 870 P.2d 641 (Colo. App. 1994).

24-50-110. Budget control - personal services.

(1) In order to provide controls and proper identification of personal services costs necessary to carry out the policy of the state regarding compensation of state employees, the following administrative and fiscal procedures apply:

(a) Whenever the authorities or responsibilities within state government are altered by the general assembly, executive order of the governor, or action of an executive director of a principal department or whenever in the course of administering the state personnel system the state personnel director conducts a study of positions or classes in the state personnel system, the state personnel director shall estimate the increased costs of personal services, if any, resulting from such actions and shall submit such estimated costs to the joint budget committee of the general assembly and to the office of state planning and budgeting.

(b) In their annual budget requests, the heads of all principal departments of state government shall set forth separately the projected costs of personal services arising from anticipated classification reviews, promotions, and other increases in compensation or bonuses for employees in their departments. The costs of personal services shall include any step pay.

(c) No funds appropriated to any principal department for purposes other than personal services shall be used for personal services; except that the head of a principal department may use such funds for temporary personal services upon a showing of emergency or unusual circumstances where such use is necessary to the proper functioning of the department. Each such use shall be approved in advance by the governor and shall be reported to the general assembly.

(d) (I) Except as set forth in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (d), each principal department shall annually reconcile the number of positions it has authorized for the prior fiscal year with the number of appropriated full-time equivalent employees for the same fiscal year. On or before September 1 of each year, a department shall submit a copy of such reconciliation to the department of personnel. On or before October 1 of each year, the department of personnel shall prepare a report that consolidates all of the departmental reconciliations and provide the report to the office of state planning and budgeting and the joint budget committee. The department of personnel has the authority to abolish any nonappropriated or vacant classified positions identified in this reconciliation.

(II) On or before September 1 of each year, the department of higher education shall report to the department of personnel the number of positions authorized at each institution of higher education, but the department is not subject to the reconciliation requirement set forth in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (d).

(III) This paragraph (d) is exempt from the provisions of section 24-1-136 (11), and the periodic reporting requirements of this section are effective until changed by the general assembly acting by bill.

24-50-112.5. Selection system - definitions - rules - report - repeal.

(1) (a) The state personnel director shall establish procedures and directives necessary to implement a merit-based statewide selection system to be used uniformly by all principal departments. Such procedures and directives shall include, but are not limited to, procedures for acceptance of applications, job qualification standards for candidates, extension of eligible lists, consistent evaluation and examination procedures for equivalent job classifications, and development and administration standards for the comparative analysis process.

(b) (I) Appointments and promotions to positions shall be based on a fair and open comparative analysis of candidates based on objective criteria. Selections shall be made without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, ancestry, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, or political affiliation and without regard to sex or disability except as otherwise provided by law or subsection (8) of this section.

(II) As used in this subsection (1)(b):

(A) "Protective hairstyle" includes such hairstyles as braids, locs, twists, tight coils or curls, cornrows, Bantu knots, Afros, and headwraps.

(B) "Race" includes hair texture, hair type, hair length, or a protective hairstyle that is commonly or historically associated with race.

(2) Employment lists.

(a) Employment lists shall be used in the following order of priority: Departmental reemployment lists, promotional eligible lists, and eligible lists. Where there is no departmental reemployment list, an appointing authority may consider another department's reemployment list, together with eligible lists. Departmental reemployment lists shall contain the names of certified employees in a given department laid off for lack of work, lack of funds, or reorganization.

(b) Candidates shall be placed on an eligible list and ranked based on the comparative analysis. Qualified candidates shall receive veterans' preference as prescribed by section 15 of article XII of the state constitution and subsection (7) of this section. The person to be appointed to any position under the state personnel system shall be one of the six persons ranking highest on the eligible list or such lesser number as qualify.

(3) Comparative analysis of candidates.

(a) Each appointing authority shall develop the comparative analysis of candidates based on objective criteria to be used by the appointing authority. A comparative analysis must be a professionally accepted standard that compares specific job-related knowledge, skills, abilities, behaviors, and other competencies. A comparative analysis may include, but is not limited to, a written examination, oral board, or search committee. Only qualified applicants shall be included in a comparative analysis process. Applicants shall not be rejected solely because they do not have the education required, except where education is a prerequisite for a profession or is required by law. Where education is not a prerequisite or is not required by law, an applicant's experience shall be considered.

(b) Promotional comparative analysis shall be limited to qualified employees, including persons on reemployment lists. Performance evaluations may be utilized as part of a promotional comparative analysis plan.

(4) Appeals.

(a) Any person directly affected by the selection and comparative analysis process action may file a written appeal with the state personnel director. The appeal must be filed within ten days after the administration of the comparative analysis. The director or a designee of the director shall review the appeal in summary fashion on the basis of written material submitted in connection with such appeal, which may be supplemented by oral argument at the discretion of the director or designee.

(b) The state personnel director may convene an advisory panel of qualified human resource selection professionals, with one member selected by the aggrieved person, to assist the director in making a decision. Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (d) of this subsection (4), the director shall issue a written decision within ninety days after receipt of a timely appeal. The selection and comparative analysis process action may be overturned only if the director finds the action to have been arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to rule or law. If the director fails to issue a decision within said ninety-day period, the original comparative analysis and outcome shall be final. A written decision on any appeal filed pursuant to this subsection (4) or the outcome of an appeal resulting from the failure to issue such a decision shall be subject to judicial review pursuant to section 24-4-106, unless the matter is appealed to the state personnel board pursuant to paragraph (e) of this subsection (4).

(c) The state personnel director shall establish a process for timely resolving appeals within the ninety-day period and criteria for advisory panel selection and service. The process for resolving appeals shall specify that if an employee who has filed an appeal with the state personnel director also files an appeal with the state personnel board pursuant to section 24-50-123 or the Colorado civil rights division pursuant to section 24-50-125.3, only if the appeal filed with the board or the civil rights division arises out of the same incident as the appeal filed with the director, and if the appeal is filed before the expiration of the ninety-day period and before the director has issued a written decision, the ninety-day period shall be tolled until there is a final agency action by the board. The board shall establish rules for certification of a person to a position when an appeal is pending relative to the selection and comparative analysis process for that position.

(d) When an employee who has filed an appeal with the state personnel director pursuant to this subsection (4) also files an appeal with the state personnel board pursuant to section 24-50-123 or the Colorado civil rights division pursuant to section 24-50-125.3, the ninety-day period specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (4) shall be tolled until there is a final agency action by the board only if the appeal filed with the board or the civil rights division arises out of the same incident as the appeal filed with the director, is filed before the expiration of the ninety-day period, and is filed before the director has issued a written decision.

(e) After the state personnel director's final decision pursuant to this subsection (4), any person directly affected by the comparative analysis process may file a written appeal with the state personnel board. The petition must be filed within ten days after the state personnel director's final decision has been received by the affected person. The board may grant the petition only when it appears that the decision of the appointing authority violates the comparative analysis standards set forth in this section, in any other provision of law, or in any rules or procedures relating to the comparative analysis process. The board shall review and summarily grant or deny a petition within one hundred twenty days of receipt of the petition. Any petition granted shall be determined in accordance with section 24-50-125.4.

(5) Appointments.

(a) Only a qualified candidate shall be appointed to a position in the state personnel system. A qualified employee may transfer between positions in the same class or to a different class at the same pay grade. The gaining organization shall assume all liability for the employee's base salary, credited leave accruals, and other applicable personnel system benefits.

(b) The board shall establish probationary periods for all persons who are initially appointed or promoted into a different position or who are in a position reallocated to a higher pay grade. The probationary period shall not exceed twelve months for any class or position. The person shall be certified to such class or position after satisfactory completion of any probationary period as demonstrated by performance evaluations. Unsatisfactory performance shall be grounds for dismissal of the person by the appointing authority during such probationary period without right of appeal. Any certified employee who is promoted to a different class or position and who fails to perform satisfactorily during the probationary period shall be reverted to a position in the former certified class or be disciplined.

(6) State auditor's employees. The state personnel director may, following consultation with the state auditor and consistent with the principles of separation of powers, establish special procedures governing appointment and promotion of employees of the state auditor's office. The procedures shall address the special situations, circumstances, and duties unique to employees of the state auditor's office. All procedures shall be consistent with sections 13, 14, and 15 of article XII of the state constitution.

(7) Veterans' preference for spouse.

(a) If a candidate is the spouse of a disabled veteran who is unable to work, and who can provide proof of such disability pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (7), and who is eligible for preference in hiring pursuant to section 15 of article XII of the state constitution, the candidate is eligible for preference in hiring as follows:

(I) If a numerical method is used for the comparative analysis of candidates, five points shall be added to the comparative analysis score of the candidate.

(II) If a nonnumerical method is used for the comparative analysis of candidates, the candidate shall be added to the interview eligible list.

(b) To be eligible for preference pursuant to this subsection (7), a candidate who is the spouse of a disabled veteran must provide a letter, obtained by the disabled veteran from the United States department of veterans affairs, certifying that the veteran is a disabled veteran and is unable to work due to the nature of his or her disability as determined by the United States department of veterans affairs. For purposes of this subsection (7), the certification letter is valid for twelve months following the date of issuance by the United States department of veterans affairs. In addition, the candidate must provide proof that he or she is the legally recognized spouse of the veteran who obtained the letter pursuant to this paragraph (b).

(c) A candidate is not eligible for preference pursuant to this subsection (7) with respect to a promotional opportunity. Any promotional opportunity that is also open to persons other than employees for whom such appointment would be a promotion shall be considered a promotional opportunity for the purposes of this paragraph (c).

(8) Hiring preference pilot program for persons with disabilities.

(a) (I) The executive director of the department of labor and employment, in collaboration with the state personnel director, shall develop and implement a hiring preference pilot program for persons with disabilities applying for a position in the department.

(II) When the department uses a nonnumerical method under the pilot program for the comparative analysis of candidates for a position in the department, the department shall add all applicants who are eligible for the preference for people with disabilities and who meet all minimum and special qualifications under this subsection (8) to the referral list for interview.

(III) When the department uses a numerical method under the pilot program for the comparative analysis of candidates for a position in the department, the department shall add five points to the final score of the applicant when all elements of the selection process are completed, but prior to referral of an applicant for interview for the position.

(IV) An applicant is eligible for a preference under this subsection (8) if the candidate:

(A) Meets the minimum qualifications or any other requirements for the position;

(B) Is a person with a disability, as defined in the federal "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", 42 U.S.C. sec. 12101 et seq., as amended, who has voluntarily identified as a person with a disability on the application for the position and who has requested to participate in the pilot program; and

(C) Submits proof of a disability in a form and manner specified under the pilot program.

(V) An applicant may be given both the veteran's preference and a disability preference, but an applicant is not eligible for both a disabled veteran's preference and a disability preference.

(b) The pilot program is not available to a candidate seeking a promotion or to a person currently employed by the state.

(c) When the pilot program is developed under this subsection (8):

(I) The state personnel director shall adopt or amend rules as necessary to enable the implementation of the pilot program;

(II) The department shall implement the pilot program no later than January 1, 2023;

(III) The state personnel director may allow other principal departments to implement the pilot program for appointments to positions within those departments; and

(IV) The pilot program may not be used by any principal department after December 31, 2027.

(d) By November 1, 2027, any principal department that participates in the pilot program shall submit a report to the state personnel director. The state personnel director shall compile all reports and submit one final report to the house business affairs and labor committee and the senate business, labor, and technology committee, or any successor committees. The report must include at least the following information:

(I) The period when the pilot program was used by the department;

(II) The number of applicants for appointments within the department that opted to participate in the pilot program;

(III) The number of persons with disabilities who were appointed to positions within the department; and

(IV) Any other determining factors of data that may affect the implementation of a permanent program.

(e) As used in this subsection (8):

(I) "Department" means the department of labor and employment.

(II) "Pilot program" means the hiring preference pilot program, created in this subsection (8), for people with disabilities.

(f) This subsection (8) is repealed, effective December 31, 2027.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 12-50-112.5 is similar to §§ 24-50-111, 24-50-113, 24-50-115, and 24-50-121 as they existed prior to the 2001 amendment to part 1 of article 50 of title 24, which resulted in the relocation of provisions, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

Provision requiring appointment of person highest in eligible list constitutional. The provisions requiring the appointment to particular places in the personnel system of persons standing highest in the eligible list are not in conflict with § 1 of art. IV, Colo. Const. People ex rel. Walker v. Capp, 61 Colo. 396, 158 P. 143 (1916).

The appointment of one not standing highest in the list is void. People ex rel. Walker v. Capp, 61 Colo. 396, 158 P. 143 (1916).

A "necessary ingredient" of the "rule of three" is the appointing authority's right to select any of the highest three applicants. Conde v. State Dept. of Pers., 872 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1994).

So long as the integrity of the competitive examination process was not compromised and so long as the appointing authority's decision did not rest on factors such as race, color, creed, or gender, it is certainly not clearly established that, under the state personnel system, an official must select a particular applicant. Conde v. State Dept. of Pers., 872 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1994).

Because subsection (2)(b) grants the appointing authority discretion to choose among the three highest ranking applicants for a position, a public employee has no due process right to be selected for promotion. Teigen v. Renfrow, 511 F.3d 1072 (10th Cir. 2007).

Method of testing rests within the discretion of the board, with which the court cannot interfere except in the clearest case of abuse. Hewitt v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 114 Colo. 561, 167 P.2d 961 (1946) (decided under former law).

Director's authority to establish uniform procedures for use by principal departments in determining when promotional examinations may be used is constitutional under § 14 of art. XII of Colo. Const. Colorado Ass'n of Pub. Employees v. Lamm, 677 P.2d 1350 (Colo. 1984).

Employees are not permanently frozen into the same position just because they are hired under the state personnel system. State government faces an ever-changing array of social problems, and agencies must have the flexibility to create solutions to those problems, including transferring workers to different positions as circumstances warrant. Dept. of Human Servs. v. May, 1 P.3d 159 (Colo. 2000).

Subsection (6) establishing probationary periods for new employees, those transferred to different positions at their request, and those reallocated to a higher pay grade is constitutional and consistent with § 13(10) of art. XII, Colo. Const., which mandates probationary periods for newly appointed employees. Colorado Ass'n of Pub. Employees v. Lamm, 677 P.2d 1350 (Colo. 1984) (decided prior to 1984 amendment).

Employee was a probationary employee. Director of personnel's interpretation of rules adopted by the state personnel board which relate to the satisfactory completion of a twelve-month probationary period before certification status can be obtained is authorized pursuant to the director's authority under Colo. Const. art. XII, § 14(4), and his interpretation that the probationary period may be extended for the length of time that an employee is off the payroll for any reason is neither arbitrary nor capricious. Therefore, the board's determination that the employee was a probationary employee was not in error where the expiration of the twelve-month period occurred while the employee was on an authorized leave without pay. Zurek v. Dept. of State, 754 P.2d 390 (Colo. App. 1987).

Evidence of unsatisfactory performance. Implicit in department witness's statement that employee would not have been dismissed if he had performed his reassigned duties is that employee was reassigned because of unsatisfactory performance of his original duties. Zurek v. Dept. of State, 754 P.2d 390 (Colo. App. 1987).

Probationary employee is entitled to a hearing on an appeal to the board of a dismissal for any disciplinary grounds other than unsatisfactory job performance. Where employee was discharged for making false or deceptive statements on his employment application regarding both his reasons for leaving his previous employment and his criminal record and for failing to report having been charged with the same crime after beginning employment with the department and the employee appealed his discharge, the employee is entitled to a full evidentiary hearing on the merits of his appeal. Maurello v. Dept. of Corr., 804 P.2d 280 (Colo. App. 1990).

Probationary employee entitled to predisciplinary meeting prior to discharge for unsatisfactory performance because of personnel board rule and was entitled to back pay with offset for substitute earnings or unemployment compensation during remaining probationary period. Dept. of Health v. Donahue, 690 P.2d 243 (Colo. 1984).

Employee's failure to receive a predisciplinary meeting prior to employee's reversion to a former position from a higher position violated employee's procedural rights, but reinstatement to higher position with full back pay is a windfall for the employee since reversion was due to unsatisfactory performance. McCoy v. Dept. of Soc. Serv., 796 P.2d 77 (Colo. App. 1990).

Absent a disciplinary hearing, department must revert an employee to previously held position following an unsuccessful probationary period or, if no appropriate vacancy exists, accord employee any retention rights employee may have pursuant to § 24-50-124 and any rules promulgated pursuant to that section. Martinez v. Dept. of Pers., 159 P.3d 631 (Colo. App. 2006).

Statute is rendered meaningless if an appointing authority can delay filling a position by causing funds to be unavailable in order to deny a former employee's right to reemployment. Ehrle v. Dept. of Admin., 844 P.2d 1267 (Colo. App. 1992).

24-50-114. Temporary appointments - term - tenure.

(1) Pending the availability of an eligible list determined by the state personnel director to be appropriate for a class, the appointing authority, with the prior approval of the state personnel director, may fill a vacancy for a permanent position by temporary appointment of a qualified, certified employee in accordance with the promotional policy established by the board. In the absence of such an eligible employee, temporary appointments of qualified persons may be made from without the state personnel system. A temporary appointment shall not exceed nine months in length, except for personal services contracts as permitted by part 5 of this article. An appointing authority must wait at least four months between temporary appointments for the same position that are made pursuant to this subsection (1). If the vacancy is for a permanent position, an eligible list shall be established within the nine-month period following the temporary appointment.

(2) The state personnel director may, by rule, authorize principal department heads and presidents of colleges and universities to employ persons from outside the state personnel system on a temporary basis while an eligible list is being provided or in emergency or seasonable situations nonpermanent in nature, but in each case the period of employment shall not exceed nine months, except for personal services contracts as permitted by part 5 of this article.

(3) Temporary appointees from outside the state personnel system shall have none of the protection of tenure afforded by this part 1 to certified employees.

(4) In case of emergency threatening the public health, welfare, or safety, a temporary appointment may be made without prior approval of the state personnel director, but such appointment may not continue without such approval for more than fifteen days.

(5) Except as provided in subsection (4) of this section, the prior approval of all temporary appointments to permanent positions shall be obtained from the state personnel director before such temporary appointments are made. The director may not delegate the authority to approve such temporary appointments. If any such appointment is made before the prior approval of the director is obtained, the appointment shall be considered void from the beginning and the person appointed to such position shall be immediately terminated.

Editor's note: Section 14 of chapter 260, Session Laws of Colorado 2012, provides that amendments to subsections (1) and (2) are effective upon proclamation of the vote by the governor only if House Concurrent Resolution 12-1001 is passed by a vote of the people at the next general election. That resolution was approved by a vote of the registered electors of Colorado on November 6, 2012. Amendments to subsections (1) and (2) were effective upon the proclamation of the Governor, January 1, 2013. The vote count for the measure was as follows:

NO: 988,542

Cross references: In 2012, subsections (1) and (2) were amended by the "Modernization of the State Personnel System Act". For the short title and the legislative declaration, see sections 1 and 2 of chapter 260, Session Laws of Colorado 2012.

ANNOTATION

Subsection (2), which provides for temporary appointments in its entirety, is constitutional. Temporary appointment for a period of time exceeding six months was not unconstitutional under Colo. Const. art. XII, §§ 13 (7) and 13 (9). Neoplan USA Corp. v. Indus. Claim Appeals Office, 778 P.2d 312 (Colo. App. 1989).

Constitutionality. Subsection (2) is unconstitutional to the extent the statute purports to authorize temporary appointments for periods longer than the six calendar months permitted under § 13 (9) of art. XII, Colo. Const. Colorado Ass'n of Pub. Employees v. Lamm, 677 P.2d 1350 (Colo. 1984).

Subsection (5) does not apply in case in which hearing officer was appointed on a temporary basis to fill a temporary need and was not appointed to a position which was to be permanent. Neoplan USA Corp. v. Indus. Claim Appeals Office, 778 P.2d 312 (Colo. App. 1989).

Temporary employee has no right to a hearing or to hold his position "during efficient service". Such rights are given only to those appointed according to merit and fitness as ascertained by a competitive examination. Wilson v. People ex rel. Cochrane, 71 Colo. 456, 208 P. 479 (1922).

Temporary appointment ceases upon certification of permanent appointee. A temporary appointment to office under the state personnel system ceases on the date upon which the board certifies to the appointing power a person for permanent appointment upon completion of an eligible list. Roberts v. People ex rel. Duncan, 81 Colo. 338, 255 P. 461 (1927).

ANNOTATION

Employee chargeable with knowledge of agency's rules. Where a public employee is issued a copy of the rules of the agency by whom he is employed, he is chargeable with full knowledge of the contents of the rules. Jones v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 176 Colo. 25, 489 P.2d 320 (1971).

A finding of willful misconduct is not limited to a violation of specific rules or standards. Barrett v. Univ. of Colo., 851 P.2d 258 (Colo. App. 1993).

"Willful misconduct" does not require an actual intent to wrong the employer. A reckless disregard of the employee's duty to the employer is sufficient. Barrett v. Univ. of Colo., 851 P.2d 258 (Colo. App. 1993).

Board rule prohibiting "willful misconduct" was not void for vagueness, nor was ALJ's application of that rule arbitrary, where hiring official's racially derogatory remarks violated a clearly established policy of nondiscrimination in hiring. Barrett v. Univ. of Colo., 851 P.2d 258 (Colo. App. 1993).

Securing promotion for financial consideration clearly violates Denver police department's rules. Although it is true that rules of the Denver police department are not so explicit as to specifically advise one of everything he may do and still be classified as an officer and a gentleman, and those things he may not do without loss of that classification, the rules and regulations make it sufficiently clear that the securing or insuring of one's promotion under the personnel system for a financial consideration violates one or more of the rules and regulations. Cain v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 159 Colo. 360, 411 P.2d 778 (1966).

Hiring official's racially derogatory remarks were not constitutionally protected speech where they were not directed toward policies pertaining to discrimination, did not tend or seek to expose discriminatory practices, and merely reflected the possible racial bias of an employee in the context of the employer's hiring process. Barrett v. Univ. of Colo., 851 P.2d 258 (Colo. App. 1993).

24-50-117. Prohibited activities of employees.

No employee shall engage in any employment or activity which creates a conflict of interest with his duties as a state employee. The board shall promulgate general rules on incompatible activities, conflicts of interest, and employment outside the normal course of duties of state employees.

State funds shall not be expended for the training of employees in the state personnel system without the approval of the state personnel director.

(2) The executive director of the department of personnel shall establish any fees necessary to pay for the direct and indirect costs of the training programs specified in subsection (1) of this section. All moneys collected shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the professional development center cash fund, which fund is hereby created. The moneys in the fund shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly for the direct and indirect costs of establishing and maintaining the training programs specified in subsection (1) of this section. All interest derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund. 24-50-123. Grievances - review.

(1) The board shall, by rule promulgated in accordance with article 4 of this title, adopt uniform procedures to be used by all principal departments and institutions of higher education in developing grievance processes for their employees. The grievance procedures shall provide an orderly system of review for all grievances and shall define matters that are subject to such grievance procedures.

(2) Matters arising under sections 24-50-125 and 24-50-104 (1)(c) shall not be subject to a grievance procedure under this section.

(3) The decision of the appointing authority shall be final; except that an employee may petition the board for review. The board may grant the petition only when it appears that the decision of the appointing authority violates an employee's rights under the federal or state constitution, part 4 of article 34 of this title, article 50.5 of this title, or the grievance procedures adopted pursuant to subsection (1) of this section. The board shall review and summarily grant or deny a petition within one hundred twenty days of receipt of the petition; except that petitions filed with the board that result in an investigation pursuant to section 24-50-125.3 or 24-50.5-104 are exempt from the one-hundred-twenty-day review requirement. Any petition granted shall be determined in accordance with section 24-50-125.4.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "ADR at the State Personnel Board", see 18 Colo. Law. 911 (1989).

Limitation on state personnel board's authority to reverse grievance decisions made by appointing authorities is not an unconstitutional interference with the board's constitutional authority to set rules governing grievances under § 14 of art. XII, Colo. Const. Colo. Ass'n of Pub. Employees v. Lamm, 677 P.2d 1350 (Colo. 1984).

The state personnel board has discretion as to whether to hold hearings on appeals of grievances brought pursuant to this section. Rojhani v. Arenson, 929 P.2d 23 (Colo. App. 1996).

The decision to eliminate a public safety sergeant position and to replace armed public safety officers with unarmed guards on a university police force had an adverse effect on complainants' working conditions, but the layoffs were due to the overall reorganization, not the decision to contract out some of the police work. Therefore, the complainants' injuries are not measured by the pay and benefits they would have received in the same positions but by the pay and benefits they would have received if they had continued employment in the available positions. Sutton v. Univ. of S. Colo., 870 P.2d 650 (Colo. App. 1994).

Public safety sergeant who is laid off from a university police force due to a reorganization is not entitled to reinstatement to the position of public safety officer, unless complainant shows that had there been no contracting out, complainant reasonably could have expected to be advanced to the position of public safety officer. Sutton v. Univ. of S. Colo., 870 P.2d 650 (Colo. App. 1994).

Substantially equivalent employment. In determining if the university's unconditional offer to re-employ a former public safety sergeant who was laid off due to reorganization as a public officer is substantially equivalent employment, a comparison must be made between the unarmed guard position he would have occupied if there had been no contracting out and the public safety position that was offered. Sutton v. Univ. of S. Colo., 870 P.2d 650 (Colo. App. 1994).

24-50-124. Reduction of employees - definition.

(1) (a) When certified employees who, as of January 1, 2013, are within five years from being eligible for full retirement pursuant to section 24-51-602 (1)(a) are separated from state service, they shall be separated or demoted according to procedures established by rule. Such procedures shall require that consideration be given to performance evaluations of the employees and seniority within the total state service. Such employees shall have retention rights throughout the principal department in which they are employed unless the head of the department requests, and the board approves, in advance, limitation of retention rights to major divisions, institutions, or colleges within the principal department.

(b) The state personnel director shall establish procedures, by rule, for the separation or demotion of any certified employees not covered by paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) from state service due to lack of work, lack of funds, or reorganization. Such procedures shall require that consideration be given to performance evaluations of an employee and seniority within the total state service.

(c) The appointing authorities from all departments shall consider placing a certified employee who has been identified pursuant to the procedures established pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (1) as a person to be separated from state service into a funded, vacant position for which the employee is qualified. The state personnel director shall establish by rule procedures for such placements.

(d) (I) The state personnel director shall establish by rule a layoff plan that may be used by a department to provide postemployment compensation or other benefits for certified employees separated from state service. The plan may include, but is not limited to, a hiring preference, payment towards the continuation of health benefits for a specified time after separation, tuition or educational training vouchers, severance pay, or placement on a departmental reemployment list.

(II) The postemployment compensation or other benefits may be offered through a separation agreement.

(III) In no case shall the total value of the postemployment compensation and other benefits authorized pursuant to this paragraph (d) exceed an amount equal to one week of an employee's salary for every year of his or her service, up to a maximum of eighteen weeks of the employee's salary.

(IV) A certified employee is not entitled to receive any postemployment compensation or other benefits pursuant to this paragraph (d).

(2) A certified employee who is separated from state service shall be placed on a departmental reemployment list for a period of not less than one year, unless the employee waives the right to be so placed as part of a separation agreement.

(3) As used in this section, "separated from state service" means separated from state service due to lack of work, lack of funds, or reorganization.

Veterans' preference provision of § 15 of art. XII, Colo. but the layoffs were due to the overall reorganization, not the decision to contract out some of the police work. Therefore, the complainants' injuries are not measured by the pay and benefits they would have received in the same positions but by the pay and benefits they would have received if they had continued employment in the available positions. Sutton v. Univ. of S. Colo., 870 P.2d 650 (Colo. App. 1994).

Public safety sergeant who is laid off from a university police force due to a reorganization is not entitled to reinstatement to the position of public safety officer, unless complainant shows that had there been no contracting out, complainant reasonably could have expected to be advanced to the position of public safety officer. Sutton v. Univ. of S. Colo., 870 P.2d 650 (Colo. App. 1994).

Substantially equivalent employment. In determining if the university's unconditional offer to re-employ a former public safety sergeant who was laid off due to reorganization as a public officer is substantially equivalent employment, a comparison must be made between the unarmed guard position he would have occupied if there had been no contracting out and the public safety position that was offered. Sutton v. Univ. of S. Colo., 870 P.2d 650 (Colo. App. 1994).

Where a public employee has a property interest in continued employment, the employee is not deprived of that interest when his or her position is abolished. State laws creating the property interest, while usually giving rise to a legitimate expectation that disciplinary termination may not occur without adequate procedures, do not create a legitimate expectation that the employee's position will never be abolished. Velasquez v. Dept. of Higher Educ., 93 P.3d 540 (Colo. App. 2003).

If due process does not require a hearing at all when a public employee's job is abolished, then affording a hearing but placing the burden of proof on the employee complaining of job abolishment cannot offend due process. Velasquez v. Dept. of Higher Educ., 93 P.3d 540 (Colo. App. 2003).

24-50-125. Disciplinary proceedings - appeals - hearings - procedure - definitions.

(1) A person certified to any class or position in the state personnel system may be dismissed, suspended, or otherwise disciplined by the appointing authority upon written findings of failure to comply with standards of efficient service or competence or for willful misconduct, willful failure or inability to perform his duties, or final conviction of a felony or any other offense which involves moral turpitude, or written charges thereof may be filed by any person with the appointing authority, which shall be promptly determined. In considering the conviction of a crime, the board shall be governed by the provisions of section 24-5-101.

(1.5) (a) In considering any disciplinary action pursuant to this section against an employee who is certified to any class or position in the state personnel system for engaging in violent behavior or a threat of violent behavior against another person while on duty, the appointing authority shall give predominant weight to the safety of the other person over the interests of the employee. For purposes of this subsection (1.5), "violent behavior" means any act or threat of physical, verbal, or psychological aggression or the destruction or abuse of property by any individual. A threat may include a veiled, conditional, or direct threat in verbal, written, electronic, or gestural form, resulting in intimidation, harassment, harm, or endangerment to the safety of another person or property.

(b) If the appointing authority finds that the employee has engaged in violent behavior or a threat of violent behavior against another person, the appointing authority may take such disciplinary action as the appointing authority deems appropriate, up to and including termination, taking into consideration the harm or risk of harm to the person created by the employee's actions. Nothing in this subsection (1.5)(b) affects the constitutional or statutory due process rights afforded to an employee who is certified to any class or position in the state personnel system.

(c) This subsection (1.5) applies regardless of whether the employee has been charged with or convicted of a crime.

(2) Any certified employee disciplined under subsection (1) of this section shall be notified in writing by the appointing authority, by certified letter or hand delivery, no later than five days following the effective date of the action, of the action taken, the specific charges giving rise to such action, and the employee's right of appeal to the board. The notice shall include a statement setting forth the time limit for filing an appeal with the board, the address of the board, the requirement that the appeal be in writing, and the availability of a standard appeal form. Upon failure of the appointing authority to notify the employee in accordance with this subsection (2), the employee shall be compensated in full for the five-day period and until proper notification is received.

(3) Within ten days after the receipt of the notification required by subsection (2) of this section or within such additional time as may be permitted by the board in unusual cases for good cause shown, the employee may petition the board for a hearing upon the action taken. Upon receipt of such petition, the board shall grant a hearing to the employee. If the employee fails to petition the board within ten days or within such additional time granted by the board, the action of the appointing authority shall be final and not further reviewable.

(4) The hearing shall be held within ninety days of receipt of the employee's appeal pursuant to the provisions of section 24-50-125.4. The employee shall be entitled to representation of his or her own choosing at his or her own expense, consistent with the rules of the Colorado supreme court concerning the unauthorized practice of law. The board shall cause a verbatim record of the proceedings to be taken and shall maintain the record. At the conclusion of the hearing, but not later than forty-five days after the conclusion of the hearing, the board shall make public written findings of fact and conclusions of law affirming, modifying, or reversing the action of the appointing authority, and the appointing authority shall thereupon promptly execute the findings of the board.

(5) In addition, upon request by the employee or the employee's representative and within the period provided in section 24-50-125.4 (2), the board shall hold a hearing on an appeal for any certified employee in the state personnel system who protests any action taken that adversely affects the employee's current base pay as defined by board rule, status, or tenure. A probationary employee shall be entitled to all the same rights to a hearing as a certified employee; except that such probationary employee shall not have the right to a hearing to review any disciplinary action taken pursuant to subsection (1) of this section while a probationary employee. This subsection (5) shall not apply to appeals brought pursuant to section 24-50-104.

(6) Disciplinary hearings shall be limited to those specified in this section.

(7) Failure, without good cause, of an employee or his representative to appear at a hearing shall be deemed a withdrawal of his appeal, and the action of the appointing authority shall be final. Failure, without good cause, of the appointing authority or his representative to appear at a hearing shall be deemed cause to dismiss the case and to award the employee all rights, salaries, and benefits as though the employee had won the appeal.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For article, "Constitutional Law", which discusses Tenth Circuit decisions dealing with due process rights in the termination of government employees, see 65 Den. U. L. Rev. 519 (1988). For Annotator's note. Relevant cases construing former C.R.S. 1963, §§ 26-5-3 and 26-5-23, and former CSA, C. 36, §§ 2 and 4, have been included in the annotations to this section.

Rules governing discharge of employees to be strictly followed. When a state agency promulgates rules governing the discharge of its employees which are more stringent in favor of the employee than due process would require, the agency must strictly comply with those rules. Shumate v. State Pers. Bd., 34 Colo. App. 393, 528 P.2d 404 (1974); Dept. of Health v. Donahue, 690 P.2d 243 (Colo. 1984).

And if probationary employee discharged after flawed predisciplinary meeting, and legal injury is of an economic nature, compensation should be equal to the injury. Employee should be awarded back pay for unexpired probationary term with an offset for any substitute earnings or unemployment compensation received during this period, restoring employee to position she would have been in if flawed predisciplinary meeting had never occurred and she had simply been dismissed at end of probationary term. Dept. of Health v. Donahue, 690 P.2d 243 (Colo. 1984).

Probationary employee is entitled to a hearing on an appeal to the board of a dismissal for any disciplinary grounds other than unsatisfactory job performance. Where employee was discharged for making false or deceptive statements on his employment application regarding both his reasons for leaving his previous employment and his criminal record and for failing to report having been charged with the same crime after beginning employment with the department and the employee appealed his discharge, the employee is entitled to a full evidentiary hearing on the merits of his appeal. Maurello v. Dept. of Corr., 804 P.2d 280 (Colo. App. 1990); Williams v. Colo. Dept. of Corr., 926 P.2d 110 (Colo. App. 1996).

Dismissal invalid if not in compliance with rules. Where the procedures for the dismissal of a civil service employee are not strictly followed, the dismissal is invalid and the employee must be reinstated. Shumate v. State Pers. Bd., 34 Colo. App. 393, 528 P.2d 404 (1974).

Contracts with private sector vendors for services pursuant to § 24-50-128 violate this section which sets forth the state personnel system structure created by § 13 of article XII of the state constitution, including provision for terminating positions historically performed by state employees. Colo. Ass'n of Pub. Emp. v. Dept. of Hwys., 809 P.2d 988 (Colo. 1991).

Hearing officer properly placed burden of proof on department of institutions as proponent of order upholding dismissal in proceeding involving state employee's appeal of termination. Kinchen v. Dept. of Insts., 867 P.2d 8 (Colo. App. 1993).

The burden of proof is on the certified state employee to prove that she was terminated involuntarily and, once the employee prevails upon that issue, then it will be the appointing authority's burden to prove that the termination imposed was justified by the factual circumstances. Harris v. State Bd. of Agric., 968 P.2d 148 (Colo. App. 1998).

II. PROCEDURE.

Board reviews actions of department head. The state department of personnel does not oversee the state personnel board's activities. Rather, the board reviews the actions of the head of the personnel department. Spahn v. Dept. of Pers., 44 Colo. App. 446, 615 P.2d 66 (1980).

Discharge must result from action of board after hearing. Employees in personnel system obtain their positions through competitive examination, not through the favor of an employing authority, and their discharge therefrom must result from action by the state personnel board, taken after due hearing on charges preferred, as required by fundamental law. McDevitt v. Corfman, 108 Colo. 571, 120 P.2d 963 (1941); Reeb v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 31 Colo. App. 488, 503 P.2d 629 (1972).

The 10-day limitation set forth in subsection (3) is mandatory. Filing of a petition for appeal with the board or a request for an extension of time in which to file an appeal within the 10-day period is a condition precedent to further action. State Pers. Bd. v. Gigax, 659 P.2d 693 (Colo. 1983).

This section requires that an employee dissatisfied with a decision of the board file either a petition for review or a request for extension of time within the 10-day limit or the decision becomes final. State Pers. Bd. v. Gigax, 659 P.2d 693 (Colo. 1983).

An employee's time to appeal does not run if notice is not given pursuant to subsection (2). Renteria v. State Dept. of Pers., 811 P.2d 797 (Colo. 1991).

Where employee was not sent notice of right of appeal pursuant to subsection (2) but had pursued appeal of allocation claim before personnel director's appointed panel under § 24-50-104 (3)(g), director should have transferred disciplinary claim to personnel board for hearing under this section. Renteria v. State Dept. of Pers., 811 P.2d 797 (Colo. 1991).

Hand delivery of notice of a predisciplinary meeting did not violate subsection (2) requiring notice by certified mail, since it was notice for purposes of an administrative suspension and, although it directed the complainant employee to turn in her keys and stay away from the campus, it did not constitute disciplinary action under this section because it did not affect the complainant's current base pay, status, or tenure. Harris v. State Bd. of Agric., 968 P.2d 148 (Colo. App. 1998).

Written charges are required for removal or discipline. Employees in the personnel system who have been permanently certified to positions may be removed or disciplined only upon written charges, to be promptly determined by the board upon inquiry and after an opportunity has been afforded the employee to be heard. McDevitt v. Corfman, 108 Colo. 571, 120 P.2d 963 (1941); Reeb v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 31 Colo. App. 488, 503 P.2d 629 (1972).

Personnel board must hold a hearing upon the petition of an employee. Dept. of Insts. v. Kitchen, 886 P.2d 700 (Colo. 1994).

Subsection (5) limits neither the jurisdiction of the board to conduct hearings nor an employee's right to appeal to the board. Reductions in the workforce and reorganizations can be abused when implemented for the purpose of terminating a disfavored or targeted employee. To foreclose an appeal by an employee affected by a layoff would be to deny any administrative recourse for conduct of an employer or appointing authority which violates the purposes of the state personnel system. Hughes v. Dept. of Higher Educ., 934 P.2d 891 (Colo. App. 1997).

Discharge without charges or hearing is void. A state personnel board rule which attempts to subject those who have been certified permanently into the classified personnel system to the hazards of discharge by an authority other than the board, the latter approving, with no preferring of charges, and without a hearing, is void. McDevitt v. Corfman, 108 Colo. 571, 120 P.2d 963 (1941).

As are board orders. Orders of the board for a discharge made without a compliance with this section are null and without effect. State Civil Serv. Comm'n v. Lehl, 108 Colo. 397, 118 P.2d 1080 (1941).

Personnel board cannot remove water commissioner without any notice or hearing whatever, on the ground that he is an alien and, therefore, he is not, and never was, eligible to the position. State Civil Serv. Comm'n v. Lehl, 108 Colo. 397, 118 P.2d 1080 (1941).

Police officer was constitutionally discharged without hearing where appeal provided before board. Where a police officer is discharged from classified service by an executive order of the chief of police and the city manager of safety without an opportunity to be heard, he is not denied due process where the procedure followed is pursuant to city charter provisions which establish an orderly procedure for an appeal and review before the personnel board. Cain

v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 159 Colo. 360, 411 P.2d 778 (1966).

Employee's failure to receive a predisciplinary meeting prior to employee's reversion to a former position from a higher position violated employee's procedural rights but reinstatement to higher position with full back pay is a windfall for the employee since reversion was due to unsatisfactory performance. McCoy v. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 796 P.2d 77 (Colo. App. 1990).

Hearing under section is not a criminal prosecution; it is an administrative hearing. Jones v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 176 Colo. 25, 489 P.2d 320 (1971).

The rules of evidence and procedure are less strict in a hearing under this section than in a criminal prosecution. Jones v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 176 Colo. 25, 489 P.2d 320 (1971).

The appointing authority has the burden of proof in disciplinary hearings before the personnel board. Dept. of Insts. v. Kitchen, 886 P.2d 700 (Colo. 1994).

A hearing pursuant to subsection (4) is a de novo hearing at which the administrative law judge makes credibility, factual, and legal findings without deference to the appointing authority. Stiles v. Dept. of Corr., 2019 COA 10, 479 P.3d 3.

The hearing before the personnel board is de novo in character. Dept. of Insts. v. Kitchen, 886 P.2d 700 (Colo. 1994).

The appointing authority must establish just cause for discharge by a preponderance of the evidence at a hearing before the personnel board. Dept. of Insts. v. Kitchen, 886 P.2d 700 (Colo. 1994).

Defense of entrapment has no application to a proceeding under this section for the violation of a departmental rule. Jones v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 176 Colo. 25, 489 P.2d 320 (1971).

III. DETERMINATION OF DISMISSAL.

Bill of particulars is not necessary for finding of guilt. It was not error for the state personnel board to find a public employee guilty of an offense for which he was not charged in a bill of particulars, when that offense was a violation of a rule and the employee was chargeable with knowledge of that rule. Jones v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 176 Colo. 25, 489 P.2d 320 (1971).

Acquittal of criminal charge by court of competent jurisdiction is conclusive determination on the issue of guilt and operates as a bar to a redetermination of the same issue by the board. Reeb v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 31 Colo. App. 488, 503 P.2d 629 (1972).

Refusal to accept assignment sufficient to justify removal of name from classified list. The undisputed evidence showing that the plaintiff refused, without justification, to accept the assignment of duty given him and absented himself without leave for a period in excess of five days was sufficient to justify the ruling and order of the state personnel board in removing his name from the classified list. Kenny v. State Civil Serv. Comm'n, 141 Colo. 422, 348 P.2d 367 (1960).

An employee may be discharged for falsifying an application for city employment. Cain v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 159 Colo. 360, 411 P.2d 778 (1966).

Filing of lawsuit by employee would not by itself be sufficient ground for the dismissal of the employee, unless conduct involves insubordination and disloyalty. Where the grounds for dismissal are not limited solely to the mere act of filing a lawsuit, but also deal with allegations that the employee's actions and conduct involve insubordination, disloyalty, and other acts unbecoming to a state employee, the dismissal is valid. Paris v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 184 Colo. 207, 519 P.2d 323 (1974).

IV. JUDICIAL REVIEW.

Court cannot substitute its judgment for board's. In reviewing the findings made by the state personnel board in carrying out its duties, the supreme court may not substitute its judgment for that of the board. Stevens v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 172 Colo. 446, 474 P.2d 156 (1970).

Findings of fact supported by competent evidence in record must be upheld. Stevens v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 172 Colo. 446, 474 P.2d 156 (1970); Bishop v. Dept. of Insts., 831 P.2d 506 (Colo. App. 1992).

A presumption of administrative regularity and constitutionality attaches to the multitude of personnel decisions made daily by public agencies. State Pers. Bd. v. District Court, 637 P.2d 333 (Colo. 1981).

Reasons supportable in record to be shown. Where the Denver city charter mandates that the personnel board give "due weight" to the police chief's necessity for administrative control when reviewing or modifying his disciplinary actions, and where there is a disparity in penalties imposed by the board and the chief, the reasons supportable in the record must be shown by the board in order to ascertain whether its action was arbitrary and an abuse of its discretion. Lawless v. Bach, 176 Colo. 165, 489 P.2d 316 (1971).

In determining whether evidence admitted by board was in error, proper test is whether the board abused its discretion. Jones v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 176 Colo. 25, 489 P.2d 320 (1971).

For purposes of this section, willful misconduct is not limited only to the violation of written or stated agency rules and no error was made by the state board of personnel in affirming state employee's termination. Bishop v. Dept. of Insts., 831 P.2d 506 (Colo. App. 1992).

Money judgment for accrued salary improper. In an action in mandamus to compel the restoration of a state employee under the classified personnel system to a position from which he has been summarily removed, the trial court errs in including in its decree granting relief a money judgment for accrued salary, the appropriate order in that respect being one directing the board to certify its approval of vouchers covering the withheld payments for the period to which the controversy applies. Civil Serv. Comm'n v. Lehl, 108 Colo. 397, 118 P.2d 1080 (1941).

Costs are not taxable against the state upon judicial review of board's action with respect to a discharge of an employee. Shumate v. State Pers. Bd., 34 Colo. App. 393, 528 P.2d 404 (1974).

24-50-125.3. Discrimination appeals.

An applicant or employee who alleges discriminatory or unfair employment practices, as defined in part 4 of article 34 of this title, in the state personnel system may appeal within ten days of the alleged practice by filing a complaint in writing with the board or the Colorado civil rights division in the department of regulatory agencies, which shall investigate such complaint on behalf of the board pursuant to the procedures and time limits set forth in section 24-34-306. In an appeal involving the civil rights division, the state personnel board shall contract with a third party to investigate the complaint. If, after said civil rights division or third party has found no probable cause or has attempted after a finding of probable cause to resolve the complaint by conference, conciliation, and persuasion, the applicant or employee remains dissatisfied, such person shall have ten days from the date he is notified of the civil rights division's or third party's action in which to appeal to the board. The board may set the complaint for hearing or adopt the findings of the civil rights division or third party as its own. If the complaint is set for hearing, it shall be subject to the same time limits as other appeals heard by the board. If the board adopts a no probable cause finding as its own, such action shall not operate to deny an employee a hearing to which he is otherwise entitled by law or rule.

ANNOTATION

Complaints about selection and examination process not involving allegations of discrimination are required to be filed with the director pursuant to former § 24-50-112 while claims of discrimination with respect to process are required to be filed with state personnel board or civil rights commission pursuant to this section. Cunningham v. Dept. of Hwys., 823 P.2d 1377 (Colo. App. 1991).

State personnel board did not have authority to review a nonemployee's claim that the Colorado state patrol acted arbitrarily or capriciously in declining to reinstate the nonemployee. This section grants the board the express authority to review nonemployee claims based on discrimination in the employee-selection process. The state personnel director has the express authority pursuant to § 24-50-112.5 to review a nonemployee's claim that an appointing authority acted in an arbitrary or capricious manner. One cannot infer that the general assembly intended to implicitly provide the board with the same authority that is expressly provided to the director. Williams v. Dept. of Pub. Safety, 2015 COA 180, 369 P.3d 760.

Although as general rule agency lacks jurisdiction to review complaint which is not filed within statutory 10-day period, where state employee is not given notice of right to pursue claim of discrimination and he has no actual knowledge of procedure, said period will start to run only after employee receives such notice. Cunningham v. Dept. of Hwys., 823 P.2d 1377 (Colo. App. 1991).

This section is unambiguous. It states an employee who alleges discriminatory employment practices may file an appeal with 10 days of the alleged practice. Hence when an employee alleges the employer engaged in actions that constitute more than one discriminatory or unfair employment practice and the actions are closely related to each other, the employee must file the appeal within 10 days of the last such practice. Ward v. Dept. of Natural Res., 216 P.3d 84 (Colo. App. 2008).

Where right to hearing only related to alleged racial discrimination, the personnel board was without jurisdiction to probe the basis for termination decision, except to determine merits of discrimination claim. Williams v. Colo. Dept. of Corr., 926 P.2d 110 (Colo. App. 1996).

Nothing in the statutory procedure for discrimination appeals pursuant to this section requires or authorizes the filing of exceptions pursuant to § 24-4-105. Hussein v. Regents of the Univ. of Colo., 124 P.3d 871 (Colo. App. 2005).

24-50-125.4. Hearings.

(1) Except for discrimination appeals that may also be filed with the Colorado civil rights division in the department of regulatory agencies, all appeals from actions of the state personnel director, appointing authorities, and agencies that are specifically appealable to the board under the state constitution or this article shall be filed with the board within ten days of receipt of notice of such action.

(2) The board shall give written notice of the time and place of a hearing to the parties involved at least twenty days before the date set for the hearing. The hearing shall commence not later than ninety calendar days after submission of the appeal to the board and may be continued only once for good cause for no longer than thirty days with the approval of the board.

(3) The board or an administrative law judge for the board shall issue a written decision within forty-five calendar days after the conclusion of the hearing and the submission of briefs. Any party may appeal the decision of the board to the court of appeals within forty-nine days in accordance with section 24-4-106 (11).

(4) If an administrative law judge conducts a hearing on behalf of the board, any party who seeks to modify the initial decision must file an appeal with the board within thirty days of the initial decision pursuant to section 24-4-105 (14). Within sixty days after the record is designated in accordance with section 24-4-105 (15)(a), the board shall certify the record. The board shall conduct its review in accordance with section 24-4-105 (15)(b) and issue its final decision within ninety days after the record has been certified.

(5) If any party is responsible for any inexcusable delay in conducting the hearing or in the issuance of a decision, the responsible party shall pay the opposing party's costs, including attorney fees.

(6) The board or an administrative law judge for the board may give any written notices or issue any written decisions required in this section by either regular or electronic mail or by facsimile. The board shall promulgate rules in accordance with article 4 of this title to establish a uniform system for service of written notices and decisions.

Applicability. Amendment to statute substituting one method of judicial review for another was procedural and, therefore, statute applies to existing causes of action and to ones which accrue in the future. Kardoley v. State Pers. Bd., 742 P.2d 934 (Colo. App. 1987).

No provision permits an extension of time for filing an administrative appeal upon the filing of post-judgment motions. Fiebig v. Wheat Ridge Reg'l Center, 782 P.2d 814 (Colo. App. 1989).

Forty-five-day time limit in subsection (3) is not jurisdictional. Such limits are generally considered directory unless time is of the essence, the statute curtails agency authority beyond the time prescribed, or failure to comply would injuriously affect the public interest or private rights. *Shaball v. Since panel does not have authority to decide claim of discrimination, panel's prior decision pursuant to § 24-50-112 is not binding upon administrative law judge hearing claim of discrimination pursuant to this section. Cunningham v. Dept. of Hwys., 823 P.2d 1377 (Colo. App. 1991).

Where evidence only supported finding of discrimination involving complainant, board had authority to order that complainant be appointed to the next available position, but did not have authority to require any corrective action other than to remedy the particular discriminatory act. *Cunningham v. Reduction of suspension period to 135 days reflects the total of the statutory time periods in the section, and the state personnel board's determination of the maximum suspension period under state personnel board rule R8-3-4(A)(1). Rose v. Dept. of Insts., 826 P.2d 379 (Colo. App. 1991).

24-50-125.5. Recovery for improper personnel action.

(1) Upon final resolution of any proceeding related to the provisions of this article, if it is found that the personnel action from which the proceeding arose or the appeal of such action was instituted frivolously, in bad faith, maliciously, or as a means of harassment or was otherwise groundless, the employee bringing the appeal or the department, agency, board, or commission taking such personnel action shall be liable for any attorney fees and other costs incurred by the employee or agency against whom such appeal or personnel action was taken, including the cost of any transcript together with interest at the legal rate. Reimbursement of such attorney fees and other costs shall be made by the employee or the department, agency, board, or commission upon presentation by the employee or agency of a statement of the attorney fees and other costs incurred which has been approved by the state personnel board, and any such claim approved by the state personnel board against an agency shall be a charge on moneys appropriated to the department, agency, board, or commission. Each department, agency, board, or commission shall report to the joint budget committee each year concerning the number of claims made and the amount of moneys paid by the department, agency, board, or commission under this section during the previous fiscal year.

(2) Repealed.

ANNOTATION

"Final resolution" contemplates a decision by the personnel board that concludes the appeal of a disciplinary action, not necessarily an evidentiary hearing on the appeal. Aragon v. Dept. of Corr., 140 P.3d 278 (Colo. App. 2006).

Employee entitled to attorney fees and costs because personnel board's failure to affirm rescission of corrective action after adopting hearing officer's findings that there was no factual basis for corrective action was arbitrary and capricious. Johnson v. Colo. Dept. of Institutions, 757 P.2d 147 (Colo. App. 1988).

Award of attorney fees is mandated by this section when employer had no grounds to seek the employee's discharge. Reference to "the personnel action" in this section focuses on the particular disciplinary action taken, not on whether there was a basis for imposing some discipline. Coffey v. Colo. Sch. of Mines, 870 P.2d 608 (Colo. App. 1993).

Denial of attorney fees in a personnel action where the university president obtained an attorney general opinion that contracting out employment would not be improper is supported by the record and shall not be overturned. Sutton v. Univ. of S. Colo., 870 P.2d 650 (Colo. App. 1994).

Award of attorney fees proper when request was timely and award was supported by substantial evidence. The department's action was groundless and taken in bad faith. Ehrle v. Dept. of Admin., 844 P.2d 1267 (Colo. App. 1992).

There was no abuse of discretion in denying attorney's fees, when administrative law judge found that neither the personnel action from which the proceeding arose nor the defense was instituted frivolously. Lucero v. Dept. of Institutions, 942 P.2d 1246 (Colo. App. 1996).

State personnel board order awarding attorney fees and costs must be set aside when findings of fact do not have a reasonable basis in law. Halverstadt v. Dept. of Corrs., 911 P.2d 654 (Colo. App. 1995).

State personnel board erred when it concluded that a complainant was not entitled to attorney fees and costs under this section because of a lack of bad faith. Statute employs the conjunction "or" in the list of reasons attorney fees and costs may be granted. As the administrative law judge found that the action was groundless, and that determination was unchallenged, granting of fees was appropriate. Hartley v. Dept. of Corrs., 937 P.2d 913 (Colo. App. 1997).

Applied in Mayberry v. Univ. of Colo. Health Sciences Center, 737 P.2d 427 (Colo. App. 1987); Dept. of Higher Educ. v. Singh, 939 P.2d 491 (Colo. App. 1997).

- (3) The board shall by rule prescribe the conditions under which absence without leave will be construed to be an automatic resignation.

24-50-127. Employee records - release of location information concerning individuals with outstanding felony arrest warrants - state personnel director's duties.

- (1) The state personnel director shall maintain the examination record of every candidate and the employment record of every employee. In addition, the state personnel director shall establish and maintain a personnel data inventory of all employees in the personnel system, which inventory shall contain such items as education, training, skills, and other pertinent data. The state personnel director shall make available such data to department heads for the most efficient utilization of the state's manpower.

(2) (a) Notwithstanding any provision of state law to the contrary and to the extent allowable under federal law, at the request of the Colorado bureau of investigation, the state personnel director or the director's designee shall provide the bureau with information concerning the location of any person whose name appears in the division's records who is the subject of an outstanding felony arrest warrant. Upon receipt of such information, it shall be the responsibility of the bureau to provide appropriate law enforcement agencies with location information obtained from the division. Location information provided pursuant to this section shall be used solely for law enforcement purposes. The state personnel director or the director's designee and the bureau shall determine and employ the most cost-effective method for obtaining and providing location information pursuant to this section. Neither the state personnel director, the director's designee, nor the division's employees or agents shall be liable in civil action for providing information in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph (a).

(b) As used in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), "law enforcement agency" means any agency of the state or its political subdivisions that is responsible for enforcing the laws of this state. "Law enforcement agency" includes but is not limited to any police department, sheriff's department, district attorney's office, the office of the state attorney general, and the Colorado bureau of investigation.

Contracts with private sector vendors for services pursuant to this section violate § 24-50-125 which sets forth the state personnel system structure created by § 13 of article XII of the state constitution, including provision for terminating positions historically performed by state employees. This section does not authorize executive agencies to enter into personal service contracts that provide for the performance of services historically provided by state personnel system employees. Absent statutory or regulatory standards governing the propriety of such contracts, executive agencies are prohibited from so contracting. Colo. Ass'n of Pub. Emp. v. DOH, 809 P.2d 988 (Colo. 1991).

Prospective employee must be both "appointed" and "certified" before he can be placed on the payroll of the state. It is not possible to apply contract law to the relationship which exists between one on an eligible list as a prospective employee and the state as the prospective employer unless such individual can qualify as an independent contractor. Meredith v. Smith, 166 Colo. 256, 443 P.2d 975 (1968).

Only the state personnel director has power to certify officer or employee.

Meredith v. Smith, 166 Colo. 256, 443 P.2d 975 (1968).

Superintendent of state hospital without power to certify. The superintendent of a state hospital, as the appointing authority, can appoint a person to the job he seeks, but he can not "certify" the appointment of the person to fill the vacancy or pay him for services not rendered. Meredith v. Smith, 166 Colo. 256, 443 P.2d 975 (1968).

Certification as employee cannot entitle person to dictate employment location, terms, and conditions, particularly where the employee accepts a position with full knowledge of the existing and applicable terms and conditions, which are not manifestly unreasonable. Eligibility for employment as a servant of the state does not include such prerogatives or impose on the hiring authority the obligation to meet the whim or caprice of one who desires employment with the state. (1) When an employee in the state personnel system is required by any appointing authority, because of a change in assignment or a promotion or for any other reason related to his or her duties, to change his or her place of residence, such employee shall be allowed his or her moving expenses incurred by reason of such change of residence. Moving expenses may include the reasonable expenses of moving household goods and personal effects and the reasonable costs of traveling to the employee's new residence. Any reimbursement pursuant to this subsection (1) shall be made in accordance with rules promulgated by the state controller and in compliance with the regulations of the federal internal revenue service.

The rates of reimbursement for relocation expenses shall not exceed the rates fixed by executive order. Any per diem payments made pursuant to this subsection (2) shall be in accordance with rules promulgated by the state controller and in compliance with the regulations of the federal internal revenue service.

(2) (a) The president of each educational institution or a person designated by the president shall determine which administrative positions in that institution are exempt from the state personnel system under subsection (1) of this section, subject to an appeal to the board; except that a position shall not be determined to be exempt while it is held by an existing employee in the state personnel system. The president of an educational institution may decide not to exempt a position funded through auxiliary activities if the president determines that exempting the position is not in the best interests of the institution.

(b) The executive director of the Colorado commission on higher education shall determine which administrative positions in the department of higher education other than administrative positions in educational institutions are exempt from the state personnel system under subsection (1) of this section, subject to an appeal to the board.

That resolution was approved by a vote of the registered electors of Colorado on November 6, 2012. Subsection (4) was effective upon the proclamation of the Governor, January 1, 2013. The vote count for the measure was as follows:

Previous employment with the state shall include any period of employment for which an officer or employee received compensation not limited solely to expense reimbursement. Credit for previous state employment shall not be given for temporary employment, including student employment at an institution of higher education or the Auraria higher education center established in article 70 of title 23, C.R.S., or service as a member of a part-time board or commission.

(2) Whenever, by reason of constitutional amendment, legislative enactment, executive order, or action of an executive department functions outside state government are assumed by state government, persons performing such functions shall be credited with the years of service in their former positions for purposes of accumulated leave, leave earning rates, seniority, and other benefits, excluding retirement credit, afforded an employee in the state personnel system.

(3) Whenever employees enter the state personnel system from political subdivisions of the state with merit systems similar to the state personnel system as a result of a formal arrangement with that merit system, the state personnel director shall, by rule adopted in accordance with article 4 of this title, establish rates and conditions of accumulated leave carry-over, leave earning rates, seniority, and other benefits, excluding retirement credit, afforded an employee in the state personnel system. Such rates and conditions shall fairly recognize the employees' prior employment and provide a recruitment incentive to those persons who might benefit state government.

Upon termination of the initial period of such appointment, such employee shall be reinstated to his former position with no loss of any rights or benefits accruing to that position in his absence and with restoration of all accrued unused leave which he had at the time of acceptance of the exempt appointment. 24-50-138. Effect of transfer of powers, duties, and functions.

(1) The department of personnel to which powers, duties, and functions of the civil service commission are transferred shall be the successor in every way with respect to such powers, duties, and functions, subject to the provisions of the state constitution. Every act performed in the exercise of such powers, duties, and functions by the department of personnel shall be deemed to have the same force and effect as if performed by the civil service commission prior to July 1, 1971. Whenever the civil service commission is referred to or designated by any law, contract, insurance policy, bond, or other document, such reference or designation shall be deemed to apply to the state personnel board or the state personnel director, as the case may be, in which the powers, duties, and functions of the civil service commission are vested.

(2) No suit, action, or other proceeding, judicial or administrative, lawfully commenced by or against the civil service commission or by or against any officer or member of the civil service commission in his official capacity or in relation to the discharge of his official duties shall abate by this part 1. (1) It is the intent of the general assembly to encourage the implementation of equal employment opportunities and affirmative action corrective remedies within the state personnel system which preserve the merit principles contained in section 13 of article XII of the state constitution and this article and which disavow and prohibit the imposition of a mandatory quota system. Until January 1, 1980, and while underutilization of and invidious discrimination against members of ethnic and racial minorities and women exist and continue to exist within the state personnel system, the board is authorized to adopt and implement rules and regulations which carry out the intent of this section. Such rules and regulations shall be implemented only upon written findings by the state personnel director in each instance that the following conditions exist with reference to specific appointments and promotions within the state personnel system:

- (a) The appointing authority has voluntarily requested referrals for affirmative action purposes;
- (b) There is discriminatory underutilization of members of the ethnic or racial minority group or women for which the referral has been requested, within the agency, in the class for which an appropriate eligible list or combination of eligible lists has been compiled; and
- (c) The test or selection devices for the compilation of such eligible list or lists have not been validated according to applicable employee selection guidelines.

(2) Rules and regulations of the state personnel system adopted and implemented in accordance with this section, except rules and regulations relating to grievance and appeal procedures within the state personnel system and based on allegations of discrimination, are repealed, effective January 1, 1980, and the authority of the board to adopt and implement any affirmative action corrective remedy or rule, which allows or provides for, or incorporates by reference, requisitions or referrals which are in addition to the names of the three persons ranking highest on the appropriate eligible list or combination of such lists, is terminated on such date.

The head of an agency developing processes for human resource innovation and management shall be responsible for implementing such processes in that agency and submitting to the state personnel director or the personnel board, as appropriate, a written statement describing any human resource innovation and management processes implemented by the agency. Such written statement shall be submitted to the state personnel director or the personnel board commensurate with the implementation of the processes by the agency. The written statement shall be updated by the head of the agency upon modification or revision of the agency's human resource innovation and management processes.

Provisions applicable regardless of whether or not war or national emergency exists. The provisions of this section and § 24-50-302 are operative at all times as to state civil service employees who enter military service, regardless of whether or not there exists a war or other national emergency. Civil Serv. Comm'n v. Fleming, 183 Colo. 71, 514 P.2d 1135 (1973).

Voluntariness of military service is irrelevant. This section was enacted to protect the personnel system status of employees of the state, including those in its law enforcement agencies, during periods of engagement in the armed forces of the United States, and it extends equal protection to all who enter, whether by enlistment or induction. Hanebuth v. Patton, 115 Colo. 116, 170 P.2d 526 (1946).

Public employee is not allowed to voluntarily make military career. This section and § 24-50-302 do not allow any former public employee to voluntarily make a career in the military service until retirement therefrom and then, after the termination of his self-chosen military career, to return to state employment and be awarded all the rights and privileges that would have accrued if he had never left his state civilian employment. Civil Serv. Comm'n v. Fleming, 183 Colo. 71, 514 P.2d 1135 (1973).

24-50-302. Rights.

(1) The rights, privileges, and status retained by such officer or employee shall specifically include the right to reoccupy the place, employment, or position held by him at the time of entering the armed forces upon the expiration of the period of initial service, plus any period of additional service imposed by law, and for one year thereafter; except that, if such officer or employee served in any branch of the armed forces of the United States during any period and if he was separated or served under honorable conditions, the period of such service shall be considered as service in the personnel system of the state of Colorado for the purposes of seniority and for the purposes of promotion from one pay grade to another as well as movement from one step of the pay plan to a higher step in the pay plan and if the place, employment, or class held by such officer or employee at the time of entering the armed forces has been increased in pay grade during the time of such service, such officer or employee shall be entitled to reoccupy such place, employment, or position at such increased pay grade.

(2) Said rights, privileges, and status retained by such officer or employee shall also specifically include the right to remain upon and hold his place upon any list of persons certified as eligible for appointment to places, employment, or positions in the state personnel system at the time of entering the armed forces during such period of initial service, plus any period of additional service imposed by law, and for one year thereafter, regardless of the expiration date of any such list of certified persons; except that, if such officer or employee has not acquired a certified state personnel system status but has been employed by this state for a period of one year or less, such officer or employee shall have the right to reoccupy the place, employment, or position held by him at the time of entering the armed forces upon the expiration of the initial period of service, plus any period of additional service imposed by law, and for one year thereafter, with the right to hold said place, employment, or position for the full term of his probationary period from the date of his reoccupying the same or until an examination is held therefor and a person is duly certified thereto.

CONTRACTS FOR PERSONAL SERVICES

24-50-501. Legislative declaration.

Recognizing that the adoption of section 20 of article X of the state constitution at the 1992 general election has imposed strict new constraints on state government, it is hereby declared to be the policy of this state to encourage the use of private contractors for personal services to achieve increased efficiency in the delivery of government services, without undermining the principles of the state personnel system requiring competence in state government and the avoidance of political patronage. The general assembly recognizes that such contracting may result in variances from legislatively mandated pay scales and other employment practices that apply to the state personnel system. In order to ensure that such privatization of government services does not subvert the policies underlying the civil service system, the purpose of this part 5 is to balance the benefits of privatization of personal services against its impact upon the state personnel system as a whole. The general assembly finds and declares that, in the use of private contractors for personal services, the dangers of arbitrary and capricious political action or patronage and the promotion of competence in the provision of government services are adequately safeguarded by existing laws on public procurement, public contracts, financial administration, employment practices, ethics in government, licensure, certification, open meetings, open records, and the provisions of this part 5. Recognizing that the ultimate beneficiaries of all government services are the citizens of the state of Colorado, it is the intent of the general assembly that privatization of government services not result in diminished quality in order to save money.

24-50-502. Definitions.

As used in this part 5, unless the context otherwise requires:

- (1) "Contract" means any type of state agreement, regardless of what it may be called, for the acquisition of services.
- (2) "Personal services" means services acquired for the state's direct benefit in its operations.
- (3) "Purchased services" means the acquisition of services which directly benefit specific groups or individuals in the public at large as defined by law, from public or private entities licensed, certified, or otherwise authorized by statute to provide such services.
- (4) "Services" means the furnishing of labor, time, or effort.

Source: L. 93: Entire part added, p. 281, § 1, effective April 7.

24-50-503. Personal services contracts implicating state personnel system - no separation of existing classified employees.

(1) Contracts for personal services that create an independent contractor relationship and that are not authorized under the provisions of section 24-50-504 are nevertheless permissible under this section to achieve increased efficiency in the delivery of government services when the state personnel director determines that all of the following conditions are met:

(a) The contracting agency clearly demonstrates that the proposed contract will result in overall cost savings to the state and that the estimated savings will not be eliminated by contractor rate increases during the term of the contract, subject to the following:

(I) In comparing costs, there shall be included the state's cost of providing the same service as proposed by a contractor. The state's costs shall include the salaries and benefits of staff that would be needed and the cost of space, equipment, and material needed to perform the function.

(II) In comparing costs, there shall not be included the state's indirect overhead costs unless the costs can be attributed solely to the function in question and would not exist if that function were not performed in state service. For such purpose, "Indirect overhead costs" means the pro rata share of existing administrative salaries and benefits, rent, equipment costs, utilities, and materials.

(III) In comparing costs, there shall be included in the cost of a contractor providing a service any continuing state costs that would be directly associated with the contracted function. These continuing state costs shall include, but need not be limited to, those for inspection, supervision, and monitoring.

(IV) In comparing costs, there shall not be included any savings to the state attributable to lower health insurance benefits provided by the contractor.

(b) The contracting agency clearly demonstrates that the proposed contract will provide at least the same quality of services as that offered by the contracting agency.

(c) The contract includes specific provisions pertaining to the qualifications of the staff that will perform the work under the contract.

(d) The contract contains nondiscrimination provisions required by law to be included in state contracts.

(e) The contract contains provisions for termination by the state for breach of the contract by the contractor.

(f) The potential economic advantage of contracting is not outweighed by the public's interest in having a particular function performed directly by state government. In assessing the public's interest, the state personnel director shall take into account:

(I) The consequences and potential mitigation of improper or failed performance by the contractor;

(II) Whether performance of the contract involves the improper delegation of a policy-making function;

(III) The extent to which the contracting preserves the principles of competence in government and the avoidance of political patronage. For such purpose, there shall be considered the applicability of other laws, including those as enumerated in section 24-50-506, that aid in safeguarding the fundamental principles underlying the state personnel system.

(2) The state personnel director shall not approve a personal services contract under this section if the contract would result directly or indirectly in the separation of certified employees from state service. However, nothing contained in this section shall be construed to prevent the separation of certified employees from state service pursuant to any other provision of law, including but not limited to the provisions of section 24-50-124, for reasons other than privatization.

(3) Repealed.

24-50-504. Personal services contracts not implicating state personnel system.

(1) Personal services contracts for employees or independent contractors are permissible when the functions contracted are otherwise performed by persons exempt from civil service by section 13 of article XII of the state constitution or by statutes enacted pursuant thereto.

(2) Personal services contracts that create an independent contractor relationship are permissible when the state personnel director determines that any of the following conditions are met:

(a) The contract is for an existing state program that has never been performed by employees in the state personnel system, or the contract is for an existing state program that involves duties similar to duties currently or previously performed by classified employees but the contracted program is different in scope or policy objectives from the programs carried out by such classified employees. For the purposes of this paragraph (a), an "existing state program" is a state program that was in effect and performed by contract prior to April 7, 1993.

(b) The contract is for a new state program, and the general assembly has statutorily authorized the performance of the program by independent contractors. A program is not a new state program within the meaning of this paragraph (b) solely because it is performed at a new facility or location.

(c) The services contracted are not available within the state personnel system, cannot be performed satisfactorily by employees of the state personnel system, or are of such a highly specialized or technical nature that the necessary expert knowledge, experience, and ability are not available through the state personnel system.

(d) The services are incidental to a contract for the purchase or lease of real or personal property. Contracts under this criterion, known as "service agreements", include, but are not limited to, agreements to service or maintain equipment, computers, or other products that are entered into in connection with their original lease or purchase.

(e) The legislative, administrative, or legal goals and purposes cannot be accomplished through the utilization of persons selected pursuant to the state personnel system. Contracts are permissible under this criterion to protect against a conflict of interest or to ensure independent and unbiased findings in cases where there is a clear need for a different, outside perspective. These contracts include, but are not limited to, obtaining expert witnesses in litigation.

(f) The contractor will provide equipment, materials, facilities, or support services that could not feasibly be provided by the state in the location where the services are to be performed.

(g) The contractor will conduct training courses for which appropriately qualified state personnel system instructors are not available.

(h) The services are of an urgent, temporary, or occasional nature.

(3) Contracts for purchased services, as determined by the state personnel director, that create an independent contractor relationship are permissible.

24-50-505. Liability and immunity.

(1) The contractor shall assume all liability arising from its own acts or omissions under all contracts entered into pursuant to this part 5.

(2) The sovereign immunity and governmental immunity of the contracting agency shall not extend to the contractor, except as otherwise provided by law. Neither the contractor nor the insurer of the contractor may plead the defense of sovereign immunity or governmental immunity in any action arising out of the performance of the contract.

24-50-506. Applicability of other laws.

(1) In addition to the other provisions of this part 5 that are intended to safeguard the fundamental principles underlying the state personnel system, personal services contracts entered into pursuant to this article are subject to all other applicable laws, which may include but are not necessarily limited to the following:

For purposes of this section, "tier" means the particular coverage options offered to eligible employees, including single employee, employee with one covered dependent, and employee with two or more covered dependents.

(II) Repealed.

(3) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2003, p. 1934, § 10, effective May 22, 2003.)

(4) For purposes of this section, "employee" does not include elected state officials who do not receive compensation other than expense reimbursements from state funds.

The principal of the fund consists of tobacco litigation settlement money transferred by the state treasurer to the fund pursuant to section 24-75-1104.5 (1.7)(j). The principal of the fund is continuously appropriated to the department of personnel and shall be expended in its entirety in each fiscal year by the department to pay the costs of increased nonsupplemental state contributions, as defined in section 24-50-609.5 (3)(c)(II), and supplement the state contribution, as defined in section 24-50-609.5 (2)(d), for each eligible state employee, as defined in section 24-50-609.5 (2)(a), enrolled in a qualifying group benefit plan, as defined in section 24-50-609.5 (2)(c), as required by section 24-50-609.5; except that the department shall expend no more than the amount needed to pay the costs of increased nonsupplemental state contributions and reduce the employee contribution, as defined in section 24-50-609.5 (2)(b), of each eligible state employee for all qualifying group benefit plans to zero. The principal of the fund remains in the fund until expended and shall not be transferred to the general fund or any other fund. Interest and income earned on the deposit and investment of money in the fund shall be used by the department, subject to annual appropriation, solely to pay the costs of the department related to the supplementation of the state contribution for each eligible state employee required by section 24-50-609.5.

(b) (I) For state fiscal years commencing on or before July 1, 2024, and on or after July 1, 2026, the state treasurer shall credit all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of money in the supplemental state contribution fund to the supplemental state contribution fund.

24-50-609.5. Supplemental state contribution for eligible state employees - legislative declaration - definitions.

(1) (a) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(I) It is the intent of the general assembly that all children in the state, including lower-income children, have access to affordable and adequate health insurance.

(II) The children of state employees are ineligible for existing federal and state programs, including medicaid and the children's basic health plan, that provide health insurance to lower-income children whose families are not otherwise able to afford health insurance.

(III) Although the state pays a portion of the health insurance premiums for those state employees who enroll in a health insurance plan offered by the state, many lower-income state employees nonetheless cannot afford to pay the required employee contribution to the plan premiums for any plan or the higher employee contribution to a plan with a low deductible and therefore decline to enroll in a health insurance plan or enroll in a high deductible plan, leaving their children without adequate health insurance coverage.

(IV) In order to ensure that children of lower-income state employees have access to affordable and adequate health insurance, it is necessary, appropriate, and in the best interests of the state to encourage lower-income state employees who have dependents other than their spouses to enroll in health insurance plans offered by the state by supplementing the state contribution to their plan premiums in order to reduce the amount of their required employee contributions to plan premiums or to encourage them to enroll in low deductible plans.

(V) (A) By using disease management programs to reduce the costs of health care for state employees who are enrolled in state group benefit plans that provide medical benefits, the state can provide the group benefit plans to more state employees for less money and achieve better outcomes.

(B) National data indicates that the establishment of disease management programs can reduce by fifty percent asthma-related hospital admissions and thereby help the state provide lower cost group benefit plans for all state employees.

(C) The establishment of a pilot disease management program that includes, but is not limited to, a pilot childhood asthma program will maximize the use of moneys allocated for the purpose of supplementing existing health insurance plans for lower-income state employees.

(b) The general assembly further finds and declares that the intent of the general assembly in providing supplements as specified in this section, and the expectation of the general assembly with respect to the executive administration of the provision of supplements, is:

(I) To provide access to affordable and adequate health insurance to as many children of lower-income state employees as possible; and

(II) Because the high deductibles typical of health insurance plans that offer lower premiums can impair or destroy the economic self-sufficiency of lower-income families when health problems arise, to encourage lower-income state employees with dependents other than their spouses to enroll in higher premium plans with low deductibles.

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Eligible state employee" means an employee, as defined in section 24-50-603 (7), who:

(I) Is eligible, by virtue of his or her state employment, to enroll in a group benefit plan that provides medical or dental benefits;

(II) Has an annual household income of less than three hundred percent of the federal poverty line; and

(III) Has at least one dependent other than the employee's legal spouse.

(b) "Employee contribution" means the amount contributed by an eligible state employee to pay part of the premium for a qualifying group benefit plan in which the eligible state employee is enrolled.

(c) "Qualifying group benefit plan" means a group benefit plan that provides medical or dental benefits.

(d) "State contribution" means the amount contributed by the state to pay part of the premium for a qualifying group benefit plan in which a state employee is enrolled.

(3) (a) For the 2008-09 state fiscal year and for each state fiscal year thereafter, the state, after first allocating the interest and income and next allocating the principal of the supplemental state contribution fund created in section 24-50-609 (5) to pay the costs of increased nonsupplemental state contributions, shall expend the available principal of the state supplemental contribution fund to pay a monthly supplement to the state contribution for each eligible state employee who timely applies for the supplement pursuant to subsection (4) of this section and enrolls in a qualifying group benefit plan in order to reduce the eligible state employee's employee contribution by the amount of the supplement. The amount of the supplement shall be the amount that reduces the aggregate amount of the eligible state employee's employee contribution for all qualifying group benefit plans to zero; except that, if the available principal of the supplemental state contribution fund is insufficient to provide full supplements for all eligible state employees as specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (3):

(I) The available principal shall first be used to provide each eligible state employee who has an annual household income of less than two hundred percent of the federal poverty line a supplement in an amount equal to the lesser of the equivalent percentage of the applicable employee contribution for each such eligible state employee that uses all of the available principal or the amount needed to reduce the employee contribution of each such eligible state employee for all qualifying group benefit plans to zero.

(II) Remaining available principal next shall be used to provide each eligible state employee who has an annual household income of two hundred percent or more of the federal poverty line but less than two hundred fifty percent of the federal poverty line a supplement in an amount equal to the lesser of the equivalent percentage of the applicable employee contribution for each such eligible state employee that uses all of the available principal or the amount needed to reduce the employee contribution of each such eligible state employee for all qualifying group benefit plans to zero.

(III) Remaining available principal last shall be used to provide each eligible state employee who has an annual household income of at least two hundred fifty percent of the federal poverty line a supplement in an amount equal to the lesser of the equivalent percentage of the applicable employee contribution for each such eligible state employee that uses all of the available principal of the fund or the amount needed to reduce the employee contribution of each such eligible state employee for all qualifying group benefit plans to zero.

(b) All supplements shall be paid from the available principal of the supplemental state contribution fund created in section 24-50-609 (5). The total amount of all supplements paid for any given fiscal year shall be the lesser of the amount of all available principal of the supplemental state contribution fund or the amount of the available principal needed to reduce the employee contribution of each eligible state employee for all qualifying group benefit plans to zero. If an eligible state employee who receives a supplement is enrolled in separate qualifying group benefit plans for medical and dental benefits, the state shall supplement the state contribution to the plan that provides medical benefits until the employee contribution for that plan is reduced to zero before supplementing the state contribution to the plan that provides dental benefits.

(c) For purposes of this subsection (3):

(I) "Available principal of the supplemental state contribution fund" or "available principal" means, for any given fiscal year, the sum of the amount of tobacco litigation settlement moneys transferred by the state treasurer to the fund on July 1 of the fiscal year and any other principal of the fund minus the amount of principal allocated during the fiscal year to pay the costs of increased nonsupplemental state contributions pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3).

(II) "Increased nonsupplemental state contributions" means, for any given fiscal year, the aggregate amount of increases in state contributions, excluding supplements, resulting from:

(A) Enrollment in qualifying group benefit plans of eligible state employees who applied for supplements for the fiscal year and were not enrolled in qualifying group benefit plans during the prior fiscal year; and

(B) Addition of dependents who were not covered by a qualifying group benefit plan during the prior fiscal year to the qualifying group benefit plans of eligible state employees who applied for supplements during the fiscal year.

(4) A state employee shall apply to the department of personnel for a supplement. The application shall be on a form prescribed by the director, and the employee shall provide any supporting information that the director may reasonably require to allow the department to verify that the state employee is an eligible state employee. A state employee shall file an application for a supplement annually during the open enrollment period or open enrollment grace period for enrolling in group benefit plans for the next state fiscal year, and, if the applicant is an eligible state employee and enrolls in a qualifying group benefit plan, the applicant shall receive a supplement for the next state fiscal year. A newly hired state employee shall not be eligible for a supplement in the state fiscal year in which he or she is hired, but may apply for a supplement during the open enrollment period or open enrollment grace period for enrolling in group benefit plans for the next state fiscal year.

(5) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 24-1-136 (11)(a), no later than January 15, 2009, and no later than each succeeding January 15, the department of personnel shall report to the health and human services committees of the house and senate and the joint budget committee of the general assembly or any successor committees regarding the supplemental state contribution program established in this section. The report shall include, at a minimum, information regarding:

(a) The number of eligible state employees receiving supplements in the current state fiscal year and any prior state fiscal years in which supplements were provided;

(b) The total amount of supplements that have been or will be paid in the current state fiscal year and that were paid in any prior state fiscal years in which supplements were provided;

(c) The average monthly and yearly amounts of the individual supplements provided for the current state fiscal year and for any prior state fiscal years in which supplements were provided;

(d) The number of dependent children of eligible state employees receiving supplements covered by a qualifying group benefit plan during the current state fiscal year and for any prior state fiscal years in which supplements were provided; and

(e) The amount of increased nonsupplemental state contributions, as defined in subparagraph (II) of paragraph (c) of subsection (3) of this section, for the current state fiscal year and for any prior state fiscal years in which supplements were provided.

24-50-610. Payroll deductions - employees.

The amount of monthly contributions, if any, to be made by employees enrolled in group benefit plans shall be deducted from the salaries of such employees and remitted to the department of personnel. The procedure for such deductions and remittances, including a procedure for determination of the appropriate amount and collection and remittance of monthly contributions from elected state officials who do not receive compensation other than expense reimbursement from state funds, shall be established by the department of personnel; except that the department of personnel shall not establish any method of collection and remittances of monthly contributions from elected state officials who do not receive compensation other than expense reimbursement from state funds from any entity other than from such individual state officials.

The moneys in the group benefit plans reserve fund shall not be appropriated by the general assembly or expended by the director for any other purpose.

(3) A premium stabilization reserve account shall be established within the group benefit plans reserve fund the purpose of which is to offset unexpected year-end deficits and extraordinary fluctuations in annual premiums. PART 8

STATE EMPLOYEE INCENTIVE PROGRAM

24-50-801. Legislative declaration.

The general assembly hereby finds and declares that it is the policy of this state to concentrate on improving the efficiency and effectiveness of state government in order to provide better service to the citizens of the state of Colorado, to increase state government productivity, and to decrease state government costs. The general assembly recognizes that one method of achieving a more efficient and effective state government is to encourage the involvement of state employees in the development of innovative ideas that will increase the productivity and service level of state government while decreasing the costs of state government. The general assembly realizes that employee incentive programs that reward state employees for innovations by allowing the employees to share the cost savings resulting from such innovations will help encourage employee involvement in making state government more efficient and effective. The general assembly further recognizes that rewarding state employees may also increase employee morale and enthusiasm, decrease employee turnover, and improve customer service.

PART 9

STATE EMPLOYEES' IDEAS THAT IMPROVE STATE GOVERNMENT OPERATIONS

24-50-901. Legislative declaration.

The general assembly hereby finds and declares that it is the policy of this state to concentrate on improving the efficiency and effectiveness of state government in order to provide better service to the residents and taxpayers of the state of Colorado, to increase state government productivity, and to decrease state government costs and waste. The general assembly recognizes that one method of achieving a more efficient and effective state government is to encourage the involvement of state employees in the development of innovative ideas that will increase the productivity and service level of state government while decreasing the costs of state government. The general assembly realizes that employee incentive programs that reward state employees for innovative ideas by allowing and incentivizing the employees to share the cost savings resulting from such innovative ideas will help encourage employee involvement in making state government more efficient and effective. The general assembly further recognizes that rewarding state employees' ideas may also increase employee morale and enthusiasm, decrease employee turnover, and improve customer service.

24-50-903. State employee idea application.

(1) (a) (I) No later than October 1, 2010, the state personnel director, or his or her designee, shall create and make publicly available to all employees on the department of personnel's website an idea application, substantially similar to the Air Force form AF 1000, to allow employees to suggest state agency improvements that may result in cost savings at the state agency where the employee works. Each state agency executive director shall create agency-specific supplemental submission materials to the idea application if such materials are deemed necessary by the executive director to manage the submission process. Each state agency shall post such materials on its respective website.

(II) The idea application shall not be used for ideas that:

(A) Would result from obvious and progressive normal business practices, such as a foreseeable expectation that the idea would be implemented in a reasonable time frame as a result of evolving business or industry practice;

(B) Are obvious solutions to mandated budget cuts, such as abolishing vacant funded positions or reducing staff through layoffs;

(C) Result in cost avoidance as the method of documenting cost savings, such as no or lowered increases in costs for staff, supplies, or equipment;

(D) Result in revenue enhancement as the method of documenting cost savings, such as new or increased fees for services; or

(E) Simply shift the cost from one state agency to another.

(b) No later than October 1, 2010, the state personnel director, or his or her designee, shall establish standard evaluation criteria substantially similar to the evaluation criteria used to evaluate the Air Force form AF 1000, by which all idea applications shall be evaluated. Each state agency executive director may establish additional evaluation criteria specific to his or her agency if such criteria are deemed necessary by the executive director to manage the submission process.

(c) (I) Any employee may complete an idea application. For processing, the employee shall submit the idea application to the executive director of the employee's state agency. An employee shall not be retaliated against for submitting an idea application.

(II) The identity of an employee who submits an idea application shall remain confidential and shall be redacted from the application until the employee has been determined to be eligible for an honorary award as specified in paragraph (d) of subsection (4) of this section, except that the identity of the employee may be made known to the executive director, or his or her designee, for purposes of obtaining reasonably necessary additional information related to the idea application.

(III) (A) The executive director, or his or her designee, shall provide notification of receipt of the idea application to the employee within fifteen days after submission of such application. The executive director, or his or her designee, may automatically deny an idea application if he or she deems such application to be duplicative of another application that was submitted within the prior twelve-month period or duplicative of a recommendation contained in an audit report from the office of the state auditor or any privately contracted auditor, a joint budget committee staff document, or any other published evaluation of Colorado state government. The executive director, or his or her designee, shall provide notice of an automatic denial within fifteen days pursuant to this sub-subparagraph (A).

(B) The executive director, or his or her designee, shall cause, within forty-five business days from the date of submission of an idea application that was not automatically denied for reasons listed in this section or agency-specific evaluation criteria as developed by an executive director, a projected savings calculation to be made.

(C) The executive director shall respond with a decision either approving or denying the employee's idea application within sixty business days after the date of submission of the idea application. For any idea application that is approved, the executive director, or his or her designee, shall identify, to the extent possible, any state laws or rules that would need to be changed as part of the review and approval process. The executive director, or his or her designee, shall submit a request for legislation to the committee of reference assigned to such executive director's state agency regarding any approved idea application that requires legislation for implementation. Idea applications that do not require legislation for implementation shall be implemented by the state agency as soon as reasonably possible, and no later than July 1 of the fiscal year following acceptance of the idea application.

(IV) A copy of any employee's idea application that is not approved, along with a copy of the executive director's response, and any document indicating the projected savings shall be submitted by the director to the office of state planning and budgeting created in section 24-37-102 within sixty business days after submission of the idea application for the office of state planning and budgeting to review.

(V) The executive director, or his or her designee, shall maintain copies of all idea applications that are submitted, along with the following information for approved idea applications:

- (A) A description of the innovative idea implemented;

(3) The idea application and the advertisement described in subsection (2) of this section shall include information related to the honorary award specified in paragraph (d) of subsection (4) of this section that an employee may earn.

(4)(a) Once an idea application is submitted, reviewed, and accepted by the executive director, or his or her designee, the employee shall be informed of the honorary award he or she may earn.

(b) Thirteen months after the innovative idea described in the idea application is fully implemented, the executive director shall calculate the savings realized for the first twelve months of full implementation. All documentation of the savings realized calculation satisfying the requirements of paragraph (f) of this subsection (4) shall be forwarded to the state auditor for review and verification no later than two months after the twelve months of full implementation of the innovative idea described in the idea application. The state auditor shall have one hundred twenty days from receipt of the savings realized calculation to:

- (I) Conduct the review and verification of the savings realized calculation; and
 - (II) Submit a report with his or her findings, recommendations, and conclusions to the legislative audit committee, which shall hold a public hearing for the purposes of a review of the report.
- (c) The state auditor's report described in subparagraph (II) of paragraph (b) of this subsection (4) shall be submitted to the executive director who approved the idea application and to any members of the general assembly who carried any legislation to implement the idea.

(II) For a state agency that constitutes an enterprise for purposes of section 20 of article X of the state constitution, the savings realized as verified by the state auditor as specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (4) shall be distributed, no later than the last day of the eighteenth month following the implementation of the innovative idea, as follows:

(A) Five percent, up to five thousand dollars, of the savings realized as a one-time honorary award to the employee who submitted the idea application;

(B) The remainder, after the distribution made pursuant to sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (II), to the state agency and to the general fund. The amount distributed to the general fund shall be the same percentage of the savings realized that the state agency receives in total annual revenues from the state general fund.

(III) If the savings realized result in savings of federal moneys, the federal moneys saved shall not be distributed as specified in this paragraph (d) but shall either be used for a reallocation of moneys within the state agency or shall revert, depending on the use specified for those particular federal moneys.

(IV) If the savings realized result in savings of moneys from public or private grants, gifts, awards, or donations where the use of such moneys is restricted, such restricted moneys shall not be distributed as specified in this paragraph (d) but shall either be used for a reallocation of moneys within the state agency or shall revert, depending on the use specified for such particular restricted moneys.

(e) (I) Except as provided in subparagraphs (II) and (III) of this paragraph (e), the state agency may use the distribution specified in sub-subparagraph (B) of subparagraph (I) of paragraph (d) of this subsection (4) for any projects that would increase that state agency's efficiency or improve services provided to state residents, but the distribution shall not be used to hire additional full-time equivalent employees or for personnel services expenditures other than the distribution specified in sub-subparagraph (A) of subparagraph (I) of paragraph (d) of this subsection (4).

(II) Any savings realized distributed to the department of transportation pursuant to subparagraph (B) of subparagraph (I) of paragraph (d) of this subsection (4) shall be transferred to the state highway fund created in section 43-1-219, C.R.S., and shall only be used for material costs of road and bridge repairs.

(III) This paragraph (e) shall not apply to a state agency that constitutes an enterprise for purposes of section 20 of article X of the state constitution.

(f) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, the state auditor shall only be required to undertake the review and verification required by paragraph (b) of this subsection (4) where the executive director has made a determination that the savings realized for the first twelve months of full implementation of the innovative idea described in the idea application equals ten thousand or more dollars.

(5) Nothing in this part 9 shall be construed to provide employees with any grievance, dispute resolution, or appeals process with regard to any idea application submitted by the employee.

ANNOTATION

The State Administrative Procedure Act (APA) does not conflict with, but rather supplements, the appeal procedures set forth in this act. The APA fills the procedural gap left by the act when the division assigns a hearing officer to decide an appeal of the state personnel director's coverage decision under subsection (4) of this section and § 24-50-1115 (1). Colo. Workers for Innovative v. Gherardini, 2023 COA 80, 540 P.3d 950.

Nothing in this act or the division's organic statute authorizes the division to promulgate a rule that deprives a party of its right to appeal a hearing officer's decision via the exceptions procedure provided in § 24-4-105 (14)(a)(II). Colo. Workers for Innovative v. Gherardini, 2023 COA 80, 540 P.3d 950.

24-50-1107. Rights of covered employees.

(1) Covered employees shall have the right to self-organization; to form, join, or assist an employee organization; to engage in the partnership process and the formation of a partnership agreement collectively through representatives of their own choosing; to engage in other concerted activities for the purpose of the partnership process or other mutual aid or protection; and shall also have the right to refrain from any or all such activities, without interference, restraint, or coercion by the state or employee organization.

(2) Covered employees have the right to communicate with one another and with employee organization representatives concerning organization, representation, workplace issues, the partnership process, and the business and programs of certified employee organizations by means of email systems, texts, other electronic communications, telephone, paper documents, and other means of communication subject to reasonable restrictions.

(3) (a) Within sixty days of June 16, 2020, the state shall complete a one-time notification process to inform each covered employee of the option to direct the state not to provide a certified employee organization the covered employee's home address, home and personal cellular phone numbers, and personal email address.

(b) The state shall inform new employees, within thirty days of their start date, of the option to opt out pursuant to subsection (3)(a) of this section.

(c) At any time, a covered employee may direct the state to not provide the employee's home address, home and personal cellular phone numbers, and personal email address. A covered employee may rescind such request at any time.

(d) Any communication by the state pursuant to this subsection (3) shall be subject to the requirements of section 24-50-1111 (7)(a) and shall be neutral with respect to the employee's exercise of this option.

(4) The interference with the rights as stated in this section by the state or certified employee organization constitutes an unfair labor practice subject to review pursuant to section 24-50-1113 (3).

24-50-1108. Rights of certified employee organizations.

The certified employee organization shall have reasonable access to covered employees at work, through electronic communication and other means. Reasonable access shall be determined through the partnership agreement process pursuant to section 24-50-1112. The certified employee organization is the only employee organization that has the right to such access except to the extent access is provided to the general public.

24-50-1109. Duties of the certified employee organization.

(1) In performing its duties under this part 11, the certified employee organization shall represent the interests of all covered employees without discrimination or regard to membership in the certified employee organization, and shall negotiate partnership agreements that apply equally to all covered employees regardless of membership status in the certified employee organization. This does not limit the state and the certified employee organization from having a partnership agreement that also covers department or agency specific issues.

(2) The certified employee organization is not required to represent covered employees in personnel actions pursuant to section 13 (8) of article XII of the state constitution and sections 24-50-123, 24-50-124, 24-50-125, and 24-50-125.3 before the state personnel board or in any other proceeding not created by a partnership agreement negotiated pursuant to this part 11.

(3) (a) A certified employee organization shall not threaten, facilitate, support, or cause a state employee:

(I) Strike;

(II) Work stoppage;

(III) Work slowdown;

(IV) Group sick out; or

(V) Action that disrupts, on a widespread basis, the day-to-day functioning of the state or any of its agencies or departments.

(b) Any controversy concerning an activity prohibited by subsection (3)(a) of this section may be submitted to the division pursuant to section 24-50-1113. Upon finding that the certified employee organization has violated subsection (3)(a) of this section, the division shall award any appropriate relief, including but not limited to sanctions, fines, or decertification. If decertified by the division, an employee organization may including but not limited to sanctions, fines, or decertification. If decertified by the division, an employee organization may begin the certification process in section 24-50-1106 (2) after one year from the date of decertification.

(c) Nothing in this subsection (3) prohibits the certified employee organization from engaging in other concerted activities for the purpose of the partnership process of other mutual aid or protection, without interference, restraint, or coercion by the state.

(4) It shall constitute an unfair labor practice subject to review pursuant to section 24-50-1113 (3) for the certified employee organization to engage in the activities prohibited by this section, or to fail to discharge its duties under this section.

(5) Covered employees who are found to have engaged in prohibited conduct described in this section may be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination.

24-50-1110. Executive and management rights.

(1) Nothing in this part 11 impairs the ability of the state to:

(a) Exercise any right or responsibility reserved to an appointing authority, the director, or the state personnel board pursuant to the state personnel system as described in section 13 of article XII of the state constitution and part 1 of this article 50 and rules or procedures promulgated by the state personnel board or the director pursuant to section 24-50-101 (3)(c);

 - (f) Make, amend and enforce, or revoke reasonable personal conduct rules; or
 - (g) Take such actions as may be necessary to carry out any government function during an emergency.
- (2) Nothing in this part 11 or in any partnership agreement may restrict, duplicate, or usurp any responsibility of or power granted to the governor, the director, or state personnel board by the state constitution or the Colorado Revised Statutes.
- (3) Nothing in this part 11 shall prevent the state from convening, or engaging in discussions with any state employee or group of state employees to accomplish any of the matters listed in this section.

24-50-1111. Duties of the state.

- (1) The state shall make payroll deductions for membership dues and other payments that covered employees authorize to be made to the certified employee organization and related entities. The certified employee organization and related entities shall be the only employee organization for which the state shall make payroll deductions from covered employees.
- (2) The state shall honor the terms of covered employees' authorizations for payroll deductions made in any form that satisfies the requirements of the "Uniform Electronic Transactions Act", article 71.3 of this title 24, including without limitation electronic authorizations, including voice authorizations, that meet the requirements of an electronic signature as defined in section 24-71.3-102 (8). Covered employees' requests to cancel or change authorizations for payroll deductions shall be directed to the certified employee organization rather than to the state. The certified employee organization shall be responsible for processing these requests in accordance with the terms of the authorization. An authorization for a payroll deduction may not be irrevocable for a period of more than one year. A certified employee organization that certifies that it has and will maintain individual covered employee authorizations is not required to provide a copy of an individual authorization to the state unless a dispute arises about the existence or terms of that authorization. The certified employee organization shall indemnify the state for any claims made by the covered employee for deductions made in reliance on that information.

(3) (a) Each month the department of personnel shall, unless prohibited by law, provide to a certified employee organization the following information for each covered employee:

(I) Name, employee identification number, department, job class, job title, work telephone number, work email address, work location, salary, and date of hire, as contained in the statewide system of record; and

(II) Home address, home and personal cellular phone numbers, and personal email address unless directed by the covered employee not to provide the same pursuant to section 24-50-1107 (3).

(b) If the information is not contained in the statewide system of record, the department of personnel shall provide the employee organization notice and will have no obligation to provide the information until it is contained in the statewide system of record.

(c) A certified employee organization shall treat the information it receives under this subsection (3) as confidential and may not release the information to any third party except for the purpose of carrying out the certified employee organization's duties under this title 24 and communicating with covered employees.

(d) Records created in complying with this subsection (3) and containing a covered employee's personal home address, home and personal cellular phone number, and personal email address shall be exempt from the "Colorado Open Records Act", part 2 of article 72 of this title 24.

(4) Within thirty days of a covered employee being hired, the state shall allow the certified employee organization to meet with that covered employee during work time as determined by subsection (5)(c) of this section.

(5) (a) The state must provide the certified employee organization access to its new employee orientations on paid time for newly hired covered employees.

(b) The state must provide the certified employee organization at least ten days notice in advance of a new employee orientation; except that a shorter notice may be provided where there is an urgent need critical to the state's operations that was not reasonably foreseeable.

(c) The state and the certified employee organization shall determine the structure, time, and manner of the employee organization's access through the partnership agreement process set forth in section 24-50-1112.

(6) After the state and the certified employee organization reach a partnership agreement, the initial or supplemental budget request from the governor to the general assembly shall include sufficient appropriations to implement the terms of the agreement requiring the expenditure of money. The provisions of a partnership agreement that require the expenditure of money shall be contingent upon the availability of money and the specific appropriation of money by the general assembly. If the general assembly rejects any part of the request, or while accepting the request takes any action which would result in a modification of the terms of the cost item submitted to it, either party may reopen negotiations concerning economic issues.

(7) The state and its designees and agents, including the governor's designee, the executive directors of state agencies, and other state officials charged with administering partnership agreements, shall engage in good faith in all aspects of the partnership process. The state and its designees and agents shall not:

(a) Take any action or make any statement in favor of or in opposition to a covered employee's decision to participate in, select, or join an employee organization, or to refrain from these activities; except that the state may respond to questions from a covered employee pertaining to the covered employee's employment or any matter described in this part 11, provided that such response is neutral toward participation, selection, and membership in an employee organization;

(b) Expend public money or resources for a negative campaign against an employee organization or provide assistance to any individual or group to engage in such a campaign. It is not a violation of this section for the state to respond to any requests pursuant to the "Colorado Open Records Act", part 2 of article 72 of this title 24, or to exercise any other obligation required by law.

(c) Interfere with, restrain, or coerce covered employees from exercising the rights granted by this part 11; except that this subsection (7)(c) does not impair the right of a certified employee organization to prescribe its own rules with respect to recruiting and maintaining its membership subject to section 24-50-1109 (3)(a);

(d) Discharge or discriminate against any covered employee because the employee filed an affidavit, or gave any information or testimony under this part 11, or because the employee formed, joined, or chose to be represented by any employee organization, or refrained from any such activities;

(e) Refuse to participate in the partnership process set forth in section 24-50-1112, once a certified employee organization is certified; or

(f) Refuse to participate in the partnership dispute resolution process.

(8) It shall constitute an unfair labor practice subject to review pursuant to section 24-50-1113 (3) for the state to engage in the activities prohibited under this section, or to fail to discharge its duties under this section. The governor shall not be subject to an unfair labor practice charge.

24-50-1112. Partnership agreements.

(1) Within thirty days after June 16, 2020, if an employee organization is already certified, or within sixty days after an employee organization has been certified pursuant to a representation election, or no later than April 15 of the year preceding the expiration of a partnership agreement, the state shall begin meetings to discuss and cooperatively draft a mutually agreed upon written partnership agreement to be binding on the state, the certified employee organization, and covered employees when ratified by the certified employee organization and approved by the governor. Subject to section 24-50-1110, both the certified employee organization and the state shall bargain in good faith to reach agreement on wages, hours, and terms and conditions of employment for all covered employees. Neither the certified employee organization nor the state shall be required to agree to a proposal or to make a concession. Disputes shall be resolved pursuant to section 24-50-1113.

(2) The parties shall bargain over wages, hours, and terms and conditions of employment. All other subjects are permissive and may be addressed during bargaining upon mutual agreement of the parties. A partnership agreement may not include a requirement or agreement that the executive branch or any department negotiate with respect to the statutory function of any department or agency or matters related to the public employees' retirement association.

(3) (a) Economic issues, matters impacting all covered employees, matters that necessitate statewide uniformity pursuant to the state constitution, the Colorado Revised Statutes, or administrative rule, shall be negotiated between the certified employee organization and the governor's designee. The governor's designee may consult with the executive director charged with administering the issues subject to statewide bargaining.

(b) Matters impacting covered employees in a single department or agency or subdivision thereof shall be negotiated by the certified employee organization and the executive director of the department or agency or the executive director's designee. Any agreements made at the department or agency level shall be incorporated into the partnership agreement. The certified employee organization and the executive director of the department or agency may choose to bring department or agency matters to statewide bargaining upon mutual agreement.

(4) A partnership agreement shall provide for a partnership agreement grievance procedure culminating in final and binding arbitration to resolve disputes over the interpretation, application, and enforcement of any provision of the partnership agreement.

(5) A partnership agreement that is executed by the state and the certified employee organization is enforceable and binding on the state, the certified employee organization, and covered employees covered by the agreement. In the event of conflict between the provisions of a partnership agreement and state laws or rules in effect as of the initial partnership agreement, state laws and rules control.

(6) Meetings and discussions held pursuant to this section and the partnership agreement grievance and arbitration process specified in subsection (4) of this section and the dispute resolution process specified in section 24-50-1113 are not meetings as defined in section 24-6-402.

(7) Except for a partnership agreement submitted for ratification, all documents, proposals, and draft and tentative agreements drafted or exchanged pursuant to the process established in this section are privileged and not subject to disclosure pursuant to the "Colorado Open Records Act", part 2 of article 72 of this title 24. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent a certified employee organization or the state from presenting such materials in any partnership agreement grievance or arbitration process pursuant to subsection (4) of this section or the dispute resolution process specified in section 24-50-1113.

24-50-1113. Dispute resolution.

(1) If disputes arise during the formation of a partnership agreement, the certified employee organization and the state, to encourage a true cooperative partnership, shall engage in the dispute resolution process established in this section or an alternative procedure established by mutual agreement. All deadlines may be extended pursuant to mutual agreement of the parties.

(2) (a) If the certified employee organization and the state cannot reach agreement within ninety calendar days after commencing meetings to draft a partnership agreement, either party may request that the matters on which the parties cannot reach agreement be sent to mediation with a mutually agreed upon mediator. The mediator shall be selected from a list of five candidates provided by a respected, national, not-for-profit entity that provides alternative dispute resolution services.

(b) If the parties do not reach an agreement on outstanding issues within thirty calendar days after commencing mediation, the mediator shall issue a recommendation on all of the outstanding issues. The mediator shall issue the recommendation within fifteen calendar days of the end of the thirty-day mediation period. The mediator's recommendation shall be shared with both parties and either party may share it with others or make it public.

(c) If, after mediation, the parties do not reach agreement on all issues, they may enter into a partnership agreement on the issues on which they have reached agreement.

(d) The cost of the mediator pursuant to this section shall be shared equally by the certified employee organization and the state.

(e) With the exception of the recommendation of the mediator, all documents, proposals, and draft and tentative agreements, drafted or exchanged pursuant to the process established in this section, are privileged and not subject to disclosure pursuant to the "Colorado Open Records Act", part 2 of article 72 of this title 24.

(3) Any controversy concerning unfair labor practices of the state or certified employee organization may be submitted to the division by the state, certified employee organization, or affected employee in a manner and with the effect provided in article 3 of title 8 and rules promulgated thereunder; except that nothing in this part 11 prevents the pursuit of equitable or legal relief in courts of competent jurisdiction. A claimant is not required to exhaust administrative remedies.

(1) The certified employee organization or the state may seek judicial review of the division's decisions or orders on classification of covered employees under section 24-50-1106 (4); representation or decertification petitions under section 24-50-1106; division decisions on unfair labor practice charges under section 24-50-1113 (3); or rules or regulations issued by the division under this part 11, in the manner and with the effect provided in the "State Administrative Procedures Act", article 4 of this title 24, and rules promulgated thereunder.

(2) (a) The certified employee organization or the state may seek judicial review of an arbitrator's decision on a partnership agreement grievance pursuant to section 24-50-1112 (4) in a district court in the city and county of Denver.

(b) The arbitrator's decision shall be enforced and the parties shall comply with the decision and award unless the district court concludes that:

- (I) The decision and award was procured by corruption, fraud, or undue means;
- (II) The arbitrator exceeded his or her authority;
- (III) The decision and award did not draw its essence from the partnership agreement; or
- (IV) The decision and award violated public policy, that the arbitrator engaged in manifest disregard of the law, or that the arbitration denied the parties a fundamentally fair hearing.

(a) A technology platform with the required capabilities for conducting a PBM reverse auction. The department shall ensure that the technology platform possesses, at a minimum, the capacity to:

Subsequent contracts must be awarded no later than three months prior to termination or expiration of the current PBM services contract for a covered group, such as the state employees benefits group, that includes only active employees and dependents, but does not include retiree participants in a medicare Part D employer group waiver program pursuant to the "Medicare Prescription Drug, Improvement, and Modernization Act of 2003", Pub.L. 108-173.

(b) In the event an eligible covered group that includes retiree participants in a Part D employer group waiver program pursuant to the "Medicare Prescription Drug, Improvement, and Modernization Act of 2003", Pub.L. 108-173, opts to use the processes and procedures set forth in this part 12, the relevant PBM reverse auction shall be completed and the PBM services contract shall be awarded to the winning PBM no later than six months prior to termination or expiration of the PBM services contract currently covering the retiree employer group waiver program participants.

(8) The department may perform a market check for providing PBM services during the term of the current PBM services contract, which shall be a technology-driven evaluation of the incumbent PBM's prescription drug pricing based on benchmark comparators derived from PBM reverse auction processes conducted in the United States over the previous twelve months in order to ensure continuing competitiveness of incumbent prescription drug pricing over the life of a PBM services contract.

(9) To ensure that the department does not incur additional expenditures associated with conduct of the PBM reverse auction, ongoing electronic review and validations of PBM claims, and optional periodic market checks, the department shall implement a no-pay option that obligates the winning PBM, rather than the state, to pay the cost of the technology platform and related technology platform operator services by assessing the PBM a per-prescription fee in an amount agreed to by the department and the technology operator and requiring the PBM to pay these fees to the technology operator over the duration of the PBM services contract. The obligation of the winning PBM to pay the per-prescription fees shall be incorporated as a term of the participant bidding agreement and the PBM services contract awarded to the PBM reverse auction winner.

(10) (a) The processes and procedures set forth in this part 12 apply to group benefit plans provided pursuant to the "State Employees Group Benefits Act", part 6 of this article 50. This part 12 shall not apply in the case of a nonprofit, nongovernmental health maintenance organization with respect to managed care plans that provide a majority of covered professional services through a single contracted medical group.

(b) Any other self-funded public sector health plan may use the processes and procedures set forth in this part 12 individually, collectively, or as a joint purchasing group with the group benefit plans provided pursuant to the "State Employees Group Benefits Act", part 6 of this article 50.

(c) (I) After completion of the first PBM reverse auction, self-funded private sector health plans with substantial participation by Colorado employees and their dependents shall have the option to participate in a joint purchasing pool with state employees for subsequent PBM reverse auctions.

(II) The group benefit plans provided pursuant to the "State Employees Group Benefits Act", part 6 of this article 50, and any self-funded public sector health plans or self-funded private sector health plans that opt to participate with the state employees group benefits plan in a joint PBM reverse auction purchasing pool shall retain full autonomy over determination of their respective prescription drug formularies and pharmacy benefit designs and shall not be required to adopt a common prescription drug formulary or common prescription pharmacy benefit design. Any such entity or purchasing group shall agree, before participating in the PBM reverse auction, to accept the prescription drug pricing plan that is selected through the PBM reverse auction process.

(III) Any PBM providing services to the department, to self-funded public sector health plans, or to self-funded private sector health plans as described in this section shall provide the department and the plan access to complete pharmacy claims data necessary to conduct the reverse auction and carry out their administrative and management duties.

(11) Notwithstanding section 24-50-1204 (1), the department may elect to vacate the outcome of a PBM reverse auction if the lowest cost PBM bid is not less than the projected cost trend for the incumbent PBM contract as verified by the department. The department may utilize a consultant to make the verification. The cost trend shall be projected by the technology platform operator using industry-recognized data sources and is subject to review and approval by the department in advance of the reverse auction. Methodology must be applied consistently in projection of cost and savings to the state with regard to the incumbent PBM contract and competing PBM reverse auction bids.

(1) The general assembly declares that the people of Colorado are entitled to information about the workings of state government in order to reduce the waste and mismanagement of public funds, to reduce abuses in government authority, and to prevent illegal and unethical practices. The general assembly further declares that employees of the state of Colorado are citizens first and have a right and a responsibility to behave as good citizens in our common efforts to provide sound management of governmental affairs. To help achieve these objectives, the general assembly declares that state employees should be encouraged to disclose information on actions of state agencies that are not in the public interest and that legislation is needed to ensure that any employee making such disclosures shall not be subject to disciplinary measures or harassment by any public official.

24-50.5-102. Definitions.

As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Disciplinary action" means any direct or indirect form of discipline or penalty, including, but not limited to, dismissal, demotion, transfer, reassignment, suspension, corrective action, reprimand, admonishment, unsatisfactory or below standard performance evaluation, reduction in force, or withholding of work, or the threat of any such discipline or penalty.

(2) "Disclosure of information" means the written provision of evidence to any person, or the testimony before any committee of the general assembly, regarding any action, policy, regulation, practice, or procedure, including, but not limited to, the waste of public funds, abuse of authority, or mismanagement of any state agency.

(3) "Employee" means any person employed by a state agency.

(4) "State agency" means any board, commission, department, division, section, or other agency of the executive, legislative, or judicial branch of state government.

(5) "Supervisor" means any board, commission, department head, division head, or other person who supervises or is responsible for the work of one or more employees.

(6) Repealed.

Editor's note: Subsection (6)(b) provided for the repeal of subsection (6), effective May 15, 2018. (See L. 2016, p. 1195.)

"Disclosure of information" is not limited to written evidence but includes oral or verbal disclosures as well. Ward v. Indus. Comm'n, 699 P.2d 960 (Colo. 1985).

Court properly ruled that only a disclosure of information that touches on a matter of public concern can support a civil action under the whistleblower act. Ferrel v. Colo. Dept. of Corr., 179 P.3d 178 (Colo. App. 2007).

A home rule city created under article XX, § 6, of the Colorado constitution is not an agency or subdivision of the state. Clark-Wine v. City of Colo. Springs, 556 F. Supp. 2d 1238 (D. Colo. 2008).

24-50.5-103. Retaliation prohibited - repeal.

(1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, an appointing authority or supervisor shall not initiate or administer any disciplinary action against an employee on account of the employee's disclosure of information. This subsection (1) does not apply to an employee who discloses:

(a) Information that he or she knows to be false or who discloses information with disregard for the truth or falsity of the information;

(b) Information from public records that are closed to public inspection pursuant to section 24-72-204; or

(c) Without lawful authority, information that is confidential under any other provision of law or closed to public inspection under section 24-72-204 (2)(a)(I) and (2)(a)(VIII).

(2) An employee who wishes to disclose information under the protection of this article is obligated to make a good-faith effort to provide to his or her supervisor or appointing authority or member of the general assembly the information to be disclosed prior to the time of its disclosure.

(2.5) An appointing authority or supervisor shall not initiate or administer any disciplinary action against an employee on account of the employee's disclosure of information to the fraud hotline administered by the state auditor in accordance with section 2-3-110.5; except that this subsection (2.5) does not apply to an employee who discloses information with disregard for the truth or falsity of the information.

(3) to (11) Repealed.

ANNOTATION

In enacting this section the general assembly created a non-contractual, statutory action for retaliatory discharge that is tortious in nature. State Pers. Bd. v. Lloyd, 752 P.2d 559 (Colo. 1988).

Whistleblower act protects employee of one state agency from disciplinary action due to his disclosure of information about another agency. Lanes v. O'Brien, 746 P.2d 1366 (Colo. App. 1987).

Because the whistleblower statute was intended to create a non-contractual, statutory action that is tortious in nature, a claim brought under the statute is subject to the notice requirements of the Colorado governmental immunity act. Conde v. State Dept. of Pers., 872 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1994).

Whistleblower did not substantially comply with the notice provisions of the Colorado governmental immunity act where the notice contained no references whatsoever to incidents of retaliatory harassment or failure to promote. Conde v. State Dept. of Pers., 872 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1994).

Burden of proof. In determining whether reduction of terminated state employees' unemployment benefits would violate the protection granted by the statute, the claimant must establish that his disclosures fell within the protection of the statute and that they were a substantial or motivating factor in the employer's opposition to his receipt of benefits and, if the claimant makes such initial showing, then the employer must establish by the preponderance of the evidence that it would have reached the same decision even in the absence of the protected conduct. Ward v. Indus. Comm'n, 699 P.2d 960 (Colo. 1985).

Whistleblower's allegations of invasion of privacy are not "disciplinary actions" within the meaning of subsection (1). Conde v. State Dept. of Pers., 872 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1994).

Trial court properly instructed jury on the elements and burden of proof, therefore, jury instructions were not conflicting or defective. Taylor v. Regents of the Univ. of Colo., 179 P.3d 246 (Colo. App. 2007).

24-50.5-104. Complaints by state personnel system employees - limitation period.

(1) Any employee in the state personnel system may file a written complaint with the state personnel board within ten days after the employee knew or should have known of a disciplinary action alleging a violation of section 24-50.5-103 if the employee demonstrates that reasonable communication to the employee's supervisor, appointing authority, or member of the general assembly has occurred in regard to the alleged violation. Within ten days after receiving the complaint, the state personnel board shall send a copy of the complaint to the affected state agency and shall provide the employee with written notice that the complaint has been received and docketed and that sets forth the process for reviewing such complaint. The affected state agency shall submit a written response to the complaint within forty-five days after the date the complaint was filed with the state personnel board. The state personnel board shall set the matter for review in accordance with section 24-50-123 or for hearing to commence not later than ninety days after the receipt of the written response filed by the agency. The hearing date may be continued once only for good cause shown for no longer than thirty days with the approval of the state personnel board. Any hearing conducted pursuant to this section shall take precedence over any other matter pending before the state personnel board.

(2) If the state personnel board after hearing determines that a violation of section 24-50.5-103 has occurred, the state personnel board shall order, within forty-five days after such hearing, the appropriate relief, including, but not limited to, reinstatement, back pay, restoration of lost service credit, and expungement of the records of the employee who disclosed information, and, in addition, the state personnel board shall order that the employee filing the complaint be reimbursed for any costs, including any court costs and attorney fees, if any, incurred in the proceeding. Such reimbursement shall be made out of moneys appropriated to the agency that employs such employee. Judicial review of any determination by the state personnel board under this subsection (2) may be had in accordance with section 24-4-106.

(3) It shall be a defense in any grievance or appeal before the state personnel board that the disciplinary action against an employee was initiated in violation of section 24-50.5-103, and the issue of the violation of section 24-50.5-103 shall be determined by the state personnel board as a part of the related grievance or appeal. The failure to raise any such defense shall bar any subsequent cause of action for a violation of section 24-50.5-103 arising out of the same set of facts at issue in the related grievance or appeal.

(4) Whenever the state personnel board determines that an appointing authority or supervisor has violated section 24-50.5-103, the appointing authority or supervisor shall receive a disciplinary action which shall remain a permanent part of the appointing authority's or supervisor's personnel file, and a copy of the disciplinary action shall be provided to the employee. The disciplinary action shall be appropriate to the circumstances, from a mandatory minimum of one week suspension or equivalent up to and including termination. In considering the appropriate disciplinary action pursuant to this subsection (4), the appointing authority or supervisor of the appointing authority or supervisor who has committed such violation shall consider the nature and severity of the retaliatory conduct involved.

(5) The state personnel board shall promulgate rules consistent with the provisions of this article that establish the procedures for filing complaints with the state personnel board under this section and that identify the rights and obligations of employees under this article.

ANNOTATION

When public employee is wrongfully terminated, he is entitled to damages under § 24-50.5-104 (2), but only such damages as will make employee whole. Any award of back pay must have deducted from it any compensation which employee earned from other sources after his termination which, but for his termination, he would not have earned. Lanes v. O'Brien, 746 P.2d 1366 (Colo. App. 1987).

Claimant is bound by reductions as well as raises in pay and benefits adopted for all employees after the date of claimant's termination. Lanes v. State Auditor's Office, 797 P.2d 764 (Colo. App. 1990).

Expenses incurred to secure and maintain other employment may be set off against claimant's compensation from such other employment which must be deducted from back pay award. Lanes v. State Auditor's Office, 797 P.2d 764 (Colo. App. 1990).

Board may award interest, even if interest is not formally requested by claimant. Lanes v. State Auditor's Office, 797 P.2d 764 (Colo. App. 1990).

"Costs" referred to in § 24-50.5-104 (2) do not include attorney fees, in absence of a showing that the public employee's discharge was frivolous, in bad faith, malicious, a means of harassment, or otherwise groundless. Lanes v. O'Brien, 746 P.2d 1366 (Colo. App. 1987).

In a case where state auditor has violated the Whistleblower act, there is no requirement in statute that an independent auditor be appointed to investigate information concerning waste of public funds or mismanagement. Lanes v. O'Brien, 746 P.2d 1366 (Colo. App. 1987).

The board lacks subject matter jurisdiction to consider the complaint of an employee of the office of information technology who was not transferred to the office from another state agency, as nontransferred employees of the office are not in the state personnel system. Gieck v. Office of Info. Tech., 2020 COA 81, 467 P.3d 1277.

24-50.5-105. Civil action.

Any employee not in the state personnel system, or any employee in the state personnel system who filed a complaint under section 24-50.5-104 (1) but the state personnel board determined after review or hearing that no violation of section 24-50.5-103 occurred, may bring a civil action in the district court alleging a violation of section 24-50.5-103. If the employee prevails, the employee may recover damages, together with court costs, and the court may order such other relief as it deems appropriate.

ANNOTATION

Compliance with the notice of claim provision of the Governmental Immunity Act, § 24-10-109, is necessary when an employee brings suit under the whistleblower statute seeking relief for injuries covered by § 24-10-103 (2). State Pers. Bd. v. Lloyd, 752 P.2d 559 (Colo. 1988).

Dismissal of a civil action filed under this section before trial is appropriate if the plaintiff did not make a disclosure of information as defined in § 24-50.5-102 (2) because the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act does not waive sovereign immunity in such a circumstance. Because the question of whether a claim falls within an exception to the CGIA's waiver of immunity is a question of subject matter jurisdiction, resolution of a factual dispute needed to determine the jurisdiction question is for the trial court rather than the jury. Ferrel v. Colo. Dept. of Corr., 179 P.3d 178 (Colo. App. 2007).

24-50.5-105.5. Nondisclosure agreements - protection of state employees - definitions.

(1) (a) Neither the state nor any department, institution, or agency of the state shall make it a condition of employment that an employee executes a contract or other form of agreement that prohibits, prevents, or otherwise restricts the employee from disclosing factual circumstances concerning the employee's employment with the state or any of its departments, institutions, or agencies unless the prohibition or restriction in the contract or agreement is necessary to prevent disclosure of:

(I) The employee's identity, facts that might lead to the discovery of the employee's identity, or factual circumstances relating to the employment that reasonably implicate legitimate privacy interests of the employee who is a party to the agreement if the employee elects in the employee's sole discretion to restrict disclosure of the employee's identity or such facts and circumstances;

(II) Data; information, including personal identifying information, as defined in section 24-74-102 (1); or matters that are required to be kept confidential by federal law or regulations, the state constitution, state law, state regulations, or state rules, or a court of law or as attorney-client privileged communications, as privileged work product, as communications related to a threatened or pending legal or administrative action, or as materials related to personnel or regulatory investigations by the employer;

(III) Nonpublic and confidential labor relations positions and strategies;

(IV) Attorney work product;

(V) Vendor lists and vendor preferences;

(XIV) Trade secrets owned by the employer.

(b) Any provision in any contract or agreement that violates subsection (1)(a) of this section is deemed to be against public policy and is unenforceable against an employee unless the provision is intended to prevent disclosure of:

(I) The employee's identity, facts that might lead to the discovery of the employee's identity, or factual circumstances relating to the employment that reasonably implicate legitimate privacy interests of the employee who is a party to the agreement if the employee elects in the employee's sole discretion to restrict disclosure of the employee's identity or such facts and circumstances;

(II) Data; information, including personal identifying information, as defined in section 24-74-102 (1); or matters that are required to be kept confidential by federal law or regulations, the state constitution, state law, state regulations, or state rules, or a court of law or as attorney-client privileged communications, as privileged work product, as communications related to a threatened or pending legal or administrative action, or as materials related to personnel or regulatory investigations by the employer;

(III) Nonpublic and confidential labor relations positions and strategies;

(IV) Attorney work product;

(V) Vendor lists and vendor preferences;

(2) (a) Neither the state nor any of its departments, institutions, or agencies shall take any materially adverse employment-related action, including, without limitation, withdrawal of an offer of employment, discharge, suspension, demotion, discrimination in the terms, conditions, or privileges of employment, or other adverse action against an employee on the grounds that the employee does not enter into a contract or agreement deemed to be against public policy and unenforceable under subsection (1)(b) of this section. The taking of such a materially adverse employment-related action after an employee has refused to enter into such a contract or agreement is prima facie evidence of retaliation.

(b) Any employer who enforces or attempts to enforce a provision deemed by a court to be against public policy and unenforceable pursuant to subsection (1) of this section is liable for the employee's reasonable attorney fees and costs in defending against the action.

(c) An action to enforce a provision of this section must be brought in the district court for the district in which the employee is primarily employed.

(3) A settlement agreement between an employer that is the state or a department, institution, or agency of the state and an employee of the state or the department, institution, or agency of the state must be signed by both the employer and the employee.

(4) A nondisclosure agreement must state that state employees are protected from retaliation for disclosure of information about state agencies that are working outside the public interest in accordance with the provisions of this article 50.5.

(5) A nondisclosure agreement may not prohibit the release of information required to be released under the "Colorado Open Records Act", part 2 of article 72 of this title 24.

(6) Nothing in this section prevents an employer from requiring an employee to enter into a nondisclosure agreement with a third party in the employee's official capacity and on behalf of the employer.

ADMINISTRATION

24-51-201. Public employees' retirement association - creation.

(1) There is hereby created the public employees' retirement association, for the purpose of providing the benefits and programs specified in this article, which shall be a body corporate with the right to sue and be sued and the right to hold property for its use and purposes. Notwithstanding the applicability of article 54.8 of this title and sections 2-3-103, 24-4-103, 24-6-202, and 24-6-402, C.R.S., as provided for in this article, the association shall not be subject to administrative direction by any department, commission, board, bureau, or agency of the state. The association is an instrumentality of the state.

(2) The public employees' retirement association, created pursuant to the provisions of subsection (1) of this section, shall consist of the following divisions:

- (a) The state division;
- (a.5) The school division;
- (b) (Deleted by amendment, L. 97, p. 771, § 5, effective July 1, 1997.)
- (c) The local government division;

- (d) The judicial division; and
- (e) The Denver public schools division.

Cross references: For the provisions that designate the public employees' retirement association as a "special purpose authority" for purposes of section 20 of article X of the Colorado constitution, see § 24-77-102 (15).

ANNOTATION

General statute of limitations provision governs cases involving claims for disability retirement benefits. The three-year statute of limitations in § 13-80-108 (now § 13-80-101) governs cases involving claims for disability retirement benefits from the public employees' retirement association in the absence of a special statute of limitations which provides for such claims. Flanigan v. Pub. Employees' Retirement Ass'n, 191 Colo. 198, 551 P.2d 702 (1976)

(decided under former § 24-51-102 as it existed prior to the 1987 repeal and reenactment of this article).

As an instrumentality of the state, PERA is not a "person" under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, and thus a claim for damages under that statute will not lie against it or its board. A claim for injunctive relief, however, is not so barred. Tepley v. Pub. Emp. Retirement Ass'n, 955 P.2d 573 (Colo. App. 1997).

24-51-202. Board of trustees - creation.

There is hereby created the board of trustees of the association, which shall have the responsibilities, duties, and authorities as set forth in this article.

Editor's note: This section is similar to former §§ 24-51-103, 24-51-209, and 24-51-606 as they existed prior to 1987. For a detailed comparison, see the comparative tables located in the back of the index.

24-51-203. Board - composition and election.

(1) The board consists of the following sixteen trustees:

(a) The state treasurer;

(b) Three members of the state division elected by the members of that division, at least one of whom shall be an employee of a state institution of higher education and at least one of whom shall not be an employee of a state institution of higher education;

(c) Four members of the school division elected by the members of that division;

(d) One member of the local government division elected by the members of that division;

(e) One member of the judicial division elected by the members of that division;

(f) Two retirees, one of whom shall be elected by those members who have retired from the local government division, the judicial division, or from the state division and one of whom shall be elected by those members who have retired from the local government division, the judicial division, or the school division; except that both retiree trustees cannot have retired from the same division; and

(g) Three trustees appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate who shall not be members, inactive members, or retirees of the association and who shall have significant experience and competence in investment management, finance, banking, economics, accounting, pension administration, or actuarial analysis. Of the three trustees appointed by the governor, no more than two shall be from the same political party.

(h) One trustee elected by the Denver public schools division through a Denver public schools election administered by the association. The trustee position created in this subsection (1)(h) exists so long as the Denver public schools division remains as a separate division of the association. The trustee elected pursuant to this subsection (1)(h) must be a member or retiree of the Denver public schools division. Effective June 1, 2026, the trustee elected pursuant to this subsection (1)(h) is a voting member of the board.

(1.5) Repealed.

(2) (a) The board shall set the time and manner for the elections of trustees representing members and retirees. Elected trustees may be reelected to the board but shall not serve more than two consecutive terms. Except for the state treasurer, the consecutive terms for any trustee shall not exceed eight years. A former trustee who has served two consecutive terms may be reelected to the board after not serving on the board for a period of at least one term.

(b) The limitation on the number of consecutive terms that a trustee representing members or retirees may serve that is set forth in subsection (2)(a) of this section applies to terms beginning on or after June 3, 2025.

(3) (a) The term for each of the trustees appointed by the governor is four years; except that the terms shall be staggered so that no more than one trustee's term expires in one year. Appointed trustees may be reappointed to the board but shall not serve more than two consecutive terms. A former trustee who has served two consecutive terms may be reappointed to the board after not serving on the board for a period of at least one term.

(b) The limitation on the number of consecutive terms that a trustee appointed by the governor may serve that is set forth in subsection (3)(a) of this section applies to terms beginning on or after June 3, 2025.

(4) When a vacancy occurs on the board among the elected trustees, the person who received the next highest number of votes in the most recent election of trustees shall be appointed to serve as trustee until the next election of trustees. If the person who received the next highest number of votes is unwilling to serve as a trustee or if the trustee who created the absence ran unopposed, the board shall appoint a trustee. In either case, the appointed trustee shall be from the same division as the trustee whose absence created the vacancy. A person appointed to serve as a trustee pursuant to this subsection (4) who serves at least one-half of the term for which the person is filling the vacancy shall be considered to have served a term for purposes of the limitation on consecutive terms set forth in subsection (2) of this section.

(5) When a vacancy occurs among the three appointed trustees, the governor shall appoint, with consent of the senate, a new trustee with the experience and competence specified in subsection (1)(g) of this section to serve the remainder of any unexpired term. The appointee may serve on a temporary basis if the general assembly is not in session when the appointee is appointed until the general assembly is in session and the senate is able to consent to the appointment. A person appointed to serve as trustee pursuant to this subsection (5) who serves at least one-half of the term for which the person is filling the vacancy shall be considered to have served a term for purposes of the limitation on consecutive terms set forth in subsection (3) of this section.

(6) The elected trustees shall serve without compensation but shall be reimbursed by the association for any necessary expenses incurred in the conduct of their official duties and shall suffer no loss of salary from an employer for service on the board.

(7) The appointed trustees shall be compensated by the association for their service on the board.

(8) No person can be or can continue to be a trustee of the board who has been adjudicated of having violated any provisions of this article or who has been convicted of a felony or any crime involving the misappropriation of funds.

24-51-204. Duties of the board - report.

(1) The trustees shall elect from among themselves a chairman and any other officers as may be necessary for the board to carry out its duties and responsibilities.

(2) (a) The board shall set the time and place for meetings, and conduct those meetings in accordance with part 4 of article 6 of this title 24.

(b) For purposes of part 4 of article 6 of this title 24, the board is a local public body, as defined in section 24-6-402 (1)(a)(I).

(3) No vote of the board shall take place without a quorum present.

(4) The board shall appoint and set the compensation for an executive director to administer the association.

(5) The board shall adopt and promulgate such rules for the administration of the association and to specify the factors to be used in actuarial determinations or calculations required by this article. All rules shall be promulgated in accordance with the provisions of section 24-4-103, and such rules shall be consistent with the provisions of this article or other provisions of law.

(6) The board shall submit to and the state auditor shall conduct or cause to be conducted financial and performance audits of all financial transactions and accounts kept by or for the association in a manner consistent with the requirements set forth in section 2-3-103, C.R.S.

(7) (a) The board or its designated agent shall submit an annual actuarial valuation report to the legislative audit committee and the joint budget committee of the general assembly, together with any recommendations concerning such liabilities that have accrued.

(b) In the annual actuarial valuation, the board shall first determine the total aggregate actuarial funded ratio of the association, apply the adjustments pursuant to section 24-51-1009.5, and then determine the actuarial funded ratio of each division separately.

(7.5) (a) The board or its designated agent shall perform an annual sensitivity analysis to determine when, from an actuarial perspective, model assumptions are meeting targets and achieving sustainability. In furtherance of making this determination, the board or its designated agent shall examine the data that the association currently collects. The board or its designated agent shall deliver an annual report detailing the findings of the analysis to the office of the governor, the joint budget committee, the legislative audit committee, and the finance committees of the senate and the house of representatives, or any successor committees.

(b) For purposes of the analysis required by subsection (7.5)(a) of this section, the association shall provide access to official member information and data under a confidentiality agreement with its designated agent, if applicable.

(8) The board or its designated agent shall prepare and transmit annually a report to the governor regarding the policies, financial condition, and administration of the association.

(9) The board shall obtain, and the association shall pay for, insurance or shall self-insure against liability which arises out of, or in connection with, the performance of duties by any trustee or employee of the association.

(10) The board shall perform all duties imposed on it by law, including but not limited to administering the provisions of the DPS plan for qualifying DPS members. The board shall not be liable for actions of members that do not comply with court orders.

(11) The board shall be immune from claims arising from the enforcement and implementation of laws regarding the consolidation or merger of retirement plans under its administration that are made a part of the association.

(12) Beginning with the actuarial experience study of the association that the board conducted in the 2024 calendar year, and every four years thereafter, the board shall conduct or cause to be conducted an actuarial experience study of the association. In addition, beginning in the 2026 calendar year, and every four years thereafter, the board shall conduct or cause to be conducted a periodic actuarial audit of the association. The board shall ensure that the periodic actuarial audit of the association conducted in the 2026 calendar year and every four years thereafter pursuant to this subsection (12) takes into consideration the results and findings of the most recent actuarial experience study of the association that was conducted pursuant to this subsection (12).

(13) (a) On and after January 1, 2025, the board shall post on and regularly maintain and update the association's website to include, in a downloadable format for free public access, the most current information concerning the following:

(I) The notice, with specific agenda information, if available, including any available presentations and other documents that might be considered at the next public meeting of the board as required by subsection (2) of this section;

(II) The policy for and process by which a member of the public may participate in each public meeting of the board;

(III) A link or other means of public access to the records of prior board meetings; and

(IV) The official email address that the board uses to send communications to each board member.

ANNOTATION

Rule-making power is limited to making rules for the administration of the fund and for the transaction of the business of the association and is subject to the limitations of this part and of the law. A rule that determines when a right that has arisen under an act passed by the general assembly shall cease to exist, though the legislative body itself has not seen fit to place any time limit upon the right granted, goes further than section permits. If such a limitation is to be imposed, it must be by legislative act and not by administrative rule. Annear v. McKelvey, 100 Colo. 213, 66 P.2d 536 (1937) (decided under former § 24-51-103 as it existed prior to the 1987 repeal and reenactment of this article).

24-51-205. General authority of the board.

(1) The board shall have the authority to determine membership status within the state, school, local government, judicial, and Denver public schools divisions; exemptions from membership; eligibility for benefits, life insurance, health care, the voluntary investment program, the association's defined contribution plan, and the deferred compensation plan; and service credit and salary to be used in calculations pursuant to the provisions of this article. Such decisions by the board may be appealed through the administrative review procedures set forth in the board rules. Such final decision by the board shall be subject only to review by proper court action.

(2) The board is authorized to accept on behalf of the association any moneys or properties received in the form of donations, gifts, appropriations, bequests, forfeitures, or otherwise, or income derived therefrom. This subsection (2) does not allow the board to accept or retain money held by the association that is presumed to be abandoned pursuant to section 38-13-216.

(3) The board is authorized to recover, through legal process or offset, any amount paid as benefits, refunds, single payments, premium subsidies, or other payments, to which the recipient is not entitled, with interest, plus attorney fees and costs associated with such recovery. If it is determined that the recipient was entitled to the amount paid, the recipient shall be entitled to the attorney fees and costs that he or she incurred in defending the legal action or offset initiated by the board.

(3.5) The board is authorized to settle or compromise any dispute on behalf of the association. The board may consider relevant factors regarding any dispute, including but not limited to the cost of litigation, the likelihood of success on the merits, the cost of delay in resolving the dispute, and the actuarial impact on the fund, in determining whether to settle or compromise the dispute.

(4) The board is authorized to use and hold property in a nominee partnership composed of trustees or employees of the association, designated by the board through appropriate resolution, to facilitate investment sale and exchange transactions. The partners of the nominee partnership shall be insured pursuant to the provisions of section 24-51-204 (9).

(5) The board may hold discussions in executive sessions which shall be closed to the public, in accordance with the provisions of section 24-51-204 (2).

(6) (a) The board may delegate any of its responsibilities, duties, and authorities as set forth in this article 51 to the executive director of the association or to designated agents of the association. The board shall retain final authority and responsibility for the management of the association and all duties and powers authorized by this article 51 through the administrative review procedures authorized by subsection (1) of this section. Subject to subsection (6)(b) of this section, the executive director may correct an administrative error made by the board, the executive director, or the employees of the association and may make any appropriate correcting adjustments upon receiving written documentation of the following:

- (I) That the error was an administrative error of the plan;
- (II) That the error was not caused or contributed to in whole or in part by an employer, member, retiree, or other person eligible to receive payments from the association; and
- (III) That the error was discovered on or after July 1, 1997.

(b) The executive director shall file a report monthly with the board setting forth the administrative errors corrected pursuant to subsection (6)(a) of this section. Such corrections shall be subject to board review after which the board may take any action it deems appropriate with regard to such errors.

(7) The board is authorized to purchase and maintain appropriate annuity contracts for the purpose of providing a voluntary contribution program to qualified employees of affiliated employers pursuant to section 403 (b) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, and to create a separate trust fund to hold the assets of the program.

ANNOTATION

Board's authority to determine factually the salary to be used in calculations under this article does not conflict with the authority of a university to set compensation for its faculty under § 23-50-103. Rumford v. Pub. Emp. Retirement Ass'n, 883 P.2d 614 (Colo. App. 1994).

When a public employee has exhausted administrative remedies on a claim for disability retirement benefits and obtained a court order requiring PERA to consider the employee for benefits, the employee may not move for interest on any benefits awarded without exhausting administrative remedies as to the claimed interest. Hurricane v. Pub. Emp. Ret. Assn., 780 P.2d 3 (Colo. App. 1989).

The board has authority under this section to determine whether a payment is salary and whether the entity making the payment is an employer for the purpose of determining benefits. Pub. Emp. Ret. Ass'n v. Stermole, 874 P.2d 444 (Colo. App. 1993).

The trial court erred in overturning the board's decision where, by the express terms of the definition of "salary", the portions of a 15% increase received by plaintiffs solely by reason of their participation in an early retirement plan did not constitute salary for purposes of calculating retirement benefits. Ager v. Pub. Employees' Retirement Ass'n Bd., 923 P.2d 133 (Colo. App. 1995).

Board has no discretion but to pay the annuity provided for by law, and in refusing to do so is not regularly pursuing its authority. Annear v. McKelvey, 100 Colo. 213, 66 P.2d 536 (1937) (decided under former § 24-51-111 as it existed prior to the 1987 repeal and reenactment of this article).

24-51-206. Investments.

(1) The board shall have complete control and authority to invest the funds of the association. Preference shall be given to Colorado investments consistent with sound investment policy.

(2) Investments may be made without limitation in the following:

- (a) Obligations of the United States government;
- (b) Obligations fully guaranteed as to principal and interest by the United States government;
- (c) State and municipal bonds;
- (d) Corporate notes, bonds, and debentures whether or not convertible;
- (e) Railroad equipment trust certificates;
- (f) Real property;

(g) Loans secured by first or second mortgages or deeds of trust on real property; except that the origination of mortgages or deeds of trust on residential real property is prohibited. For the purposes of this paragraph (g) "residential real property" means any real property upon which there is or will be placed a structure designed principally for the occupancy of from one to four families, a mobile home, or a condominium unit or cooperative unit designed principally for the occupancy of from one to four families.

(g.5) Investments in stock or beneficial interests in entities formed for the ownership of real property by tax-exempt organizations pursuant to section 501 (c)(25) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended; except that the percentage of any entity's outstanding stock or bonds owned by the association shall not be limited by the provisions of paragraph (b) of subsection (3) of this section;

- (h) Participation agreements with life insurance companies; and
- (i) Any other type of investment agreements.

(3) Investments may also be made in either common or preferred stock with the following limitations:

(a) The aggregate amount of moneys invested in corporate stocks or corporate bonds, notes, or debentures which are convertible into corporate stock or in investment trust shares shall not exceed sixty-five percent of the then book value of the fund.

(b) No investment of the fund in common or preferred stock, or both, of any single corporation shall be of an amount which exceeds five percent of the then book value of the fund, nor shall the fund acquire more than twelve percent of the outstanding stock or bonds of any single corporation.

(c) (I) Each investment firm offering for sale to the board corporate stocks, bonds, notes, debentures, or a mutual fund that contains corporate securities, shall disclose, in any research or other disclosure documents provided in support of the securities being offered, to the board whether the investment firm has an agreement with a for-profit corporation that is not a government-sponsored enterprise, whose securities are being offered for sale to the board and because of such agreement the investment firm:

(A) Had received compensation for investment banking services within the most recent twelve months; or

(B) May receive compensation for investment banking services within the next three consecutive months.

(II) For the purposes of this paragraph (c), "investment firm" means a bank, brokerage firm, or other financial services firm conducting business within this state, or any agent thereof.

24-51-207. Standard of conduct.

(1) The trustees of the board shall be held to the standard of conduct of a fiduciary specified in subsection (2) of this section in the discharge of their functions. Their functions shall include any duty, obligation, power, authority, responsibility, right, privilege, activity, or program specified in this article in connection with the association.

(2) (a) As fiduciaries, such trustees shall carry out their functions solely in the interest of the members and benefit recipients and for the exclusive purpose of providing benefits and defraying reasonable expenses incurred in performing such duties as required by law. The trustees shall act in accordance with the provisions of this article and with the care, skill, prudence, and diligence in light of the circumstances then prevailing that a prudent person acting in a like capacity and familiar with such matters would use in the conduct of an enterprise of a like character and with like aims by diversifying the investments of the association so as to minimize the risk of large losses, unless in light of such circumstances it is clearly prudent not to do so.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), the mere settlement or compromise of any dispute by the board pursuant to the authority granted under section 24-51-205 (3.5) is not per se a violation of the fiduciary duties of any trustee.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), the consolidation or merger of a plan created under part 2 of article 64 of title 22, C.R.S., prior to its repeal in 2010, into the association and the board's administration of that division following the effective date of the merger shall not be considered a breach of the board's duties or standards of conduct. No claims shall lie against the board, association, or the trustees arising from the consolidation or merger or the specific terms imposed by law.

(3) The trustees of the board shall not engage in any activities which might result in a conflict of interest with their functions as fiduciaries for the association.

(4) The trustees of the board, the executive director, the deputy executive directors, and any employee of the association who is in a fiduciary position shall be subject to and shall make financial disclosures pursuant to the provisions of section 24-6-202.

(5) Any person who is in a fiduciary position with the association and who is adjudicated of violating any provisions of this article shall be personally liable to pay to the association an amount equal to any losses resulting from such violation and shall be subject to such equitable or remedial relief as the court deems appropriate. The court may enjoin any act or practice which violates any provision of this article.

ANNOTATION

Trustees' fiduciary duty to deal impartially with its beneficiaries outweighs its duty of loyalty to any particular member, where plaintiff unsuccessfully argued that PERA's fiduciary duties to its members prevented it from performing quasi-judicial functions in determining a member's eligibility for disability benefits. Tepley v. Pub. Emp. Retirement Ass'n, 955 P.2d 573 (Colo. App. 1997).

The board's response to a co-trustee's request for information is subject to either the statutory duty of loyalty or the common law duty of loyalty to the beneficiaries of the trust. Therefore, the board may unilaterally place conditions on its compliance with a co-trustee's request for information and refuse to provide the information requested unless and until those conditions are satisfied if such actions comport with the trustees' applicable duty of loyalty. Stapleton v. Pub. Employees Ret. Ass'n, 2013 COA 116, 412 P.3d 572.

The fact that the court may be the ultimate arbiter of an alleged breach of a fiduciary duty does not preclude a board from placing reasonable conditions on, or even reasonably refusing, a co-trustee's request for information if the board determines that such conditions or refusal comports with the board's own fiduciary duties. Stapleton v. Pub. Employees Ret. Ass'n, 2013 COA 116, 412 P.3d 572.

Annotator's note. Since § 24-51-212 is similar to §§ 24-51-120 and 24-51-219 as they existed prior to the 1987 repeal and reenactment of this article, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

Language of this section is clear and unambiguous, and, therefore, construction is unnecessary. Pueblo Reg'l Planning Comm'n v. Spytek, 36 Colo. App. 406, 542 P.2d 88 (1975).

Funds not subject to legal process. Funds accumulated in the retirement fund to the credit of a state employee may not be assigned, or subjected to execution, attachment, garnishment, or other legal process. Pub. Employees' Retirement Ass'n v. Johnson, 153 Colo. 239, 385 P.2d 415 (1963).

Accumulated deductions in a PERA member's contribution account are not subject to assignment for payment of future child support obligations. In re Riggs, 786 P.2d 504 (Colo. App. 1989).

Status of funds controls. This section is addressed to the funds held by the public employees' retirement association and their disbursement, and it is not the relationship of the parties, but rather the status of the funds, which controls. Pueblo Reg'l Planning Comm'n v. Spytek, 36 Colo. App. 406, 542 P.2d 88 (1975).

As moneys, not individuals, protected.

Under this section, it is the "moneys" and the "benefits" which are protected, not the individuals. Pueblo Reg'l Planning Comm'n v. Spytek, 36 Colo. App. 406, 542 P.2d 88 (1975).

Right to receive refund of accumulated deductions protected. The right to receive a refund of accumulated deductions on the termination of one's employment is a statutory benefit, and, as such, is protected by this section. Pueblo Reg'l Planning Comm'n v. Spytek, 36 Colo. App. 406, 542 P.2d 88 (1975).

Power of attorney cannot vest any interest in fund and is revocable. Pub. Employees' Retirement Ass'n v. Johnson, 153 Colo. 239, 385 P.2d 415 (1963).

Payment out of fund after power of attorney is revoked is void. Pub. Employees' Retirement Ass'n v. Johnson, 153 Colo. 239, 385 P.2d 415 (1963).

Vested right not impaired by divorce decree. Where the trial court does not divide fund accumulations between the parties in a divorce proceeding, but merely considers the amount in determining the amount of other marital property to be retained by each, and no rights to this fund become vested in the wife in any manner, this treatment of the public employees' retirement association assets by the trial court is neither analogous to an assignment nor to a garnishment. In re

Pope, 37 Colo. App. 237, 544 P.2d 639 (1975).

(3) Information regarding real estate, private equity, private debt, timber, and mortgage investments by the association may be kept confidential until the transaction is completed if it is determined by the board that disclosure of such information would jeopardize the value of the investment; except that the association may disclose such information to legislative members of the pension review commission created in article 51.1 of this title 24 while the commission is meeting in executive session. If the association cannot disclose such information without violating confidentiality provisions, then the association shall provide enough information to the legislative members of the commission, while the commission is meeting in executive session, to inform the legislators regarding whether such investments continue to be in the public interest.

ANNOTATION

The Public Employee Retirement Association (PERA) creates a pension system for most state employees, as well as municipal, city, county, and school district employees. The Policemen's and Firemen's Pension Reform Act created a pension fund for these employees and requires certain municipalities to participate in the program. These pension plans are intended to provide employees with an actuarially sound fund from which eligible retirees will receive periodic benefit payments. Colo. Springs Fire Fighters v. Colo. Springs, 784 P.2d 766 (Colo. 1989).

(c) If the actuary determines, in accordance with accepted actuarial principles, that the termination of affiliation of the employer shall have an adverse financial impact on the funding of the health care trust fund created by section 24-51-1201 (1), the employer shall make any additional payment necessary to ensure that the impact on the funding of the health care trust fund remains unchanged upon the employer's termination of affiliation.

(2) In the event that the amount of the reserves on deposit in the local government division trust fund as calculated by the actuary for the employer requesting termination of affiliation exceeds the amount of reserves required pursuant to section 24-51-315 (1), such excess amount and the amount required for the transfer of member contributions as provided in section 24-51-317 shall be transferred by a direct trustee-to-trustee transfer to the alternate pension plan or system required by section 24-51-319 as of the effective date of termination of affiliation.

If possible, the association shall set a rate of employer contributions that is sufficient to offset the additional damages over a twelve-month period. If the employer does not owe sufficient employer contributions to offset the additional damages over a twelve-month period, then the association shall eliminate the employer contributions for the employer until the excess damages are fully offset.

Annotator's note. (1) Since § 24-51-401 is similar to §§ 24-51-104, 24-51-106, and 24-51-109 as they existed prior to the 1987 repeal and reenactment of this article, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

(2) For holding that a spouse's interest in a vested but unmaturing employer-supported pension plan, to the extent such plan has been funded by employee and/or employer contributions during the course of a marriage, is marital property subject to equitable distribution in a dissolution proceeding, see In re Grubb, 745 P.2d 661 (Colo. 1987).

Rights in the fund are fully vested and are not subject to divestment. In re Pope, 37 Colo. App. 237, 544 P.2d 639 (1975).

Accumulated deductions are treated as marital property. The public employees' retirement association system treats the accumulated deductions in a husband's account in a manner which makes them marital property. In re Pope, 37 Colo. App. 237, 544 P.2d 639 (1975).

Payments from retirement fund deemed payments from "employer fund" under unemployment benefits provision. 24-51-402. Unpaid contributions for any member - legislative declaration.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) The litigation of disputes regarding the payment of contributions by employers to the public employees' retirement association represents an inappropriate allocation of public moneys. Courts already suffer from overcrowded dockets, and the use of judicial resources to resolve such disputes means that taxpayers foot the bill for plaintiffs, defendants, and judges alike. Once all appropriate benefits have been accorded to members or inactive members of the association, any dispute then remaining is solely between governmental entities. The general assembly finds that the litigation of these disputes is an inappropriate use of the limited resources of the association, public employers, and the courts because it is possible to establish reasonable and fair rules for the resolution of such disputes without any need for judicial involvement. The general assembly therefore intends to resolve any current disputes and to clearly delineate the responsibilities of governmental entities so that future disputes do not require any litigation or unnecessary expenditure of state moneys.

(b) Fairness requires that the general assembly prescribe uniform results in every circumstance, a goal that is not obtainable when varying results arise from litigation of contributions disputes in the courts;

(c) Under the provisions of this section, members and inactive members will receive the full benefits promised by law and, therefore, there is no question regarding the equal treatment of any individual;

(d) In order to minimize the risk of future litigation between the public employees' retirement association and other governmental entities, it is appropriate to clarify under sections 24-51-205 (3.5) and 24-51-207 (2) that the board of trustees of the association may reasonably settle or compromise disputes without violating any principle of fiduciary responsibility;

(e) Should any judicial determination regarding an employer's liability for contributions be contrary to the results provided under this section, the association will be required under section 24-51-401 (7) to accept a reduced employer contribution level to offset all excess damages above the level of contributions the general assembly has established. The general assembly further finds that the establishment of a proper rate of contributions is clearly a legislative function and that it is appropriate for the general assembly to modify the level of employer contributions when necessary to offset the results of judicial awards that are contrary to the amounts established by the general assembly. The general assembly declares that it is its express intent to overrule any judicial decision entered prior to May 22, 1995, that is contrary to the provisions of this section.

(2) The provisions of this section and sections 13-80-103.5 (1)(d) and 13-80-108 (13), C.R.S., apply to the following:

(a) Any cause of action accruing on or after May 22, 1995;

(b) Any unresolved cause of action accruing prior to May 22, 1995; and

(c) (I) Any cause of action resolved on or after July 1, 1994, but prior to May 22, 1995. The following shall govern the application of this section to the causes of action specified in this paragraph (c):

(A) This section shall affect only the total amount of the payments in any cause of action specified by this paragraph (c). Such total amount of payments shall not exceed the amount specified under subsection (3)(a) or (3)(b)(I) of this section, whichever is applicable. The association shall refund, or shall not collect, any difference between the amount paid, agreed to be paid, or awarded in any such cause of action and the amount specified under subsection (3)(a) or (3)(b)(I) of this section. Subsection (3)(b)(II) of this section shall not affect the allocation of payments pursuant to an agreement, settlement agreement, or judgment resolving a cause of action specified by this paragraph (c).

(B) This section shall not require any member or inactive member to make any payment of unpaid contributions with respect to any cause of action specified by this paragraph (c) if such member or inactive member is not required to make such payment under the agreement, settlement agreement, or judgment resolving the cause of action.

(C) This section shall not affect any benefits provided to individuals as the result of the payment of unpaid contributions with respect to any cause of action specified by this paragraph (c).

(II) For the purposes of this paragraph (c), a cause of action is resolved if there is an agreement to make payment under the cause of action, whether or not the full payment has been made, if there is a settlement agreement in a lawsuit between the parties, whether or not the full payment under the settlement agreement has been made, or if there is a final judgment entered, whether or not the judgment has been fully paid or collected.

(3) If an employer fails to provide membership in the association to an individual so entitled pursuant to the provisions of this article or fails to provide the required level of employer contributions for an individual pursuant to the provisions of this article, the following payment shall be made to the association:

(a) If the individual is not a member or inactive member at the time the association first notifies the employer of its claim for unpaid contributions, the employer shall pay the unpaid employer contributions on behalf of the individual for the period contributions should have been made at the contribution rate applicable during such period, plus the amortization equalization disbursement in effect pursuant to section 24-51-411 for the period contributions should have been made, plus interest on such employer contributions and the amortization equalization disbursement at the applicable actuarial investment assumption rate, as such interest rate is from time to time adjusted, until such contributions are paid. If an employer pays contributions pursuant to this paragraph (a) on behalf of an individual who was not a member or inactive member when the association first notifies the employer and such individual subsequently becomes a member and completes one year of earned service credit, the member may purchase service credit for the appropriate period by paying the unpaid member contributions for the period for which contributions should have been made at the contribution rate applicable during such period, plus interest on such member contributions at the applicable actuarial investment assumption rate, as such interest rate is from time to time adjusted, until such contributions are paid.

(b) (I) If the individual is a member or inactive member at the time the association first notifies the employer of its claim for unpaid contributions, the payment equals the lesser of the following amounts:

(A) For a member, the cost to purchase the appropriate amount of service credit at the rate established pursuant to section 24-51-505, plus the amortization equalization disbursement in effect pursuant to section 24-51-411 for the period contributions should have been made; and, for an inactive member, the cost to purchase the appropriate amount of service credit at the rate established pursuant to section 24-51-505, based upon the salary at the date of last employment, plus the amortization equalization disbursement that should have been made, plus interest at the applicable actuarial investment assumption rate, as such interest rate is from time to time adjusted, from the date of last employment until the date contributions are paid; or

(B) The unpaid employer and member contributions and amortization equalization disbursement for the period contributions should have been made, plus interest on such employer and member contributions and the amortization equalization disbursement at the applicable actuarial investment assumption rate, as such interest rate is from time to time adjusted, until such contributions are paid.

(II) The amounts paid to the association shall be allocated and collected in the following order until the full amount that is owed under subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) is reached:

(A) The employer shall first pay the unpaid employer contributions and amortization equalization disbursement on behalf of the member or inactive member for the period contributions should have been made, plus interest on such employer contributions and amortization equalization disbursement at the applicable actuarial investment assumption rate, as such interest rate is from time to time adjusted, until such contributions are paid;

(B) The member or inactive member shall next pay the unpaid employee contributions for the period contributions should have been made, without interest; and

(C) The employer shall next pay interest on the unpaid employee contributions for the period contributions should have been made at the applicable actuarial investment assumption rate, as such interest rate is from time to time adjusted, until such contributions are paid; except that the employer is only required to pay interest on the amount of employee contributions owed by the member or inactive member under sub-subparagraph (B) of this subparagraph (II) that the member or inactive member actually pays.

(III) If the full amount owed pursuant to the provisions of this paragraph (b) is not paid because the member or inactive member pays less than the full amount of employee contributions, then:

(A) If the member or inactive member was not provided membership during the applicable time period, the association shall provide partial service credit to the member or inactive member in the same proportion to the total amount of service credit that would have been earned if contributions had been made as the amount actually paid to the association bears to the amount that was owed to the association; and

(B) If the member or inactive member was provided membership during the applicable time period, the association shall provide a partial increase in the highest average salary of the member or inactive member in the same proportion to the increase in highest average salary that would have been earned if contributions had been paid as the amount actually paid to the association bears to the amount that was owed to the association.

(4) Within ninety days after the time the association first notifies an employer of its claim for unpaid contributions, the association shall attempt to notify all members and inactive members regarding their rights to pay unpaid employee contributions pursuant to subsection (3)(b)(II)(B) of this section. Any member or inactive member who elects to pay all or any portion of unpaid employee contributions shall notify the association of such election within one year after the date the employer pays the unpaid employer contributions pursuant to subsection (3)(b)(II)(A) of this section. If a member or inactive member fails to notify the association of the member's or inactive member's intent to pay as allowed under this subsection (4), the association may elect to treat the member or inactive member as having forfeited the right to make such contributions. Any member or inactive member who elects to pay all or any portion of unpaid employee contributions may pay employee contributions in installment payments over a period not to exceed sixty months or over a period equal to the amount of service credit that would have been earned if contributions had been made, whichever period is shorter.

(5) If an individual for whom contributions are being claimed is not a member of the association at the time the association first notifies an employer of its claim for unpaid contributions, an action to collect unpaid contributions is subject to the limitations provided in section 13-80-103.5 (1)(d), C.R.S. If an individual for whom contributions are being claimed is a member or inactive member at the time the association first notifies an employer of its claim for unpaid contributions, an action to collect unpaid contributions is not subject to any limitation under article 80 of title 13, C.R.S.

(2) A member contribution account shall not be refunded and matching employer contributions shall not be paid to such member for any reason other than termination of membership.

(3) Repealed.

- (b) Any payments in lieu of member contributions; and
- (c) Any interest accrued on the amounts specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (1).

(2) For members who have five or more years of earned service credit and receive a refund prior to sixty-five years of age and prior to meeting the age and service requirements for a service or reduced service retirement benefit, the amount of matching employer contributions paid shall be one-half of an amount equal to the member contribution account less:

- (c) Any interest accrued on the amounts specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (2).

(2.5) Notwithstanding subsection (2) of this section, for a member who has less than five years of earned service credit as of the date of refund and who receives a refund prior to sixty-five years of age and prior to meeting the age and service requirements for a service or reduced service retirement benefit, the amount of matching employer contributions paid shall be one-half of an amount equal to the member contribution account accumulated prior to January 1, 2011, less:

24-51-408.5. Matching employer contribution on voluntary contributions made by members to tax-deferred retirement programs.

(1) For any member who makes a voluntary contribution to any eligible tax-deferred retirement program, the employer shall make a matching contribution on such voluntary contribution to the eligible tax-deferred retirement program subject to the provisions of this section. A member of the defined contribution plan pursuant to part 15 of this article shall not be eligible for matching contributions under this section on voluntary contributions made from salary earned as a member of the defined contribution plan.

(2) The tax-deferred retirement programs that are eligible to receive matching employer contributions in accordance with subsection (1) of this section shall include any tax-deferred retirement program in which the member participates:

(a) That is available to members and is either established in accordance with state law or sponsored by the employer; and

(b) (I) That is authorized under section 401 (k), 403 (b), or 457 of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended; or

(II) That is authorized as a defined contribution plan under section 401 (a) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended.

(3) The level of the matching employer contribution on voluntary contributions by members to eligible tax-deferred retirement programs shall be set by the board annually not later than September 1 of each year. The level set by the board shall apply for the following calendar year. The level shall be set separately for each division of the association and shall be based on the percentage of salary for each division available for matching contributions according to subsection (4) of this section. When setting the level of the matching employer contribution on voluntary contributions to eligible tax-deferred retirement programs, the board shall specify the percentage of a member's voluntary contribution to be matched by the employer and the maximum voluntary contribution by any member subject to the matching employer contribution.

(4) The matching employer contribution on voluntary contributions to eligible tax-deferred retirement programs shall terminate for payroll periods that end after the last day of the calendar month following April 2004 and thereafter shall resume only when the actuary determines that the actuarial value of assets exceeds one hundred ten percent of actuarial accrued liabilities. One-half of the amount of a reduction in the employer contribution rates as determined in subsection (5) of this section to amortize any overfunding in the respective division's trust fund shall be available for matching employer contributions.

(5) If the actuarial value of assets exceeds one hundred ten percent of the actuarial accrued liabilities in any division, as determined by the association's actuary, the division shall be considered overfunded by the amount of the difference. If a division is overfunded, the association's actuary shall determine not later than September 1 of each year the reduction in the employer contribution rates specified in section 24-51-401(1.7) necessary to amortize the overfunding in excess of one hundred ten percent up to one hundred fifteen percent of actuarial accrued liabilities over a period of thirty years. The amount of any overfunding in excess of one hundred fifteen percent of actuarial accrued liabilities shall be amortized over a period of twenty years. The calculation of the amount for any fiscal year of any decrease in the employer contribution rates due to overfunding shall be determined using the actuary's calculation from the preceding September 1.

(6) (a) If a division's trust fund is determined to be overfunded pursuant to subsection (5) of this section, then commencing with the fiscal year that begins following the actuary's calculation from the preceding September 1, the employer contribution rate specified in section 24-51-401 (1.7) for state division employers, for school division employers, local government division employers, and judicial division employers shall be reduced to amortize any overfunding in the respective division's trust fund by twenty percent of the amount of any reduction in the employer contribution rates as determined in accordance with subsection (5) of this section. The calculation of the amount of any reduction in the employer contribution rates due to overfunding shall be determined using the actuary's calculation from the preceding September 1.

(a.5) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2004, pp. 698, 1945, §§ 5, 19, effective July 1, 2004, and January 1, 2006.)

(b) Each employer shall subtract from their regular contribution to the association an amount equal to the amount that the employer paid as matching contributions on members' voluntary contributions to eligible tax-deferred retirement programs pursuant to this section.

(c) In no event shall the total reduction in any division's employer contribution rate pursuant to this subsection (6) cause the employer contribution rate to be inadequate to pay contributions required for the health care trust fund as specified in section 24-51-208 (1)(f).

(7) Employers shall pay a matching contribution on a member's voluntary contribution directly to the eligible tax-deferred retirement program or programs to which the member contributes. Employers shall submit a report to the association concerning payments made pursuant to this subsection (7). The report shall include the amount of the voluntary contributions and matching employer contributions and the programs to which the contributions were paid.

(8) The provisions of this section shall not apply to employers affiliated with the Denver public schools division or DPS members.

24-51-409. Refund of erroneous member contribution.

(1) It is the intent of the general assembly that the association consider the payment of interest on any erroneous contribution made to a member contribution account and later refunded to the member. It is the further intent of the general assembly that, if the member was intentionally and actively involved in an erroneous contribution with an intent to increase a retirement benefit by including contributions to the member contribution account that were not based on salary, then interest may be withheld by the association as provided in this section.

(2) The association shall refund to an employer, for payment to a member, any erroneous contribution, as defined in section 24-51-101 (21.5), that was made by the employer to a member contribution account. The association shall refund to the employer for payment to such member, in addition to the amount of the erroneous contribution, interest in the amount specified in section 24-51-101 (28)(c) for the period beginning on the date of the contribution and ending on the date of the refund; except that, if the member was intentionally and actively involved in the erroneous contribution made to his or her member contribution account, the refund of interest on that amount may be withheld by the association.

(8) The amortization equalization disbursement and the supplemental amortization equalization disbursement payments by employers in the state, school, and Denver public schools divisions shall continue at the rate specified in subsections (3), (3.5), (6), and (6.5) of this section until adjusted pursuant to this subsection (8). When the actuarial funded ratio of the state, school, or Denver public schools division of the association, based on the actuarial value of assets, is at or above one hundred three percent as determined in the annual actuarial study of the association, the amount of the amortization equalization disbursement and supplemental amortization equalization disbursement shall be reduced, in equal parts, for that particular division by one-half of one percent each. If the actuarial funded ratio of the division based on the actuarial value of assets reaches one hundred three percent and subsequently the actuarial funded ratio of the division is below ninety percent, the amortization equalization disbursement and supplemental amortization equalization disbursement shall be increased by one-half of one percent each; except that, at no time shall the amortization equalization disbursement for the school and Denver public schools divisions exceed four and one-half percent or for the state division exceed five percent nor shall the supplemental amortization equalization disbursement for the school and Denver public schools divisions exceed five and one-half percent each or for the state division exceed five percent.

(9) The amortization equalization disbursement and the supplemental amortization equalization disbursement payments by employers in the local government division shall continue at the rate specified in subsections (4) and (7) of this section until adjusted pursuant to this subsection (9). (10) For state employers in the state division, for the 2007-08 state fiscal year and for each fiscal year through the 2016-17 state fiscal year, from the amount of changes to state employees' salaries and any adjustments to the annual general appropriation act pursuant to section 24-50-104, an amount equal to one-half of one percent of total salary shall be deducted and such amount shall be utilized by the employer to fund the supplemental amortization equalization disbursement. For the school, local government, judicial, and Denver public schools divisions, and the remaining employers in the state division who are not state employers, the supplemental amortization equalization disbursement shall, to the extent permitted by law, be funded by allocation of funds otherwise available for use as employee compensation increases prior to award as salary or other compensation to employees.

(11) Moneys made available due to any reduction in the supplemental amortization equalization disbursement pursuant to subsection (8) or (9) of this section, whichever is applicable, shall, to the extent permitted by law, be allocated to employee compensation increases to the extent such source was originally used by an employer to fund the supplemental amortization equalization disbursement.

24-51-412. Denver public schools district - contributions and disbursements - legislative declaration.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) The Denver public schools has ongoing payment obligations related to certain pension certificates of participation that were issued in 1997 and 2008, referred to in this section as "PCOPS";

(b) Proceeds of the PCOPS were contributed to the Denver public schools retirement system trust fund, resulting in a funded ratio of the Denver public schools retirement system that exceeds the funded ratio of the school division of the association;

(c) As specified in section 24-51-401, "Table A - Contribution Rates", the employers in the Denver public schools division are scheduled to pay a contribution rate three and six-tenths percent higher than employers in the school division of the association;

(d) In recognition of the fact that Denver public schools retirement system's funded ratio exceeds that of the school division of the association as a result of the contributions from the PCOPS, the payments the Denver public schools makes in respect to the PCOPS provides a basis for the use of an offset in calculating the total of its employer contribution and the amortization equalization disbursement and supplemental amortization equalization disbursement.

(2) Due to the circumstances specified in subsection (1) of this section, contributions required to be made by employers in the Denver public schools division pursuant to section 24-51-401 (1.7)(a) and disbursements required to be made pursuant to section 24-51-411 shall be reduced by an amount in each year equal to the obligations of the Denver public schools with respect to outstanding PCOPS, or any obligations incurred to refinance the PCOPS, at a fixed effective annual interest rate of eight and one-half percent and with principal maturities as they exist on January 1, 2010, or on the date of issuance of any obligations to refinance the PCOPS, recognizing that it is not the intention to increase substantially the offset by accelerating principal maturities through refinancing. The annual offset may be applied by the Denver public schools in installments as it determines so long as there are sufficient monthly contributions to fund the DPS health care trust fund and the annual increase reserve required pursuant to section 24-51-1009, taking into account the true-up provisions in section 24-51-401, and the calculation of the offset shall be included in the contribution reports required by section 24-51-401 (1.7)(a). Since, as stated in paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section, the funded ratio of the Denver public schools retirement system trust fund presently exceeds that of the school division of the association, the anticipated equalization of the funded ratios over a thirty-year period of the two divisions provided in section 24-51-401 (2) may necessarily result in a decline in the funded ratio of the Denver public schools division trust fund. Denver public schools shall annually submit to the association audited financial statements showing the actual debt service experience related to the PCOPS.

(3) Pursuant to section 24-51-1701, the board of the association presently intends to present recommendations to the general assembly concerning the association's defined benefit plans, including the school division and the Denver public schools division, to attempt to assure security and sustainability of the plans. Nothing contained in these findings and declarations or elsewhere in this article is intended to restrict the powers of the general assembly to fix and adjust the level of contributions or disbursements required of employers hereafter.

(4) (a) Under no circumstance shall any debt obligations of the Denver public schools become obligations of the association, any other employer affiliated with the association, or the state. In addition, under no circumstance shall any obligations of the association under a debt instrument issued by the association become obligations of the Denver public schools.

(b) Nothing in this subsection (4) shall limit the application of any of the following provisions to Denver public schools, any charter school that is chartered by Denver public schools, or any charter school that serves students of Denver public schools: Section 22-41-110, C.R.S., relating to timely payment of school district obligations; section 22-30.5-406, C.R.S., relating to direct payment of charter school bonds; section 22-30.5-408, C.R.S., relating to the replenishment of charter school debt service reserve funds; or any other program that is available to school districts or charter schools that meet the conditions set forth in state law.

24-51-413. Contribution and annual increase amount changes - definitions.

(1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Blended total contribution amount" means:

(I) Prior to July 1, 2030, the weighted average of the total amounts paid by the employer and the member to the association for the state, school, local government, and judicial divisions pursuant to sections 24-51-401 (1.7) and 24-51-411, and the amount the association receives pursuant to section 24-51-414, but shall not include the portion of the employer contribution remitted to the health care trust fund pursuant to section 24-51-208 (1)(f) and (1)(f.5) and the portion of the employer contribution remitted to the annual increase reserve.

(II) Beginning July 1, 2030, the weighted average of the total amounts paid by the employer and the member to the association for each of the five divisions pursuant to sections 24-51-401 (1.7) and 24-51-411, and the amount the association receives pursuant to section 24-51-414, but shall not include the portion of the employer contribution remitted to the health care trust fund pursuant to section 24-51-208 (1)(f) and (1)(f.5) and the portion of the employer contribution remitted to the annual increase reserve.

(b) "Blended total required contribution" means:

(I) Prior to July 1, 2030, the weighted average of the total of the association's reported actuarially determined contribution rates and member contribution rates of the state, school, local government, and judicial division trust funds.

(II) Beginning July 1, 2030, the weighted average of the total of the association's reported actuarially determined contribution rates and member contribution rates of the five division trust funds.

(c) "Weighted average" means the proportion of unfunded actuarial accrued liability attributable to each division reported as of the most recent valuation date.

(2) Beginning July 1, 2019, and each July 1 thereafter, employer contribution rates, member contribution rates, annual increase amounts, and the direct distribution amount shall remain unchanged until such time as changes are required pursuant to this section.

(3) When the blended total contribution amount is less than ninety-eight percent of the blended total required contribution, the following adjustment shall occur:

(a) The annual increase percentage determined pursuant to sections 24-51-1002 and 24-51-1009 (4)(a) shall be reduced by up to one-quarter of one percent, but at no time will the annual increase percentage be reduced to equal less than one-half of one percent, except as provided in sections 24-51-1002 (1.5) and 24-51-1009 (1.5);

(b) The employer contribution rate will be increased by up to one-half of one percent, but at no time will the employer contribution rate be increased to exceed the employer contribution rates under section 24-51-401 (1.7)(a)(V), plus two percent;

(c) The member contribution rate will be increased by up to one-half of one percent, but at no time will the member contribution rate be increased to exceed the member contribution rates under section 24-51-401 (1.7)(a)(IV), plus two percent; and

(d) The amount of the direct distribution pursuant to section 24-51-414 will be increased by up to twenty million dollars, but at no time will the amount of the direct distribution exceed two hundred twenty-five million dollars in a fiscal year.

(4) The adjustment in subsection (3) of this section shall be determined by the association, shall be equally apportioned among the annual increases, the employer contributions, the member contributions, and, if applicable, the direct distribution amount, and shall be the maximum yearly adjustment allowed unless an adjustment less than the maximum adjustment is sufficient to bring the blended total contribution amount to one hundred three percent of the blended total required contribution. In no event shall a yearly adjustment cause the blended total contribution amount to exceed one hundred three percent of the blended total required contribution. The adjustment shall be made once in any calendar year and shall not exceed the maximum yearly amounts indicated in subsections (3)(a), (3)(b), (3)(c), and (3)(d) of this section.

(5) In the event any one of the four component parts of the adjustment as outlined in subsection (3) of this section has reached its total maximum, then no further adjustment shall be made to that component. Only the adjustments to the other three components shall continue as specified in subsections (3) and (4) of this section, even if the fully required adjustment to bring the blended total contribution amount to one hundred three percent of the blended total required contribution is not achieved.

(6) When the blended total contribution amount is greater than or equal to one hundred twenty percent of the blended total required contribution, the following adjustment shall occur:

(a) Subject to sections 24-51-1002 (1.5) and 24-51-1009 (1.5), the annual increase percentage determined pursuant to sections 24-51-1002 and 24-51-1009 (4)(a) shall be increased by up to one-quarter of one percent, but at no time will the annual increase percentage be greater than two percent, except as provided in section 24-51-1009.5;

(b) The employer contribution rate will be reduced by up to one-half of one percent, but at no time will the employer contribution rate be less than the employer contribution rates under section 24-51-401 (1.7)(a)(I) for the state, school, local government, and judicial divisions and the employer contribution rates under section 24-51-401 (1.7)(a)(V) for the Denver public schools division;

(c) The member contribution rate will be reduced by up to one-half of one percent, but at no time will the member contribution rate be less than the member contribution rates under section 24-51-401 (1.7)(a)(I); and

(d) The amount of the direct distribution pursuant to section 24-51-414 will be reduced by up to twenty million dollars in a fiscal year.

(7) The adjustment in subsection (6) of this section shall be determined by the association, shall be equally apportioned among the annual increases, the employer contributions, the member contributions, and, if applicable, the direct distribution amount, and shall be the maximum yearly adjustment allowed unless an amount lower than the maximum adjustment is necessary to keep the blended total contribution amount equal to one hundred three percent of the blended total required contribution. In no event shall a yearly adjustment cause the blended total contribution amount to fall below one hundred three percent of the blended total required contribution. The adjustment shall be made once in any calendar year and shall not exceed the maximum yearly amounts specified in subsections (6)(a), (6)(b), (6)(c), and (6)(d) of this section.

(8) The adjustments pursuant to this section shall be determined based on the blended total contribution amount and blended total required contribution as reported in the annual actuarial valuation report required under section 24-51-204 (7) and shall be effective July 1 of the next calendar year. The first adjustment pursuant to this section shall not occur before July 1, 2020.

24-51-414. Direct distribution - definitions.

(1) (a) Except as otherwise provided in subsections (6), (7), (8), and (8.5) of this section, on July 1, 2018, on July 1, 2019, on July 1, 2021, and on July 1 each year thereafter until there are no unfunded actuarial accrued liabilities of any division of the association that receives the distribution pursuant to this section, the state treasurer shall issue a warrant to the association in an amount equal to two hundred twenty-five million dollars. Such amount shall be paid to the association from the general fund, or any other fund, subject to section 24-51-413.

(b) The state treasurer shall not issue a warrant to the association pursuant to subsection (1)(a) of this section during the 2020-21 state fiscal year.

(2) For the purpose of allocating appropriate indirect, cash funded, or federal costs for the direct distribution pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the office of state planning and budgeting may include funding sources other than the general fund in the governor's annual budget request for the 2019-20 fiscal year and each fiscal year thereafter to satisfy the funding amounts of the direct distribution.

(3) The distribution pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall end when there are no unfunded actuarial accrued liabilities of any division of the association that receives such distribution. By September 1, 2019, and by September 1 of each year thereafter, until the distribution pursuant to subsection (1) of this section is no longer required, the board shall determine whether the sum of the employer and member contributions pursuant to section 24-51-401 (1.7)(a), the contributions pursuant to section 24-51-411, and the distribution pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, is greater than the amount necessary to eliminate the unfunded actuarial accrued liability of each division of the association that receives the distribution in the next fiscal year. If the board determines that the total amount of the distribution pursuant to subsection (1) of this section will not be required to eliminate the unfunded actuarial accrued liability of each division of the association that receives the distribution, the board shall notify the office of state planning and budgeting and the joint budget committee of the general assembly by September 1 of the applicable year.

(4) (a) Prior to July 1, 2026, the association shall allocate the direct distribution to the trust funds of each division of the association as it would an employer contribution, in a manner that is proportionate to the annual payroll of each division as reported to the association; except that the association shall not allocate any portion of the direct distribution amount to the local government division or the Denver public schools division of the association.

(b) (I) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2026.)

(II) As used in this subsection (4), unless the context otherwise requires:

(A) "Blended total contribution amount" has the same meaning as in section 24-51-413 (1)(a).

(B) and (C) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2026.)

(c) Beginning with the direct distribution occurring on July 1, 2026, and on July 1 of each year thereafter, the association shall allocate the direct distribution to the trust funds of each division of the association on an actuarial basis to maximize the blended total contribution amount in a manner that limits, to the extent possible, adjustments required by section 24-51-413 (3). Beginning July 1, 2026, and on July 1 of each year preceding 2030, the association shall not allocate any portion of the direct distribution amount to the local government division or the Denver public schools division of the association. Beginning July 1, 2030, and on July 1 of each year thereafter, the association shall not allocate any portion of the direct distribution amount to the local government division of the association.

(5) (a) Beginning with the annual general appropriation act for the 2019-20 state fiscal year, and for each annual general appropriation act thereafter, money distributed to the association pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall be included for informational purposes in the annual general appropriation bill or in supplemental appropriation bills for the purpose of complying with the limitation on state fiscal year spending imposed by section 20 of article X of the state constitution and section 24-77-103. The information included in the annual general appropriation bill shall include an estimate of the amount of the distribution pursuant to subsection (1) of this section that is attributable to the state and the amount that is attributable to public education from kindergarten through the twelfth grade.

(b) Subsection (5)(a) of this section does not apply for the 2020-21 state fiscal year.

(6) In order to recompense the association for a distribution in an amount equal to two hundred twenty-five million dollars that it had been scheduled to receive on July 1, 2020, pursuant to subsection (1)(a) of this section but did not receive due to the enactment of House Bill 20-1379, which amended subsection (1)(a) of this section and added subsection (1)(b) of this section to eliminate the distribution, in addition to the warrants issued pursuant to subsection (1)(a) of this section, on June 7, 2022, or as soon as possible thereafter, the state treasurer shall issue a warrant to the association in the amount of three hundred eighty million dollars. The warrant shall be paid to the association from the PERA payment cash fund created in section 24-51-416.

(7) The amount of the warrant to be issued on July 1, 2023, to the association pursuant to subsection (1) of this section is reduced by the sum of one hundred fifty-five million dollars and an amount equal to seven and one-quarter percent multiplied by three hundred eighty million dollars; except that, if the 2021 annual rate of return on investments as reported in the association's annual report for 2021 exceeds seven and one-quarter percent, then the reduction shall be the sum of one hundred fifty-five million dollars and an amount equal to the association's rate of return on investments multiplied by three hundred eighty million dollars. If the annual rate of return is less than seven and one-quarter percent but greater than zero, then the reduction shall be the sum of one hundred fifty-five million dollars and an amount equal to the annual rate of return in the association's annual report for 2021 multiplied by three hundred eighty million dollars. In no event shall the total reduction be less than one hundred fifty-five million dollars or be greater than one hundred ninety million dollars.

(8) The amount of the warrant to be issued on July 1, 2024, to the association pursuant to subsection (1) of this section is reduced by the lesser of an amount equal to seven and one-quarter percent multiplied by three hundred eighty million dollars or an amount equal to the association's annual rate of return on investments as reported in the association's annual report for 2022 multiplied by three hundred eighty million dollars; except that there shall be no reduction if the rate of return is zero or less.

(8.5) (a) (I) The amount of a warrant to be issued on July 1, 2027, and each July 1 thereafter through the fulfillment year, to the association pursuant to subsection (1) of this section is reduced by the least of thirty-five million dollars, the deferred inflow of resources amount, the deferred inflow of resources amount multiplied by the annual rate of return on investments for the association in the immediately preceding association fiscal year as published in the relevant annual actuarial valuation report pursuant to section 25-41-204 (7), or the amount necessary for the total amount transferred by the state treasurer to the peace officer training and support fund pursuant to section 24-33.5-122 (2)(b) to equal three hundred fifty million dollars; except that, if the amount of the warrant is reduced pursuant to section 24-75-201.1 (5)(b)(II), the amount of the warrant is not also reduced pursuant to this subsection (8.5)(a)(I).

(II) On or before June 30, 2027, and each June 30 thereafter through the fulfillment year, the office of state planning and budgeting shall report to the state treasurer the amount by which the warrant issued to the association pursuant to subsection (1) of this section is reduced pursuant to subsection (8.5)(a)(I) of this section.

(b) (I) On or before June 30, 2034, and each June 30 thereafter through the fulfillment year, the office of state planning and budgeting shall calculate, for the purposes of determining the adjusted warrant reduction amount and the fulfillment year:

(A) The total of the amount that the state treasurer has previously transferred to the peace officer training and support fund pursuant to section 24-33.5-122 (2)(b) and the amount that the state treasurer is projected to transfer to the peace officer training and support fund pursuant to section 24-33.5-122 (2)(b) on July 1 of the next state fiscal year; and

(B) The total of the amount described in subsection (8.5)(b)(I)(A) of this section and the amount that the state treasurer is projected to transfer to the peace officer training and support fund pursuant to section 24-33.5-122 (2)(b) on July 1 of the next state fiscal year immediately succeeding the next state fiscal year.

(II) If the total amount calculated by the office of state planning and budgeting pursuant to subsection (8.5)(b)(I)(A) of this section exceeds three hundred fifty million dollars, the office of state planning and budgeting shall report to the state treasurer, the association, the department of public safety, and the joint budget committee that the next state fiscal year is projected to be the fulfillment year.

(III) If the total amount calculated by the office of state planning and budgeting pursuant to subsection (8.5)(b)(I)(B) of this section exceeds three hundred fifty million dollars, the office of state planning and budgeting shall report to the joint budget committee of the general assembly that the office of state planning and budgeting projects that the state fiscal year immediately succeeding the next state fiscal year is projected to be the fulfillment year.

(c) (I) The association shall deem the amount of the warrants issued by the state treasurer pursuant to section 24-75-201.1 (5)(a)(I), any earnings on that amount, and any adjustments made pursuant to subsection (8.5)(c)(II) of this section as a deferred inflow of resources.

(II) For 2027, and each year thereafter through the fulfillment year, if, pursuant to subsection (8.5)(a)(I) of this section or section 24-75-201.1 (5)(b)(II), there is a reduction in the amount of the warrant to be issued to the association pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the association shall recognize a portion of the deferred inflow of resources amount equal to the amount of that reduction as a direct distribution subject to allocation pursuant to subsection (4) of this section.

(III) After the fulfillment year, the association may recognize any amount of deferred inflow of resources as a direct distribution for purposes of section 24-51-413 (1), as necessary pursuant to subsection (4)(b) of this section.

(d) As used in this subsection (8.5), unless the context otherwise requires:

(I) "Adjusted warrant reduction amount" means the amount necessary to ensure that the state treasurer transfers a total amount equal to three hundred fifty million dollars to the peace officer training and support fund pursuant to section 24-33.5-122 (2)(b).

(II) "Deferred inflow of resources amount" means the amount designated as a deferred inflow of resources by the association pursuant to subsection (8.5)(c)(I) of this section.

(III) "Fulfillment year" means the first state fiscal year during which the total amount transferred by the state treasurer to the peace officer training and support fund pursuant to section 24-33.5-122 (2)(b) equals or exceeds three hundred fifty million dollars.

(9) In addition to any other distributions to the association pursuant to this section, on June 2, 2023, or as soon as possible thereafter, the state treasurer shall issue a warrant to the association that consists of the balance of the PERA payment cash fund created in section 24-51-416, as of the date the payment is made, plus ten million dollars paid from the general fund. The amount paid to the association pursuant to this subsection (9) is to recompense the association, in addition to the amount already paid to the association as partial recompensation pursuant to subsection (6) of this section, for the distribution that it was scheduled to receive on July 1, 2020, pursuant to subsection

(1)(a) of this section, that the association did not receive due to the enactment of House Bill 20-1379.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 24-51-601 is the 1987 repeal and reenactment of this similar to § 24-51-110 as it existed prior to article, a relevant case construing that provision has been included in the annotations to this section.

Retirement benefits payable to a state employee are "vested rights" of which one cannot be deprived. Taylor v. Pub. Employees' Retirement Ass'n, 189 Colo. 486, 542 P.2d 383 (1975).

No preclusion of post-retirement increases. The fact that a state employee has certain pension rights at the time of his retirement as a state employee in no way precludes his post-retirement pension changes which increase rather than decrease benefits received thereunder. Taylor v. Pub. Employees' Retirement Ass'n, 189 Colo. 486, 542 P.2d 383 (1975).

The following formula shall be used for this calculation:

Highest Average Salary x [(0.04 x Years and Fraction of a Year through 10 Years) + (.0166 x Years and Fraction of a Year over 10 and up to 16 Years) + (.015 x Years and Fraction of a Year over 16 and up to 20 Years) + (.025 x Years and a Fraction of a Year over 20 Years)].

(c) For any member of the judicial division who retires on or after July 1, 1999, and who is eligible to receive a benefit under this subsection (2), the association shall calculate the member's option 1 benefit under either subsection (1) of this section or this subsection (2), whichever results in the greater benefit.

(d) On July 1, 1999, for any member of the judicial division whose benefit became effective prior to July 1, 1999, and who is eligible to receive a benefit under this subsection (2), the association shall calculate the member's option 1 base benefit prospectively for benefit payments payable on or after July 1, 1999, under either subsection (1) of this section or this subsection (2), whichever results in the greater benefit. The association shall provide benefits to all such benefit recipients based upon such recalculated base benefits effective July 1, 1999.

or option A benefit, whichever is applicable, exceed the maximum permitted under federal income tax law.

(b) (Deleted by amendment, L. 97, p. 773, § 11, effective July 1, 1997.)

(I) Three percent for each year and a proportional percentage for each fraction of a year from the effective date of reduced service retirement to the date the member would have reached sixty years of age, or the date the member would have become eligible for a service retirement pursuant to the provisions of section 24-51-602 (1), if earlier than sixty years of age; and

(II) Four percent for each year and a proportional percentage for each fraction of a year from the date the member reaches sixty years of age to the date the member would have become eligible for a service retirement pursuant to the provisions of section 24-51-602 (1), if on such date the member would have been older than sixty years of age.

(c) For a member who is not a state trooper, who is eligible to retire on and after July 1, 1998, but on or before January 1, 2011, and who retires upon reaching sixty years of age or older but before reaching sixty-five years of age, a reduced service retirement benefit shall be the option 1 benefit for service retirement, as calculated according to the formula set forth in section 24-51-603, reduced by four percent for each year and a proportional percentage for each fraction of a year from the effective date of reduced service retirement to the date the member would have become eligible for a service retirement pursuant to the provisions of section 24-51-602 (1).

24-51-606. Vested inactive member rights.

(1) Any member who was a member, inactive member, or retiree on December 31, 2006, who has earned at least five years of service credit and who terminates membership and does not elect to receive a refund pursuant to the provisions of section 24-51-405 shall be eligible for a benefit to become effective upon reaching the age specified in table B in section 24-51-602 for a service retirement or in table C in section 24-51-604 for a reduced service retirement.

(1.5) Any member who was not a member, inactive member, or retiree on December 31, 2006, who has earned at least five years of service credit and who terminates membership and does not elect to receive a refund pursuant to section 24-51-405 shall be eligible for a benefit to become effective upon written application and approval by the board and upon reaching the age specified in table B.05, B.07, B.1, B.2, B.3, B.4, B.5, or B.6 of section 24-51-602, as applicable, for a service retirement or in table C or C.1 of section 24-51-604 for a reduced service retirement. (2) (a) A vested inactive member may make direct payments to the association in lieu of member contributions in order to acquire eligibility for retirement pursuant to the provisions of section 24-51-602 or 24-51-604. Said payments do not purchase service credit for benefit calculation purposes pursuant to the provisions of section 24-51-603 or 24-51-605.

(b) Direct payments in lieu of member contributions are calculated at the applicable member contribution rates pursuant to section 24-51-401 (1.7), multiplied by the most recent full-time monthly salary paid for the position previously held by the vested inactive member.

(c) Direct payments may be made by a lump-sum payment or by monthly installments. Lump-sum payments shall not cause the benefit to become payable earlier than the first eligible date for reduced service retirement.

(d) Retroactive lump-sum payments shall include interest assessed from the date of termination of membership until the date on which direct payments begin.

(e) Installment payments, if made, shall be made from the date of termination of membership until the first date of eligibility for service retirement or reduced service retirement, as elected by the vested inactive member.

(f) Installment payments shall become due without notice on the tenth calendar day of each month. Failure to make timely installment payments shall cause all such payments to be refunded to the vested inactive member, and eligibility for retirement which was to be acquired by such payments shall be negated.

(g) Upon the death of a vested inactive member prior to the conclusion of direct payments in lieu of member contributions as authorized pursuant to the provisions of this section and prior to retirement, payments made up to the date of death shall be refunded to the person eligible to receive survivor benefits.

(h) Eligibility to make direct payments in lieu of member contributions shall be limited to vested inactive members who terminate membership before July 1, 2003, and make payments as specified in this section.

(1) (a) The state auditor, with the concurrence of the association, shall retain a nationally recognized and enrolled actuarial firm with experience in public sector pension plans to conduct the study described in subsection (2) of this section. The state auditor shall administer a competitive source selection process pursuant to the "Procurement Code", articles 101 to 112 of this title 24, to solicit independent third-party firms with the necessary credentials to bid for performance of the study. The state auditor shall select a firm that has a history of unbiased, peer-reviewed results and shall not select a firm that has a known conflict of interest that may interfere with its ability to produce an objective report. A firm that responds to the solicitation shall disclose any association that it had or currently has with a biased group. If, following good faith efforts, the state auditor and the association do not concur regarding the selection of the firm by October 1, 2024, the state auditor shall retain the firm preferred by the state auditor. The state auditor shall enter into a contract with the selected firm by October 31, 2024.

(b) The state auditor and the association shall confer with the office of state planning and budgeting to determine the scope of the study required by subsection (2) of this section.

(2) (a) The firm selected pursuant to subsection (1) of this section to perform the study required by this subsection (2) shall perform a comprehensive study comparing the cost and effectiveness of the current hybrid defined benefit plan design established in this article 51 to alternative plan designs in the public and private sector. The study must include the following:

(I) A comparison of the benefits, cost, and portability of benefits provided by the association in its current plan design with the benefits, cost, and portability of benefits provided by alternative plan designs;

(II) A comparison of the current plan design to other statewide plans, private sector retirement plans, and any other appropriate plans as determined by the association and the office of the state auditor;

(III) An analysis of the cost to employees and employers that would be incurred by transitioning from the current plan design administered by the association to alternative plan designs;

(IV) The impact that a change from the current plan design to alternative plan designs would have on expected retirement benefits for current and future retirees of the association;

(V) The incremental impacts that a change from the current plan design to alternative plan designs would have on the association's ability to fully amortize the unfunded actuarial accrued liability of each division of the association; and

(VI) The impact that a change from the current plan design to alternative plan designs would have on employers, members, and taxpayers relative to the plan design currently specified in law.

(b) The firm selected pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall include in the study conducted pursuant to subsection (2)(a) of this section an analysis of the following aspects of the defined benefit plan and the defined contribution plan established by this article 51 and administered by the association:

(I) A determination of the ways in which members with different job classifications and varying salaries benefit differently from the defined benefit plan versus the defined contribution plan;

(II) A determination of whether the defined benefit plan or the defined contribution plan is more advantageous for state employees and retirees; and

(III) A determination of the extent to which the defined benefit plan, as opposed to the defined contribution plan, entices individuals to work for state government instead of working in the private sector or for another governmental entity.

(c) On or before August 15, 2025, the association and the office of the state auditor shall deliver a report detailing the findings of the study conducted pursuant to this subsection (2) to the office of the governor, the joint budget committee, the legislative audit committee, and the finance committees of the senate and the house of representatives, or any successor committees.

(3) For purposes of the study required by subsection (2) of this section, the association shall provide access to anonymized member information and data under a confidentiality agreement with the retained actuarial firm.

(4) The state auditor shall notify the joint budget committee of the general assembly if the state auditor determines that the amount appropriated by the general assembly for the purpose of the study required by subsection (2) of this section is insufficient to procure a vendor to complete the scope of the work required.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under prior versions of this section.

Prior version of law contained no filing time limitation. Because at the time state employee's employment ceased, this section contained no filing time limitation, and, therefore, employee's application for disability retirement annuity was timely filed. Hurricane v. Pub. Employees' Retirement Ass'n, 703 P.2d 588 (Colo. App. 1984).

Employer's records are to be used to determine date of employee's termination of employment, and PERA acted outside the scope of its authority and contrary to law when it determined a date of termination that was contrary to the employer's records. Kennedy v. Pub. Emp. Retirement Ass'n, 768 P.2d 1264 (Colo. App. 1988).

24-51-702. Disability programs.

(1) The association shall provide for two types of disability programs for disabilities incurred on or before termination of employment:

(a) Short-term disability. A member who is found by the disability program administrator to be mentally or physically incapacitated from performance of the essential functions of the member's job with reasonable accommodation as required by federal law, but who is not totally and permanently incapacitated from regular and substantial gainful employment, shall be provided with reasonable income replacement, or rehabilitation or retraining services, or a combination thereof, under a program provided by the disability program administrator for a period specified in the rules adopted by the board. The cost of the program shall be funded by the association.

(b) Disability retirement. A member who is found by the disability program administrator to be totally and permanently mentally or physically incapacitated from regular and substantial gainful employment as of the date of termination of employment shall be placed on disability retirement, and the association shall provide to such person a benefit as calculated in section 24-

51-704. The benefit shall be paid directly by the association. A member of the judicial division shall also be eligible for disability retirement upon the entry of an order of retirement pursuant to section 23 of article VI of the state constitution for a disability interfering with the performance of the member's duties that is, or is likely to become, of a permanent nature.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 24-51-702 is similar to § 24-51-703 as it existed prior to its 1997 repeal and reenactment, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Trooper's right to disability benefits fully vested at the time he fulfilled the statutory conditions not at time of injury. Knuckey v. Pub. Emp. Retirement Ass'n, 851 P.2d 178 (Colo. App. 1992).

An association rule stating that an employee is not considered disabled for the purpose of short-term disability benefits if the employee is medically able to perform any job in which the employee would earn at least seventy-five percent of his or her predisability earnings is not contrary to this section. The association's interpretation and implementation of the statute are reasonable. Lawless v. Standard Ins. Co., 2013 COA 153, 338 P.3d 398.

24-51-703. Disability program design and administration.

The association shall contract with a disability program administrator to determine disability, to provide short-term disability insurance coverage, and to administer the short-term disability program. A contract shall conform to rules adopted by the board, which rules shall include but not be limited to standards relating to the determination of disability; the independent review, by a qualified panel, of determinations made by the disability program administrator and challenged by the applicant; requirements for medical or psychological examinations; the adjustment or termination of payments based on the mental or physical condition of the program participant; the change of status of a program participant from short-term disability to disability retirement or from disability retirement to short-term disability based on the mental or physical condition, education, training, and experience of the program participant; and the monitoring of the disability program administrator's performance by the association.

24-51-704. Calculation of disability retirement benefit.

Except as otherwise provided in this section, the disability retirement benefit shall be equal to the amount of the benefit payable pursuant to the provisions of section 24-51-603 which would have been payable upon reaching sixty-five years of age. Such calculation shall include earned and purchased service credit accumulated up to the date of disability plus projected service credit up to sixty-five years of age but not to exceed a total of twenty years of service credit. In no case shall the amount of any disability retirement benefit exceed fifty percent of the highest average salary of said member unless the member has earned and purchased service credit in excess of twenty years which entitles the member to receive the benefit provided pursuant to the provisions of section 24-51-603, based on the actual service credit of said member.

claimant's achieving 65 years of age. State Penitentiary v. Toothaker, 832 P.2d 1009 (Colo. App. 1991).

The offset afforded by § 8-42-103 should continue so long as PERA disability benefits continue, and should not automatically terminate based upon claimant achieving 65 years of age where statutes provide and testimony before ALJ indicated that part of the PERA disability retirement benefit payable to the claimant was directly attributable to the fact that she was permanently disabled and that such disability benefit would, after age 65, be paid for the rest of her life regardless of her recovery or her work status, subject to certain limitations.

24-51-707. Continuation of disability retirement benefits - reduction based on earned income - applications made prior to January 1, 1999.

(1) For any disability retiree whose disability retirement date is on or after July 1, 1988, and whose application for disability retirement was received by the association prior to January 1, 1999, the amount of the annual disability benefit shall be reduced by one-third of the amount by which the income earned by such retiree in the preceding calendar year plus the amount of the initial benefit multiplied by twelve exceeds the highest average salary of such retiree multiplied by twelve. The following formula shall be used to determine said reduction:

(2) The provisions of this section shall apply from the date of disability retirement or January 1, 1989, whichever is later, to the date the retiree meets the requirements for service retirement set forth in section 24-51-602 (1). Unless such disability benefit has been terminated, the provisions of this section shall apply regardless of whether the retiree is disabled or has recovered from such disability.

PART 8

BENEFIT OPTIONS

24-51-801. Benefit options.

(1) Any member applying for service retirement or disability retirement may elect to receive a monthly retirement benefit paid in accordance with any one of the following options:

(a) Option 1. A single life benefit payable for the life of the retiree and, upon the death of the retiree, the benefit ends. If, upon the death of the retiree, the total amount of benefits that have been paid to the retiree does not exceed the amount of moneys credited to the member contribution account, an amount equal to twice the amount of any remaining moneys shall be paid to the named beneficiary of the retiree or, if no named beneficiary exists, to the estate of the retiree.

(b) Option 2. A joint life benefit payable for the life of the retiree and, upon the death of the retiree, one-half of the benefit becomes payable to the cobeneficiary of said retiree for life. Upon the death of the cobeneficiary prior to the death of the retiree, an option 1 benefit shall become payable to the retiree. If, upon the death of both the retiree and the cobeneficiary, the total amount of benefits that have been paid to them does not exceed the amount of moneys credited to the member contribution account, an amount equal to twice the amount of any remaining moneys shall be paid to the named beneficiary of the retiree or, if no named beneficiary exists, to the estate of the person who survived the death of the other.

(c) Option 3. A joint life benefit payable for the life of the retiree and, upon the death of the retiree, the same benefit becomes payable to the cobeneficiary of the retiree for life. Upon the death of the cobeneficiary prior to the death of the retiree, an option 1 benefit shall become payable to the retiree. If, upon the death of both the retiree and the cobeneficiary, the total amount of benefits that have been paid to them does not exceed the amount of moneys credited to the member contribution account, an amount equal to twice the amount of any remaining moneys shall be paid to the named beneficiary of the retiree or, if no named beneficiary exists, to the estate of the person who survived the death of the other.

(d) Repealed.

(2) Options 2 and 3 shall be the actuarial equivalent of option 1.

(3) If an option is not elected by a member prior to the effective date of retirement, the member shall be deemed to have elected option 1.

(4) Benefits calculated pursuant to part 17 of this article shall be subject to the benefit payment options provided in sections 24-51-1716 to 24-51-1725.

(5) (a) Upon the termination of a supplemental needs trust due to the death of the beneficiary of such trust prior to the death of the retiree, an option 1 benefit becomes payable to the retiree.

(b) If a supplemental needs trust is determined to be invalid or is terminated during the life of the retiree, the beneficiary that was named in the trust is the cobeneficiary.

(c) If a supplemental needs trust is not established before or within ninety days after the death of the retiree, is determined to be invalid, or is terminated on or after the death of the retiree, the beneficiary that was named in the trust is the cobeneficiary.

24-51-802. Change in option or cobeneficiary.

(1) Except as otherwise provided in this part 8, the election of an option and the designation of a cobeneficiary for options 2 and 3 shall not be changed after sixty days have elapsed from issuance of the initial benefit payment.

(2) The election of an option or the designation of a cobeneficiary may be changed if the retiree returns to membership and thereafter earns one year of service credit; however, a member whose retirement or reduced service retirement benefits are in separate benefit segments pursuant to section 24-51-1103 (1.5) shall elect the same option and designate the same cobeneficiary for all of his or her separate benefit segments.

(3) A retiree who was not married on the effective date of retirement may elect option 2 or 3 upon marriage and designate the spouse as cobeneficiary. If a retiree is married on the effective date of retirement and the spouse on said date subsequently dies, the retiree may elect option 2 or 3 upon remarriage and designate the spouse as cobeneficiary.

(3.5) In any dissolution of marriage action in any district court of the state, the court shall have the jurisdiction to order or allow a retiree who is a petitioner or respondent in such action to change the cobeneficiary that was named by such retiree at retirement.

(3.8) In any dissolution of marriage action in any district court of the state that becomes final on or after July 1, 2003, in which the retiree retired on or after July 1, 1988, and elected to receive an option 2 or 3 benefit and designated his or her spouse as cobeneficiary, the court shall have the jurisdiction to order or allow a retiree who is a petitioner or respondent in such action to remove the spouse that was named cobeneficiary by the retiree at retirement, in which case an option 1 benefit shall become payable. The retiree may elect option 2 or 3 upon remarriage and designate the spouse as cobeneficiary.

(4) Designation by a member of a cobeneficiary to receive an option 3 benefit pursuant to the provisions of part 9 of this article may be changed or omitted by said member at any time prior to the date of death.

(5) Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary, a retiree may change the cobeneficiary that was named by such retiree and designate a supplemental needs trust as a cobeneficiary in place of the previously named cobeneficiary if:

(a) The beneficiary of the supplemental needs trust is the same person as the previously named cobeneficiary; and

(b) The retiree files an application and any required documents in a form as designated by the association.

(2) For reduced service retirement and disability retirement, the calculation of benefits payable pursuant to option 2 or 3, as set forth in section 24-51-801, shall be actuarially determined as of the effective date of retirement.

ANNOTATION

The public employees' retirement association (PERA) legislation providing for cost of living adjustments (COLAs) does not establish any contract between PERA and its members entitling them to perpetual receipt of the specific COLA formula in place on the date each became eligible for retirement or on the date each actually retires. There is no contractual or durational language stating or suggesting clear legislative intent to bind itself, in perpetuity, to paying PERA members a specific COLA formula. Justus v. People, 2014 CO 75, 336 P.3d 202.

The general assembly's latest modification of the COLA for retirees of PERA under this section is consistent with the PERA legislation's historical base pension benefit and changeable COLA structure. Senate Bill 10-1001's reformulation did not violate the contract clauses of the Colorado or United States Constitutions. Justus v. People, 2014 CO 75, 336 P.3d 202.

24-51-1002. Annual percentages to be used.

(1) For benefit recipients whose benefits are based on the account of a member who was a member, inactive member, or retiree on December 31, 2006, or for benefit recipients whose benefits are based on the account of a DPS member or DPS retiree, the increase applied to benefits for the year 2010 shall be the lesser of two percent or the average of the annual increases determined for each month, to the nearest one-tenth of a percent, as calculated by the United States department of labor, in the national consumer price index for urban wage earners and clerical workers for each of the months in the 2009 calendar year.

(1.5) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, for the years 2018 and 2019, the annual increase awarded shall be zero percent.

(2) Beginning on June 4, 2018, subject to section 24-51-1009.5, for benefit recipients whose benefits are based on the account of a member who was a member, inactive member, or retiree on December 31, 2006, or for benefit recipients whose benefits are based on the account of a DPS member or DPS retiree, the increase applied to benefits paid shall be one and one-half percent unless adjusted pursuant to section 24-51-413. The increase applied to such benefits shall be recalculated annually as of July 1 and shall be the compounded annual percentage of the annual increases applied to such benefits. In the first year that the benefit recipient is eligible to receive an annual increase pursuant to section 24-51-1001, the annual increase shall be prorated.

(3) Benefits for vested inactive members with at least twenty-five years of service credit and benefits for survivors of deceased vested inactive members who had at least twenty-five years of service credit shall be increased by the annual increase specified in this section and sections 24-51-1001 and 24-51-1003 under prior law from the date of termination of membership or July 1, 1993, whichever is later, to March 1, 2009, or the date benefits commence, whichever is earlier.

This subsection (3) shall only apply to members and inactive members who are eligible to receive a retirement benefit as of January 1, 2011.

(4) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (1) of this section, the increase, if any, applied to the benefits of persons whose benefits are based on the account of a member who was not a member, inactive member, or retiree on December 31, 2006, will be calculated and paid in accordance with section 24-51-1009.

24-51-1009. Annual increase reserve - creation.

(1) Each year prior to the effective date of an annual increase, the board shall determine the amount of the annual increase to be paid, if any. In no event shall the board award an annual increase to any division that exceeds the amount provided for in this section.

(1.5) For the years 2018 and 2019, the annual increase awarded shall be zero percent.

(2) The maximum annual increase that may be awarded by the board pursuant to section 24-51-1001 (3) shall be determined based on annual actuarial valuations of the annual increase reserve of each division. Each year after the board determines the annual increase amount, and prior to its effective date, a sum equal to the net present value of the total actuarial cost of paying the annual increase to all eligible recipients shall be reallocated from the annual increase reserves of each division to the retirement benefits reserve or the survivor benefits reserve, as appropriate. All annual increase payments shall be made from the reserves used for monthly benefit payments, and no annual increase payments shall be made from the annual increase reserve.

(3) The annual increase reserve of each division shall contain the allocations specified in this subsection (3). Such amounts shall be retained in the annual increase reserve of each division until removed from that reserve pursuant to this section. The allocations shall be as follows:

(a) A portion of the employer contribution specified in section 24-51-401 (1.7) equal to one percent of the salaries of members who were not members, inactive members, or retirees on December 31, 2006;

(b) A sum received in connection with purchased service credit pursuant to section 24-51-503 (4), specified as annual increase allocation; and

(c) A proportional share of the investment income earned on the amounts specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (3).

(4) An actuarial valuation shall be conducted each year for the annual increase reserve of each division for the purposes of this section. The actuarial valuation shall include a determination of the total market value of the assets in the reserve and a calculation of the net present value of the actuarial liabilities associated with providing each of the annual increases described in subsections (4)(a), (4)(b), and (4)(c) of this section. Subject to section 24-51-1009.5, the maximum annual increase awarded by the board shall be the lesser of the following calculations:

(a) Subject to the maximum annual increase as adjusted pursuant to section 24-51-413, a permanent increase equal to one and one-half percent of current benefits payable to benefit recipients then eligible for an annual increase in accordance with section 24-51-1001 (3);

(b) Subject to the provisions of subsection (4.5) of this section, a permanent increase of current benefits payable to benefit recipients then eligible for an annual increase in accordance with section 24-51-1001 (3) that is equal to the average of the annual increases determined for each month, to the nearest one-tenth of a percent, as calculated by the United States department of labor, in the national consumer price index for urban wage earners and clerical workers during the calendar year preceding the increase in the benefit for the year associated with the actuarial valuation of the annual increase reserve; or

(c) A permanent increase of current benefits payable to benefit recipients then eligible for an annual increase in accordance with section 24-51-1001 (3) that will exhaust ten percent of the year-end balance at market value of the annual increase reserve.

(4.5) For the year 2010, the association shall use the average of the annual increases determined for each month, to the nearest one-tenth of a percent, as calculated by the United States department of labor, in the national consumer price index for urban wage earners and clerical workers for each of the months in the 2009 calendar year.

(5) No calculation made pursuant to this section shall cause a reduction in current benefits of eligible benefit recipients.

24-51-1010. Increase in benefits - actuarial assessment required.

(1) Before increasing benefits provided by the association, the general assembly shall cause to be conducted pursuant to subsection (2) of this section an actuarial assessment to ensure that the increases in benefits would not cause the actuarial value of assets of the association to decline below ninety percent of the actuarial accrued liabilities of the association.

(2) Upon direction from the president of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives, the director of research of the legislative council shall contract with a private person to conduct an actuarial assessment of the association. The assessment shall be conducted to determine whether and to what extent an increase in the benefits provided by the association would cause the actuarial value of the assets of the association to decline below ninety percent of the actuarial accrued liabilities of the association. The assessment shall be completed and a final report of its findings and conclusions shall be submitted to the general assembly as soon as practicable. The person conducting the actuarial assessment of the association and such person's employees shall, during the term of the contract, have access to any necessary documents and information in the custody of the association.

24-51-1102. Reduction of a service retirement benefit - disclosure of service agreements by employers - definitions.

(1) Except as otherwise provided in part 17 of this article, employment of a retiree by an employer, whether or not in a position subject to membership, that exceeds the daily or hourly calendar year limits stated in section 24-51-1101 (1) shall result in a reduction of the benefit of such retiree by five percent per day for any part of a day that exceeds said limits. Any reduction of benefits pursuant to the provisions of this subsection (1) that exceeds one hundred percent of the benefit shall be carried forward to reduce future months' benefits.

(2) Employment of a retiree by an employer, whether or not in a position subject to membership, that occurs during the month of the effective date of retirement shall result in a reduction of the benefit of such retiree by five percent per day for any part of a day that the retiree works during such month. Any reduction of benefits pursuant to the provisions of this subsection (2) that exceeds one hundred percent of the benefit shall be carried forward to reduce future months' benefits.

(3) Each employer shall provide a copy to the association of any tax-related information on its employees or other individuals or firms whereby the employer receives services in any form, pursuant to rules promulgated by the association. In addition, each employer shall provide a copy to the association of any agreement, contract, letter of understanding, or other arrangement whereby the employer will receive services in any form, upon request by the association.

(4) For purposes of subsections (1) and (2) of this section, "employment" shall be determined by the association consistent with the internal revenue service's guidance in revenue ruling 87-41, 1987 - 1 C.B. 296, as revised from time to time.

24-51-1103. Contributions for a retiree who returns to membership - benefit calculation upon subsequent retirement - survivor benefit rights - disability retirement benefits.

(1) Except as otherwise provided in section 24-51-1747, a retiree who returns to work in a position that is subject to membership may voluntarily suspend the service retirement benefits or the reduced service retirement benefits and resume membership. Upon such suspension, employer and member contributions are required to be made pursuant to the provisions of part 4 of this article.

(1.5) A retiree who, on or after January 1, 2011, suspends his or her service retirement or reduced service retirement benefits shall not add any service credit to the benefit segment from which the retiree suspends his or her retirement. Subject to the election set forth below, any additional service credit accumulated will be reflected in separate benefit segments upon subsequent termination of membership, but only after one year of service credit has been earned during a period of suspension. The service retirement or reduced service retirement benefits for each qualifying separate benefit segment will be calculated pursuant to the benefit structure under which the retiree originally retired. The benefit for each separate benefit segment resulting from suspension shall be determined using the member's salary and service credit acquired during the period of suspension. The member's age and total service credit with the association upon retirement after each suspension shall govern whether the member shall receive a service retirement calculation or a reduced service retirement calculation pursuant to section 24-51-605 for that segment. Previous separate benefit segments shall be subject to recalculation only to reflect a change in the selected option or a designated cobeneficiary, if applicable, and no benefit increases pursuant to section 24-51-1001 will be applicable to any separate benefit segment during any period of suspension. Upon reinstatement of the retirement benefit allowance payments, no increase shall be made until such resumed payments have been paid continuously for the twelve months prior to July 1. Upon resumption of retirement after suspension, the association shall refund all moneys credited to the member contribution account during the period of suspension pursuant to section 24-51-405 unless, within a time period set by the association, the retiree makes written election to establish a separate benefit segment calculated as set forth above. The refund shall be an amount equal to all moneys credited to the member contribution account during the period of suspension and payment of matching employer contributions pursuant to section 24-51-408. The requirement to have at least five years of service credit to be eligible for the matching employer contributions provided in section 24-51-408 shall not apply in the event of returning to retirement after suspension. No refund may be issued for any benefit segment from which a benefit has been drawn. Such refund shall be required for any separate benefit segment during which less than one year of service credit has been earned.

(2) Survivor benefit rights provided for in part 9 of this article shall be available to a retiree who voluntarily suspends the benefits and returns to membership as if such retiree had not retired.

Neither the Colorado Constitution nor subsection (1)(a) of this section prohibits a senior judge assigned to a case from consolidating other cases with the case where it is appropriate to do so under C.R.C.P. 42(a). Without an express prohibition, there is no reason to preclude a senior judge from performing the tasks required of a district court judge. Mortgage Inv. Corp. v. Battle Mtn. Corp., 56 P.3d 1104 (Colo. App. 2001), rev'd on other grounds, 70 P.3d 1176 (Colo. 2003).

association's defined contribution plan. The written election shall be effective the first day of the annual state employees group benefit plan year established pursuant to section 24-50-604 (1)(m). In the absence of such written election, the employee shall be a member of the association's defined benefit plan.

(2) Any employee who was eligible to participate in the state defined contribution plan before January 1, 2006, and who elects to participate in the association's defined contribution plan pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall specify one of the following options:

(a) To terminate future defined benefit contributions beginning on the date of election while maintaining rights as provided by the laws applicable to the association relative to any contributions or benefits accrued prior to such election; or

(b) To terminate membership in the association's defined benefit plan and require payment by the association of all member contributions, accrued interest on such contributions, and matching employer contributions, as provided by the laws applicable to the association, to the association's defined contribution plan. Such election shall constitute a waiver of all rights and benefits provided by the association. Within ninety days after receipt of notice of an election to terminate membership pursuant to this paragraph (b), the association shall pay to the association's defined contribution plan an amount equal to the employee's member contributions plus accrued interest calculated pursuant to section 24-51-407 and matching employer contributions paid pursuant to section 24-51-408.

(3) (a) Effective July 1, 2009, any employee who became eligible to participate in the state defined contribution plan before January 1, 2006, and who participated in the state defined contribution plan before July 1, 2009, and became a member of the association's defined contribution plan pursuant to section 24-51-1501 (2) or 24-51-1503 (3) may terminate future contributions to the association's defined contribution plan and instead participate in the association's defined benefit plan by making a written election during the annual open enrollment period for the state employee group benefit plan of any year. The written election shall be effective on the first day of the annual state employee group benefit plan year, established pursuant to section 24-50-604 (1)(m). Any such election to participate in the association's defined benefit plan shall be in writing and shall be filed with the association and with such eligible employee's employer. In the absence of such written election, the employee shall be a member of the association's defined contribution plan.

(b) Any employee who terminates participation in the defined contribution plan pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) and becomes a member of the association's defined benefit plan may, upon meeting the requirements of section 24-51-505, purchase service credit for the period of employment during which the employee was a participant in the defined contribution plan. The cost to purchase service credit shall be determined in accordance with section 24-51-505 (3). The employee may elect to have any portion of the employee's account paid from the defined contribution plan to the association to facilitate the purchase of service credit through a direct rollover in accordance with section 401 (a)(31) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended. The employee may not be vested in the association's defined contribution plan upon purchasing service credit for employment that was covered by the defined contribution plan.

PART 17

DENVER PUBLIC SCHOOLS DIVISION

24-51-1701. Legislative declaration.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) It is in the best interests of the people of this state to administer the Denver public schools pension system within the state under the public employees' retirement association.

(b) The combination of the Denver public schools retirement system as a separate division of the public employees' retirement association will recognize the distinctive characteristics of that system and its funding over sixty-three years, and will also facilitate the general assembly's anticipated assessment of the contribution and benefit structure of the association's defined benefit plans to maintain the perpetual sustainability of such plans based on the recommendations from the board of trustees of the association in 2010.

(c) The state's seventy-seven-year investment in the defined benefit plans for Colorado public servants has served the state invaluablely. The association has provided positive investment returns on funds that, when distributed as benefits, remain substantially within Colorado and fosters a professional and effective governmental service system. These features strengthen the provision of government services for all citizens of the state in ways that no other retirement system could, affecting the public safety and general welfare of the state for the better.

(d) The current separation of pension plans and provisions between Denver public schools employees and the employees of all the other school districts in the state creates artificial barriers for employees to relocate between the systems. Therefore, this separation hinders competitive forces for the placement of teachers and other employees at their potential optimum employment location, preventing the maximization of employee value for all school districts and citizens within the state.

(2) The general assembly further finds and declares that the purpose of this part 17 is to combine the two systems with the intent of facilitating the perpetual future maintenance, security, and sustainability of the defined benefit plans within the public employees' retirement association. Given the special services and benefits rendered by Colorado's public servants to the citizens of the state, it is the province, right, and obligation of the state to care for the members and the dependents and survivors of its public servants who are entitled to retirement benefits due to length of service or age or because they have been injured or disabled in service.

As used in this part 17, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Accredited service" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section 24-51-1704.

(2) "Active service", as used in determining eligibility to receive benefits, as contrasted with determination of the amount thereof, means all periods of service that qualify as accredited service. Additionally, for employees appointed or reappointed on or after December 1, 1945, a maximum of ten years of civilian service, of a similar kind, in a tax-supported institution other than the district, referred to in this subsection (2) as "outside service", may count as active service; except that any service purchased together with any such outside service shall not exceed a maximum of ten years in calculating active service. No part of said outside service shall apply if earned while on leave from the district. Whenever the term "active service" is used with reference to civilian service of a similar kind of a regular or casual employee with any tax-supported institution other than the district, said active service shall be determined in a manner consistent with the definition of active service with the district. Periods of service in a charter school shall count as active service if such service is also counted as accredited service. Effective January 1, 1996, all service performed with the district or with a charter school and that meets the definition of accredited service shall be treated as if it were civilian service in a tax-supported institution other than the district, as provided in this subsection (2), if it is not counted as accredited service.

(3) "Annual compensation" means the established contractual salary rate for a regular employee on an annual basis for regularly assigned services, before any deductions. Special stipends and extra pay for additional assignments not on the basis of the regular established contractual salary rate shall not be deemed a part of annual compensation. For compensation received on and after January 1, 2010, annual compensation shall be governed by section 24-51-101 (42) for purposes of determining benefits under this part 17.

(4) "Annuity" means that portion of the benefit attributable to funds provided by normal or arrearage contributions or both made by a contributing or affiliate member.

(9) "Casual employee" means any part-time or temporary employee of the district or of a charter school who received or receives payment in the form of wages or salary from the district or charter school. Payment of fees for contracted services to an independent contractor shall not be considered salary or wages. Any employee who is a regular employee shall not at the same time be a casual employee.

(10) "Charter schools" means schools created pursuant to the "Charter Schools Act", part 1 of article 30.5 of title 22, C.R.S., that are a part of the Denver public schools and that are accountable to the board of education as complying with the purposes and requirements of said act.

(11) "Consumer price index" or "CPI" means the index, calculated by the United States department of labor, in the national consumer price index for urban wage earners and clerical workers.

(12) "Contributing service" means that portion of service for which an employee has paid the normal contribution, including any regular interest that would have been credited upon said contribution prior to the payment thereof by the member, together with an amount equal to the pension assessment, if applicable, that would have been payable during such service.

(13) "Covered employment" means the employment of any regular or casual employee who is compensated by wages or salary paid by the district or by a charter school approved by the district. "Noncovered employment" means employment outside of the district or outside of a charter school approved by the district. Service in the armed forces of the United States is included in "noncovered employment".

(14) "District" means school district no. 1 in the city and county of Denver and state of Colorado and is used synonymously with the term "Denver public schools". Unless explicitly stated otherwise in the text, the term "district" also includes those schools that are part of the Denver public schools and that are accountable to the board of education as charter schools and shall also include the Denver public schools retirement system. For clarity or emphasis, there are references in certain sections to both the district and a charter school. The lack of such a dual reference shall not, however, be interpreted to change the foregoing definition as to any other sections.

(15) "Earned service" means service equal to the greater of a member's active or accredited service on January 1, 2004, calculated in accordance with the applicable provisions of this plan as it existed immediately prior to January 1, 2004. Following December 31, 2003, a member's earned service shall be used in lieu of active or accredited service in determining both the eligibility for and the amount of retirement benefits under the DPS plan. On and after January 1, 2010, earned service shall be governed by section 24-51-501.

(16) "Employee contribution" means any funds, other than the pension assessment, payable and paid hereunder by a contributing or affiliate member. The following additional terms are applicable to the term "employee contribution":

For benefits under sections 24-51-1727 to 24-51-1731, "highest average salary" applies to cases where termination of service occurs on or after July 1, 1994. This subsection (17) shall apply only to DPS members eligible for a retirement benefit as of January 1, 2011. For DPS members not eligible for a retirement benefit as of January 1, 2011, the definition of "highest average salary" specified in section 24-51-101 (25)(b)(V) and (25)(b)(VI) shall apply.

(18) "Job sharing" means the occupation of a single staff position by two employees who receive annual compensation on the active payroll of the district, with each assignment being half-time for the entire contractual work year. Job sharing shall also mean the occupation of a less-than-full-time but greater-than-half-time position by one employee who receives annual compensation on the active payroll of the district and who has no other assignment with the district. Job sharing shall not include the occupation of a position by a person who is a casual employee.

(19) "Membership" means the relationship a regular or casual employee has in the DPS plan and shall consist of the following:

The term "contributing member" includes a regular employee of a charter school and a regular employee of the system.

(e) "Deferred member" means a former employee of the district who:

(I) Is not an annuitant who, on or before December 31, 2008, terminated employment with the district and who has on file an election and declaration of intent to apply for a deferred retirement allowance; or

(II) On or after January 1, 2009, terminated employment with the district and has not requested a refund of such member's accumulated contributions.

(f) "Supplemental needs trust" means a valid third-party special needs trust established for a member's or retiree's child as the beneficiary of the trust that complies with the "Colorado Medical Assistance Act", articles 4 to 6 of title 25.5, C.R.S., and the federal "Social Security Act", as amended. The department of health care policy and financing shall review any trust established during determination or redetermination of an individual's eligibility for medical assistance and specifically as to the effect of any trust on such eligibility for medical assistance. The trust must be for the benefit of a single beneficiary and must be coterminous with the lifetime of such beneficiary.

(20) "Money purchase monthly annuity" means the monthly annuity that is the actuarial equivalent of a lump sum amount.

(21) "Monthly compensation" means annual compensation divided by twelve.

(22) "Monthly crediting method" means the way in which earnings on member accounts are calculated and credited at the end of a calendar month based upon the accumulated contributions in the member's account at the beginning of that month pursuant to provisions of the DPS plan.

(23) "Nonqualified service" means any noncovered employment that does not include:

(a) Service as an employee of the United States government, any state or political subdivision thereof, or any agency or instrumentality of any of the foregoing;

(28) "Permitted absence" means any authorized and unpaid absence, other than severance of employment; except that no absence in excess of thirty consecutive calendar days shall be deemed permitted unless the authorization therefor shall be in writing, signed by an appropriate administrative official or by authorization of the district. Regardless of any time factor, no absence continued after written notice to return shall be deemed a permitted absence.

(29) "Primary percentage" shall be the product obtained by multiplying the unit benefit percentage factor by the total number of years and months of accredited service. Months shall be expressed as fraction with the number of months as the numerator and twelve as the denominator. The primary percentage shall be rounded to the nearest one-hundredth of a percent. Multiplying the primary percentage by the highest average salary as defined in subsection (17) of this section or career average salary, whichever is applicable, results in the annual retirement allowance expressed as a single life annuity and known as option A.

(30) "Regular employee" means any employee who receives annual compensation on the active payroll of the district and whose employment by the district represents the employee's principal gainful occupation and requires so substantial a portion of time that it is impractical to follow any other substantially gainful occupation. Absence of a regular employee on a permitted absence shall not change the employee's status as a regular employee. Any employee who is a casual employee shall not at the same time be a regular employee.

(31) "Regular interest" means, on and after January 1, 2010, the rate set by the association's board as provided in section 24-51-407 (4) and as may be periodically adjusted. On or before December 31, 2009, "regular interest" means the rates specified in the DPS plan document.

(32) "Reserve" means the present value of payments to be made on account of any benefit provided in this plan and computed upon the basis of such mortality tables and interest assumptions as may, from time to time, be approved.

(33) "Reserve for employees to be retired" means the reserve that is part of the system retirement trust fund and identifies the amount of moneys set aside to provide for the basic benefits that are anticipated to be payable to currently active members or to those members who have already elected deferred retirement benefits but who, because of age, are not yet actually receiving such benefits.

24-51-1703. Denver public schools division - consolidation.

(1) The DPS plan shall continue to govern the benefits and programs specified in such plan through December 31, 2009. On January 1, 2010, the DPS plan shall be superseded by the provisions of this article except to the extent that it is necessary to refer to the DPS plan for the correction of errors and as it may be incorporated by reference in this article.

(2) On January 1, 2010, all the assets, liabilities, and obligations of the Denver public schools retirement system shall become the assets, liabilities, and obligations of the Denver public schools division of the association without any further act or document of transfer.

(3) On January 1, 2010, notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (2) of this section, the Denver public schools retirement system or the association, or both, may take such actions and execute such certifications or other instruments as may be convenient to evidence the consummation of the merger of the two systems, its effective date, and the assets or any particular asset transferred. Any such certification or other instrument purportedly executed by an authorized officer of either system and bearing the seal of such system shall be prima facie evidence of all matters stated in the certification or instrument and may be relied upon by any third party, without further inquiry, including, without limitation, any public trustee or other public official of this or any other state or local government. If any certification or other instrument is recorded in the appropriate real estate records in this or any other state or local government, a copy of the certification or instrument, when duly certified by the custodian of the real estate records to be a true copy of the recorded original, shall have the same effect as the original.

(4) The value of assets transferred as of January 1, 2010, as reflected in the audited financial report effective December 31, 2009, shall determine the initial asset value in the Denver public schools division trust fund for purposes of the initial and future valuations and the proportionate share of the total assets of the association attributable to the Denver public schools division. In the event that the audited value is adjudicated by a court of competent jurisdiction to be in error such that the true value on the date of transfer was different than reflected in the audited financials, an adjustment shall be made to the initial asset value of the Denver public schools division and appropriate adjustments made to the proportionate share of investment returns and expenses of the association attributed to the Denver public schools division. No adjustment to the starting asset value of the Denver public schools division shall result from a change in value after January 1, 2010, of the assets transferred. For purposes of this subsection (4), the Denver public schools retirement system real estate and private equity holdings shall be valued and audited as of December 31, 2009, and the directly owned real estate of the association shall be appraised for evaluation as of December 31, 2009.

(5) (a) Prior legislative attempts to accomplish the merger of the Denver public schools retirement system into the school division of the Colorado public employees' retirement association with agreement among the three parties have proven unsuccessful notwithstanding substantial expenditures of time and money by the parties. The reasons for such lack of success include the methodology involved in the determination and allocation of the costs of a merger in order to avoid any subsidy to either merging party as a result of the merger. To avoid these problems and to obtain the public policy benefits of a merger, this section mandates the merger without any requirement of agreement among the parties and implements it through the creation of a separate division within the association. Notwithstanding such mandate, the successful integration of the Denver public schools retirement system into the association while maintaining a continuing high level of service to the members and beneficiaries of both systems has required and will continue to require the cooperation and best efforts of the governing bodies and staffs of the Denver public schools retirement system, the association, and the Denver public schools. In the course of the merger, the parties shall observe the fiduciary duties and legal obligations incident to their respective offices, positions, and employments, which duties and obligations may not always be entirely clear or easily accomplished. Therefore, to secure the public policy objectives incident to the merger and its successful implementation in the most efficient way feasible, so long as such governing bodies and staffs act or have acted in good faith and in accordance with a good faith interpretation of the requirements of this section and other applicable law, they shall be deemed to have fulfilled their fiduciary duties and other legal obligations. In addition, such governing bodies and staffs shall have no personal liability for their acts or omissions incident to the implementation of the merger, including all activities reasonably related thereto. Any person who contends otherwise shall bear the burden of proving that any act or omission challenged does not meet the requirements of good faith.

(b) It is the intent of this part 17 to achieve the mandated merger and to facilitate its implementation, thereby providing portability of the benefits of the members of the Denver public schools retirement system and the association. In addition, this part 17 is intended to pursue efficiencies in the administration of the benefits of members and beneficiaries of the Denver public schools retirement system and in the investment of moneys being transferred to the association and later accruing to it through employer and employee contributions, all in accord with changing conditions. The provisions of this part 17 and the benefit provisions for members and beneficiaries to be provided following the merger shall be interpreted and administered to attempt to further those objectives, and if pursued reasonably and in good faith shall be deemed to comply with applicable legal and fiduciary requirements. Any person who contends otherwise shall bear the burden of proving that any act or omission challenged does not meet all legal requirements applicable in the circumstances.

(c) On January 1, 2010, the separate existence of the Denver public schools retirement system shall cease, and the terms of its trustees shall expire. In addition, the employment of its employees shall cease, subject to section 24-51-1748, providing for their employment by the association. Any claims against such trustees, former trustees, employees, or former employees in their respective capacities shall be commenced within such periods of limitation and shall be subject to such other provisions as may be provided by law, but in no case shall such an action be brought more than two years after January 1, 2010. Any claims relating to the merger and made against the trustees, former trustees, employees, or former employees of the association in their respective capacities, and any claims relating to the merger and made against members or former members of the board of education or employees or former employees of the school district in their respective capacities shall be commenced within such periods of limitation and shall be subject to such other provisions as may be provided by law, but in no case shall such an action be brought more than two years after January 1, 2010.

24-51-1704. Service credit.

(1) "Accredited service", as used in the determination of benefits, allowed or allowable, shall include the following:

(a) Subject to the express limitations in this section, all periods of employment with the district or with a charter school as a regular employee for which the employee received or receives payments in accordance with annual compensation.

(b) All periods of employment with the district or with a charter school as a casual employee prior to the effective date of retirement for which the employee received or receives wages or salary from the district; except that no period of employment as a casual employee shall be counted as accredited service if such employee during such period is also a regular employee.

(c) Leaves of absence or permitted absences commencing prior to July 1, 1962, as governed by the DPS plan document.

(d) Leaves of absence or permitted absences commencing on or after July 1, 1962, under the following conditions:

(I) A leave of absence for service in the United States armed forces, study, travel, or research shall count as accredited service if the entire period of said leave qualifies as contributing service.

(II) If said leave is a sabbatical leave or a leave for restoration of health on a half-salary basis and if the normal contribution is based on the full annual compensation of the member and the leave qualifies as contributing service, then the entire period of such leave shall count as accredited service. If, however, the normal contribution is based only on a fraction of the annual compensation, then said fraction shall be multiplied by the total period of such leave to determine the portion of the leave that shall count as accredited service.

(III) (A) Notwithstanding any other provision of this subparagraph (III), an absence due to a temporary total disability compensable in accordance with the "Workers' Compensation Act of Colorado", articles 40 to 47 of title 8, C.R.S., shall be deemed accredited service only in accordance with the provisions of this sub-subparagraph (A).

(B) The portion of an absence due to a temporary total disability for which the employee is compensated by the district in accordance with its policies pertaining thereto from time to time shall be considered accredited service. If, however, the normal contribution is based only on a fraction of the annual compensation, then the fraction shall be multiplied by the total period of such leave to determine the portion of the leave that shall count as accredited service.

(C) The portion of an absence due to a temporary total disability for which the employee is not compensated in the manner provided in sub-subparagraph (B) of this subparagraph (III) but for which the employee receives workers' compensation shall be considered accredited service only if qualified as such within the earlier of two years after the employee's return to work full time or thirty days prior to the effective date of the employee's retirement. Such qualification shall be accomplished by payment into the DPS plan of an amount equal to the normal contributions and pension assessments, together with interest as calculated, and within the time limits determined by the association board and computed as of the date the agreement to pay is made, for the portion of the absence covered by this sub-subparagraph (C) in accordance with subparagraph (VI) of this paragraph (d).

(D) This subparagraph (III) shall become effective on January 1, 1986, and shall apply to absences covered by its terms that begin on or after that date.

(IV) No portion of a period of absence for illness where said period exceeds fifteen consecutive working days, for which period no payments in accordance with the employee's annual compensation were made, shall count as accredited service.

(V) Any other type of permitted absence not specified in this section may not be counted as accredited service unless the board of education, at the time such permitted absence is authorized, specifies that the time spent on such permitted absence shall be counted as accredited service for purposes of this retirement plan, subject to the requirement that the entire period of said absence shall qualify as contributing service. Notwithstanding this subparagraph (V), any such absence which is less than sixteen consecutive working days shall be counted as accredited service.

(VI) The normal contribution for all permitted absences other than those compensated in any way by the district shall be based upon the annual compensation in effect immediately prior to the date of commencement of such absence.

(VII) Service accrual for all permitted absences shall be consistent with service accruals that were allowed under this retirement plan immediately preceding the permitted absence. This shall include, without limitation, the retirement plan and associated rule definitions and provisions applicable to service accrual for job-sharing assignments as of any given date.

(e) Leaves of absences or permitted absence commencing on or after January 1, 1980, which can qualify as accredited service in accordance with this subsection (1), must be qualified as contributing service within two years from the date the employee returns to work. On and after

January 1, 1998, leaves of absence that are qualified as contributing service shall be qualified in accordance with provisions of the DPS plan document.

(f) A person employed in a job-sharing assignment shall receive earned service accruals appropriate to reduce such service to its equivalent in full-time service.

(g) A leave of absence granted to an employee to allow that employee to work in a charter school shall not count as accredited service unless the period of time spent in charter school employment is covered as contributing or affiliate membership, in which case the service shall be covered pursuant to the requirements of such membership.

Purchases related to reemployment and noncovered employment for which payments are not complete prior to January 1, 2010, shall be governed by the DPS plan document. On January 1, 2010, service credit shall be credited to the member accounts to the extent of payments received, a new service credit purchase agreement shall be issued by the association using the previously existing lump-sum or installment payment amount, and future payments and service accruals shall be governed by part 5.

Accreditation of casual employment and qualifiable periods of leave as described in section 24-51-1704 for which payments are not complete prior to January 1, 2010, shall be governed by the DPS plan document. On January 1, 2010, such service shall be credited to the member accounts to the extent of payments received, and a new purchase agreement shall be issued by the association using the previously existing lump-sum or installment payment amount, and future payments and service accruals shall be governed by part 5 of this article. A casual employee who has been approved or has applied, and is ultimately approved, for status as an affiliate member as of December 31, 2009, shall remain an affiliate member and the benefits provided for pursuant to the DPS plan document shall govern at the time of retirement, unless such status is revoked pursuant to the DPS plan document. Any applicant for affiliate member status shall complete payments in accordance with the DPS plan document or be subject to revocation of affiliate member status. On or after January 1, 2010, further applications for affiliate membership shall not be permitted, and all eligible benefits payable to the existing affiliate members shall be based on the highest average salary, as defined in section 24-51-1702 (17), and benefit descriptions, as detailed in sections 24-51-1715, 24-51-1729, and 24-51-1734 to 24-51-1746.

24-51-1710. Earned service.

(1) Effective on January 1, 2004, each active member of the system shall be credited with earned service. Subject to the further provisions of this section, earned service shall be equal to the greater of a member's active or accredited service on January 1, 2004, calculated in accordance with the applicable provisions of this retirement plan as it existed immediately prior to January 1, 2004. Following December 31, 2003, a member's earned service shall be used in lieu of active or accredited service in determining both the eligibility for and the amount of retirement benefits under this retirement plan.

(2) On and after January 1, 2010, in making calculations of earned service, active service shall not include outside service, but outside service substantiated on or before December 31, 2009, may be added to earned service in determining a member's eligibility to retire for superannuation with an unreduced benefit at age fifty-five or older and with at least twenty-five years of service, in accordance with sections 24-51-1715 and 24-51-1734; except that outside service taken together with service purchased under sections 24-51-1705 and 24-51-1706 may not exceed ten years in determining such eligibility to retire. This subsection (2) only applies to DPS members who retire from the Denver public schools division without exercising portability and DPS members who retire a frozen segment of service in the Denver public schools division that includes outside service.

(3) On and after January 1, 2004, earned service shall be calculated in the same manner provided in the DPS plan document for calculating active service prior to January 1, 2004, except for casual employment, which shall be calculated in accordance with the provisions of the DPS plan document; except that earned service shall not include outside service.

(4) In the case of a person who is an employee of the district on January 1, 2004, and thereafter qualifies as a deferred member in accordance with the DPS plan document and later applies for benefits under this part 17, the conversion to earned service shall be accomplished in the manner provided in this part 17, and benefits shall be calculated accordingly.

(5) In the case of a person who, on January 1, 2004, has either qualified for disability retirement or has applied for disability retirement and is thereafter determined to be entitled to such disability retirement, the recomputation of retirement benefits in accordance with the DPS plan document shall be accomplished utilizing earned service calculated pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(6) On and after January 1, 2004, this section shall, in accordance with its terms, amend and supersede all prior provisions of this retirement plan in conflict with such terms.

24-51-1715. Benefits.

(1) The annual superannuation retirement allowance shall be determined in the following manner:

(a) Subject to the provisions of paragraph (c) of this subsection (1) pertaining to certain members appointed or reappointed on or after July 1, 2005, and for persons who become affiliate members on or after July 1, 2005, the following calculations shall apply:

(I) If said member shall retire pursuant to section 24-51-1713, the highest average salary as defined in section 24-51-1702 (17) shall be multiplied by the primary percentage which shall determine the annual retirement allowance expressed as a single life annuity and known as option A.

(II) If, however, said member shall retire pursuant to section 24-51-1714 (2), and if the member has reached retirement eligibility as of January 1, 2011, and has attained a minimum age of fifty years, the annual retirement allowance, calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), shall be reduced by the lesser of four percent for each year that fifty-five exceeds said member's attained age or four percent for each year that thirty exceeds said member's number of years of active service with the district, in either case prorated for a partial year. For members who have not reached retirement eligibility as of January 1, 2011, the annual retirement allowance, calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), shall be reduced by an actuarially determined percentage as of the effective date of retirement to ensure that the benefit is the actuarial equivalent of the annual retirement allowance, calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a).

(III) If said member shall retire pursuant to section 24-51-1714 (2), and if the member has reached retirement eligibility as of January 1, 2011, and is younger than age fifty, the annual retirement allowance, calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), shall be reduced by the greater of four percent for each year that fifty exceeds said member's attained age or four percent for each year that thirty exceeds said member's number of years of active service with the district, in either case prorated for a partial year. For members who have not reached retirement eligibility as of January 1, 2011, the annual retirement allowance, calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), shall be reduced by an actuarially determined percentage as of the effective date of retirement to ensure that the benefit is the actuarial equivalent of the annual retirement allowance, calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a).

(IV) If said member shall retire pursuant to section 24-51-1714 (3), and the member has reached retirement eligibility as of January 1, 2011, the annual retirement allowance, calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), shall be reduced by the lesser of four percent for each year that twenty-five exceeds said member's number of years of active service with the district or four percent for each year that sixty-five exceeds said member's age, in either case prorated for a partial year. For members who have not reached retirement eligibility as of January 1, 2011, the annual retirement allowance, calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), shall be reduced by an actuarially determined percentage as of the effective date of retirement to ensure that the benefit is the actuarial equivalent of the annual retirement allowance, calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a).

(V) If said member shall retire pursuant to section 24-51-1714 (4), and if the member has reached retirement eligibility as of January 1, 2011, the annual retirement allowance, calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), shall be reduced by four percent for each year that fifty exceeds said member's age. For members who have not reached retirement eligibility as of January 1, 2011, the annual retirement allowance, calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), shall be reduced by an actuarially determined percentage as of the effective date of retirement to ensure that the benefit is the actuarial equivalent of the annual retirement allowance, calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a).

(b) If a reduction percentage is applicable, prior to calculation of the reduced retirement allowance, the annuity portion shall be determined and subtracted from the retirement allowance in order to determine the pension portion, using the terms of section 24-51-1726, if applicable, and then the reduced retirement allowance shall be determined by application of the appropriate reduction. The annuity portion of said allowance, as determined prior to the reduction, shall be subtracted from the reduced retirement allowance in order to determine the pension portion, if any, that may be applicable. In no event shall any reduced retirement allowance be less than the annuity portion of said allowance as determined prior to the reduction percentage. Said annual retirement allowance shall be payable on a monthly basis and shall continue for so long as said member shall live or so long as may be provided under any option available to and elected by such member pursuant to the provisions of this retirement plan. Payment shall be made at the end of the calendar month for any retirement allowance attributable to said month, and upon the death of said member payment shall be allowed for that portion of the calendar month in which death occurs up to and including the date of death.

(c) In making the calculation of the annual retirement allowance adjustment for a member who initially was appointed or who became an affiliate member on or after July 1, 2005, and who has reached retirement eligibility as of January 1, 2011, the reduction percentage provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall be changed in each instance from four percent to six percent. For members who have not reached retirement eligibility as of January 1, 2011, the annual retirement allowance, calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), shall be reduced by an actuarially determined percentage as of the effective date of retirement to ensure that the benefit is the actuarial equivalent of the annual retirement allowance, calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1).

Any contributing member or affiliate member whose effective date of retirement is on or after December 31, 2004, may elect to receive a superannuation retirement allowance in accordance with any of the options hereinafter stated. Option A shall be deemed a basic option, and the amount of the annual retirement allowance payable under such option as determined under the provisions of section 24-51-1715 shall be the amount that shall be duly adjusted in computing payments to be made under options other than option A. Prior to application for retirement, any such election may be changed or revoked, but when a member files application for retirement and elects an option, such option may not thereafter be changed or revoked, except where the designated co-annuitant under option P2 or option P3 predeceases the member prior to the effective date of retirement, pursuant to section 24-51-1723 or 24-51-1724, whichever is applicable. This shall not preclude the member's right to have the option elected become effective as of the date of retirement. In addition to the provisions of this section, in any dissolution of marriage action in any district court of the state of Colorado, the court shall have jurisdiction to order or allow an annuitant who is a petitioner or respondent in such action, and who selected an option P2 or P3 at the time of retirement designating the annuitant's spouse as the co-annuitant, to revoke the co-annuitant designation and for an option A benefit to become payable thereafter to the annuitant. The option A benefit shall be the original option A amount calculated as of the annuitant's effective date of retirement increased by any increases in the basic retirement allowance granted in accordance with the provisions of the DPS plan document and section 24-51-1732 subsequent to the annuitant's effective date of retirement. If no option is elected by a member at or prior to the time of application for retirement, such member shall be considered to have automatically elected to receive the applicable benefit under option A.

24-51-1717. Option A.

Option A is a single life annuity, which is defined as a specified sum of money payable monthly to an annuitant from the time of retirement until the death of said annuitant, without refund of any kind to the estate of the deceased annuitant or anyone claiming by or through the annuitant. The monthly retirement allowance under option A shall be calculated in accordance with the provisions of section 24-51-1715. For retirements having effective dates on or after December 31, 2004, option A shall be revised to provide that if, upon the death of the annuitant, the total amount of retirement allowance that has been paid to the annuitant does not exceed the amount of the member's accumulated contributions, then the difference between said accumulated contributions and the total amount of retirement allowance paid to such annuitant shall be paid to the named beneficiary of the annuitant or, if no named beneficiary exists, to the estate of the annuitant. The monthly retirement allowance under the revised option shall be calculated in accordance with the provisions of section 24-51-1715.

24-51-1718. Option B.

(1) Option B is an installment refund annuity, which is defined as a smaller sum of money than the amount that would be payable under option A but that is the actuarial equivalent thereof, as provided in this retirement plan, payable monthly to an annuitant from the time of retirement until death, with the additional provision that if said annuitant dies before receiving an amount equal to the total reserve credited to said annuitant, said payments shall be continued to beneficiaries designated by said annuitant until the total amount of the payments made to such annuitant and to beneficiaries of said annuitant is equal to the total amount of reserve allocated to the payment of said annuitant's retirement allowance.

(2) If a deceased member's estate is the beneficiary, payment in one sum of the commuted value of the retirement allowance shall be made to the member's estate. The rate of interest used in determining the commuted value shall be the actuarial investment assumption rate of the association on the date of death of the member.

(3) In the event of the death of a retired deceased member's beneficiary who is receiving monthly benefits under option B, a payment in one sum of the commuted value of the remaining monthly payments shall be made to the estate of the deceased beneficiary. The rate of interest used in determining the commuted value shall be the actuarial investment assumption rate of the association on the date of death of the beneficiary.

(1) Any contributing member or affiliate member choosing or having chosen option C through December 31, 2009, will be governed by the DPS plan document. As of January 1, 2010, option C will no longer be a permissible payment choice.

(2) Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary, an annuitant may change the co-annuitant that was named by such annuitant and designate a supplemental needs trust as a co-annuitant in place of the previously named co-annuitant if:

(a) The beneficiary of the supplemental needs trust is the same person as the previously named co-annuitant; and

(b) The retiree files an application and any required documents in a form as designated by the association.

(3) If a supplemental needs trust is not established before or within ninety days after the death of the annuitant, is determined to be invalid, or is terminated on or after the death of the annuitant, the beneficiary that was named in the trust is the co-annuitant.

(1) Any contributing member or affiliate member choosing or having chosen option E through December 31, 2009, will be governed by the DPS plan document. As of January 1, 2010, option E will no longer be a permissible payment choice.

(2) Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary, an annuitant may change the co-annuitant that was named by such annuitant and designate a supplemental needs trust as a co-annuitant in place of the previously named co-annuitant if:

(a) The beneficiary of the supplemental needs trust is the same person as the previously named co-annuitant; and

(b) The retiree files an application and any required documents in a form as designated by the association.

(3) If a supplemental needs trust is not established before or within ninety days after the death of the annuitant, is determined to be invalid, or is terminated on or after the death of the annuitant, the beneficiary that was named in the trust is the co-annuitant.

24-51-1722. Additional optional forms of allowance beginning December 31, 2004.

In addition to the options provided in sections 24-51-1717 and 24-51-1721, any contributing member or affiliate member whose effective date of retirement is on or after December 31, 2004, may elect to receive a superannuation retirement allowance in accordance with any of the options provided in sections 24-51-1723 and 24-51-1724. Option A shall be deemed a basic option under this section, and the amount of the annual retirement allowance payable thereunder, as determined under the provisions of section 24-51-1715, shall be the amount that shall be duly adjusted in computing payments to be made under options P2 and P3. Prior to application for retirement, any such election may be changed or revoked, but when a member files application for retirement and elects an option, such option may not thereafter be changed or revoked except as provided in this part 17.

24-51-1723. Option P2.

(1) Option P2 is a modified joint survivorship annuity, which is defined as a somewhat smaller sum of money than the amount that would be payable under option A but that is the actuarial equivalent thereof, as calculated under this retirement plan, payable monthly to an annuitant from the time of retirement until the death of said annuitant, and, thereafter an amount equal to one-half of the monthly amount paid to the annuitant is payable monthly to the annuitant's designated co-annuitant until the death of that person. The designation of the co-annuitant shall be effective upon the effective date of the member's retirement and may not subsequently be changed except as provided in subsection (2) of this section. Upon the death of the co-annuitant prior to the death of the annuitant, the benefit payable to the annuitant thereafter shall be the original option A amount increased by any increases in the basic retirement allowance granted in accordance with the provisions of the DPS plan document and section 24-51-1732 subsequent to the annuitant's effective date of retirement. In addition to designating a co-annuitant, the member shall designate a beneficiary and shall have the exclusive right to change such designation of beneficiary at any time prior to the annuitant's death. If, upon the death of both the annuitant and the co-annuitant, the total amount of retirement allowance that has been paid to them does not exceed the member's accumulated contributions, then the difference between said accumulated contributions and the total amount of retirement allowance paid to such annuitant and co-annuitant shall be paid to the named beneficiary of the annuitant, or, if no named beneficiary exists, to the estate of the co-annuitant.

(2) In case of the death of the designated co-annuitant under option P2 after the date of application for retirement and before the effective date of retirement, the member may make a change of option or designate a new co-annuitant within thirty days after the death of the previously designated co-annuitant and subject to the appropriate recalculation of the retirement allowance.

(3) Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary, an annuitant may change the co-annuitant that was named by such annuitant and designate a supplemental needs trust as a co-annuitant in place of the previously named co-annuitant if:

(a) The beneficiary of the supplemental needs trust is the same person as the previously named co-annuitant; and

(b) The retiree files an application and any required documents in a form as designated by the association.

(4) If a supplemental needs trust is not established before or within ninety days after the death of the annuitant, is determined to be invalid, or is terminated on or after the death of the annuitant, the beneficiary that was named in the trust is the co-annuitant.

24-51-1724. Option P3.

(1) Option P3 is a joint survivorship annuity, which is defined as a somewhat smaller sum of money than the amount that would be payable under option A but that is the actuarial equivalent thereof, as calculated under this retirement plan, payable monthly to an annuitant from the time of retirement until the death of said annuitant and thereafter to the annuitant's designated spouse or any one individual, so long as said designated spouse or individual shall live; except that, if the co-annuitant is not a designated spouse, the calculation of the payments to the annuitant and co-annuitant will be made in accordance with the further provisions of subsection (2) of this section. The designation of the co-annuitant shall be effective upon the effective date of the member's retirement and may not subsequently be changed except as provided in subsection (4) of this section. Upon the death of the co-annuitant prior to the death of the annuitant, the benefit payable to the annuitant thereafter shall be the original option A amount increased by any increases in the basic retirement allowance granted in accordance with the provisions of the DPS plan document and section 24-51-1732 subsequent to the annuitant's effective date of retirement. In addition to designating a co-annuitant, the member shall designate a beneficiary and shall have the exclusive right to change such designation of beneficiary at any time prior to the annuitant's death. If, upon the death of both the annuitant and the co-annuitant, the total amount of retirement allowance that has been paid to them does not exceed the member's accumulated contributions, then the difference between said accumulated contributions and the total amount of retirement allowance paid to such annuitant and co-annuitant shall be paid to the named beneficiary of the annuitant or, if no such named beneficiary exists, to the estate of the co-annuitant.

(2) If the designated co-annuitant is not the annuitant's designated spouse or a former spouse of the annuitant under the circumstances stated in subsection (3) of this section, the co-annuitant's benefit shall be calculated in accordance with the treasury regulations under section 401(a)(9) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, but, as so calculated, the benefits to the annuitant, the co-annuitant, and any beneficiary or to the estate of the co-annuitant, as provided for in option P3, shall be the actuarial equivalent of the amount that would be payable under option A as calculated under this retirement plan.

(3) If the designated co-annuitant is a former spouse, and if pursuant to a properly executed and filed agreement under section 14-10-113, C.R.S., the designated co-annuitant may, upon the prior death of the annuitant, and for the life of the co-annuitant, receive a monthly payment equal to that otherwise payable to the annuitant.

(4) In case of the death of the designated co-annuitant under option P3 after the date of application for retirement and before the effective date of retirement, the member may make a change of option or designate a new co-annuitant within thirty days after the death of the previously designated co-annuitant and subject to the appropriate recalculation of the retirement allowance.

(5) Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary, an annuitant may change the co-annuitant that was named by such annuitant and designate a supplemental needs trust as a co-annuitant in place of the previously named co-annuitant if:

(a) The beneficiary of the supplemental needs trust is the same person as the previously named co-annuitant; and

(b) The retiree files an application and any required documents in a form as designated by the association.

(6) If a supplemental needs trust is not established before or within ninety days after the death of the annuitant, is determined to be invalid, or is terminated on or after the death of the annuitant, the beneficiary that was named in the trust is the co-annuitant.

24-51-1725. Determination of option P2 or P3 benefits.

For reduced superannuation retirements and disability recalculations, for members who retire with an effective date of retirement on or after December 31, 2004, the calculation of benefits payable pursuant to option P2 or P3, as set forth in sections 24-51-1723 and 24-51-1724, shall be actuarially determined as of the effective date of retirement or, in the case of a recalculation pursuant to the DPS plan document for a member retired for disability, the applicable recalculation date.

24-51-1726. Minimum benefits - contributing members and affiliate members.

(1) The minimum monthly pension portion of the retirement allowance under an option A settlement shall be the greater of:

(a) Such pension amount payable as a part of the retirement allowance computed under the provisions of section 24-51-1715 in the case of a member retiring for superannuation.

(b) The minimum benefits in effect on or after January 1, 1974, and prior to January 1, 1985, as governed by the DPS plan document.

(c) Effective January 1, 1985, the sum of fifteen dollars, multiplied by the number of whole years of accredited service plus additional whole months expressed as a fraction of a year of accredited service but in no event in excess of the total sum of one hundred fifty dollars, plus the sum of twenty dollars multiplied by the number of whole years of accredited service in excess of ten years plus additional whole months expressed as a fraction of a year of accredited service. These minimum benefits shall not apply to retirements previous to January 1, 1985.

(d) The minimum monthly pension portion of the retirement allowance under options other than option A shall be computed by taking such minimum amount as established under an option

A settlement and making the appropriate reduction to reflect the additional actuarial factors involved under such other option pursuant to the applicable tables then in use.

24-51-1726.5. Contributions for a retiree who returns to membership - benefit calculation upon subsequent retirement - survivor benefit rights.

(1) Except as otherwise provided in section 24-51-1747, a DPS retiree who returns to work in a position that is subject to membership may voluntarily suspend his or her retirement allowance and resume membership. Upon such suspension, employer and member contributions are required to be made pursuant to the provisions of part 4 of this article.

(2) A DPS retiree who, on or after January 1, 2011, suspends his or her retirement allowance shall not add any service credit to the benefit segment from which the retiree suspends his or her retirement. Subject to the election set forth below, any additional service credit accumulated will be reflected in separate benefit segments upon subsequent termination of membership, but only after one year of service credit has been earned during a period of suspension. The retirement allowance for each qualifying separate benefit segment will be calculated pursuant to the benefit structure under which the retiree originally retired. The benefit for each separate benefit segment resulting from suspension shall be determined using the DPS member's salary and service credit acquired during the period of suspension. The DPS member's age and total service credit with the association upon retirement after each suspension shall govern whether the DPS member shall receive a retirement allowance pursuant to section 24-51-1713 or 24-51-1714 for that segment. Previous separate benefit segments shall be subject to recalculation only to reflect a change in the selected option or a designated coannuitant, if applicable, and no benefit increases pursuant to section 24-51-1001 will be applicable to any separate benefit segment during any period of suspension. Upon reinstatement of the retirement benefit allowance payments, no increase shall be made until such resumed payments have been paid continuously for the twelve months prior to July 1. Upon resumption of retirement after suspension, the association shall refund all moneys credited to the member contribution account during the period of suspension pursuant to section 24-51-405 unless, within a time set by the association, the retiree makes written election to establish a separate benefit segment calculated as set forth above. The refund shall be an amount equal to all moneys credited to the member contribution account during the period of suspension and payment of matching employer contributions pursuant to section 24-51-1711 or 24-51-1729 (6)(a)(I), whichever is applicable. No refund can issue for any benefit segment from which a benefit has been drawn. Such refund shall be required for any separate benefit segment during which less than one year of service credit has been earned.

(3) (a) A DPS member whose retirement allowances are in separate benefit segments pursuant to this section must elect the same option and designate the same coannuitant for all of his or her separate benefit segments.

(b) A DPS retiree who suspends his or her retirement and elects a separate benefit segment pursuant to this section may change his or her original option and coannuitant election only if the original option selected was option A, P2, or P3. DPS retirees who selected option B, C, D, or E shall not be allowed to change that election.

(4) Survivor benefit rights provided for in this part 17 shall be available to a DPS retiree who voluntarily suspends the benefits and returns to membership as if such retiree had not retired.

24-51-1727. Eligibility for deferred members.

(1) Benefits shall be payable under this section and sections 24-51-1728 to 24-51-1731 if the following conditions are met:

(a) The employee must be an affiliate member or contributing member who has completed a period of not less than five years of active service with the district. Any contributing member or affiliate member who terminated employment prior to January 1, 1997, shall be governed by the DPS plan document.

(b) Such member is not eligible to receive and has not received, by virtue of district employment, payment of any other benefits under this retirement plan. A refund of accumulated contributions is not deemed a benefit within the meaning of this section.

(c) The employment of such member with the district, either regular or casual, has been terminated and there has not been a withdrawal of the member's accumulated contributions. In the case of a member whose employment has terminated and who withdrew such contributions but thereafter accepted reemployment with the district, such prohibition against withdrawal shall refer to any normal, arrearage, or additional contributions thereafter made by such employee.

(d) Within one year following an effective date of termination of employment falling on or before December 31, 2008, such member must file an election and declaration of intent to apply for a deferred retirement allowance. Such election and declaration shall be made in the manner and form as prescribed.

(e) If a member's effective date of termination of employment falls on or after January 1, 2009, such member is automatically deemed a deferred member and is eligible to apply for a deferred retirement allowance upon meeting the requirements for commencement of a deferred retirement allowance.

24-51-1728. Accredited service - deferred members.

In computing the amount of any deferred retirement allowance becoming due to such member upon final termination of employment, such member must, at the time of the effective date of termination of service, have a credit of accumulated contributions in such amount as would have been to such member's credit if such member had complied in full with the requirements of sections 24-51-1705 and 24-51-1707 as such requirements may apply. In the event said member fails to comply with such requirements, as applicable, then the accredited service of such member, subsequent to December 1, 1945, shall be credited in the same ratio that accumulated contributions, at the time of termination of service, bear to such member's credit if such member had complied in full with the requirements of sections 24-51-1705 and 24-51-1707 as such requirements may apply. If the provisions of section 24-51-1706 apply to such member applying for a deferred retirement allowance, then no portion of service subject to said provisions shall be counted as accredited service unless, at the time of termination of service, said member completed payment of the total amounts required by said section 24-51-1706. If such total amount as required by section 24-51-1706 is not so paid within such time, any incomplete amount paid in pursuant to section 24-51-1706 shall be refunded, without increase of any kind to such member, under such rules and regulations as the association may provide.

24-51-1729. Benefits - deferred members.

(1) In the event the employment of such member with the district terminates on or after July 1, 1962, the deferred retirement allowance, subject to the limitations set forth in section 24-51-1731, shall be computed in the following manner and paid under the following conditions:

(a) The amount of the deferred retirement allowance under option A shall be determined in the same manner and subject to the same conditions as is set forth in section 24-51-1715, if the member was a contributing member or affiliate member at the time that employment was terminated, with the following limitations:

(I) Accredited service shall be determined to the actual date on which employment of such member finally terminated.

(II) For contributing members and affiliate members, highest average salary as defined in section 24-51-1702 (17) shall be determined over the period to the actual date on which employment of such member finally terminated.

(III) The age factor for such member that is employed in calculating such deferred retirement allowance shall be that of attained age of fifty-five for employees having twenty-five or more years of active service, and that of attained age of sixty-five for employees having less than twenty-five years of active service. If, however, a member attains thirty or more years of active service with the district on or after January 1, 2001, the age factor for such member that is employed in calculating the deferred retirement allowance shall be that of attained age fifty.

(IV) The unit benefit percentage shall be in accordance with section 24-51-1702 (39).

(V) In making the calculation of the deferred retirement allowance for one qualified for deferred benefits, the provisions of section 24-51-1715 (1)(c) changing the reduction percentage from four percent to six percent for certain retirements shall not apply if the retiree terminated employment on or before June 30, 2005.

(b) Said member must apply to the association for a deferred retirement allowance in the manner and form as may be prescribed in section 24-51-1712. Such application may not be filed sooner than sixty days before the effective date of the member's deferred retirement allowance. No deferred retirement allowance shall be payable to any otherwise eligible member unless proper application is received within the three-year period following the earliest possible effective date of such an allowance.

(2) On or after January 1, 1998, the effective date of the deferred retirement allowance shall be thirty days after the date proper application for such allowance is received, but in no event before the attainment of age fifty-five by a member who has at least twenty-five years of active service, or age sixty-five, if such member has less than twenty-five years of active service. If, however, a member attains thirty or more years of active service with the district on or after January 1, 2001, the effective date of the deferred retirement allowance shall be thirty days after the date proper application for such allowance is received, but in no event before the attainment of age fifty. The first monthly installment of said allowance shall be payable at the end of the month in which such effective date falls. No payment shall be made for any period prior to such effective date.

(3) The deferred retirement allowance shall be payable under any of the options provided in sections 24-51-1717 to 24-51-1724, as elected by such member at the time of application for a deferred retirement allowance, and shall be calculated as provided therein, subject to the further provisions of this section. The age factor employed in calculating such deferred retirement allowance shall be that of attained age sixty-five as to such member, and under any option involving a co-annuitant the age of such co-annuitant at said attained age of sixty-five of such member; except that, for annuitants eligible for benefits at age fifty or age fifty-five, as applicable, the age factor employed in calculations shall be that of attained age fifty or age fifty-five, as applicable, as to such member and under any option involving a co-annuitant the age of such co-annuitant at said attained age of fifty or age fifty-five, as applicable, of such member.

(4) In the case of a deferred retirement allowance payable after December 31, 1973, and prior to January 1, 1985, the minimum monthly pension attributable under an option A settlement shall be governed by the DPS plan document.

(5) In the event the employment of a member with the district terminates on or after January 1, 1985, the minimum monthly pension portion of the retirement allowance under an option A settlement shall be the greater of:

(a) Such pension amount payable as a part of the retirement allowance computed under the provisions of section 24-51-1729;

(b) The sum of fifteen dollars, multiplied by the number of whole years of accredited service plus additional whole months expressed as a fraction of a year of accredited service but in no event in excess of the total sum of one hundred fifty dollars, plus the sum of twenty dollars multiplied by the number of whole years of accredited service in excess of ten years plus additional whole months expressed as a fraction of a year of accredited service.

(6) (a) In the event the employment of a member with the district terminates on or after January 1, 2001, at the time said member becomes eligible to receive benefit payments in accordance with this section, the member shall have the following additional options:

(I) A payment equal to two hundred percent of the deferred member's then-accumulated contributions calculated without reference to amounts contributed for purchase of periods of noncovered employment service credit and interest credits on amounts so contributed; or

(II) A retirement allowance equal to the sum of the amount determined in paragraph (b) of subsection (5) of this section plus a money purchase monthly annuity that is the actuarial equivalent of two hundred percent of the deferred member's accumulated contributions at the time the member becomes eligible to receive benefit payments calculated without reference to amounts contributed for purchase of periods of noncovered employment service credit and interest credits on amounts so contributed. The determination of the money purchase monthly annuity shall incorporate the provisions of section 24-51-1732 and utilize the assumptions of the association.

(b) The minimum monthly pension portion of the retirement allowance under options other than option A shall be computed by taking such minimum amount as established under an option

A settlement and making appropriate reduction therein to reflect the additional actuarial factors involved under such other option pursuant to the applicable tables then in use.

(b) The surviving widow or widower of the deceased member who has not remarried and has in her or his care a child eligible to receive benefits as set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1). If benefits are payable under said paragraph (a) or this paragraph (b), the DPS plan document shall govern any amounts due to any unremarried widow or widower.

Dependence of a surviving parent must be established by a showing to the association beyond reasonable doubt that such parent was dependent upon the deceased member for not less than one-half of the parent's support and actually received such support from the deceased member during the six-month period prior to the death of such member.

(2) Effective for surviving spouses of members who die on or after January 1, 1984, eligibility for beneficiaries as described in paragraphs (a), (b), and (c) of subsection (1) of this section will not be forfeited by remarriage.

(3) If at the time of the death of the member there is a supplemental needs trust established before or within ninety days after the death of the member for the benefit of the child eligible for survivor benefits, survivor benefits payable pursuant to sections 24-51-1736 to 24-51-1746 to the beneficiary of the supplemental needs trust are payable to the trust so long as that beneficiary is eligible for survivor benefits. If a supplemental needs trust is determined to be invalid or terminates after the association commences payment to the supplemental needs trust, the survivor benefit, from then on, is paid to the beneficiary of the supplemental needs trust so long as that beneficiary is eligible for survivor benefits.

24-51-1743. When election becomes irrevocable.

The election described in section 24-51-1742 shall become irrevocable upon the first payment thereunder of any benefits provided under sections 24-51-1736 to 24-51-1746 or under sections 24-51-1713 and 24-51-1714. If, subsequent to exercise of such election by the appropriate beneficiary or beneficiaries but prior to the first payment of benefits thereunder, such beneficiary or beneficiaries desire to revoke such earlier election, such person or persons shall be permitted to do so and shall thereupon be eligible to receive a refund paid under the terms and conditions set forth in section 24-51-1735, and such revoking beneficiary or beneficiaries shall thereafter have no rights to any benefits of any kind, incident to the death of such member, other than said refund. If the election has been made to receive benefits hereunder and there is only one beneficiary and such beneficiary shall die before any payment of such benefits is made, a refund of such deceased member's accumulated contributions, computed as of the date of death, shall be made to the estate of such deceased beneficiary. If there shall be more than one beneficiary but all of them shall have died before any payment of such benefits is made, such refund shall be made to the estate of the last survivor of said several beneficiaries.

24-51-1745. Payment in good faith.

Any payments of such survivor's benefits made to any person who is an eligible survivor of the deceased member and entitled thereto shall, to the extent of such payments actually made, be and constitute a complete release and acquittance to the system under this retirement plan. Such release shall not be deemed to preclude the right of another claimant or an adverse claimant of such survivor's benefits from establishing a right to future payments.

Likewise, the association may waive the appointment of a conservator for a beneficiary deemed mentally incompetent or otherwise unable by reason of age or illness to act without assistance, and may, from time to time, authorize and approve such payments to the person or institution having care of such beneficiary. The receipt of the person or institution so receiving such payments shall be a complete release and acquittance under this retirement plan with respect to such payments in all respects as if such payments had been made to a duly constituted guardian or conservator.

24-51-1747. Portability between the Denver public schools division and the other four divisions within the association - definitions.

(1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "DPS active member" means a person, as defined in subsection (2) of this section, who as of December 31, 2009, is an employee of the Denver public school district, the Denver public schools retirement system, or a Denver public school district charter school, and is a member of the Denver public schools retirement system. Active members include employees, other than part-time or hourly employees, on leave of absence from the Denver public school district, the Denver public schools retirement system, or a Denver public school district charter school on December 31, 2009.

(b) "DPS inactive member" means a person, as defined in subsection (3) of this section, who as of December 31, 2009, has a member account balance at the Denver public schools retirement system, is not employed by the Denver public school district, the Denver public schools retirement system, or a Denver public school district charter school, and is not receiving benefits from the Denver public schools retirement system.

(c) "Denver public schools retirement system" means the Denver public school district retirement system that will become the Denver public schools division within the association.

(d) "Freeze" or "frozen" means cessation of the collection of contributions and the granting of benefit or service accruals. However, interest will continue to accrue on frozen accounts at the applicable interest rate.

(e) "Nonretirement plan choice affiliate employer" means any employer, other than the state or the community colleges, affiliated with the association.

(f) "One-time irrevocable choice" refers to the choice of either the benefits as specified in this part 17 or the benefits under the PERA benefit structure. The choice period shall be a sixty-calendar-day choice period. Unless otherwise specified, the sixty-day choice period shall begin on the date the association receives the first contributions from the affiliated employer. If an individual is eligible to make a one-time irrevocable choice and fails to make the choice within the choice period, he or she will be automatically enrolled in the benefit structure with which the individual has accrued the most service credit at the beginning of the choice period. If the individual fails to make a choice and has service credit in both benefit structures and the amount of service credit in both structures is equal, then he or she will be automatically enrolled in the benefit structure with the most recent contribution prior to the first day of the choice period. Contributions received prior to a choice being made will be applied to the PERA benefit structure. Upon a choice being made within the sixty-day period, these contributions will be applied to the applicable division and the applicable benefit structure within that division. While the choice is pending, the individual shall not be allowed a refund or to retire.

(g) "Parties" means the association, the Denver public schools retirement system, and the Denver public school district.

(h) "PERA benefit structure" means the benefits provided in this article, except for the benefits provided for in part 15 of this article unless otherwise indicated, and except for the benefits provided for in this part 17.

(i) "Retirement plan choice affiliated employer" means the state or the community colleges of the state.

(j) "Denver public school district" means the school district sponsoring the Denver public schools retirement system.

(k) "Denver public school district charter school" means a charter school that is certified as a Denver public school district charter school. "Denver public school district charter school" also means a charter school approved by the Denver public school board of education. A Denver public school district charter school is considered an employer within the Denver public schools division.

(l) "Denver public schools division" refers to the separate division created within the association that will consist solely of the Denver public school district and Denver public school district charter schools and have a separate benefit structure from the other divisions within the association. The benefit structure for the Denver public school district division shall be governed by the DPS plan document and this part 17, where applicable.

(2) (a) (I) A person who is not retired and is a DPS active member on January 1, 2010, with either an inactive account with the association or no account with the association who continues his or her employment with an employer within the Denver public schools division on and after January 1, 2010, shall continue to accrue a benefit under the school district division benefit structure as set forth in this part 17. Employment with any nonretirement plan choice eligible employer affiliated with the association other than the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school on and after January 1, 2010, either concurrent or not concurrent, shall trigger a one-time irrevocable choice. This choice shall freeze the account not chosen. If the individual becomes an inactive member and decides to take a refund, he or she shall refund all member accounts. Any subsequent employment after a refund with any association affiliated employer, including the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school, shall be under the PERA benefit structure in effect at that time.

(II) A person who is not retired and is a DPS active member on January 1, 2010, with either an inactive account with the association or no account with the association who continues his or her employment with an employer within the Denver public schools division on and after January 1, 2010, shall continue to accrue a benefit under the Denver public schools benefit structure as set forth in this part 17. Employment with any retirement plan choice employer affiliated with the association on and after January 1, 2010, without a twelve-month break in service, shall trigger a one-time irrevocable choice. The choice shall freeze the account not chosen. If the individual becomes an inactive member and decides to take a refund, he or she shall refund all member accounts. Any subsequent employment after a refund with any association affiliated employer, including the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school, will be under the PERA benefit structure in effect at that time.

(III) A person who is not retired and is a DPS active member on January 1, 2010, with either an inactive account with the association or no account with the association who continues his or her employment with an employer within the Denver public schools division on and after January 1, 2010, shall continue to accrue a benefit under the benefit structure as set forth in this part 17. If the individual is employed with any employer that is under the optional retirement plan choice pursuant to article 54.5 of this title, in an optional retirement plan choice position, he or she will have the choice as provided in article 54.5 of this title. For purposes of determining optional retirement plan choice eligibility, service credit within the benefit structure as set forth in this part

17 and service credit with the association will be combined. If the individual chooses to participate in the defined benefit plan, it will trigger a one-time irrevocable choice. The sixty-day choice period shall begin upon the date the association is notified of the selection of the defined benefit plan. The choice shall freeze the account not chosen. If the individual becomes an inactive member and elects to take a refund, he or she shall refund all member accounts. Any subsequent employment after a refund with any association affiliated employer, including the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school, will be under the PERA benefit structure in effect at that time.

(IV) A person who is not retired and is a DPS active member on January 1, 2010, with either an inactive account with the association or no account with the association who continues his or her employment with an employer within the Denver public schools division on and after January 1, 2010, shall continue to accrue a benefit under the benefit structure as set forth in this part 17. If the individual is employed at the university of Colorado in a position defined as eligible for the university retirement plan, he or she will have the choice as provided in section 23-20-139, C.R.S. For purposes of determining university retirement plan choice eligibility, service credit within the benefit structure as set forth in this part 17 and service credit with the association will be combined. If the individual chooses to participate in the defined benefit plan, it will trigger a one-time irrevocable choice. (c) A DPS inactive member who is also an inactive member of the association who does not make a one-time irrevocable choice and subsequently retires from either benefit structure shall choose at time of retirement which of the two benefits to accrue upon returning to employment with any affiliated employer.

(4) Notwithstanding subsections (1), (2), and (3) of this section, any employment with a Denver public schools division employer prior to January 1, 2010, is considered employment with the association for purposes of the eligibility for retirement plan choice as specified in part 15 of this article.

(5) Any individual hired by the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school on or after January 1, 2010, without an existing account in either the benefit structure under this part 17 or the PERA benefit structure shall be governed exclusively by the statutes and rules of the association as they exist at the time of hire.

(6) (a) A person who is a retiree of the Denver public schools retirement system before January 1, 2010, shall not be subject to the working retiree contributions or a benefit reduction due to postretirement employment with an affiliated employer of the association existing before January 1, 2010, as long as the retiree continues to be employed by that same employer. A retiree so situated shall be entitled to a second and entirely separate retirement coverage segment under the PERA benefit structure.

(b) (I) A retiree of the Denver public schools retirement system with no member contribution account with the association on January 1, 2010, who returns to work for any affiliated employer of the association, including the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school, shall be subject to the provisions of this article and rules of the association governing employment after service retirement. The retiree may suspend and add a separate benefit segment to his or her Denver public schools retirement system benefit. The retiree shall not be entitled to accrue a benefit under the PERA benefit structure.

(II) An individual who retires under the benefit structure provided in this part 17 after January 1, 2010, who did not make a one-time irrevocable choice and returns to work for any affiliated employer of the association, including the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school, shall be subject to the provisions of this article and rules of the association governing employment after service retirement. The individual may suspend and add a separate benefit segment to his or her Denver public schools retirement system benefit. The individual shall not be entitled to accrue a benefit under the PERA benefit structure.

(c) A retiree of the Denver public schools retirement system with an inactive account in the association on January 1, 2010, who is employed by an affiliated employer of the association, including the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school, shall be subject to the provisions of this article and rules of the association governing employment after service retirement. If the retiree chooses to suspend his or her benefit, he or she must make a one-time irrevocable choice within sixty days from the date of suspension to either add to his or her inactive account under the benefit structure for that account or add a separate benefit segment to his or her Denver public schools retirement system benefit. The retiree shall not be required to suspend his or her retirement benefit but will not be able to add to the inactive account or add a separate segment to the Denver public schools retirement system benefit unless the Denver public schools retirement system benefit is suspended. If the inactive account is chosen, the retiree will be permanently ineligible to add a separate segment to the Denver public schools retirement system benefit. If adding a separate segment to the Denver public schools retirement system benefit is chosen, the retiree will be permanently ineligible to add to the inactive account.

(d) A Denver public schools retirement system retiree shall be considered a retiree of the association for purposes of part 15 of this article and article 54.5 of this title. A Denver public schools retirement system retiree shall also be considered a retiree of the association when employed by the university of Colorado after January 1, 2010.

(e) A retiree of the Denver public schools retirement system before January 1, 2010, who is an active member of the association's defined contribution plan shall not be subject to a benefit reduction due to postretirement employment with his or her employer as long as the retiree continues to be employed by that same employer. The retiree shall be entitled to continue to contribute to the defined contribution plan. If the retiree begins employment with another nonretirement plan choice employer, including the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school, the retiree will be subject to the provisions of this article and rules of the association governing employment after service retirement. If the retiree chooses to suspend his or her benefit, he or she must add a separate benefit segment to his or her benefit as set forth in this part 17. The retiree shall not be required to suspend his or her retirement benefit, but will not be able to add a separate segment to the benefit as set forth in this part 17 unless the benefit is suspended.

(f) A retiree of the Denver public schools retirement system before January 1, 2010, who is an active member of the association's defined contribution plan shall not be subject to a benefit reduction due to postretirement employment with his or her employer as long as the retiree continues to be employed by that same employer. The retiree shall be entitled to continue to contribute to the defined contribution plan. If the retiree begins employment with another retirement plan choice employer without a twelve-month break in service, the retiree shall be subject to the provisions of this article and rules of the association governing employment after service retirement. If the retiree chooses to suspend his or her benefit within twelve months from the date of employment, he or she shall be placed into the defined contribution plan and will continue to build on his or her defined contribution account. If the retiree chooses to suspend after twelve months, he or she will build another segment onto the benefit as set forth in this part 17.

(g) An association retiree who is also a Denver public schools retirement system retiree on January 1, 2010, and who is subsequently employed by an affiliated employer of the association, including the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school, shall be subject to the provisions of this article and rules of the association governing employment after service retirement with regard to both benefits. If the retiree does not suspend the benefits and works beyond the statutory limits, both retirement benefits shall be offset by five percent per day for every day worked beyond the limit. If the retiree chooses to suspend the benefits, he or she shall suspend both benefits and shall make a one-time irrevocable choice within sixty days from the date of suspension to either add to his or her association account under the benefit structure for that account or add a separate benefit segment to his or her benefit as set forth in this part 17. The retiree shall not be required to suspend his or her retirement benefits but will not be able to add to either account unless the benefits are suspended. If the association account is chosen, the retiree permanently forfeits the ability to add a separate segment to the benefit under this part 17. If the benefit under this part 17 is chosen, the retiree permanently forfeits the ability to add to the association account.

(7) (a) A person who is a retiree of the association and a DPS active member before January 1, 2010, shall not be subject to a benefit reduction due to postretirement employment with the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school as long as the retiree continues to be employed by the same employer. A retiree so situated shall be entitled to a second and entirely separate retirement coverage segment under the benefit structure as set forth in this part 17. If such a retiree terminates employment with that employer, the retiree shall be subject to the provisions of this article and rules of the association governing employment after service retirement if reemployed by any affiliated employer. If the retiree chooses to suspend his or her benefit, the retiree shall make a choice within sixty days from the date of suspension to either add to his or her account under the PERA benefit structure for that account or add to his or her account as set forth in this part 17. The retiree shall not be required to suspend his or her retirement benefit, but will not be able to add to the benefit or add to the account under this part 17 unless the retirement benefit is suspended. If the association account is chosen, the retiree permanently forfeits the ability to add to the account under this part 17. If the account under this part 17 is chosen, the retiree permanently forfeits the ability to add to the association account. If the retiree does not suspend the association benefit, the separate segment of coverage will become an inactive account.

(b) Subject to the provisions of paragraph (d) of this subsection (7), a retiree of the association with no member account in the Denver public schools retirement system on January 1, 2010, who is employed by the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school after January 1, 2010, shall be subject to the provisions of this article and rules of the association governing employment after service retirement.

(c) A retiree of the association with an inactive account with the Denver public schools retirement system on January 1, 2010, who is employed by any affiliated employer, including the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school, beginning on or after January 1, 2010, shall be subject to the provisions of this article and rules of the association governing employment after service retirement. If the retiree chooses to suspend his or her benefit, he or she shall make a one-time irrevocable choice within sixty days from the date of suspension to either add to his or her account with the association under the benefit structure for that account or add to the account as set forth in this part 17. The retiree shall not be required to suspend his or her retirement benefit, but will not be able to add to either account unless the retirement benefit is suspended. If the association account is chosen, the retiree permanently forfeits the ability to add to the account under this part 17. If the account under this part 17 is chosen, the retiree permanently forfeits the ability to add to the association account.

(d) A retiree of the association who was not a member of the Denver public schools retirement system on December 31, 2009, but who was employed by the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school as an hourly employee on December 31, 2009, shall not be subject to a benefit reduction due to postretirement employment with the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school as long as the retiree continues to be employed by the same employer. The retiree shall be subject to the working retiree contributions beginning January 1, 2011, as specified in section 24-51-1101 (2), and the employer shall be required to remit employer contributions as specified in section 24-51-1101 (2), plus the applicable amortization equalization disbursement and supplemental amortization equalization disbursement as specified in section 24-51-411.

(8) An individual may reinstate time within the benefit structure that he or she is in as long as the time is not concurrent with the time, either earned or purchased, in the other benefit structure. The cost to reinstate the time shall be the cost required by the association's statutes and rules. An individual may purchase, at the actuarial cost according to the association's statutes and rules, time that has been previously refunded in the other benefit structure as long as the time is not concurrent with time, either earned or purchased, in the other benefit structure. The limits on the amount of service credit an individual may purchase set forth in this article shall apply to members under the benefit structure in this part 17.

(9) (a) A disability application submitted to the Denver public schools retirement system prior to January 1, 2010, shall be processed in accordance with this part 17.

(b) Any disability application submitted to the association on or after January 1, 2010, shall be processed in accordance with the provisions of this article and rules of the association.

(c) An individual shall not be eligible for disability benefits based on an account that is frozen.

(10) A frozen account shall be considered an inactive account for purposes of survivor benefit eligibility.

(11) Any time an individual continues to accrue a benefit under this part 17 while employed by an association affiliated employer other than the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school, the individual's salary for pension purposes shall be governed by the association's definition of salary. On and after January 1, 2010, individuals in the Denver public schools division shall earn service credit based on the association's accrual rate of one month of service earned if the member receives eighty times federal minimum wage in one month while employed by a PERA affiliated employer, including the Denver public school district or a Denver public school district charter school.

(12) A retiree or a beneficiary receiving a benefit from the Denver public schools retirement system, a disability retiree of the Denver public schools retirement system who applied for a disability retirement benefit prior to January 1, 2010, and a survivor benefit recipient based on an account of a person who died prior to January 1, 2010, shall have his or her benefits paid in accordance with the benefit structure as set forth in this part 17. For administrative convenience, annual benefit adjustments for such individuals may be scheduled so that the adjustments coincide with the dates on which benefit adjustments are effective under the rules of the association. Within the first calendar year following the effective merger date, it shall not be the intention of the association to deny an anticipated annual increase or to grant an additional increase to any annuitant, beneficiary, or survivor, as defined in section 24-51-1702, but rather that the association will administer an appropriate annual increase considering any differences between the administrative procedures under the DPS plan and the association in relation to the timing of the payment of such increase.

(13) The funding of a benefit based on an account that has contributions from the Denver public schools division shall be funded in the same manner as the association funds the benefit based on an account that has contributions in any one of the other four divisions as provided in section 24-51-208 (4).

(IV) Review the annual actuarial valuation of the public employees' retirement association and make comments as necessary to the association regarding the actuarial valuation; and

(V) Make recommendations to the board of trustees of the public employees' retirement association regarding assumptions, funding policy, reporting practices, or other operational policy.

(b) Review semi-annually the overall financial health of the public employees' retirement association, including the levels of benefits, its sources of funding, and its overall financial viability based on both the assumptions of the association board of directors and the requirements of the governmental accounting standards board. The subcommittee may request that the association provide general financial reporting based on assumptions for economic and investment factors, including, but not limited to, inflation, economic growth, employment growth, and rate of return, that differ from board assumptions. If the subcommittee determines that the association's board of directors is using assumptions that are too conservative or too aggressive, the subcommittee shall request that the association adjust its assumptions accordingly.

(c) Review annually the calculated normal costs that will cover current pension benefits and the share of contributions going to cover the unfunded liability of the public employees' retirement association;

(d) Review semi-annually the planned reduction of the unfunded liability of the public employees' retirement association. If full funding will not be achieved by 2048, the subcommittee shall make additional recommendations to the commission, the joint budget committee, and the general assembly to achieve full funding by 2048. If, upon that review, the subcommittee determines that the association does not have at least a sixty-seven percent likelihood of achieving full funding by 2048, then the association shall provide recommendations to the subcommittee for policy changes that would return the association to fully funded status by 2048. Notwithstanding section 24-1-136 (11)(a)(I), the subcommittee shall annually report to the general assembly regarding whether or not the association is on track to achieve full funding by 2048 and if not, the corrective actions recommended by the subcommittee or the association to rectify the shortfall.

(e) Annually report in writing to the citizens of Colorado regarding whether or not the public employees' retirement association is on track to achieve full funding by 2048 and if not, the corrective actions recommended by the subcommittee or the association to the general assembly to rectify the shortfall. Such communication shall be made in a manner that is clear, concise, and accessible to laypeople. This communication shall quantify the net present value of any funding deficit on a per citizen basis. For example, fifty billion dollars on five million five hundred thousand people equals nine thousand ninety dollars per person. The certified annual financial report shall not serve as this communication.

(f) After full funding is achieved, make recommendations to the commission, the joint budget committee, and the general assembly during each legislative session regarding changes to the plan to maintain full funding;

(g) Ensure the public employees' retirement association board is administering the association as mandated and make recommendations for the association board structure as warranted; and

(h) Every four years, within three months of the release of the periodic actuarial audit of the association conducted or caused to be conducted by the board of the public employees' retirement association in 2026 and every four years thereafter pursuant to section 24-51-204 (12), commission an independent review of the economic and investment assumptions used to model the public employees' retirement association financial situation. The subcommittee shall use experts other than those already working on behalf of the association and shall ensure that the experts review the findings from the most recent periodic actuarial audit of the association conducted pursuant to section 24-51-204 (12).

(5) Each member of the subcommittee shall be required to:

(a) Attend at least one meeting per year of the board of trustees of the public employees' retirement association;

(b) Attend the hearing of the legislative audit committee when the committee reviews the annual actuarial valuation that the public employees' retirement association is required to submit to the legislative audit committee pursuant to section 24-51-204 (7); and

(c) Attend the "State Measurement for Accountable, Responsive, and Transparent (SMART) Government Act" hearing of the joint finance committee pursuant to part 2 of article 7 of title 2 when the joint finance committee reviews the public employees' retirement association.

(6) and (7) Repealed.

(8) (a) Notwithstanding any provision of this section, the commission and the subcommittee shall not meet during the 2026 interim and legislative members of the subcommittee are not required to attend the meetings and hearings specified in subsection (5) of this section during the 2026 interim. If a legislative member of the subcommittee attends a meeting or hearing specified in subsection (5) of this section during the 2026 interim, the legislative member is not entitled to per diem compensation. The subcommittee is not required to comply with the review and reporting requirements set forth in subsection (4) of this section during the 2026 interim.

(b) This subsection (8) is repealed, effective July 1, 2027.

ANNOTATION

The city of Colorado Springs is subject to the state statutory scheme which requires that cities which have a paid fire department and a population in excess of 100,000 establish a fire fighters pension fund. These provisions require that the fund be administered by a board of trustees who must follow certain guidelines. Colo. Springs Fire Fighters v. Colo. Springs, 784 P.2d 766 (Colo. 1989) (decided under former § 31-30-901 as it existed in 1986).

24-52.5-101. Legislative declaration.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) It is essential for the state to be able to attract and retain qualified employees in order to provide the highest quality of service to the people of Colorado.

(b) The quality and flexibility of health and retirement benefits are important factors in hiring and retaining qualified state employees.

(c) The cost of medical care rises every year and because medicare and state retiree health benefits do not fully cover those costs, retirees are increasingly responsible for covering their medical costs after retirement.

(d) A properly constructed program to help state employees prepare for the costs of medical expenses after retirement could be cash funded through contributions of state employees and could operate as an enterprise as defined in section 20 of article X of the state constitution.

(2) The general assembly further finds and declares that:

(a) A new concept for providing retirement health benefits for the employees of nonprofit entities, including state governments, is for the nonprofit entity to create a retirement health savings trust. Such trust offers the following advantages:

(I) A retirement health savings trust is established by the nonprofit entity for the purpose of providing retirement health benefits to the employees of the entity.

(II) The provision of retirement health benefits is considered an integral part of the nonprofit entity's activities.

(III) A retirement health savings trust that makes the provision of retirement health benefits possible is considered a part of the nonprofit entity and therefore may be included in the entity's tax-exempt status.

(IV) A retirement health savings trust creates an individual account within the trust for each employee who chooses to participate and allows the employer to make pretax contributions, including unused annual or sick leave, to an employee's account on behalf of the employee.

(V) The nonprofit entity that creates a retirement health savings trust maintains substantial control of the trust in that it has the power to amend or terminate the trust and to appoint the trustees of the trust.

(VI) A retirement health savings trust allows each participating employee to determine how his or her money will be invested.

(VII) All earnings in a retirement health savings trust grow on a tax-deferred basis, and a participating employee may make withdrawals on a tax-free basis after reaching a certain age, so long as the moneys are used for qualified medical expenses.

(VIII) Any assets that remain in a participating employee's account at the time of the employee's death may be used for qualified medical expenses by the employee's spouse, dependents, or other beneficiaries.

(b) The creation of a retirement health savings trust by the state for the benefit of state employees would give such employees an opportunity to prepare for health costs that they will incur during retirement and would be beneficial to the health and well-being of such employees.

24-52.5-102. Retirement health savings trust - state personnel director - investigation.

(1) The state personnel director shall investigate the benefits and drawbacks of establishing a retirement health savings trust for the benefit of state employees.

(2) In investigating the benefits and drawbacks of establishing a retirement health savings trust, the state personnel director shall consider the feasibility of the following:

(a) The state, as an employer, establishing a trust for the purpose of providing retirement health savings benefits to state employees who choose to participate in the trust;

(b) The state specifying that providing retirement health savings benefits is an integral part of the state's activities;

(c) The state treating a trust that makes the provision of retirement health benefits possible as an integral part of the state and therefore including the trust in the state's tax-exempt status;

(d) The state creating an individual account within the trust for each state employee who chooses to participate and allowing the state to make pretax contributions, including unused annual or sick leave, to a state employee's account on behalf of the employee;

(e) The state maintaining substantial control of the trust and having the power to amend or terminate the trust and appoint the trustees of the trust;

(f) The state allowing each state employee who participates in the trust to determine how his or her money will be invested;

(g) The state allowing all moneys in the trust to grow without being subject to state or federal income taxes;

(h) The state allowing participating state employees to make withdrawals on a tax-free basis after reaching a certain age, so long as the moneys are used for qualified medical expenses; and

(i) The state allowing an employee's spouse, dependents, or other beneficiaries to use any assets that remain in a participating employee's account at the time of the employee's death for qualified medical expenses.

(3) The state personnel director, in investigating the feasibility of establishing a retirement health savings trust, shall investigate the benefits and drawbacks to the state and to state employees of allowing the state as an employer and state employees the option to make the following contributions to the trust:

(a) Pretax contributions, including a portion of unused employee annual and sick leave, by the state to an employee's account on behalf of the employee;

(b) Voluntary after-tax contributions by the state to an employee's account on behalf of the employee;

(c) Voluntary after-tax contributions by the employee into the employee's account; and

(d) Voluntary pretax contributions by the employee to the employee's account based on a one-time irrevocable election to make such contributions.

(4) The state personnel director shall investigate the benefits and drawbacks to the state and to state employees of various potential terms of a retirement health savings trust, including, but not limited to:

- (a) The design, adoption, and schedule for implementation of the trust;
 - (b) The nature and amount of the contributions that the state may make to the trust on behalf of a participating state employee;
 - (c) The nature of the investments that a state employee may choose to make with the moneys contributed to the trust;
 - (d) The terms of eligibility for participating in the trust and for withdrawing the moneys contributed to the trust;
 - (e) The nature of the expenses that qualify as medical expenses for purposes of tax-free withdrawal of moneys from the trust; and
 - (f) The negotiation and payment of any administrative expenses to be paid by the state or by each employee who chooses to participate in the trust.

24-53-102. Federal-state and interstate agreements.

(1) The department, with the approval of the governor, is authorized to enter on behalf of the state into an agreement with the secretary, consistent with the terms and provisions of this article, for the purpose of extending the benefits of the federal old-age, survivors', disability, and health insurance system to employees of political subdivisions thereof with respect to services specified in such agreement which constitutes employment, as defined in section 24-53-101. Such agreement may contain provisions relating to coverage, benefits, contributions, effective date, modification, and termination of the agreement, administration, and other appropriate provisions as the department and secretary agree upon, but, except as may be otherwise required by or pursuant to the social security act as to the services to be covered, such agreement shall provide in effect that:

(a) Benefits will be provided for employees, and their dependents and survivors, whose services are covered by the agreement on the same basis as though such services constituted employment within the meaning of Title II of the social security act;

(b) The state will pay to the United States secretary of the treasury, at such times as may be prescribed by the social security act, contributions with respect to wages, as defined in section 24-53-101, equal to the sum of the taxes which would be imposed by the federal insurance contributions act if the services covered by the agreement constituted employment within the meaning of that act;

(c) Such agreement shall be effective with respect to services in employment, covered by the agreement, performed after December 31, 1950, but in no event shall it be effective with respect to any such services performed prior to the first day of the calendar year in which such agreement is entered into or in which the modification of the agreement making it applicable to such services is entered into; except that, in the case of an agreement or a modification of an agreement made prior to January 1, 1955, if the date specified in section 218 (f) of the social security act, as amended, is not in conflict with such date, such agreement or modification may be made effective as of January 1, 1951, or as of the first day of any intervening calendar quarter; except that such effective date may be made retroactive to the extent permitted by section 218 (f) of the social security act, as amended;

(d) All services which constitute employment, as defined in section 24-53-101, and are performed in the employ of the covered political subdivision shall be covered by the agreement, except as to those employees of political subdivisions not coming within the provisions of this article;

(e) All services which constitute employment, as defined in section 24-53-101, are performed in the employ of a political subdivision of the state, and are covered by a plan which is in conformity with the terms of the agreement and has been approved by the department pursuant to the provisions of section 24-53-104 shall be covered by the agreement.

(2) Any instrumentality jointly created by this state and any other state is hereby authorized, upon the granting of like authority by such other state:

(a) To enter into an agreement with the secretary whereby the benefits of the federal old-age, survivors', disability, and health insurance system shall be extended to employees of such instrumentality;

(b) To require its employees to pay and for that purpose to deduct from their wages contributions equal to the amounts which they would be required to pay pursuant to the provisions of section 24-53-103 (1) if they were covered by an agreement made pursuant to subsection (1) of this section; and

(c) To make payments to the United States secretary of the treasury in accordance with such agreement, including payments from its own funds, and otherwise to comply with such agreements. 24-53-103. Employee contribution.

(1) Every employee of the political subdivision whose services are covered by an agreement entered into pursuant to the provisions of section 24-53-102 shall be required to pay for the period of such coverage into the contribution fund, established pursuant to the provisions of section 24-53-105, contributions with respect to wages, as defined in section 24-53-101, equal to the amount of tax which would be imposed by the federal insurance contributions act if such services constituted employment within the meaning of that act. Such liability shall arise in consideration of the retention of the employee in the service of the political subdivision, or his entry upon such service, after July 1, 1987.

(2) The contribution imposed by the provisions of this section shall be collected by deducting the amount of the contribution from wages as and when paid, but failure to make such deduction shall not relieve the employee from liability for such contribution.

(3) If more or less than the correct amount of the contribution imposed by the provisions of this section is paid or deducted with respect to any remuneration, proper adjustments, or refund if adjustment is impracticable, shall be made, without interest, in such manner and at such times as the department shall prescribe.

24-53-104. Coverage of political subdivisions.

(1) Each political subdivision of the state is authorized to submit for approval by the department a plan for extending the benefits of Title II of the social security act, in conformity with applicable provisions of such act, to employees of such political subdivision. Each such plan and any amendment thereof shall be approved by the department if it finds that such plan, or such plan as amended, is in conformity with such requirements as are provided in regulations of the department; except that no such plan shall be approved unless:

(a) It is in conformity with the requirements of the social security act and with the agreement entered into pursuant to the provisions of section 24-53-102;

(b) It provides that all services which constitute employment, as defined in section 24-53-101, and are performed in the employ of the political subdivision by employees thereof shall be covered by the plan;

(c) It specifies the source from which the funds necessary to make the payments required by paragraph (a) of subsection (3) and by subsection (4) of this section are expected to be derived and contains reasonable assurance that such sources will be adequate for such purpose;

(d) It provides for such methods of administration of the plan by the political subdivision as are found by the department to be necessary for the proper and efficient administration of the plan;

(e) It provides that the political subdivision make such reports, in such form and containing such information as the department may from time to time require, and comply with such provisions as the department or the secretary from time to time may find necessary to assure the correctness and verification of such reports; and

(f) It authorizes the department to terminate the plan in its entirety, in the discretion of the department, if it finds that there has been failure to comply substantially with any provisions contained in such plan, such termination to take effect at the expiration of such notice and on such conditions as may be provided by regulations of the department and may be consistent with the provisions of the social security act.

(2) The department shall not finally refuse to approve a plan submitted by a political subdivision pursuant to the provisions of subsection (1) of this section and shall not terminate an approved plan without sixty days' notice and opportunity for hearing to the political subdivision affected thereby.

(3) (a) Each political subdivision as to which a plan has been approved pursuant to the provisions of this section shall pay into the contribution fund, with respect to wages, as defined in section 24-53-101, contributions in the amounts and at the rates specified in the applicable agreement entered into by the department pursuant to the provisions of section 24-53-102. Such contributions from the political subdivision to the department shall be due not earlier than the expiration of the initial one-third of the time provided for payment by the department to the United States secretary of the treasury pursuant to the provisions of section 24-53-102.

(b) Each political subdivision required to make such payments pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) is authorized, in consideration of the retention of the employee in or entry of the employee upon employment after July 1, 1987, to impose upon each of its employees, as to services which are covered by an approved plan, a contribution with respect to his wages, as defined in section 24-53-101, not exceeding the amount of tax which would be imposed by the federal insurance contributions act, if such services constituted employment within the meaning of that act, and to deduct the amount of such contribution from his wages as and when paid. Contributions so collected shall be paid into the contribution fund in partial discharge of the liability of such political subdivision or instrumentality pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (3). Failure to deduct such contribution shall not relieve the employee or employer of liability therefor.

(4) Delinquent payments due pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section, with interest at the rate established by regulation pursuant to the social security act or pursuant to the provisions of this article, whichever is higher, may be recovered by action in a court of competent jurisdiction against the political subdivision liable therefor or, at the request of the department, may be deducted from any other moneys payable to such subdivision by any department or agency of the state. The department may establish additional penalties for failure of any political subdivision to make timely reports or contribution payments.

(5) Each political subdivision may exclude from wages such payment made under a plan or system if such plan or system is approved by the department. This subsection (5) shall authorize a political subdivision to establish a plan or system as required by section 209 (b) of the social security act.

24-53-105. Contribution fund.

(1) There is hereby established a special fund to be known as the Colorado social security contribution fund, of which the state treasurer shall be custodian.

(2) (a) The department is authorized to administer said fund and to perform all acts necessary for such administration, whether or not expressly prescribed in this article.

(b) The department may establish within such fund, from interest and other charges accruing thereto not payable to the United States secretary of the treasury, a contingency account for the purpose of making payments to the United States secretary of the treasury of amounts claimed by the secretary of the United States department of health and human services to be due and owing from any political subdivision, payment of which amounts have not theretofore been made to the department by said political subdivision. The department may also establish within such fund, from such interest and other charges, an account from which the administrative expenses and costs incurred by the department may be paid directly to the department or to the department of the treasury in reimbursement of such expenses and costs previously paid. Such accounts shall be subject to annual audit. All moneys expended by the department from this account shall be appropriated by the general assembly.

(3) There shall be credited and paid to said contribution fund:

(b) All contributions, interest, and penalties collected by the department pursuant to the provisions of sections 24-53-103 and 24-53-104;

(c) Any interest derived from investment of moneys belonging to the fund and any property or securities received from the use of said moneys;

(d) Any moneys recovered upon the bond of the custodian or otherwise for losses sustained by the fund and all other moneys received for the fund from any other source.

(4) (a) Said fund shall be held separate and apart from other state moneys and shall be used exclusively for the purposes of this article. Payments therefrom shall be made solely for amounts required to be paid under this article to the United States secretary of the treasury from time to time pursuant to agreements entered into pursuant to the provisions of section 24-53-102, for refunds provided for in section 24-53-103 (3), for refunds of overpayments of political subdivisions not otherwise adjustable, and for payments made pursuant to the provisions of subsection (2)(b) of this section.

(b) All such payments shall be made upon vouchers submitted to the office of the state controller and by warrants drawn upon the state treasurer in the manner prescribed by law.

(c) Any moneys in the fund not immediately required for such payments shall, at the direction of the department, be temporarily invested by the state treasurer, or, at the direction of the department, all amounts in excess of anticipated expenditures shall be paid annually to the general fund.

(d) If moneys in the fund are paid into the general fund pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (c) of this subsection (4) and if, subsequent to the payment to the general fund, the department becomes liable for any expenditure under this article, the expenditure shall be paid out of moneys in the general fund up to the amount paid into the general fund by the department.

(1) By January 1, 2017, the public employees' retirement association created in article 51 of this title shall make its best efforts to identify all restricted companies in which the association has direct holdings or could possibly have such holdings in the future and assemble those companies into a list of restricted companies. These efforts shall include the following, as appropriate in the judgment of the association:

(a) Reviewing and relying on publicly available information regarding companies that have economic prohibitions against Israel, including information provided by nonprofit organizations, research firms, and government entities;

(b) Contacting asset managers contracted by the association that invest in companies that have economic prohibitions against Israel;

(c) Contacting other institutional investors that have divested from or engaged with companies that have economic prohibitions against Israel; and

(d) Retaining an independent research firm or organization to identify companies that have economic prohibitions against Israel. It shall be reasonable and sufficient for the association to rely on information and work product obtained from such research firm or organization; except that the board of trustees of the public employees' retirement association shall review and approve any companies identified by an independent research firm before including such companies on the list of restricted companies pursuant to this subsection (1).

(2) The public employees' retirement association shall review the list of restricted companies on a biannual basis based on evolving information from, among other sources, those listed in subsection (1) of this section.

(3) The public employees' retirement association shall adhere to the following procedures for companies on the list of restricted companies:

(a) For each company newly identified in subsection (1) of this section, the association shall send a written notice informing the company of its status and that it may become subject to divestment by the association.

(b) If, following the association's engagement pursuant to this subsection (3) with a restricted company, that company ceases activity that designates it as a company that has economic prohibitions against Israel, the company shall be removed from the list of restricted companies and the provisions of this section shall cease to apply to it unless it resumes such activities.

(c) If, after one hundred eighty days following the association's first engagement with a company pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (3), the company remains a restricted company, the association shall instruct its investment advisors to sell, redeem, divest, or withdraw all direct holdings of restricted companies from the association's assets under management in an orderly and fiduciarily responsible manner within twelve months after the company's most recent appearance on the list of restricted companies.

(d) If, upon the commencement of the date of divestment, the association does not own direct holdings in a company on the list of restricted companies, the association is prohibited from acquiring direct holdings in any company on the list of restricted companies during the time that it remains on the list.

(4) Notwithstanding any other provision of this part 2, the holdings in the public employees' retirement association's defined contribution plans are not subject to this part 2.

(5) Upon request, and at least annually, the public employees' retirement association shall make available on its website information regarding investments sold, redeemed, divested, or withdrawn in compliance with this section.

(6) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, the public employees' retirement association may cease divesting from companies pursuant to subsection (3) of this section if clear and convincing evidence shows that the value for all assets under management by the association becomes equal to or less than ninety-nine and one-half percent, or fifty basis points, of the hypothetical value of all assets under management by the association assuming no divestment for any company had occurred pursuant to subsection (3) of this section.

(7) With respect to actions taken in compliance with this part 2, including all good-faith determinations regarding companies as required by this section, the public employees' retirement association is exempt from any conflicting statutory or common law obligations, including any fiduciary duties and any obligations with respect to choice of asset managers, investment funds, or investments for the association's securities portfolios.

(8) With respect to all actions taken in good faith compliance with this part 2, the public employees' retirement association, its board of directors, individual board members, agents, trustees, officers, employees, custodians, and fiduciaries shall be immune from any liability.

24-54.8-203. Legislative intent.

24-56-101. Legislative declaration - relocation assistance.

The general assembly finds and declares that the purpose of sections 24-56-102 to 24-56-113 is to establish a uniform policy for the fair and equitable treatment of persons displaced by the acquisition of real property by state agencies and political subdivisions of the state for federally assisted programs and projects and to comply with the federal "Uniform Relocation Assistance and Real Property Acquisition Policies Act of 1970", as amended, and the federal "Surface Transportation and Uniform Relocation Assistance Act of 1987", as amended. The general assembly also recognizes that the federally assisted acquisition of real property by the department of transportation and by municipalities and counties for highway programs and projects is requiring citizens to relocate their residences, farms, and businesses. The general assembly finds and declares that the authority of the department of transportation concerning the equitable relocation and implementation of relocation payments and advisory assistance for highway projects on the state highway system contained in part 3 of article 1 of title 43, C.R.S., prior to March 31, 1989, and as amended, are included in this article to assure the consistent and uniform application of relocation policy for all federally assisted programs, to promote the efficient operation of the highway right-of-way acquisition program, and to define the authority and responsibility of the department of transportation and of municipalities and counties for all acquisitions and relocation for federally assisted highway programs and projects within their respective jurisdictions. Such policy shall be uniform as to relocation payments, advisory assistance, assurance of availability of standard housing, and state reimbursement for local relocation payments where state assistance may be authorized by law.

ANNOTATION

Purpose of relocation assistance is for the minimizing of hardship incurred from the involuntary dislocation of homeowners, tenants, and businesses under the eminent domain proceedings involved in slum clearance and urban renewal projects. Auraria Businessmen Against Confiscation, Inc. v. Denver Urban Renewal Auth., 183 Colo. 441, 517 P.2d 845 (1974).

Relocation provisions are separate from eminent domain provisions. They provide, in part, for the reimbursement to displaced business of moving expenses and replacement expenses in federally assisted projects. They do not create additional elements compensable under eminent domain laws, but do provide supplemental assistance for particular losses incurred by reason of dislocation. Denver Urban Renewal Auth. v. Marshall Mfg. Co., 35 Colo. App. 227, 532 P.2d 746 (1975).

Proper method of determining relocation expenses would be by the administrative procedures set forth in this article. Denver Urban Renewal Auth. v. Marshall Mfg. Co., 35 Colo. App. 227, 532 P.2d 746 (1975).

Trial court is correct in separating issues of condemned property's value and relocation expenses. In light of the separate statutory treatment accorded relocation expenses, the trial court is correct in separating the two issues of the value of the property condemned and the relocation expenses. Denver Urban Renewal Auth. v. Marshall Mfg. Co., 35 Colo. App. 227, 532 P.2d 746 (1975).

24-56-104. Replacement housing for homeowners.

(1) In addition to payments otherwise authorized by this article, the displacing agency shall make an additional payment not in excess of twenty-two thousand five hundred dollars to any displaced person who is displaced from a dwelling actually owned and occupied by such displaced person for not less than one hundred eighty days prior to the initiation of negotiations for the acquisition of the property. Such additional payment shall include the following elements:

(a) The amount, if any, which when added to the acquisition cost of the dwelling acquired equals the reasonable cost of a comparable replacement dwelling. All determinations required to carry out this paragraph (a) shall be determined by regulations issued pursuant to section 24-56-108.

(b) The amount, if any, which will compensate such displaced person for any increased interest costs and other debt service costs which such person is required to pay for financing the acquisition of any such comparable replacement dwelling. Such amount shall be paid only if the dwelling acquired by the displacing agency was encumbered by a bona fide mortgage or deed of trust which was a valid lien on such dwelling for not less than one hundred eighty days immediately prior to the initiation of negotiations for the acquisition of such dwelling.

(c) Reasonable expenses incurred by such displaced person for evidence of title, recording fees, and other closing costs incident to the purchase of the replacement dwelling, but not including prepaid expenses.

(2) The additional payment authorized by this section shall be made only to such a displaced person who purchases and occupies a replacement dwelling which is decent, safe, and sanitary not later than the end of the one-year period beginning on the date on which he receives final payment of all costs of the acquired dwelling or on the date on which he moves from the acquired dwelling, whichever is the later date; except that the displacing agency may extend such period for good cause. If such period is extended, the payment under this section shall be based on the costs of relocating the person to a comparable replacement dwelling within one year of such date.

(1) In addition to amounts otherwise authorized by this article, a displacing agency shall make a payment to or for any displaced person displaced from any dwelling who is not eligible to receive a payment under section 24-56-104, which dwelling was actually and lawfully occupied by such displaced person for not less than ninety days prior to the initiation of negotiations for acquisition of such dwelling, or, in any case in which displacement is not a direct result of acquisition, such other event as the department of transportation may, within the purpose of this article, prescribe. Payment authorized by this section shall be made only to such a displaced person who leases and occupies a decent, safe, and sanitary replacement dwelling within one year after the date that such displaced person vacates the acquired dwelling. The payment shall consist of the amount necessary to enable the person to lease or rent, for a period of no longer than forty-two months, a comparable replacement dwelling, but no more than five thousand two hundred fifty dollars. At the discretion of the displacing agency, a payment under this subsection (1) may be made in periodic installments. This section and §§ 24-56-103, 24-56-104, and 31-25-105 do not deal with only one class of persons; that is, those who are displaced by an urban renewal authority. Rather, these sections classify the displaced persons into separate classes of homeowners, tenants, and businesses, and accord the same treatment to all alike within each class. Auraria Businessmen Against Confiscation, Inc. v. Denver Urban Renewal Auth., 183 Colo. 441, 517 P.2d 845 (1974).

Persons displaced by a redevelopment project have no constitutional right to relocation benefits or assistance. Auraria Businessmen Against Confiscation, Inc. v. Denver Urban Renewal Auth., 183 Colo. 441, 517 P.2d 845 (1974).

24-56-106. Relocation assistance advisory programs.

(1) Whenever a displacing agency acquires real property for a program or project for which federal financial assistance will be available to pay all or any part of the cost of the program or project and such acquisition will result in the displacement of any person, the acquiring agency shall provide a relocation assistance advisory program for displaced persons which offers the services prescribed in this section. If the acquiring agency determines that any person occupying property immediately adjacent to the real property acquired is caused substantial economic injury because of the acquisition, it may offer such person relocation advisory services under such program.

(2) Each relocation assistance program required by subsection (1) of this section shall include such measures, facilities, or services as may be necessary or appropriate in order to determine, and make timely recommendations on, the needs and preferences, if any, of displaced persons, business concerns, and nonprofit organizations for relocation assistance; to assist owners of displaced businesses and farm operations in obtaining and becoming established in suitable business locations or replacement farms; to supply information concerning programs of the federal, state, and local governments offering assistance to displaced persons and business concerns and technical assistance to such persons in applying for assistance under such programs; to provide current and continuing information on the availability, sales prices, and rental charges of comparable replacement dwellings for displaced homeowners and tenants and suitable locations for businesses and farm operations; to assist in minimizing hardships to displaced persons in adjusting to relocation; and to secure, to the greatest extent practicable, the coordination of relocation activities with other project activities and other planned or proposed governmental actions in the community or nearby areas which may affect the carrying out of the relocation program.

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 24-56-102 (2)(b)(II), in any case in which a displacing agency acquires property for a program or project, any person who occupies such property on a rental basis for a short term or a period subject to termination when the property is needed for the program or project shall be eligible for advisory services to the extent determined by the displacing agency.

24-56-107. Assurance of availability of standard housing.

(1) Whenever a displacing agency acquires real property for a program or project for which federal financial assistance will be available to pay all or any part of the cost of the program or project and such acquisition will result in the displacement of any person, upon recommendation or approval of the displacing agency, such agency shall assure that a person shall not be required to move from a dwelling unless the person has had a reasonable opportunity to relocate to a comparable replacement dwelling; except that regulations issued pursuant to section 24-56-108 may prescribe situations when these assurances may be waived.

(2) If a program or project for which federal financial assistance is available cannot proceed to actual construction because comparable replacement sale or rental housing is not available and the state agency determines that such housing cannot otherwise be made available, upon recommendation or approval of the displacing agency, the state agency may take such action as is necessary or appropriate to provide such housing by use of funds authorized for such project. The displacing agency may use this section to exceed the maximum amounts which can be paid by a displacing agency under sections 24-56-104 and 24-56-105 on a case-by-case basis for good cause shown as determined in accordance with regulations issued pursuant to section 24-56-108.

24-56-108. Authority of the department of local affairs.

(1) The department of local affairs shall administer and implement the uniform policy for all relocation assistance for all nonhighway federally assisted programs and projects.

(2) (a) Notwithstanding any provision of this article to the contrary, the department of transportation has the primary authority to administer acquisition and relocation assistance for all highway and highway-related programs or projects on the state highway system. The department of transportation also has authority to coordinate and administer acquisition and relocation assistance for all highway and highway-related programs or projects which are not on the state highway system to the extent provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2).

(b) Each state agency has the primary authority to perform acquisition and relocation assistance within its jurisdiction for federally assisted highway and highway-related programs and projects for streets and roads which are not on the state highway system. In the event that the department of transportation, as the state agency responsible for monitoring and administering the use of federal highway funds, determines that such performance by another state agency will jeopardize distribution of federal highway assistance funds to the state or that such action is necessary to comply with federal highway administration policy or procedures, then the department of transportation has the authority to perform the acquisition and relocation assistance for any federally assisted highway or highway-related program or project for streets and roads which are not on the state highway system or to require that the state agency with jurisdiction for that highway program or project perform such acquisition and relocation assistance under the supervision and direction of the department of transportation. Prior to exercising the authority of this paragraph (b), the department of transportation will comply with procedures previously agreed to with the affected state agency, including, but not limited to, setting a contact person for the project, providing written notice of the basis of such determination or action, and meeting with the affected agency to discuss possible remedial measures.

(3) The executive director of the department of transportation shall adopt such rules and regulations as may be necessary to assure:

(a) That the payments and assistance authorized by this article are administered in a manner which is fair and reasonable and as uniform as practicable;

(b) That a displaced person who makes proper application for a payment authorized for such person by this article is paid promptly after a move or, in hardship cases, paid in advance; and

(c) That any person aggrieved by a determination as to eligibility for a payment authorized by this article or the amount of a payment may have his application reviewed by the head of the acquiring agency.

(4) The department of transportation may use the provisions of this article for programs or projects on the state highway system funded from the state highway fund.

24-56-109. Administration.

In order to prevent unnecessary expense and duplication of functions and to promote uniform and effective administration of relocation assistance programs for displaced persons, the executive director of the department of transportation may authorize any state agency to enter into contracts with any individual, firm, association, or corporation for services in connection with such programs or may carry out its functions under this article through any federal or state agency or instrumentality having an established organization for conducting relocation assistance programs.

If any political subdivision of the state acquires real property and state financial assistance is available pursuant to law to pay the cost, in whole or part, of the acquisition of such real property or of the improvement for which such property is acquired, the cost to the political subdivision of the state of providing the payments and services prescribed by this article shall be included as part of the costs of the project for which state financial assistance is available to such political subdivision, and the political subdivision shall be eligible for state financial assistance in the same manner and to the same extent as other project costs.

24-56-112. Payments not to be considered as income or resources.

No payment received by a displaced person under this article shall be considered as income or resources for the purpose of determining the eligibility or extent of eligibility of any person for assistance under any state law or for the purposes of the Colorado income tax law or any other tax law of this state. Such payments shall not be considered as income or resources of any recipient of public assistance, and such payments shall not be deducted from the amount of aid to which the recipient would otherwise be entitled.

24-56-114. Expenses incidental to transfer of title.

Any state agency or political subdivision of the state acquiring real property for a program or project for which federal financial assistance will be available to pay all or any part of the cost of the program or project shall, as soon as practicable after the date of payment of the purchase price or the date of deposit into court of funds to satisfy the award of compensation in a condemnation proceeding to acquire real property, whichever is the earlier, reimburse the owner to the extent the acquiring agency deems fair and reasonable for expenses he necessarily incurred for recording fees, transfer taxes, and similar expenses incidental to conveying such real property to the acquiring agency; penalty costs for prepayment for any preexisting recorded mortgage or deed of trust entered into in good faith encumbering such real property; and the pro rata portion of real property taxes paid which are allocable to a period subsequent to the date of vesting title in the acquiring agency or the effective date of possession of such real property by the acquiring agency, whichever is the earlier.

24-56-115. Litigation expenses.

Where a condemnation proceeding is instituted by a state agency or a political subdivision of the state to acquire real property for a purpose as set forth in section 24-56-114 and the final judgment is that the real property cannot be acquired by condemnation or that the proceeding is abandoned, the owner of any right, title, or interest in such real property shall be paid such sum as will, in the opinion of the court, reimburse such owner for his reasonable attorney, appraisal, and engineering fees actually incurred because of the condemnation proceedings. The award of such sums will be paid by the state agency or political subdivision of the state which sought to condemn the property.

24-56-116. Inverse condemnation proceedings.

Where an inverse condemnation proceeding is instituted by the owner of any right, title, or interest in real property because of the alleged taking of his property for any program or project for which federal financial assistance will be available to pay all or any part of the cost of the program or project, the court rendering a judgment for the plaintiff in such proceeding and awarding compensation for the taking of property or the attorney for the acquiring agency effecting a settlement of any such proceeding shall determine and award or allow to such plaintiff, as a part of such judgment or settlement, such sum as will, in the opinion of the court or such attorney, reimburse such plaintiff for his reasonable costs, disbursements, and expenses, including reasonable attorney, appraisal, and engineering fees actually incurred because of such proceeding.

24-56-117. Real property acquisition policies.

(1) Any acquiring agency or political subdivision of the state which acquires real property for a program or project for which federal financial assistance will be available to pay all or any part of the cost of such program or project shall comply with the following policies:

(a) Every reasonable effort shall be made to acquire expeditiously real property by negotiation.

(b) Real property shall be appraised before the initiation of negotiations, and the owner or his designated representative shall be given an opportunity to accompany the appraiser during his inspection of the property; except that the department of transportation may prescribe a procedure to waive the appraisal in cases involving the acquisition by sale or donation of property with a low fair market value.

(c) Before the initiation of negotiations for acquisition of real property, an amount shall be established which it is reasonably believed is just compensation therefor, and such amount shall be offered for the property. In no event shall such amount be less than the approved appraisal of the fair market value of such property. Any decrease or increase in the fair market value of real property prior to the date of valuation caused by the public improvement for which such property is acquired, or by the likelihood that the property would be acquired for such improvement, other than that due to physical deterioration within the reasonable control of the owner, shall be disregarded in determining the compensation for the property. The owner of the real property to be acquired shall be provided with a written statement of and summary of the basis for the amount established as just compensation. Where appropriate, the just compensation for the real property acquired and for damages to remaining real property shall be separately stated.

(d) No owner shall be required to surrender possession of real property before the agreed purchase price is paid or before there is deposited with the court, in accordance with applicable law, for the benefit of the owner an amount not less than the approved appraisal of the fair market value of such property or the amount of the award of compensation in the condemnation proceeding of such property.

(e) The construction or development of a program or project for which federal financial assistance will be available to pay all or any part of the cost of the program or project shall be so scheduled that, to the greatest extent practicable, no person lawfully occupying real property shall be required to move from a dwelling (assuming a replacement dwelling will be available) or to move his business or farm operation without at least ninety days' written notice of the date by which such move is required.

(f) If an owner or tenant is permitted to occupy the real property acquired on a rental basis for a short term or for a period subject to termination by the acquiring agency on short notice, the amount of rent required shall not exceed the fair rental value of the property to a short-term occupier.

(g) In no event shall the time of condemnation be advanced, or negotiations or condemnation and the deposit of funds in court for the use of the owner be deferred, or any other action coercive in nature be taken to compel an agreement on the price to be paid for the property.

(h) If an interest in real property is to be acquired by exercise of the power of eminent domain, formal condemnation proceedings shall be instituted. The acquiring agency shall not intentionally make it necessary for an owner to institute legal proceedings to prove the fact of the taking of his real property.

(i) If the acquisition of only part of the property would leave its owner with an uneconomic remnant, an offer to acquire the entire property shall be made.

(j) A person whose real property is being acquired in accordance with this article may, after the person has been fully informed of his right to receive just compensation for such property, donate such property, any part thereof, any interest therein, or any compensation paid therefor to an agency, as such person shall determine.

(k) As used in this section, "appraisal" means a written statement independently and impartially prepared by a qualified appraiser setting forth an opinion of defined value of an adequately described property as of a specific date, supported by the presentation and analysis of relevant market information.

(2) For the purposes of this section, "acquiring agency" means a state agency which has the authority to acquire property by eminent domain under state law and a state agency or person which does not have such authority to the extent provided by the department of transportation by regulation.

(3) The requirements of this section shall not apply to any acquiring agency or political subdivision of the state that acquires real property for a program or project for which federal financial assistance will be available from the rural utilities service of the United States department of agriculture for all or any part of the cost of such program or project.

ANNOTATION

The policies expressed in this section are general policies of state land acquisition and are modified by the policies for state land acquisition included in the federal Uranium Mill Tailings Radiation Control Act. The Mill v. State, Dept. of Health, 868 P.2d 1099 (Colo. App. 1993).

Notwithstanding the rule against enhanced value codified in this section, determination of the fair value of property that is condemned under the federal Uranium Mill Tailings Radiation Control Act may include evidence of the value of the property if it were uncontaminated. The Mill v. State, Dept. of Health, 868 P.2d 1099 (Colo. App. 1993).

Subsection (1)(c) codifies the "rule against enhanced value" under the Uranium Mill Tailings Radiation Control Act of 1978 (UMTRCA). When determining just compensation under the rule, the state is required to disregard any change in the fair market value of property caused by the public improvement for which the property is being acquired. State, Dept. of Health v. The Mill, 887 P.2d 993 (Colo. 1994).

In UMTRCA condemnation action, the rule against enhanced value requires only that property be valued in its present condition without regard to any increase or decrease in value projected upon completion of the government project for which a property is condemned. Rule does not dictate a finding of nominal or zero market value. State, Dept. of Health v. The Mill, 887 P.2d 993 (Colo. 1994).

Rule against enhanced value governing compliance with UMTRCA is not inconsistent with policy of preventing windfall profits and is not preempted by UMTRCA; rather, rule furthers UMTRCA policy by assuring that property owner cannot collect through condemnation proceedings windfall profits that state acquisition of property was intended to prevent. State, Dept. of Health v. The Mill, 887 P.2d 993 (Colo. 1994).

24-56-118. Buildings, structures, and improvements.

(1) Where any interest in real property is acquired for a program or project for which federal assistance will be available to pay all or any part of the cost of the program or project, the acquiring agency shall acquire an equal interest in all buildings, structures, or other improvements located upon the real property so acquired which are required to be removed from such real property or which the head of the acquiring agency determines will be adversely affected by the use to which such real property will be put.

(2) (a) For the purpose of determining the just compensation to be paid for any building, structure, or other improvement required to be acquired by subsection (1) of this section, such building, structure, or other improvement shall be deemed to be a part of the real property to be acquired notwithstanding the right or obligation of a tenant, as against the owner of any other interest in the real property, to remove such building, structure, or improvement at the expiration of his term, and the fair market value which such building, structure, or improvement contributes to the fair market value of the real property to be acquired or the fair market value of such building, structure, or improvement for removal from the real property, whichever is greater, shall be paid to the tenant therefor.

(b) Payment for such buildings, structures, or improvements as set forth in this subsection (2) shall not result in duplication of any payments otherwise authorized by state law. No such payment shall be made unless the owner of the land involved disclaims all interest in the improvements of the tenant. In consideration for any such payment, the tenant shall assign, transfer, and release all his right, title, and interest in and to such improvements. Nothing in this subsection (2) shall be construed to deprive the tenant of any rights to reject payment and to obtain payment for such property interests in accordance with other laws of the state.

This section does not require that federal funds for construction have been awarded at the time of the damage in order for this article to apply. Reg'l Transp. Dist. v. Outdoor Sys., Inc., 13 P.3d 806 (Colo. App. 1999), rev'd on other grounds, 34 P.3d 408 (Colo. 2001).

24-56-119. No duplication of payments.

No payment or assistance provided for in this article shall be required to be made by a state agency or political subdivision of the state if the displaced person receives a payment required by the laws of eminent domain which is determined by the state agency or political subdivision of the state to have substantially the same purpose and effect as such payment under this article.

(1) The provisions of section 24-56-117 create no rights or liabilities and shall not affect the validity of any property acquisition by purchase or condemnation.

(2) Nothing in this article shall be construed as creating in any condemnation proceedings brought under the power of eminent domain any element of value or damage not in existence immediately prior to May 6, 1971.

24-56-121. Applicability.

This article shall apply to all acquisitions of real property by a state agency or a political subdivision of the state for a program or project for which federal financial assistance will be available to pay all or any part of the cost of the program or project; except that, if any other provision of state law is applicable to such acquisitions and such provision of state law requires relocation payments and assistance or prescribes land acquisition policies which are equivalent to or are greater or more stringent than the payments, assistance, or policies specified by this article, such other provision of state law shall apply to such acquisitions.

ANNOTATION

An examination of the legislative structure of the federal Uniform history, read with attention to the Relocation Assistance and Real Property

Acquisition Policies Act and its state counterpart, demonstrates that congress and general assembly did not intend "acquisition" to mean property purchased from an owner that places its property on the market of its own volition and sells without coercion. Understanding the act's ambit to exclude voluntary open-market purchases is consonant with its aim of protecting individual property owners from the superior negotiating position that the federal government or state and local governments enjoy. Reg'l Transp. Dist. v. Outdoor Sys., Inc., 34 P.3d 408 (Colo. 2001).

The acquisition at issue has all of the markings of a bargained-for real estate transaction in which the seller willingly offered to sell its property. Because RTD bought property on the market for land-banking purposes, purchased the parcel from a willing seller without improperly leveraging its dominant bargaining position, and paid a market price, the statutory provisions designed to protect unwilling sellers are inapplicable. Reg'l Transp. Dist. v. Outdoor Sys., Inc., 34 P.3d 408 (Colo. 2001).

As a threshold matter, an agency must acquire property for "a program or project for which federal assistance will be made available" before it becomes obligated under the federal and state acts to obtain an equal interest in any structures or improvements located on the property. In this case, the parcel was not purchased for a program or project for which federal funds would become available. Therefore, regional transportation district was not required to acquire an equal interest in the billboards and owes Outdoor Systems no compensation for removing them. Accordingly, RTD did not contravene its promises to the federal transit administration that it would abide by the structures of the federal and state acts. Reg'l Transp. Dist. v. Outdoor Sys., Inc., 34 P.3d 408 (Colo. 2001).

Compact merely attempts to authorize and validate an extraterritorial arrest by foreign officer. In re Austjford, 109 Colo. 47, 121 P.2d 891 (1942).

Compact is not a substitute for extradition provisions. There is nothing in this compact to indicate that it was ever

PART 5

AGREEMENT ON DETAINERS

24-60-501. Disposal of detainers against prisoner based on untried charges.

The agreement on detainers is hereby enacted into law and entered into by this state with all other jurisdictions legally joining therein in the form substantially as follows:

The Agreement on Detainers

The contracting states solemnly agree that:

Article I

The party states find that charges outstanding against a prisoner, detainees based on untried indictments, informations, or complaints, and difficulties in securing speedy trial of persons already incarcerated in other jurisdictions, produce uncertainties which obstruct programs of prisoner treatment and rehabilitation. Accordingly, it is the policy of the party states and the purpose of this agreement to encourage the expeditious and orderly disposition of such charges and determination of the proper status of any and all detainees based on untried indictments, informations, or complaints. The party states also find that proceedings with reference to such charges and detainees, when emanating from another jurisdiction, cannot properly be had in the absence of cooperative procedures. It is the further purpose of this agreement to provide such cooperative procedures.

Article II

As used in this agreement:

(a) "State" shall mean a state of the United States; the United States of America; a territory or possession of the United States; the District of Columbia; the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

(b) "Sending state" shall mean a state in which a prisoner is incarcerated at the time that he initiates a request for final disposition pursuant to article III hereof or at the time that a request for custody or availability is initiated pursuant to article IV hereof.

(c) "Receiving state" shall mean the state in which trial is to be had on an indictment, information or complaint pursuant to article III or article IV hereof.

Article III

(a) Whenever a person has entered upon a term of imprisonment in a penal or correctional institution of a party state, and whenever during the continuance of the term of imprisonment there is pending in any other party state any untried indictment, information, or complaint on the basis of which a detainer has been lodged against the prisoner, he shall be brought to trial within one hundred eighty days after he shall have caused to be delivered to the prosecuting officer and the appropriate court of the prosecuting officer's jurisdiction written notice of the place of his imprisonment and his request for a final disposition to be made of the indictment, information or complaint; provided that for good cause shown in open court, the prisoner or his counsel being present, the court having jurisdiction of the matter may grant any necessary or reasonable continuance. The request of the prisoner shall be accompanied by a certificate of the appropriate official having custody of the prisoner, stating the term of commitment under which the prisoner is being held, the time already served, the time remaining to be served on the sentence, the amount of good time earned, the time of parole eligibility of the prisoner, and any decisions of the state parole agency relating to the prisoner.

(b) The written notice and request for final disposition referred to in paragraph (a) hereof shall be given or sent by the prisoner to the warden, commissioner of corrections, or other official having custody of him, who shall promptly forward it together with the certificate to the appropriate prosecuting official and court by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested.

(c) The warden, commissioner of corrections, or other official having custody of the prisoner shall promptly inform him of the source and contents of any detainer lodged against him and shall also inform him of his right to make a request for final disposition of the indictment, information, or complaint on which the detainer is based.

(d) Any request for final disposition made by a prisoner pursuant to paragraph (a) hereof shall operate as a request for final disposition of all untried indictments, informations, or complaints on the basis of which detainers have been lodged against the prisoner from the state to whose prosecuting official the request for final disposition is specifically directed. The warden, commissioner of corrections, or other official having custody of the prisoner shall forthwith notify all appropriate prosecuting officers and courts in the several jurisdictions within the state to which the prisoner's request for final disposition is being sent of the proceeding being initiated by the prisoner. Any notification sent pursuant to this paragraph shall be accompanied by copies of the prisoner's written notice, request, and the certificate. If trial is not had on any indictment, information, or complaint contemplated hereby prior to the return of the prisoner to the original place of imprisonment, such indictment, information, or complaint shall not be of any further force or effect, and the court shall enter an order dismissing the same with prejudice.

(e) Any request for final disposition made by a prisoner pursuant to paragraph (a) hereof shall also be deemed to be a waiver of extradition with respect to any charge or proceeding contemplated thereby or included therein by reason of paragraph (d) hereof, and a waiver of extradition to the receiving state to serve any sentence there imposed upon him, after completion of his term of imprisonment in the sending state. The request for final disposition shall also constitute a consent by the prisoner to the production of his body in any court where his presence may be required in order to effectuate the purposes of this agreement and a further consent voluntarily to be returned to the original place of imprisonment in accordance with the provisions of this agreement. Nothing in this paragraph shall prevent the imposition of a concurrent sentence if otherwise permitted by law.

(f) Escape from custody by the prisoner subsequent to his execution of the request for final disposition referred to in paragraph (a) hereof shall void the request.

Article IV

(a) The appropriate officer of the jurisdiction in which an untried indictment, information, or complaint is pending shall be entitled to have a prisoner against whom he had lodged a detainer and who is serving a term of imprisonment in any party state made available in accordance with article V (a) hereof upon presentation of a written request for temporary custody or availability to the appropriate authorities of the state in which the prisoner is incarcerated; provided that the court having jurisdiction of such indictment, information, or complaint shall have duly approved, recorded, and transmitted the request; and provided further that there shall be a period of thirty days after receipt by the appropriate authorities before the request be honored, within which period the governor of the sending state may disapprove the request for temporary custody or availability, either upon his own motion or upon motion of the prisoner.

(b) Upon receipt of the officer's written request as provided in paragraph (a) hereof, the appropriate authorities having the prisoner in custody shall furnish the officer with a certificate stating the term of commitment under which the prisoner is being held, the time already served, the time remaining to be served on the sentence, the amount of good time earned, the time of parole eligibility of the prisoner, and any decisions of the state parole agency relating to the prisoner. Said authorities simultaneously shall furnish all other officers and appropriate courts in the receiving state who have lodged detainers against the prisoner with similar certificates and with notices informing them of the request for custody or availability and of the reasons therefor.

(c) In respect of any proceeding made possible by this article, trial shall be commenced within one hundred twenty days of the arrival of the prisoner in the receiving state, but for good cause shown in open court, the prisoner or his counsel being present, the court having jurisdiction of the matter may grant any necessary or reasonable continuance.

(d) Nothing contained in this article shall be construed to deprive any prisoner of any right which he may have to contest the legality of his delivery as provided in paragraph (a) hereof, but such delivery may not be opposed or denied on the ground that the executive authority of the sending state has not affirmatively consented to or ordered such delivery.

(e) If trial is not had on any indictment, information, or complaint contemplated hereby prior to the prisoner's being returned to the original place of imprisonment pursuant to article V (e) hereof, such indictment, information, or complaint shall not be of any further force or effect, and the court shall enter an order dismissing the same with prejudice.

Article V

(a) In response to a request made under article III or article IV hereof, the appropriate authority in a sending state shall offer to deliver temporary custody of such prisoner to the appropriate authority in the state where such indictment, information, or complaint is pending against such person in order that speedy and efficient prosecution may be had. If the request for final disposition is made by the prisoner, the offer of temporary custody shall accompany the written notice provided for in article III of this agreement. In the case of a federal prisoner, the appropriate authority in the receiving state shall be entitled to temporary custody as provided by this agreement or to the prisoner's presence in federal custody at the place for trial, whichever custodial arrangement may be approved by the custodian.

(b) The officer or other representative of a state accepting an offer of temporary custody shall present the following upon demand:

(1) Proper identification and evidence of his authority to act for the state into whose temporary custody the prisoner is to be given.

(2) A duly certified copy of the indictment, information, or complaint on the basis of which the detainer has been lodged and on the basis of which the request for temporary custody of the prisoner has been made.

(c) If the appropriate authority shall refuse or fail to accept temporary custody of said person, or in the event that an action on the indictment, information, or complaint on the basis of which the detainer has been lodged is not brought to trial within the period provided in article III or article IV hereof, the appropriate court of the jurisdiction where the indictment, information, or complaint has been pending shall enter an order dismissing the same with prejudice, and any detainer based thereon shall cease to be of any force or effect.

(d) The temporary custody referred to in this agreement shall be only for the purpose of permitting prosecution on the charge or charges contained in one or more untried indictments, informations, or complaints which form the basis of the detainer or detainers or for prosecution on any other charge or charges arising out of the same transaction. Except for his attendance at court and while being transported to or from any place at which his presence may be required, the prisoner shall be held in a suitable jail or other facility regularly used for persons awaiting prosecution.

(e) At the earliest practicable time consonant with the purposes of this agreement, the prisoner shall be returned to the sending state.

(f) During the continuance of temporary custody or while the prisoner is otherwise being made available for trial as required by this agreement, time being served on the sentence shall continue to run but good time shall be earned by the prisoner only if, and to the extent that, the law and practice of the jurisdiction which imposed the sentence may allow.

(g) For all purposes other than that for which temporary custody as provided in this agreement is exercised, the prisoner shall be deemed to remain in the custody of and subject to the jurisdiction of the sending state and any escape from temporary custody may be dealt with in the same manner as an escape from the original place of imprisonment or in any other manner permitted by law.

(h) From the time that a party state receives custody of a prisoner pursuant to this agreement until such prisoner is returned to the territory and custody of the sending state, the state in which the one or more untried indictments, informations, or complaints are pending or in which trial is being had shall be responsible for the prisoner and shall also pay all costs of transporting, caring for, keeping, and returning the prisoner. The provisions of this paragraph shall govern unless the states concerned shall have entered into a supplementary agreement providing for a different allocation of costs and responsibilities as between or among themselves. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to alter or affect any internal relationship among the departments, agencies, and officers of and in the government of a party state, or between a party state and its subdivisions, as to the payment of costs, or responsibilities therefor.

Article VI

(a) In determining the duration and expiration dates of the time periods provided in articles III and IV of this agreement, the running of said time periods shall be tolled whenever and for as long as the prisoner is unable to stand trial, as determined by the court having jurisdiction of the matter.

(b) No provision of this agreement, and no remedy made available by this agreement, shall apply to any person who is adjudged to be mentally ill.

Article VII

Each state party to this agreement shall designate an officer who, acting jointly with like officers of other party states, shall promulgate rules and regulations to carry out more effectively the terms and provisions of this agreement, and who shall provide, within and without the state, information necessary to the effective operation of this agreement.

Article VIII

This agreement shall enter into full force and effect as to a party state when such state has enacted the same into law. A state party to this agreement may withdraw herefrom by enacting a statute repealing the same. However, the withdrawal of any state shall not affect the status of any proceedings already initiated by inmates or by state officers at the time such withdrawal takes effect, nor shall it affect their rights in respect thereof.

Article IX

This agreement shall be liberally construed so as to effectuate its purposes. The provisions of this agreement shall be severable and if any phrase, clause, sentence, or provisions of this agreement is declared to be contrary to the constitution of any party state or of the United States or the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person, or circumstance is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this agreement and the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person, or circumstance shall not be affected thereby. If this agreement shall be held contrary to the constitution of any state party hereto, the agreement shall remain in full force and effect as to the remaining states and in full force and effect as to the state affected as to all severable matters.

ANNOTATION

I. General Consideration.

II. Purpose.

III. Applicability.

IV. Prisoner's Rights.

V. Time Limitations.

VI. Compliance.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Agreement on detainers is constitutional. Moen v. Wilson, 189 Colo. 85, 536 P.2d 1129 (1975).

Federal law governs interpretation of the agreement on detainers. People v. Hines, 817 P.2d 559 (Colo. App. 1991).

Agreement on detainers is not the exclusive method by which one state may obtain a defendant incarcerated in another state. People v. Quackenbush, 687 P.2d 448 (Colo. 1984).

Judicial review limited. Judicial review of extradition requests is conducted to determine whether there has been procedural compliance with the statute and whether there has been a showing that the person against whom extradition is sought is the person charged with a crime in the demanding state. The district court is not required to hear claims that the extradition would affect criminal proceedings in another judicial forum. Moore v. Wilson, 662 P.2d 160 (Colo. 1983).

Review of trial court's ruling on a motion to dismiss a case under this section is for an abuse of discretion. A reviewing court will uphold a trial court's ruling unless it is manifestly arbitrary, unreasonable, unfair, or based on an erroneous understanding or application of the law. People v. Spomer, 2025 COA 39M, 570 P.3d 517.

Applied in People v. Bielecki, 41 Colo. App. 256, 588 P.2d 377 (1978); People v. District Court, 638 P.2d 65 (Colo. 1981); People v. Bean, 650 P.2d 565 (Colo. 1982); Massey v. People, 656 P.2d 658 (Colo. 1982); People v. Watson, 666 P.2d 1114 (Colo. App. 1983); Davis v. M.L.G. Corp., 712 P.2d 985 (Colo. 1986).

II. PURPOSE.

The primary purpose of the Uniform Mandatory Disposition of Detainers and the Interstate Agreement on Detainers is to provide a mechanism for prisoners to insist upon speedy and final disposition of untried charges that are the subjects of detainers so that a prisoner's speedy trial rights and any prison rehabilitation programs initiated for the prisoners' benefit will not be disrupted or precluded by the existence of these untried charges. People v. Higinbotham, 712 P.2d 993 (Colo. 1986); People v. Thornton, 890 P.2d 158 (Colo. App. 1994); People v. Helmstetter, 914 P.2d 474 (Colo. App. 1995).

Policies of this part and Uniform Mandatory Disposition of Detainers Act are similar. People v. Bean, 44 Colo. App. 373, 619 P.2d 72 (1980); People v. Morgan, 712 P.2d 1004 (Colo. 1986).

Generally, the principles of one may be applied to the other. People v. Morgan, 712 P.2d 1004 (Colo. 1986).

Purpose of agreement on detainers. The agreement on detainers is intended to serve the purpose of forcing a recalcitrant defendant who is no longer within the state where charges are pending to stand trial. Moen v. Wilson, 189 Colo. 85, 536 P.2d 1129 (1975); Abad v. Ricketts, 645 P.2d 848 (Colo. 1982).

The obvious purpose of the agreement on detainers is to avoid the difficulties often encountered in interstate proceedings by providing an expeditious, simplified method of disposing of outstanding criminal charges. As such, the section is generally designed to benefit the states, not the prisoners. Brown v. District Court, 194 Colo. 225, 571 P.2d 1091 (1977).

The agreement on detainers is a special statutory provision designed to promote the orderly and expeditious disposition of outstanding charges against persons incarcerated in other states. Simakis v. District Court, 194 Colo. 436, 577 P.2d 3 (1978).

The agreement on detainers provides a mechanism for the expeditious disposal of detainers, based on untried charges, which are lodged against a prisoner. Hughes v. District Court, 197 Colo. 396, 593 P.2d 702 (1979).

The agreement on detainers was designed to foster more effective prisoner treatment and rehabilitation by eliminating, as expeditiously as possible, the uncertainties surrounding outstanding criminal charges. People v. Swazo, 199 Colo. 486, 610 P.2d 1072 (1980); People v. Seigny, 679 P.2d 1070 (Colo. 1984).

III. APPLICABILITY.

Agreement activated when detainer lodged. It is not until the receiving state lodges with the sending state a detainer based on a pending indictment, information, or complaint that the provisions of the agreement are activated. People v. Lincoln, 42 Colo. App. 512, 601 P.2d 641 (1979).

The agreement is inapplicable where there is no untried indictment, information, or complaint outstanding in the receiving state. Beals v. Wilson, 631 P.2d 1181 (Colo. App. 1981); People v. Quintana, 682 P.2d 1226 (Colo. App. 1984).

Issuance of arrest warrant, by itself, is insufficient to constitute a detainer for purposes of this section. For an arrest warrant to constitute a detainer for purposes of this section, it must meet all five criteria outlined in Tucker v. United States, 569 A.2d 162 (D.C. 1990): (1) It is based on an untried information, indictment, or complaint; (2) it is filed by a criminal justice agency; (3) it is filed directly with the facility where a prisoner is incarcerated; (4) it notifies prison officials that a prisoner is wanted to face pending charges; and (5) it asks the institution where the prisoner is incarcerated either to hold the prisoner at the conclusion of the prisoner's sentence, or to notify agency officials when the prisoner's release is imminent. People v. Spomer, 2025 COA 39M, 570 P.3d 517.

Criteria to determine if an arrest warrant constitutes a detainer outlined in Tucker v. United States, cited above, applied in People v. Spomer, 2025 COA 39M, 570 P.3d 517.

Anti-shuttling provision in article IV (e) of agreement does not apply among judicial districts within same state. Purpose of agreement is to provide for orderly disposition of charges pending in one state against person imprisoned in another. Issuance of a writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum by state district court for appearance of defendant imprisoned in federal facility in same state was not issuance of a "detainer" triggering application of the agreement. People v. Hines, 817 P.2d 559 (Colo. App. 1991).

The procedural requirements of the Interstate Agreement on Detainers (IAD) and the Uniform Mandatory Disposition of Detainers Act do not apply to a sentencing detainer placing a hold on a prisoner based on an unresolved sentencing determination in another jurisdiction where the defendant has already been convicted on the charges. Moody v. Corsentino, 843 P.2d 1355 (Colo. 1993).

Agreement concerns pending charges in another state and is not applicable to an unserved sentence. Reed v. People, 745 P.2d 235 (Colo. 1987).

Detainer limited to prisoners. Although both the extradition and the detainer provisions were enacted to effect interstate transfer of persons for trial, the agreement on detainers was limited to prisoners. Moen v. Wilson, 189 Colo. 85, 536 P.2d 1129 (1975).

A withdrawal of detainer does not change the fact that a detainer has been lodged. A defendant has the right to demand disposition of charges if detained. The statute does not require that the detainer remain pending, or that it continue to be lodged, only that it "has been lodged." People v. Robertson, 56 P.3d 121 (Colo. App. 2002).

Presentence confinement is not a term of imprisonment for purposes of article III (a). Romans v. District Court, 633 P.2d 477 (Colo. 1981).

Generally, probation violators are not entitled to the benefits of agreement on detainers. As probation revocation proceeding does not involve "untried" matters. The term "untried" refers to matters which can be brought to full trial. In a probation revocation proceeding, the trial has already been held, and the defendant convicted. In such a hearing, the defendant comes before the court in a completely different posture than he does at his trial before conviction. People v. Jackson, 626 P.2d 723 (Colo. App. 1981); Garcia v. Cooper, 711 P.2d 1255 (Colo. 1986).

Trial court erred in determining defendant, who was in federal custody pending resolution of parole revocation proceedings, had "entered upon a term of imprisonment" within the meaning of article III (a), thereby triggering the prompt notice and speedy trial provisions of the IAD. Until defendant arrived at federal prison to serve his sentence following revocation of his federal parole violation, he had not "entered upon a term of imprisonment" and the provisions of the IAD were inapplicable until that time. People v. Brown, 854 P.2d 1332 (Colo. App. 1992).

The IAD is to apply at the time the defendant is sentenced, regardless of the institution at which the defendant is incarcerated subsequent to sentencing. People v. Helmstetter, 914 P.2d 474 (Colo. App. 1995).

IV. PRISONER'S RIGHTS.

The benefits and protections of the IAD are statutory and not of constitutional dimension. People v. Evans, 971 P.2d 229 (Colo. App. 1998).

Failure of trial court to appoint counsel to assist defendant in perfecting his speedy disposition rights under the IAD was not erroneous as defendant does not have a substantial right to court-appointed counsel to assist in perfecting statutory rights accorded by the IAD. People v. Evans, 971 P.2d 229 (Colo. App. 1998).

Duty to inform prisoner under article III (c) is necessary concomitant to the effective operation of the agreement. People v. Lincoln, 42 Colo. App. 512, 601 P.2d 641 (1979).

The mere statement of fact that a detainer has been lodged is insufficient to satisfy the express requirements of article III (c). People v. Greenwald, 704 P.2d 312 (Colo. 1985).

Awareness of pending charges not sufficient to supply information to comply with duty to inform prisoner. Mere awareness of pending charges does not supply the superintendent of the department of corrections with sufficient information to fulfill the duty to inform the prisoner of the source or nature of pending charges. Awareness of pending charges in another jurisdiction is not the equivalent of having an actual detainer filed from that jurisdiction. Russell v. Cooper, 724 P.2d 1302 (Colo. 1986).

Due process applicable. Because the detainer in article IV (a) constitutes a deprivation of liberty, a defendant serving a prison sentence is entitled to some protection under the due process clause, in addition to a motion to the governor. Moen v. Wilson, 189 Colo. 85, 536 P.2d 1129 (1975).

Agreement on detainers contains the right to a hearing which is also afforded a prisoner in testing the legality of transfer under the Uniform Criminal Extradition Act. Moen v. Wilson, 189 Colo. 85, 536 P.2d 1129 (1975).

The right to judicial review is left to receiving state. Recognizing the limited right to judicial review when the agreement on detainers provides the means for a transfer is properly left to the receiving state. Moen v. Wilson, 189 Colo. 85, 536 P.2d 1129 (1975).

Request for final disposition pursuant to agreement on detainers must be made by a prisoner personally and cannot be effectively made by his attorney. Gardner v. Gaubatz, 719 P.2d 329 (Colo. App. 1985).

Prisoner subject to detainer prospectively entitled to challenge procedures. Prospectively, and not retroactively, a prisoner subject to a detainer under the agreement on detainers will have the right to challenge the procedures to determine whether the compact and the Uniform Mandatory Disposition of Detainers Act have been complied with. Moen v. Wilson, 189 Colo. 85, 536 P.2d 1129 (1975).

Prisoner cannot assert substantive rights. A prisoner does have the right when the agreement on detainers is the basis for a transfer for the purpose of trial: (1) To contest his presence in the receiving state at the time the alleged crime was committed; (2) to question whether he is a fugitive from justice or whether the detainer documents are supported by either an indictment or an information supported by an affidavit establishing probable cause; and (3) to determine whether he is substantially charged with a crime under the laws of the receiving state. Moen v. Wilson, 189 Colo. 85, 536 P.2d 1129 (1975); Abad v. Ricketts, 645 P.2d 848 (Colo. 1982).

Denial of injunction found improper. Where the petitioner, who had previously challenged the extradition proceeding by petitioning for a writ of habeas corpus, sought an injunction against his removal under the agreement of detainers, alleging in his complaint that he wished to contest the sufficiency of the detainer documents and be given an opportunity to have a hearing to question the authority to remove him from the state, the injunction should not have been denied for the reason that the matter was res judicata as a result of the habeas corpus proceeding, since the documents under the agreement on detainers were prepared after the petition for habeas corpus was denied and, in any event, any insufficiency in these documents was not before the court in the habeas corpus proceeding. Allen v. Evans, 193 Colo. 61, 562 P.2d 752 (1977).

"Flagging device" on file permitted. Another state may request that Colorado authorities notify it 60 days prior to the petitioner's release so that his consecutive sentence could be served there. The request for notification is no more than a "flagging device", which allows the requesting state to take whatever action it deems appropriate. Moore v. Ricketts, 654 P.2d 837 (Colo. 1982).

No undue delay of notice of speedy trial right where defendant was unable to stand trial during period of absence from prison and defendant was promptly notified of such right following his return. People v. Quintana, 682 P.2d 1226 (Colo. App. 1984).

Defendant's speedy trial time was tolled by his voluntary request for speedy disposition of detainer filed against him by authorities in another state, and by his subsequent removal to that state, where defendant's actions precluded Colorado authorities from objecting to his removal. People v. Yellen, 739 P.2d 1384 (Colo. 1987).

Time spent out-of-state counted against original sentence. Time spent in another state pursuant to the agreement on detainers should be counted against petitioner's original sentence to the Pueblo county jail. Pleasant v. Tihonovich, 647 P.2d 236 (Colo. 1982).

Voluntary guilty plea can waive defendant's rights under IAD. The waiver is not precluded by the fact that defendant moved to dismiss prior to entering his guilty plea. People v. Carroll, 939 P.2d 452 (Colo. App. 1996).

Prosecution's failure to assert before trial court that defendant waived any IAD claim did not preclude prosecution from raising the issue on appeal. Issue was before the court when defendant, in his motion to vacate judgment, asserted that his conviction by guilty plea did not waive his argument that the speedy trial provision of the IAD was violated. People v. Carroll, 939 P.2d 452 (Colo. App. 1996).

Upon completion and discharge of federal sentence, defendant is no longer eligible for the speedy disposition provisions accorded by the IAD. People v. Evans, 971 P.2d 229 (Colo. App. 1998).

The IAD's anti-shuttling provision of article IV is not triggered where the United States transferred prisoner from a state to federal prison and then allowed state officials to escort him to state proceedings on new state charges while he was in federal custody. The mere temporary transfer of a prisoner to a different jurisdiction to answer pending charges while in the custody of a receiving state does not implicate the concern of having treatment programs and rehabilitation obstructed by numerous absences so long as the transfer does not impermissibly lengthen a prisoner's stay in the receiving state. United States v. Pursley, 474 F.3d 757 (10th Cir. 2007).

V. TIME LIMITATIONS.

Waiver of speedy trial rights must be voluntary. While a waiver of statutory speedy trial rights need not comport with the standards applicable to a waiver of basic constitutional rights, a waiver of statutory rights must still be voluntary. People v. Sevigny, 679 P.2d 1070 (Colo. 1984).

Mere silence does not prove a waiver. Failure to object to a trial setting beyond the speedy trial term is one factor to consider on the issue of waiver, but mere silence, by itself, does not prove a waiver. To prove a voluntary waiver, in this context, there must be a showing of record that the defendant or his attorney freely acquiesced in a trial date beyond the speedy trial period. People v. Sevigny, 679 P.2d 1070 (Colo. 1984); People v. Allen, 744 P.2d 73 (Colo. 1987).

Burden of satisfying speedy trial requirements of agreement on detainers is on prosecutor whose request for temporary custody of defendant in Article IV proceeding triggers speedy trial period. People v. Allen, 744 P.2d 73 (Colo. 1987).

Speedy trial provisions of this section do not apply to charges that do not underlie the detainer placed against a prisoner. People v. Greenwald, 704 P.2d 312 (Colo. 1985); People v. Newton, 764 P.2d 1182 (Colo. 1988).

Article IV (e) allows the receiving state only one rendition. Hughes v. District Court, 197 Colo. 396, 593 P.2d 702 (1979); Romans v. District Court, 633 P.2d 477 (Colo. 1981).

Speedy trial provisions not applicable in absence of filing of detainer. The dismissal remedy for violations of the speedy trial provisions apply only to those charges that underlie the detainer filed against the prisoner. Charges as to which no detainer has been filed are not subject to the speedy trial provisions. People v. Bost, 770 P.2d 1209 (Colo. 1989).

Premature return to federal custody deemed a violation. Where a defendant is returned to the custody of the federal authorities after charges against him are set for trial in a state court, but before he is tried, there is a violation of article IV (e). Hughes v. District Court, 197 Colo. 396, 593 P.2d 702 (1979).

Special time limitations of this section prevail over more general criminal procedure provisions of § 18-1-405 and Crim. P. 48. Simakis v. District Court, 194 Colo. 436, 577 P.2d 3 (1978).

Speedy trial provision almost identical to that of uniform detainers act. The provisions in the Uniform Mandatory Disposition of Detainers Act mandating that prison authorities "forthwith" furnish the certified statement and request, and directing that failure to comply with the specified time requirements for commencing trial will result in dismissal, are almost identical to the analogous provision in the agreement on detainers. People v. Bean, 619 P.2d 72 (Colo. App. 1980).

The Uniform Mandatory Disposition of Detainers Act is a special statute designed to foster more effective prisoner treatment and rehabilitation; thus, when there is a conflict with the general speedy trial provisions, the provisions of the uniform act control. People v. Swazo, 199 Colo. 486, 610 P.2d 1072 (1980).

The request for speedy disposition must meet the certification and documentation mandates of this section to trigger the running of the 180-day period. Johnson v. People, 939 P.2d 817 (Colo. 1997).

One-hundred-eighty-day period to bring defendant to trial after he or she provides written notice of place of imprisonment applies to jail as well as prison sentences, even when jail term is part of probation. Construing "penal or correctional institutions" to include jails as well as prisons is consistent with the purpose of the IAD, which is to encourage the expeditious disposition of untried charges because such charges obstruct programs of prisoner treatment and rehabilitation. People v. Walton, 167 P.3d 163 (Colo. App. 2007).

Article III (a) contemplates an expressed prosecutorial motion for a continuance and supported by facts amounting to "good cause". Trial setting beyond the speedy trial term resulting from docket congestion may be a constructive continuance for good cause, but is not sufficient without a prosecutorial motion for a continuance. People v. Sevigny, 679 P.2d 1070 (Colo. 1984).

Amended waiver provision in non-detainer statute, which requires that a defendant or his defense counsel expressly object to a trial setting beyond the speedy trial period, applies to this section but only with respect to acts committed on or after July 1, 1985, and not to acts that commence before such date but continue thereafter. People v. Newton, 764 P.2d 1182 (Colo. 1988).

"Good cause" interpreted. Docket congestion may arguably constitute good cause for continuance. However, where defendant, due to prosecutorial delay, was not brought before the court until shortly before the expiration of the speedy trial term, the unavailability of any trial dates within the remaining term does not constitute the type of docket congestion that might justify a continuance under the "good cause" standard. People v. Seigny, 679 P.2d 1070 (Colo. 1984).

Postponement of a trial due to illness of the trial judge is a continuance for good cause. People v. Watson, 650 P.2d 1340 (Colo. App. 1982).

Inability of replacement defense counsel to prepare for trial in the time remaining before expiration of the 120-day period constitutes good cause for granting a continuance. People v. Watson, 650 P.2d 1340 (Colo. App. 1982).

Time granted to allow accused to prepare and file motions constitutes a continuance. Simakis v. District Court, 194 Colo. 436, 577 P.2d 3 (1978).

Defendant's delays not included in calculation of time. Delays incurred with the defendant's acquiescence or as an accommodation to him are not to be included as a factor in calculating the period of limitation under this section. People v. Grubbs, 39 Colo. App. 436, 570 P.2d 1299 (1977); People v. Hampton, 728 P.2d 345 (Colo. App. 1986), rev'd on other grounds, 746 P.2d 947 (Colo. 1987).

Prisoner's inability to stand trial is not the only circumstance tolling running of time under this section. People v. Grubbs, 39 Colo. App. 436, 570 P.2d 1299 (1977).

Appellate review procedures for habeas corpus petitions contesting transfers of temporary custody under this section shall be by petition for certiorari and not an appeal of right. Semendinger v. Brittain, 770 P.2d 1270 (Colo. 1989).

The agreement has no application in case in which defendant, while held in Colorado after return to Colorado under the agreement, is charged with additional crimes. The new and unrelated charges filed after transfer from sending state do not qualify as untried indictments, informations, or complaints pending in Colorado prior to the time of transfer under article V (d). Selph v. Buckallew, 805 P.2d 1106 (Colo. 1991).

Defendant is not entitled to an automatic dismissal of charges underlying a detainer as a sanction for violation of the prompt notification requirement of this section. Rather, a hearing is required to provide the prosecution an opportunity to demonstrate a lack of prejudice resulting to defendant from such violation. People v. Johnson, 819 P.2d 1114 (Colo. App. 1991).

Defendant waived the IAD's protections when defendant did not raise the IAD issue to the trial court at the time the trial date was set. People v. Walton, 167 P.3d 163 (Colo. App. 2007).

VI. COMPLIANCE.

Determination of probable cause is binding. A determination of probable cause by a neutral judicial officer of the demanding state is binding on the courts of the asylum state. Breault v. Wilson, 645 P.2d 276 (Colo. 1982).

Agreement on detainers act violations cannot be asserted as defense to extradition, and state having custody of defendant has no authority to dismiss or invalidate charge underlying a detainer. Dodson v. Cooper, 705 P.2d 500 (Colo. 1985); Russell v. Cooper, 724 P.2d 1302 (Colo. 1986); Morris v. McGoff, 728 P.2d 720 (Colo. 1986).

Prison authorities, and not prisoners, are responsible for forwarding a prisoner's request for prompt disposition to another jurisdiction and for seeing that the information in inmate status accompanies the request. People v. Thornton, 890 P.2d 158 (Colo. App. 1994).

Compliance by prison officials not discretionary. However difficult it may be for the prosecutors in the receiving state to compel official compliance with this section in the sending jurisdiction, the agreement does not accord the prison officials discretion to comply or not to comply with its terms. People v. Lincoln, 42 Colo. App. 512, 601 P.2d 641 (1979).

Compliance by one county with detainer requirements relieves additional counties of requirements. Where one county complies with the detainer requirements in order to prosecute a defendant incarcerated in another state, additional counties seeking to prosecute the same individual do not have to comply separately with the detainer requirements. Brown v. District Court, 194 Colo. 225, 571 P.2d 1091 (1977).

Burden is on prosecution to establish noncompliance with detainers agreement by sending state. People v. Lincoln, 42 Colo. App. 512, 601 P.2d 641 (1979); People v. Gonzales, 42 Colo. App. 517, 601 P.2d 644 (1979).

No presumption of valid and regular performance of duties by sending state. There is no presumption that the officials of a sending state under the agreement have performed their duties thereunder in a valid and regular manner. People v. Lincoln, 42 Colo. App. 512, 601 P.2d 641 (1979); People v. Gonzales, 42 Colo. App. 517, 601 P.2d 644 (1979).

There is no presumption that the officials of an imprisoning state have performed their duties under the agreement with regularity. Romans v. District Court, 633 P.2d 477 (Colo. 1981).

Absent some demonstration of irregularity by the alleged fugitive, it is presumed that certified requisition documents are authentic and duly certified pursuant to article IV of the Agreement. Morris v. McGoff, 728 P.2d 720 (Colo. 1986).

Substantial compliance with terms of the statute are required for a prisoner to invoke his or her rights; however, by failing to identify himself properly to a district attorney when it became clear that there was confusion over this issue, prisoner failed to substantially comply. Allowing a prisoner to use an alias in his IAD request without revealing the name by which he is known in the state where the charge is pending would create unnecessary confusion and frustrate efficient administration of prisoner movement. People v. Thornton, 890 P.2d 158 (Colo. App. 1994).

Under the agreement on detainers, a defendant can assert a violation of the prompt notification requirement only in the receiving state. Sweaney v. District Court, 713 P.2d 914 (Colo. 1986).

Effect of violation of prompt notification requirement in article III (c) of the agreement on detainers. A defendant is entitled to the dismissal of charges against him underlying a detainer as a sanction for a violation of the prompt notification requirement, unless the prosecution can demonstrate a lack of prejudice to the defendant resulting from that violation. Sweaney v. District Court, 713 P.2d 914 (Colo. 1986); Yellen v. Cooper, 713 P.2d 925 (Colo. 1986); People v. Reyes, 179 P.3d 170 (Colo. App. 2007), aff'd, 195 P.3d 662 (Colo. 2008).

Defendant must first assert some claim of prejudice to frame the issue to be determined, as the alternative would require the prosecution to prove an unlimited negative. People v. Reyes, 179 P.3d 170 (Colo. App. 2007), aff'd, 195 P.3d 662 (Colo. 2008).

Failure to claim prejudice with respect to two detainers in response to a prosecution request that defendant state "any claims of prejudice based on the failure of federal authorities to notify him of Colorado detainers" constituted waiver of any claims as to those detainers. People v. Reyes, 179 P.3d 170 (Colo. App. 2007), aff'd, 195 P.3d 662 (Colo. 2008).

Agreement on detainers does not apply to detainers lodged against a defendant in pretrial or presentence confinement because such confinement is not a "term of imprisonment" within the meaning of the agreement. People v. Reyes, 179 P.3d 170 (Colo. App. 2007), aff'd, 195 P.3d 662 (Colo. 2008).

Failure to promptly provide formal notification to defendant of a detainer did not prejudice him when informal notification and various legal proceedings provided defendant with a speedy disposition of the detainer without defendant having to request it. People v. Reyes, 179 P.3d 170 (Colo. App. 2007), aff'd, 195 P.3d 662 (Colo. 2008).

Failure of state to comply with agreement requires dismissal of charges. The failure on the part of the state to comply with the mandates of the agreement on detainers requires the dismissal of the charges against the defendant with prejudice. People v. Jacobs, 198 Colo. 75, 596 P.2d 1187 (1979); People v. Lincoln, 42 Colo. App. 512, 601 P.2d 641 (1979); Romans v. District Court, 633 P.2d 477 (Colo. 1981); People v. Sevigny, 679 P.2d 1070 (Colo. 1984); People v. Allen, 744 P.2d 73 (Colo. 1987).

Even if the detainer was withdrawn in good faith and the defendant was not prejudiced thereby, the IAD still requires dismissal regardless of whether defendant has suffered prejudice. People v. Robertson, 56 P.3d 121 (Colo. App. 2002).

However, defendant must bear the risk of uncooperative or inept prison officials, and the speedy trial provisions of the IAD are not triggered until the court and the prosecuting attorney receive from prison officials the prisoner's demand for final disposition. People v. Evans, 971 P.2d 229 (Colo. App. 1998) (disagreeing with Romans v. District Court cited above) (decided prior to U.S. Supreme Court decision in Fex v. Michigan, 507 U.S. 43 (1993)).

A showing of prejudice not necessary. There is no requirement in the agreement on detainers that a prisoner demonstrate that prejudice resulted from a violation of its provisions before he may gain relief. Hughes v. District Court, 197 Colo. 396, 593 P.2d 702 (1979); Romans v. District Court, 633 P.2d 477 (Colo. 1981); People v. Sevigny, 679 P.2d 1070 (Colo. 1984).

Noncompliance raisable for first time on appeal. Since compliance with the interstate agreement on detainers is a jurisdictional prerequisite to the state's ability to try a defendant on the charges against him, noncompliance may be raised for the first time on appeal. People v. Jacobs, 198 Colo. 75, 596 P.2d 1187 (1979), implicitly overruled in People v. Moody, 676 P.2d 691 (Colo. 1984).

Rights under this act are not constitutionally based, are nonjurisdictional, and can be waived. Waiver, however, must be voluntary, but need not be knowing and intelligent, and must be asserted prior to or during trial. People v. Moody, 676 P.2d 691 (Colo. 1984); People v.

Since waiver is shown by proof that the prisoner has affirmatively requested treatment in a manner contrary to the protections of the agreement on detainers, defendant waived the anti-shuttling provision of the agreement by requesting numerous and lengthy continuances during which he requested or acquiesced in being returned to a federal penitentiary. People v. Reyes, 179 P.3d 170 (Colo. App. 2007), aff'd, 195 P.3d 662 (Colo. 2008).

Waiver of the protections of the anti-shuttling provision applied not only to the requested or acquiesced in shuttling related to the continuance requests but also retroactively to any earlier unobjected-to violations of the anti-shuttling provision. Reyes v. People, 195 P.3d 662 (Colo. 2008).

This section mandates four procedural steps that must be followed by the prisoner, the custodial officials, and the state filing the detainer. Johnson v. People, 939 P.2d 817 (Colo. 1997).

A uniform standard of compliance and interpretation by the compact states reinforces the Interstate Agreement of Detainers' public policy intent. Johnson v. People, 939 P.2d 817 (Colo. 1997).

Accordingly, federal appellate decisions hold that prisoners must strictly comply with the procedures set forth in the IAD. Johnson v. People, 939 P.2d 817 (Colo. 1997).

The provisions of this section govern interstate detainers, filed by a compact state that has charges pending against a person imprisoned in another compact state and the provisions of article 14 of title 16, C.R.S., govern intrastate detainees, which involve prisoners in the custody of the department of corrections in Colorado who have Colorado charges pending against them. Johnson v. People, 939 P.2d 817 (Colo. 1997).

Therefore, Colorado adopts the holding of federal appellate courts and of other state courts that a standard of strict compliance is applicable. Johnson v. People, 939 P.2d 817 (Colo. 1997); People v. Evans, 971 P.2d 229 (Colo. App. 1998).

In cases involving interstate detainees, strict compliance with the IAD is required. Thus, a defendant's letter requesting the hold on the defendant be released so he could pursue rehabilitative programs to aid in obtaining an earlier release date was insufficient as it did not mention the IAD or speedy trial rights. People v. Johnson, 926 P.2d 126 (Colo. App. 1996), aff'd, 939 P.2d 817 (Colo. 1997).

Defendant's motion to dismiss was not in strict compliance with the IAD, and therefore it did not trigger the provisions of the act. People v. Johnson, 926 P.2d 126 (Colo. App. 1996), aff'd, 939 P.2d 817 (Colo. 1997).

Where prisoner files motion for speedy trial or dismissal of charges directly in county court rather than delivering written notice and request for final disposition of outstanding charges to custodial official, prisoner has failed to strictly comply with the procedures of the IAD, and dismissal of charges against prisoner is improper. People v. Evans, 971 P.2d 229 (Colo. App. 1998).

Defendant's initiation of a habeas corpus action, with full awareness of the possible consequences, both beneficial and adverse, constituted a waiver of article III (d) where the facts indicate the people objected to defendant's habeas corpus request on the basis that the anti-shuttling provisions of article III (d) might apply, thereby adversely affecting the People's opportunity to prosecute defendant. Defendant testified at the evidentiary hearing on the request that he had been offered a return to federal custody only if he waived his rights under the IAD, and he indicated he was unwilling to waive any rights. People v. Brown, 854 P.2d 1332 (Colo. App. 1992).

Provisions of IAD do not require that prosecuting attorney seek custody of an incarcerated defendant in order to prosecute defendant. People v. Evans, 971 P.2d 229 (Colo. App. 1998).

Defendant does not have to be sent back to his sending state before trial on charges that arose out of the same transaction as the IAD charge. The aggravated robbery charge was part of the transaction of the escape charge. People v. Garcia, 17 P.3d 820 (Colo. App. 2000).

Applied in People v. Harter, 216 P.3d 606 (Colo. App. 2009).

REGIONAL HIGHER EDUCATION COMPACTS - AUTHORIZATION

24-60-601. Compact.

The governor of the state of Colorado, for and in behalf of the state of Colorado, is hereby authorized to enter into compacts for western regional cooperation in higher education with the states of Alaska, Arizona, California, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming or any one or more of said states. Under such compacts, the following covenants may be agreed to:

ARTICLE I

WHEREAS, the future of this Nation and of the Western States is dependent upon the quality of the education of its youth; and

WHEREAS, many of the Western States individually do not have sufficient numbers of potential students to warrant the establishment and maintenance within their borders of adequate facilities in all of the essential fields of technical, professional, and graduate training, nor do all of the States have the financial ability to furnish within their borders institutions capable of providing acceptable standards of training in all of the fields mentioned above; and

WHEREAS, it is believed that the Western States, or groups of such states within the Region, co-operatively can provide acceptable and efficient educational facilities to meet the needs of the Region and of the students thereof;

NOW, THEREFORE, The States of Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming, and the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii do hereby covenant and agree as follows:

ARTICLE II

Each of the compacting states and territories pledges to each of the other compacting states and territories faithful co-operation in carrying out all the purposes of this Compact.

ARTICLE III

The compacting states and territories hereby create the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education, hereinafter called the Commission. Said Commission shall be a body corporate of each compacting state and territory and an agency thereof. The Commission shall have all the powers and duties set forth herein, including the power to sue and be sued, and such additional powers as may be conferred upon it by subsequent action of the respective legislatures of the compacting states and territories.

ARTICLE IV

The Commission shall consist of three resident members from each compacting state or territory. At all times one Commissioner from each compacting state or territory shall be an educator engaged in the field of higher education in the state or territory from which he is appointed.

The Commissioners from each state and territory shall be appointed by the Governor thereof as provided by law in such state or territory. Any Commissioner may be removed or suspended from office as provided by the law of the state or territory from which he shall have been appointed.

The terms of each Commissioner shall be four years, provided however that the first three Commissioners shall be appointed as follows: one for two years, one for three years, and one for four years. Each Commissioner shall hold office until his successor shall be appointed and qualified. If any office becomes vacant for any reason, the Governor shall appoint a Commissioner to fill the office for the remainder of the unexpired term.

ARTICLE V

Any business transacted at any meeting of the Commission must be by affirmative vote of a majority of the whole number of compacting states and territories.

One or more Commissioners from a majority of the compacting states and territories shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

Each compacting state and territory represented at any meeting of the Commission is entitled to one vote.

ARTICLE VI

The Commission shall elect from its number a chairman and a vice chairman, and may appoint, and at its pleasure dismiss or remove, such officers, agents, and employees as may be required to carry out the purpose of this Compact; and shall fix and determine their duties, qualifications and compensation, having due regard for the importance of the responsibilities involved.

The Commissioners shall serve without compensation, but shall be reimbursed for their actual and necessary expenses from the funds of the Commission.

ARTICLE VII

The Commission shall adopt a seal and by-laws and shall adopt and promulgate rules and regulations for its management and control.

The Commission may elect such committees as it deems necessary for the carrying out of its functions.

The Commission shall establish and maintain an office within one of the compacting states for the transaction of its business and may meet at any time, but in any event must meet at least once a year. The Chairman may call such additional meetings and upon the request of a majority of the Commissioners of three or more compacting states or territories shall call additional meetings.

The Commission shall submit a budget to the Governor of each compacting state and territory at such time and for such period as may be required.

The governor is hereby authorized to execute a compact on behalf of this state with any other state or states legally joining therein in the form substantially as follows:

THE INTERSTATE COMPACT FOR JUVENILES

ARTICLE I - PURPOSE

The compacting states to this Interstate Compact recognize that each state is responsible for the proper supervision or return of juveniles, delinquents and status offenders who are on probation or parole and who have absconded, escaped or run away from supervision and control and in so doing have endangered their own safety and the safety of others. The compacting states also recognize that each state is responsible for the safe return of juveniles who have run away from home and in doing so have left their state of residence. The compacting states also recognize that Congress, by enacting the Crime Control Act, 4 U.S.C. Section 112 (1965), has authorized and encouraged compacts for cooperative efforts and mutual assistance in the prevention of crime.

It is the purpose of this compact, through means of joint and cooperative action among the compacting states to: (A) ensure that the adjudicated juveniles and status offenders subject to this compact are provided adequate supervision and services in the receiving state as ordered by the adjudicating judge or parole authority in the sending state; (B) ensure that the public safety interests of the citizens, including the victims of juvenile offenders, in both the sending and receiving states are adequately protected; (C) return juveniles who have run away, absconded or escaped from supervision or control or have been accused of an offense to the state requesting their return; (D) make contracts for the cooperative institutionalization in public facilities in member states for delinquent youth needing special services; (E) provide for the effective tracking and supervision of juveniles; (F) equitably allocate the costs, benefits and obligations of the compacting states; (G) establish procedures to manage the movement between states of juvenile offenders released to the community under the jurisdiction of courts, juvenile departments, or any other criminal or juvenile justice agency which has jurisdiction over juvenile offenders; (H) insure immediate notice to jurisdictions where defined offenders are authorized to travel or to relocate across state lines; (I) establish procedures to resolve pending charges (detainers) against juvenile offenders prior to transfer or release to the community under the terms of this compact; (J) establish a system of uniform data collection on information pertaining to juveniles subject to this compact that allows access by authorized juvenile justice and criminal justice officials, and regular reporting of Compact activities to heads of state executive, judicial, and legislative branches and juvenile and criminal justice administrators; (K) monitor compliance with rules governing interstate movement of juveniles and initiate interventions to address and correct noncompliance; (L) coordinate training and education regarding the regulation of interstate movement of juveniles for officials involved in such activity; and (M) coordinate the implementation and operation of the compact with the Interstate Compact for the Placement of Children, the Interstate Compact for Adult Offender Supervision and other compacts affecting juveniles particularly in those cases where concurrent or overlapping supervision issues arise. It is the policy of the compacting states that the activities conducted by the Interstate Commission created herein are the formation of public policies and therefore are public business. The provisions of this compact shall be reasonably and liberally construed to accomplish the purposes and policies of the compact.

The commission shall stipulate the conditions and the time period within which the defaulting state must cure its default. If the defaulting state fails to cure the default within the time period specified by the commission, the defaulting state shall be terminated from the compact upon an affirmative vote of a majority of the compacting states and all rights, privileges and benefits conferred by this compact shall be terminated from the effective date of termination.

2. Within sixty days of the effective date of termination of a defaulting state, the Commission shall notify the Governor, the Chief Justice or Chief Judicial Officer, the Majority and Minority Leaders of the defaulting state's legislature, and the state council of such termination.

3. The defaulting state is responsible for all assessments, obligations and liabilities incurred through the effective date of termination including any obligations, the performance of which extends beyond the effective date of termination.

4. The Interstate Commission shall not bear any costs relating to the defaulting state unless otherwise mutually agreed upon in writing between the Interstate Commission and the defaulting state.

5. Reinstatement following termination of any compacting state requires both a reenactment of the compact by the defaulting state and the approval of the Interstate Commission pursuant to the rules.

Section C. Judicial Enforcement

The Interstate Commission may, by majority vote of the members, initiate legal action in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia or, at the discretion of the Interstate Commission, in the federal district where the Interstate Commission has its offices, to enforce compliance with the provisions of the compact, its duly promulgated rules and by-laws, against any compacting state in default. In the event judicial enforcement is necessary the prevailing party shall be awarded all costs of such litigation including reasonable attorneys fees.

Section D. Dissolution of Compact

1. The compact dissolves effective upon the date of the withdrawal or default of the compacting state, which reduces membership in the compact to one compacting state.

2. Upon the dissolution of this compact, the compact becomes null and void and shall be of no further force or effect, and the business and affairs of the Interstate Commission shall be concluded and any surplus funds shall be distributed in accordance with the by-laws.

ARTICLE XII - SEVERABILITY AND CONSTRUCTION

A. The provisions of this compact shall be severable, and if any phrase, clause, sentence or provision is deemed unenforceable, the remaining provisions of the compact shall be enforceable.

B. The provisions of this compact shall be liberally construed to effectuate its purposes.

ARTICLE XIII - BINDING EFFECT OF COMPACT AND OTHER LAWS

Section A. Other Laws

1. Nothing herein prevents the enforcement of any other law of a compacting state that is not inconsistent with this compact.

2. All compacting states' laws other than state Constitutions and other interstate compacts conflicting with this compact are superseded to the extent of the conflict.

Section B. Binding Effect of the Compact

1. All lawful actions of the Interstate Commission, including all rules and by-laws promulgated by the Interstate Commission, are binding upon the compacting states.

2. All agreements between the Interstate Commission and the compacting states are binding in accordance with their terms.

3. Upon the request of a party to a conflict over meaning or interpretation of Interstate Commission actions, and upon a majority vote of the compacting states, the Interstate Commission may issue advisory opinions regarding such meaning or interpretation.

4. In the event any provision of this compact exceeds the constitutional limits imposed on the legislature of any compacting state, the obligations, duties, powers or jurisdiction sought to be conferred by such provision upon the Interstate Commission shall be ineffective and such obligations, duties, powers or jurisdiction shall remain in the compacting state and shall be exercised by the agency thereof to which such obligations, duties, powers or jurisdiction are delegated by law in effect at the time this compact becomes effective.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 2004 repeal and reenactment.

Child properly returned to jurisdiction charging offense. Where a child's charge of delinquency is based on allegations of burglary, he is properly returned to the jurisdiction charging the offense under the authority of this section, which action does not require a prior adjudication of delinquency. People in Interest of R.H., 41 Colo. App. 17, 583 P.2d 936 (1978).

Finding of "child's best interest" is not required. This section does not expressly require a finding that it is in the child's best interest to return him to the original jurisdiction. People in Interest of R.H., 41 Colo. App. 17, 583 P.2d 936 (1978).

Article V of this compact should not be interpreted as stating that a juvenile who has been previously adjudicated cannot be emancipated. Under article V, the legal custodian, in petitioning for issuance of a requisition for the return of a runaway juvenile, need not allege anything with regard to emancipation because the juvenile was previously adjudicated and is therefore subject to the jurisdiction of the legal custodian, regardless of whether he or she is emancipated. Under article IV, the legal custodian must allege facts to show that the juvenile is not emancipated because the juvenile has not been adjudicated and therefore is not subject to the jurisdiction of a legal custodian if he or she is emancipated. People v. Lucas, 992 P.2d 619 (Colo. App. 1999).

Applied in Abad v. Ricketts, 645 P.2d 848 (Colo. 1982).

24-60-801. Execution of compact.

The governor is hereby authorized to execute a compact on behalf of this state with any other contiguous state or states joining therein in the form substantially as follows:

WESTERN INTERSTATE CORRECTIONS COMPACT

Article I

PURPOSE AND POLICY

The party states, desiring by common action to improve their institutional facilities and provide programs of sufficiently high quality for the confinement, treatment and rehabilitation of various types of offenders, declare that it is the policy of each of the party states to provide such facilities and programs on a basis of co-operation with one another, thereby serving the best interests of such offenders and of society. The purpose of this compact is to provide for the development and execution of such programs of co-operation for the confinement, treatment and rehabilitation of offenders.

Article II

DEFINITIONS

As used in this compact, unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

(a) "State" means a state of the United States, or, subject to the limitation contained in Article VII, Guam.

(b) "Sending state" means a state party to this compact in which conviction was had.

(c) "Receiving state" means a state party to this compact to which an inmate is sent for confinement other than a state in which conviction was had.

(d) "Inmate" means a male or female offender who is under sentence to or confined in a prison or other correctional institution.

(e) "Institution" means any prison, reformatory or other correctional facility (including but not limited to a facility for the mentally ill or mentally defective) in which inmates may lawfully be confined.

Article III

CONTRACTS

(a) Each party state may make one or more contracts with any one or more of the other party states for the confinement of inmates on behalf of a sending state in institutions situated within receiving states. Any such contract shall provide for:

1. Its duration.

2. Payments to be made to the receiving state by the sending state for inmate maintenance, extraordinary medical and dental expenses, and any participation in or receipt by inmates of rehabilitative or correctional services, facilities, programs or treatment not reasonably included as part of normal maintenance.

3. Participation in programs of inmate employment, if any; the disposition or crediting of any payments received by inmates on account thereof; and the crediting of proceeds from or disposal of any products resulting therefrom.

4. Delivery and retaking of inmates.

5. Such other matters as may be necessary and appropriate to fix the obligations, responsibilities and rights of the sending and receiving states.

(b) Prior to the construction or completion of construction of any institution or addition thereto by a party state, any other party state or states may contract therewith for the enlargement of the planned capacity of the institution or addition thereto, or for the inclusion therein of particular equipment or structures, and for the reservation of a specific percentum of the capacity of the institution to be kept available for use by inmates of the sending state or states so contracting. Any sending state so contracting may, to the extent that monies are legally available therefore, pay to the receiving state, a reasonable sum as consideration for such enlargement of capacity, or provision of equipment or structures, and reservation of capacity. Such payment may be in a lump sum or in installments as provided in the contract.

(c) The terms and provisions of this compact shall be a part of any contract entered into by the authority of or pursuant thereto, and nothing in any such contract shall be inconsistent therewith.

Article IV

PROCEDURES AND RIGHTS

(a) Whenever the duly constituted judicial or administrative authorities in a state party to this compact, and which has entered into a contract pursuant to Article III, shall decide that confinement in, or transfer of an inmate to, an institution within the territory of another party state is necessary in order to provide adequate quarters and care, or desirable in order to provide an appropriate program of rehabilitation or treatment, said officials may direct that the confinement be within an institution within the territory of said other party state, the receiving state to act in that regard solely as agent for the sending state.

(b) The appropriate officials of any state party to this compact shall have access, at all reasonable times, to any institution in which it has contractual right to confine inmates for the purpose of inspecting the facilities thereof and visiting such of its inmates as may be confined in the institution.

(c) Inmates confined in an institution pursuant to the terms of this compact shall at all times be subject to the jurisdiction of the sending state and may at any time be removed therefrom for transfer to a prison or other institution within the sending state, for transfer to another institution in which the sending state may have a contractual or other right to confine inmates, for release on probation or parole, for discharge, or for any other purpose permitted by the laws of the sending state; provided that the sending state shall continue to be obligated to such payments as may be required pursuant to the terms of any contract entered into under the terms of Article III.

(d) Each receiving state shall provide regular reports to each sending state on the inmates of that sending state in institutions pursuant to this compact including a conduct record of each inmate and certify said record to the official designated by the sending state, in order that each inmate may have the benefit of his or her record in determining and altering the disposition of said inmate in accordance with the law which may obtain in the sending state and in order that the same may be a source of information for the sending state.

(e) All inmates who may be confined in an institution pursuant to the provisions of this compact shall be treated in a reasonable and humane manner and shall be cared for and treated equally with such similar inmates of the receiving state as may be confined in the same institution. The fact of confinement in a receiving state shall not deprive any inmate so confined of any legal rights which said inmate would have had if confined in an appropriate institution of the sending state.

(f) Any hearing or hearings to which an inmate confined pursuant to this compact may be entitled by the laws of the sending state may be had before the appropriate authorities of the sending state, or of the receiving state if authorized by the sending state. The receiving state shall provide adequate facilities for such hearings as may be conducted by the appropriate officials of a sending state. In the event such hearing or hearings are had before officials of the receiving state, the governing law shall be that of the sending state and a record of the hearing or hearings as prescribed by the sending state shall be made. Said record together with any recommendations of the hearing officials shall be transmitted forthwith to the official or officials before whom the hearing would have been had if it had taken place in the sending state. In any and all proceedings had pursuant to the provisions of this subdivision, the officials of the receiving state shall act solely as agents of the sending state and no final determination shall be made in any matter except by the appropriate officials of the sending state. Costs of records made pursuant to this subdivision shall be borne by the sending state.

(g) Any inmate confined pursuant to this compact shall be released within the territory of the sending state unless the inmate, and the sending and receiving states, shall agree upon release in some other place. The sending state shall bear the cost of such return to its territory.

(h) Any inmate confined pursuant to the terms of this compact shall have any and all rights to participate in and derive any benefits or incur or be relieved of any obligations or have such obligations modified or his status changed on account of any action or proceeding in which he could have participated if confined in any appropriate institution of the sending state located within such state.

(i) The parent, guardian, trustee, or other person or persons entitled under the laws of the sending state to act for, advise, or otherwise function with respect to any inmate shall not be deprived of or restricted in his exercise of any power in respect of any inmate confined pursuant to the terms of this compact.

Article V

ACTS NOT REVIEWABLE IN RECEIVING STATE; EXTRADITION

(a) Any decision of the sending state in respect of any matter over which it retains jurisdiction pursuant to this compact shall be conclusive upon and not reviewable within the receiving state, but if at the time the sending state seeks to remove an inmate from an institution in the receiving state there is pending against the inmate within such state any criminal charge or if the inmate is suspected of having committed within such state a criminal offense, the inmate shall not be returned without the consent of the receiving state until discharged from prosecution or other form of proceeding, imprisonment or detention for such offense. The duly accredited officers of the sending state shall be permitted to transport inmates pursuant to this compact through any and all states party to this compact without interference.

(b) An inmate who escapes from an institution in which he is confined pursuant to this compact shall be deemed a fugitive from the sending state and from the state in which the institution is situated. In the case of an escape to a jurisdiction other than the sending or receiving state, the responsibility for institution of extradition proceedings shall be that of the sending state, but nothing contained herein shall be construed to prevent or affect the activities of officers and agencies of any jurisdiction directed toward the apprehension and return of an escapee.

Article VI

FEDERAL AID

Any state party to this compact may accept federal aid for use in connection with any institution or program, the use of which is or may be affected by this compact or any contract pursuant hereto and any inmate in a receiving state pursuant to this compact may participate in any such federally aided program or activity for which the sending and receiving states have made contractual provision provided that if such program or activity is not part of the customary correctional regimen the express consent of the appropriate official of the sending state shall be required therefor.

Article VII

ENTRY INTO FORCE

This compact shall enter into force and become effective and binding upon the states so acting when it has been enacted into law by any two contiguous states from among the states of Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. For the purposes of this article, Alaska and Hawaii shall be deemed contiguous to each other; to any and all of the states of California, Oregon and Washington; and to Guam. Thereafter, this compact shall enter into force and become effective and binding as to any other of said states, or any other state contiguous to at least one party state upon similar action by such state. Guam may become party to this compact by taking action similar to that provided for joinder by any other eligible party state and upon the consent of Congress to such joinder. For the purposes of this article, Guam shall be deemed contiguous to Alaska, Hawaii, California, Oregon and Washington.

Article VIII

WITHDRAWAL AND TERMINATION

This compact shall continue in force and remain binding upon a party state until it shall have enacted a statute repealing the same and providing for the sending of formal written notice of withdrawal from the compact to the appropriate officials of all other party states. An actual withdrawal shall not take effect until two years after the notices provided in said statute have been sent. Such withdrawal shall not relieve the withdrawing state from its obligations assumed hereunder prior to the effective date of withdrawal. Before the effective date of withdrawal, a withdrawing state shall remove to its territory, at its own expense, such inmates as it may have confined pursuant to the provisions of this compact.

Article IX

OTHER ARRANGEMENTS UNAFFECTED

Nothing contained in this compact shall be construed to abrogate or impair any agreement or other arrangement which a party state may have with a non-party state for the confinement, rehabilitation or treatment of inmates nor to repeal any other laws of a party state authorizing the making of cooperative institutional arrangements.

Article X

CONSTRUCTION AND SEVERABILITY

The provisions of this compact shall be liberally construed and shall be severable. If any phrase, clause, sentence or provision of this compact is declared to be contrary to the constitution of any participating state or of the United States or the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person or circumstance is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this compact and the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person or circumstance shall not be affected thereby. If this compact shall be held contrary to the constitution of any state participating therein, the compact shall remain in full force and effect as to the remaining states and in full force and effect as to the state affected as to all severable matters.

24-60-802. Transfer of inmates.

Any court or other agency or officer of this state having power to commit or transfer an inmate, as defined in Article II (d) of the Western Interstate Corrections Compact, to any institution for confinement may commit or transfer such inmate to any institution within or without this state if this state has entered into a contract for the confinement of inmates in said institution pursuant to Article III of the Western Interstate Corrections Compact.

PART 9

VEHICLE EQUIPMENT SAFETY COMPACT

24-60-901. Legislative declaration.

(1) The general assembly finds that:

(a) The public safety necessitates the continuous development, modernization, and implementation of standards and requirements of law relating to vehicle equipment in accordance with expert knowledge and opinion;

(b) The public safety further requires that such standards and requirements be uniform from jurisdiction to jurisdiction, except to the extent that specific and compelling evidence supports variation;

(c) The executive director of the department of revenue, acting upon recommendations of the vehicle equipment safety commission and pursuant to the vehicle equipment safety compact, provides a just, equitable, and orderly means of promoting the public safety in the manner and within the scope contemplated by this part 9.

24-60-902. Compact approved and ratified.

The general assembly hereby approves and ratifies and the governor shall enter into a compact on behalf of the state of Colorado with any of the United States or other jurisdictions legally joining therein in the form substantially as follows:

ARTICLE I

Findings and Purpose

(a) The party states find that:

(1) Accidents and deaths on their streets and highways present a very serious human and economic problem with a major deleterious effect on the public welfare.

(2) There is a vital need for the development of greater interjurisdictional cooperation to achieve the necessary uniformity in the laws, rules, regulations and codes relating to vehicle equipment, and to accomplish this by such means as will minimize the time between the development of demonstrably and scientifically sound safety features and their incorporation into vehicles.

(b) The purposes of this compact are to:

(1) Promote uniformity in regulation of and standards for equipment.

(2) Secure uniformity of law and administrative practice in vehicular regulation and related safety standards to permit incorporation of desirable equipment changes in vehicles in the interest of greater traffic safety.

(3) To provide means for the encouragement and utilization of research which will facilitate the achievement of the foregoing purposes, with due regard for the findings set forth in subdivision (a) of this article.

(c) It is the intent of this compact to emphasize performance requirements and not to determine the specific detail of engineering in the manufacture of vehicles or equipment except to the extent necessary for the meeting of such performance requirements.

ARTICLE II

Definitions

As used in this compact:

(a) "Vehicle" means every device in, upon or by which any person or property is or may be transported or drawn upon a highway, excepting devices moved by human power or used exclusively upon stationary rails or tracks.

(b) "State" means a state, territory or possession of the United States, the District of Columbia, or the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

(c) "Equipment" means any part of a vehicle or any accessory for use thereon which affects the safety of operation of such vehicle or the safety of the occupants.

ARTICLE III

The Commission

(a) There is hereby created an agency of the party states to be known as the "Vehicle Equipment Safety Commission" hereinafter called the commission. The commission shall be composed of one commissioner from each party state who shall be appointed, serve and be subject to removal in accordance with the laws of the state which he represents. If authorized by the laws of his party state, a commissioner may provide for the discharge of his duties and the performance of his functions on the commission, either for the duration of his membership or for any lesser period of time, by an alternate. No such alternate shall be entitled to serve unless notification of his identity and appointment shall have been given to the commission in such form as the commission may require. Each commissioner, and each alternate, when serving in the place and stead of a commissioner, shall be entitled to be reimbursed by the commission for expenses actually incurred in attending commission meetings or while engaged in the business of the commission.

(b) The commissioners shall be entitled to one vote each on the commission. No action of the commission shall be binding unless taken at a meeting at which a majority of the total number of votes on the commission are cast in favor thereof. Action of the commission shall be only at a meeting at which a majority of the commissioners, or their alternates, are present.

(c) The commission shall have a seal.

(d) The commission shall elect annually, from among its members, a chairman, a vice-chairman and a treasurer. The commission may appoint an executive director and fix his duties and compensation. Such executive director shall serve at the pleasure of the commission, and together with the treasurer shall be bonded in such amount as the commission shall determine. The executive director also shall serve as secretary. If there be no executive director, the commission shall elect a secretary in addition to the other officers provided by this subdivision.

(e) Irrespective of the civil service, personnel or other merit system laws of any of the party states, the executive director with the approval of the commission, or the commission if there be no executive director, shall appoint, remove or discharge such personnel as may be necessary for the performance of the commission's functions, and shall fix the duties and compensation of such personnel.

(f) The commission may establish and maintain independently or in conjunction with any one or more of the party states, a suitable retirement system for its full time employees. Employees of the commission shall be eligible for social security coverage in respect of old age and survivor's insurance provided that the commission takes such steps as may be necessary pursuant to the laws of the United States, to participate in such program of insurance as a governmental agency or unit. The commission may establish and maintain or participate in such additional programs of employee benefits as may be appropriate.

(g) The commission may borrow, accept or contract for the services of personnel from any party state, the United States, or any subdivision or agency of the aforementioned governments, or from any agency of two or more of the party states or their subdivisions.

(h) The commission may accept for any of its purposes and functions under this compact any and all donations, and grants of money, equipment, supplies, materials, and services, conditional or otherwise, from any state, the United States, or any other governmental agency and may receive, utilize and dispose of the same.

(i) The commission may establish and maintain such facilities as may be necessary for the transacting of its business. The commission may acquire, hold, and convey real and personal property and any interest therein.

(j) The commission shall adopt bylaws for the conduct of its business and shall have the power to amend and rescind these bylaws. The commission shall publish its bylaws in convenient form and shall file a copy thereof and a copy of any amendment thereto, with the appropriate agency or officer in each of the party states. The bylaws shall provide for appropriate notice to the commissioners of all commission meetings and hearings and the business to be transacted at such meetings or hearings. Such notice shall also be given to such agencies or officers of each party state as the laws of such party state may provide.

(k) The commission annually shall make to the governor and legislature of each party state a report covering the activities of the commission for the preceding year, and embodying such recommendations as may have been issued by the commission. The commission may make such additional reports as it may deem desirable.

ARTICLE IV

Research and Testing

The commission shall have power to:

(a) Collect, correlate, analyze and evaluate information resulting or derivable from research and testing activities in equipment and related fields.

(b) Recommend and encourage the undertaking of research and testing in any aspect of equipment or related matters when, in its judgment, appropriate or sufficient research or testing has not been undertaken.

(c) Contract for such equipment research and testing as one or more governmental agencies may agree to have contracted for by the commission, provided that such governmental agency or agencies shall make available the funds necessary for such research and testing.

(d) Recommend to the party states changes in law or policy with emphasis on uniformity of laws and administrative rules, regulations or codes which would promote effective governmental action or coordination in the prevention of equipment-related highway accidents or the mitigation of equipment-related highway safety problems.

ARTICLE V

Vehicular Equipment

(a) In the interest of vehicular and public safety, the commission may study the need for or desirability of the establishment of or changes in performance requirements or restrictions for any item of equipment. As a result of such study, the commission may publish a report relating to any item or items of equipment, and the issuance of such a report shall be a condition precedent to any proceedings or other action provided or authorized by this article. No less than sixty days after the publication of a report containing the results of such study, the commission upon due notice shall hold a hearing or hearings at such place or places as it may determine.

(b) Following the hearing or hearings provided for in subdivision (a) of this article, and with due regard for standards recommended by appropriate professional and technical associations and agencies, the commission may issue rules, regulations or codes embodying performance requirements or restrictions for any item or items of equipment covered in the report, which in the opinion of the commission will be fair and equitable and effectuate the purposes of this compact.

(c) Each party state obligates itself to give due consideration to any and all rules, regulations and codes issued by the commission and hereby declares its policy and intent to be the promotion of uniformity in the laws of the several party states relating to equipment.

(d) The commission shall send prompt notice of its action in issuing any rule, regulation or code pursuant to this article to the appropriate motor vehicle agency of each party state and such notice shall contain the complete text of the rule, regulation or code.

(e) If the constitution of a party state requires, or if its statutes provide, the approval of the legislature by appropriate resolution or act may be made a condition precedent to the taking effect in such party state of any rule, regulation or code. In such event, the commissioner of such party state shall submit any commission rule, regulation or code to the legislature as promptly as may be in lieu of administrative acceptance or rejection thereof by the party state.

(f) Except as otherwise specifically provided in or pursuant to subdivisions (e) and (g) of this article, the appropriate motor vehicle agency of a party state shall in accordance with its constitution or procedural laws adopt the rule, regulation or code within six months of the sending of the notice, and, upon such adoption, the rule, regulation or code shall have the force and effect of law therein.

(g) The appropriate motor vehicle agency of a party state may decline to adopt a rule, regulation or code issued by the commission pursuant to this article if such agency specifically finds, after public hearing on due notice, that a variation from the commission's rule, regulation or code is necessary to the public safety, and incorporates in such finding the reasons upon which it is based. Any such finding shall be subject to review by such procedure for review of administrative determinations as may be applicable pursuant to the laws of the party state. Upon request, the commission shall be furnished with a copy of the transcript of any hearings held pursuant to this subdivision.

Finance

(a) The commission shall submit to the executive head or designated officer or officers of each party state a budget of its estimated expenditures for such period as may be required by the laws of that party state for presentation to the legislature thereof.

(b) Each of the commission's budgets of estimated expenditures shall contain specific recommendations of the amount or amounts to be appropriated by each of the party states. The total amount of appropriations under any such budget shall be apportioned among the party states as follows: One-third in equal shares; and the remainder in proportion to the number of motor vehicles registered in each party state. In determining the number of such registrations, the commission may employ such source or sources of information as, in its judgment present the most equitable and accurate comparisons among the party states. Each of the commission's budgets of estimated expenditures and requests for appropriations shall indicate the source or sources used in obtaining information concerning vehicular registrations.

(c) The commission shall not pledge the credit of any party state. The commission may meet any of its obligations in whole or in part with funds available to it under article III (h) of this compact, provided that the commission takes specific action setting aside such funds prior to incurring any obligation to be met in whole or in part in such manner. Except where the commission makes use of funds available to it under article III (h) hereof, the commission shall not incur any obligation prior to the allotment of funds by the party states adequate to meet the same.

(d) The commission shall keep accurate accounts of all receipts and disbursements. The receipts and disbursements of the commission shall be subject to the audit and accounting procedures established under its rules. However, all receipts and disbursements of funds handled by the commission shall be audited yearly by a qualified public accountant and the report of the audit shall be included in and become part of the annual reports of the commission.

(e) The accounts of the commission shall be open at any reasonable time for inspection by duly constituted officers of the party states and by any persons authorized by the commission.

(f) Nothing contained herein shall be construed to prevent commission compliance with laws relating to audit or inspection of accounts by or on behalf of any government contributing to the support of the commission.

ARTICLE VII

Conflict of Interest

(a) The commission shall adopt rules and regulations with respect to conflict of interest for the commissioners of the party states, and their alternates, if any, and for the staff of the commission and contractors with the commission to the end that no member or employee or contractor shall have a pecuniary or other incompatible interest in the manufacture, sale or distribution of motor vehicles or vehicular equipment or in any facility or enterprise employed by the commission or on its behalf for testing, conduct of investigations or research. In addition to any penalty for violation of such rules and regulations as may be applicable under the laws of the violator's jurisdiction of residence, employment or business, any violation of a commission rule or regulation adopted pursuant to this article shall require the immediate discharge of any violating employee and the immediate vacating of membership, or relinquishing of status as a member on the commission by any commissioner or alternate. In the case of a contractor, any violation of any such rule or regulation shall make any contract of the violator with the commission subject to cancellation by the commission.

(b) Nothing contained in this article shall be deemed to prevent a contractor for the commission from using any facilities subject to his control in the performance of the contract even though such facilities are not devoted solely to work of or done on behalf of the commission; nor to prevent such a contractor from receiving remuneration or profit from the use of such facilities.

ARTICLE VIII

Advisory and Technical Committees

The commission may establish such advisory and technical committees as it may deem necessary, membership on which may include private citizens and public officials, and may cooperate with and use the services of any such committees and the organizations which the members represent in furthering any of its activities.

ARTICLE IX

Entry Into Force and Withdrawal

(a) This compact shall enter into force when enacted into law by any six or more states. Thereafter, this compact shall become effective as to any other state upon its enactment thereof.

(b) Any party state may withdraw from this compact by enacting a statute repealing the same, but no such withdrawal shall take effect until one year after the executive head of the withdrawing state has given notice in writing of the withdrawal to the executive heads of all other party states. No withdrawal shall affect any liability already incurred by or chargeable to a party state prior to the time of such withdrawal.

ARTICLE X

Construction and Severability

This compact shall be liberally construed so as to effectuate the purposes thereof. The provisions of this compact shall be severable and if any phrase, clause, sentence or provision of this compact is declared to be contrary to the Constitution of any state or of the United States or the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person or circumstance is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this compact and the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person, or circumstance shall not be affected thereby. If this compact shall be held contrary to the constitution of any state participating herein, the compact shall remain in full force and effect as to the remaining party states and in full force and effect as to the state affected as to all severable matters.

PART 10

INTERSTATE COMPACT ON MENTAL HEALTH

24-60-1001. Execution of compact.

The governor is hereby authorized to enter into a compact on behalf of this state with any other state or states joining therein in the form substantially as follows:

Interstate Compact on Mental Health

ARTICLE I

The party states find that the proper and expeditious treatment of the mentally ill and mentally deficient can be facilitated by cooperative action, to the benefit of the patients, their families, and society as a whole. Further, the party states find that the necessity of and desirability for furnishing such care and treatment bears no primary relation to the residence or citizenship of the patient but that, on the contrary, the controlling factors of community safety and humanitarianism require that facilities and services be made available for all who are in need of them. Consequently, it is the purpose of this compact and of the party states to provide the necessary legal basis for the institutionalization or other appropriate care and treatment of the mentally ill and mentally deficient under a system that recognizes the paramount importance of patient welfare and to establish the responsibilities of the party states in terms of such welfare.

ARTICLE II

As used in this compact:

(a) "Sending state" shall mean a party state from which a patient is transported pursuant to the provisions of the compact or from which it is contemplated that a patient may be so sent.

(b) "Receiving state" shall mean a party state to which a patient is transported pursuant to the provisions of the compact or to which it is contemplated that a patient may be so sent.

(c) "Institution" shall mean any hospital or other facility maintained by a party state or political subdivision thereof for the care and treatment of mental illness or mental deficiency.

(d) "Patient" shall mean any person subject to or eligible as determined by the laws of the sending state, for institutionalization or other care, treatment, or supervision pursuant to the provisions of this compact.

(e) "After-care" shall mean care, treatment and services provided a patient, as defined herein, on convalescent status or conditional release.

(f) "Mental illness" shall mean mental disease to such extent that a person so afflicted requires care and treatment for his own welfare, or the welfare of others, or of the community.

(g) "Mental deficiency" shall mean mental deficiency as defined by appropriate clinical authorities to such extent that a person so afflicted is incapable of managing himself and his affairs, but shall not include mental illness as defined herein.

(h) "State" shall mean any state, territory or possession of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

ARTICLE III

(a) Whenever a person physically present in any party state shall be in need of institutionalization by reason of mental illness or mental deficiency, he shall be eligible for care and treatment in an institution in that state irrespective of his residence, settlement, or citizenship qualifications.

(b) The provisions of paragraph (a) of this article to the contrary notwithstanding, any patient may be transferred to an institution in another state whenever there are factors based upon clinical determinations indicating that the care and treatment of said patient would be facilitated or improved thereby. Any such institutionalization may be for the entire period of care and treatment or for any portion or portions thereof. The factors referred to in this paragraph shall include the patient's full record with due regard for the location of the patient's family, character of the illness and probable duration thereof, and such other factors as shall be considered appropriate.

(c) No state shall be obliged to receive any patient pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this article unless the sending state has given advance notice of its intention to send the patient; furnished all available medical and other pertinent records concerning the patient; given the qualified medical or other appropriate clinical authorities of the receiving state an opportunity to examine the patient if said authorities so wish; and unless the receiving state shall agree to accept the patient.

(d) In the event that the laws of the receiving state establish a system of priorities for the admission of patients, an interstate patient under this compact shall receive the same priority as a local patient and shall be taken in the same order and at the same time that he would be taken if he were a local patient.

(e) Pursuant to this compact, the determination as to the suitable place of institutionalization for a patient may be reviewed at any time and such further transfer of the patient may be made as seems likely to be in the best interest of the patient.

ARTICLE IV

(a) Whenever, pursuant to the laws of the state in which a patient is physically present, it shall be determined that the patient should receive after-care or supervision, such care or supervision may be provided in a receiving state. If the medical or other appropriate clinical authorities having responsibility for the care and treatment of the patient in the sending state shall have reason to believe that after-care in another state would be in the best interest of the patient and would not jeopardize the public safety, they shall request the appropriate authorities in the receiving state to investigate the desirability of affording the patient such after-care in said receiving state, and such investigation shall be made with all reasonable speed. The request for investigation shall be accompanied by complete information concerning the patient's intended place of residence and the identity of the person in whose charge it is proposed to place the patient, the complete medical history of the patient, and such other documents as may be pertinent.

(b) If the medical or other appropriate clinical authorities having responsibility for the care and treatment of the patient in the sending state and the appropriate authorities in the receiving state find that the best interest of the patient would be served thereby, and if the public safety would not be jeopardized thereby, the patient may receive after-care or supervision in the receiving state.

(c) In supervising, treating, or caring for a patient on after-care pursuant to the terms of this article, a receiving state shall employ the same standards of visitation, examination, care, and treatment that it employs for similar local patients.

ARTICLE V

Whenever a dangerous or potentially dangerous patient escapes from an institution in any party state, that state shall promptly notify all appropriate authorities within and without the jurisdiction of the escapee in a manner reasonably calculated to facilitate the speedy apprehension of the escapee. Immediately upon the apprehension and identification of any such dangerous or potentially dangerous patient, he shall be detained in the state where found pending disposition in accordance with law.

ARTICLE VI

The duly accredited officers of any state party to this compact, upon the establishment of their authority and the identity of the patient, shall be permitted to transport any patient being moved pursuant to this compact through any and all states party to this compact, without interference.

ARTICLE VII

(a) No person shall be deemed a patient of more than one institution at any given time. Completion of transfer of any patient to an institution in a receiving state shall have the effect of making the person a patient of the institution in the receiving state.

(b) The sending state shall pay all costs of and incidental to the transportation of any patient pursuant to this compact, but any two or more party states may, by making a specific agreement for that purpose, arrange for a different allocation of costs as among themselves.

(c) No provision of this compact shall be construed to alter or affect any internal relationships among the departments, agencies and officers of and in the government of a party state, or between a party state and its subdivisions, as to the payment of costs, or responsibilities therefor.

(d) Nothing in this compact shall be construed to prevent any party state or subdivision thereof from asserting any right against any person, agency or other entity in regard to costs for which such party state or subdivision thereof may be responsible pursuant to any provision of this compact.

(e) Nothing in this compact shall be construed to invalidate any reciprocal agreement between a party state and a non-party state relating to institutionalization, care or treatment of the mentally ill or mentally deficient, or any statutory authority pursuant to which such agreements may be made.

ARTICLE VIII

(a) Nothing in this compact shall be construed to abridge, diminish, or in any way impair the rights, duties, and responsibilities of any patient's guardian on his own behalf or in respect of any patient for whom he may serve, except that where the transfer of any patient to another jurisdiction makes advisable the appointment of a supplemental or substitute guardian, any court of competent jurisdiction in the receiving state may make such supplemental or substitute appointment and the court which appointed the previous guardian shall upon being duly advised of the new appointment, and upon the satisfactory completion of such accounting and other acts as such court may by law require, relieve the previous guardian of power and responsibility to whatever extent shall be appropriate in the circumstances; provided, however, that in the case of any patient having settlement in the sending state, the court of competent jurisdiction in the sending state shall have the sole discretion to relieve a guardian appointed by it or continue his power and responsibility, whichever it shall deem advisable. The court in the receiving state may, in its discretion, confirm or reappoint the person or persons previously serving as guardian in the sending state in lieu of making a supplemental or substitute appointment.

(b) The term "guardian" as used in paragraph (a) of this article shall include any guardian, trustee, legal committee, conservator, or other person or agency however denominated who is charged by law with power to act for or responsibility for the person or property of a patient.

ARTICLE IX

(a) No provisions of this compact except Article V shall apply to any person institutionalized while under sentence in a penal or correctional institution or while subject to trial on a criminal charge, or whose institutionalization is due to the commission of an offense for which, in the absence of mental illness or mental deficiency, said person would be subject to incarceration in a penal or correctional institution.

(b) To every extent possible, it shall be the policy of states party to this compact that no patient shall be placed or detained in any prison, jail or lockup, but such patient shall, with all expedition, be taken to a suitable institutional facility for mental illness or mental deficiency.

ARTICLE X

(a) Each party state shall appoint a "compact administrator" who, on behalf of his state, shall act as general coordinator of activities under the compact in his state and who shall receive copies of all reports, correspondence, and other documents relating to any patient processed under the compact by his state either in the capacity of sending or receiving state. The compact administrator or his duly designated representative shall be the official with whom other party states shall deal in any matter relating to the compact or any patient processed thereunder.

(b) The compact administrators of the respective party states shall have power to promulgate reasonable rules and regulations to carry out more effectively the terms and provisions of this compact.

ARTICLE XI

The duly constituted administrative authorities of any two or more party states may enter into supplementary agreements for the provision of any service or facility or for the maintenance of any institution on a joint or cooperative basis whenever the states concerned shall find that such agreements will improve services, facilities, or institutional care and treatment in the fields of mental illness or mental deficiency. No such supplementary agreement shall be construed so as to relieve any party state of any obligation which it otherwise would have under other provisions of this compact.

ARTICLE XII

This compact shall enter into full force and effect as to any state when enacted by it into law and such state shall thereafter be a party thereto with any and all states legally joining therein.

ARTICLE XIII

(a) A state party to this compact may withdraw therefrom by enacting a statute repealing the same. Such withdrawal shall take effect one year after notice thereof has been communicated officially and in writing to the governors and compact administrators of all other party states. However, the withdrawal of any state shall not change the status of any patient who has been sent to said state or sent out of said state pursuant to the provisions of the compact.

(b) Withdrawal from any agreement permitted by Article VII (b) as to costs or from any supplementary agreement made pursuant to Article XI shall be in accordance with the terms of such agreement.

ARTICLE XIV

This compact shall be liberally construed so as to effectuate the purposes thereof. The provisions of this compact shall be severable and if any phrase, clause, sentence or provision of this compact is declared to be contrary to the constitution of any party state or of the United States or the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person or circumstance is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this compact and the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person or circumstance shall not be affected thereby. If this compact shall be held contrary to the constitution of any party thereto, the compact shall remain in full force and effect as to the remaining states and in full force and effect as to the state affected as to all severable matters.

The director shall cooperate with all departments, agencies, and officers of the state and any political subdivision thereof to facilitate the proper administration of the interstate compact on mental health or of any supplementary agreement or agreements entered into by this state thereunder.

24-60-1005. Court review.

The compact administrator is directed to consult with the immediate family of any proposed transferee and, in the case of a proposed transferee from an institution in this state to an institution in another party state, to make no transfer out of the state without approval of the district or probate court. Before granting such approval, the court shall hold such hearings as it deems appropriate. In addition, the court shall designate some appropriate person to deliver written notice of the proposed transferee's right to a hearing to the proposed transferee and his guardian ad litem. The person serving such notices shall make a written return to the court that such has been done. At the conclusion of such hearing, if any, the court may approve the proposed transfer, order the release of the proposed transferee, or enter any other suitable order.

PART 11

DRIVER LICENSE COMPACT

24-60-1101. Compact approved and ratified.

The general assembly hereby approves and ratifies and the governor shall enter into a compact on behalf of the state of Colorado with any of the United States or other jurisdictions legally joining therein in the form substantially as follows:

ARTICLE I

Findings and Declaration of Policy

-3271-

(a) The party states find that:

(1) The safety of their streets and highways is materially affected by the degree of compliance with state laws and local ordinances relating to the operation of motor vehicles.

(2) Violation of such a law or ordinance is evidence that the violator engages in conduct which is likely to endanger the safety of persons and property.

(3) The continuance in force of a license to drive is predicated upon compliance with laws and ordinances relating to the operation of motor vehicles, in whichever jurisdiction the vehicle is operated.

(b) It is the policy of each of the party states to:

(1) Promote compliance with the laws, ordinances, and administrative rules and regulations relating to the operation of motor vehicles by their operators in each of the jurisdictions where such operators drive motor vehicles.

(2) Make the reciprocal recognition of licenses to drive and eligibility therefor more just and equitable by considering the over-all compliance with motor vehicle laws, ordinances and administrative rules and regulations as a condition precedent to the continuance or issuance of any license by reason of which the licensee is authorized or permitted to operate a motor vehicle in any of the party states.

ARTICLE II

Definitions

As used in this compact:

(a) "State" means a state, territory or possession of the United States, the District of Columbia, or the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

(b) "Home state" means the state which has issued and has the power to suspend or revoke the use of the license or permit to operate a motor vehicle.

(c) "Conviction" means a conviction of any offense related to the use or operation of a motor vehicle which is prohibited by state law, municipal ordinance or administrative rule or regulation, or a forfeiture of bail, bond or other security deposited to secure appearance by a person charged with having committed any such offense, and which conviction or forfeiture is required to be reported to the licensing authority.

ARTICLE III

Reports of Conviction

The licensing authority of a party state shall report each conviction of a person from another party state occurring within its jurisdiction to the licensing authority of the home state of the licensee. Such report shall clearly identify the person convicted; describe the violation specifying the section of the statute, code or ordinance violated; identify the court in which action was taken; indicate whether a plea of guilty or not guilty was entered, or the conviction was a result of the forfeiture of bail, bond or other security; and shall include any special findings made in connection therewith.

ARTICLE IV

Effect of Conviction

(a) The licensing authority in the home state, for the purposes of suspension, revocation or limitation of the license to operate a motor vehicle, shall give the same effect to the offense reported, pursuant to Article III of this compact, as it would if such offense had occurred in the home state, in the case of convictions for:

- (1) Manslaughter or negligent homicide resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle;
- (2) Driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or a narcotic drug or under the influence of any other drug to a degree which renders the driver incapable of safely driving a motor vehicle;
- (3) Any felony in the commission of which a motor vehicle is used;
- (4) Failure to stop and render aid in the event of a motor vehicle accident resulting in the death or personal injury of another.

(b) As to other convictions, reported pursuant to Article III, the licensing authority in the home state shall give such effect to the offense as is provided by the laws of the home state.

(c) If the laws of a party state do not provide for offenses or violations denominated or described in precisely the words employed in subdivision (a) of this article, such party state shall construe the denominations and descriptions appearing in subdivision (a) hereof as being applicable to and identifying those offenses or violations of a substantially similar nature, and the laws of such party state shall contain such provisions as may be necessary to ensure that full force and effect is given to this article.

ARTICLE V

Applications for New Licenses

Upon application for a license to drive, the licensing authority in a party state shall ascertain whether the applicant has ever held, or is the holder of a license to drive issued by any other party state. The licensing authority in the state where application is made shall not issue a license to drive to the applicant if:

(1) The applicant has held such a license, but the same has been suspended by reason, in whole or in part, of a conviction for a violation and if such suspension period has not terminated.

(2) The applicant has held such a license, but the same has been revoked by reason, in whole or in part, of a conviction for a violation and if such revocation has not terminated, except that after the expiration of one year from the date the license was revoked, such person may make application for a new license if permitted by Colorado law. The licensing authority may refuse to issue a license to any such applicant if, after investigation, the licensing authority determines that it will not be safe to grant to such person the privilege of driving a motor vehicle on the public highways.

(3) The applicant is the holder of a license to drive issued by another party state and currently in force unless the applicant surrenders such license.

Applicability of Other Laws

Except as expressly required by provisions of this compact, nothing contained herein shall be construed to affect the right of any party to apply any of its other laws relating to licenses to drive to any person or circumstance, nor to invalidate or prevent any driver license agreement or other cooperative arrangement between a party state and a nonparty state.

ARTICLE VII

Compact Administrator and Interchange of Information

(a) The head of the licensing authority of each party state shall be the administrator of this compact for his state. The administrators, acting jointly, shall have the power to formulate all necessary and proper procedures for the exchange of information under this compact.

(b) The administrator of each party state shall furnish to the administrator of each other party state any information or documents reasonably necessary to facilitate the administration of this compact.

ARTICLE VIII

Entry Into Force and Withdrawal

(a) This compact shall enter into force and become effective as to any state when it has enacted the same into law.

(b) Any party state may withdraw from this compact by enacting a statute repealing the same, but no such withdrawal shall take effect until six months after the executive head of the withdrawing state has given notice of the withdrawal to the executive heads of all other party states. No withdrawal shall affect the validity or applicability by the licensing authorities of states remaining party to the compact of any report of conviction occurring prior to the withdrawal.

ARTICLE IX

Construction and Severability

This compact shall be liberally construed so as to effectuate the purposes thereof. The provisions of this compact shall be severable and if any phrase, clause, sentence or provision of this compact is declared to be contrary to the constitution of any party state or of the United States or the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person or circumstance is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this compact and the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person or circumstance shall not be affected thereby. If this compact shall be held contrary to the constitution of any state party thereto, the compact shall remain in full force and effect as to the remaining states and in full force and effect as to the state affected as to all severable matters.

ANNOTATION

The compact is to be liberally construed so as to effectuate its purposes. Kramer v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 964 P.2d 629 (Colo. App. 1998).

Under the compact, party states are required to report convictions of persons from another state to the home state of the licensee. Kramer v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 964 P.2d 629 (Colo. App. 1998).

Article IV(a) requires only that a home state give a conviction under this standard the same effect as if the offense had occurred in the home state. It does not state that only those out-of-state convictions meeting this standard can be considered for purposes of revocation. Kramer v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 964 P.2d 629 (Colo. App. 1998).

The intent of the compact is to encompass plaintiff's Idaho convictions even if those convictions are equivalent to Colorado driving while ability impaired convictions. Such an interpretation is consistent with the purposes of the compact as expressed in article I(b). Idaho convictions can also be given effect under article IV(b). Under this provision, Colorado is required to give such effect to the Idaho convictions as provided by Colorado law. Kramer v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 964 P.2d 629 (Colo. App. 1998).

24-60-1102. Definition of "licensing authority".

(2) The executive director of the department of revenue is authorized to administer the provisions of any driver license compact entered into between the state of Colorado and any other state and shall enforce any provisions thereof relative to licenses to operate motor vehicles issued by the department of revenue.

PART 12

INTERSTATE COMPACT FOR EDUCATION

24-60-1201. Execution of compact.

The governor is hereby authorized to enter into a compact on behalf of this state with any of the United States or other jurisdictions legally joining therein in the form substantially as follows:

INTERSTATE COMPACT FOR EDUCATION

ARTICLE I

Purpose and Policy

(a) It is the purpose of this compact to:

(1) Establish and maintain close cooperation and understanding among executive, legislative, professional educational and lay leadership on a nationwide basis at the state and local levels.

(2) Provide a forum for the discussion, development, crystallization and recommendation of public policy alternatives in the field of education.

(3) Provide a clearing house of information on matters relating to educational problems and how they are being met in different places throughout the nation, so that the executive and legislative branches of state government and of local communities may have ready access to the experience and record of the entire country, and so that both lay and professional groups in the field of education may have additional avenues for the sharing of experience and the interchange of ideas in the formation of public policy in education.

(4) Facilitate the improvement of state and local educational systems so that all of them will be able to meet adequate and desirable goals in a society which requires continuous qualitative and quantitative advance in educational opportunities, methods and facilities.

(b) It is the policy of this compact to encourage and promote local and state initiative in the development, maintenance, improvement and administration of educational systems and institutions in a manner which will accord with the needs and advantages of diversity among localities and states.

(c) The party states recognize that each of them has an interest in the quality and quantity of education furnished in each of the other states, as well as in the excellence of its own educational systems and institutions, because of the highly mobile character of individuals within the nation, and because the products and services contributing to the health, welfare and economic advancement of each state are supplied in significant part by persons educated in other states.

ARTICLE II

State Defined

As used in this compact, "state" means a state, territory or possession of the United States, the District of Columbia, or the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

ARTICLE III

The Commission

(a) (1) The education commission of the states, hereinafter called the commission is hereby established. The commission shall consist of seven members representing each party state. One of such members shall be the governor; two shall be members of the state legislature selected by its respective houses and, except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph (a), serving in such manner as the legislature may determine; and four shall be appointed by and serve at the pleasure of the governor, unless the laws of the state otherwise provide. If the laws of a state prevent legislators from serving on the commission, six members shall be appointed and serve at the pleasure of the governor, unless the laws of the state otherwise provide. In addition to any other principles or requirements which a state may establish for the appointment and service of its members of the commission, the guiding principle for the composition of the membership on the commission from each party state shall be that the members representing such state shall, by virtue of their training, experience, knowledge or affiliations be in a position collectively to reflect broadly the interests of the state government, higher education, the state education system, local education, lay and professional, public and nonpublic educational leadership. Of those appointees, one shall be the head of a state agency or institution, designated by the governor, having responsibility for one or more programs of public education. In addition to the members of the commission representing the party states, there may be not to exceed ten nonvoting commissioners selected by the steering committee for terms of one year. Such commissioners shall represent leading national organizations of professional educators or persons concerned with educational administration.

(2) The terms of the members of the state legislature who are selected pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph (a) and who are serving on March 22, 2007, shall be extended to and expire on or shall terminate on the convening date of the first regular session of the sixty-seventh general assembly. As soon as practicable after such convening date, the speaker and president shall each appoint or reappoint one member. Thereafter, the terms of members appointed or reappointed by the speaker and the president shall expire on the convening date of the first regular session of each general assembly, and all subsequent appointments and reappointments by the speaker and the president shall be made as soon as practicable after such convening date. The person making the original appointment or reappointment shall fill any vacancy by appointment for the remainder of an unexpired term. Members appointed or reappointed by the speaker and the president shall serve at the pleasure of the appointing authority and shall continue in office until the member's successor is appointed.

(b) The members of the commission shall be entitled to one vote each on the commission. No action of the commission shall be binding unless taken at a meeting at which a majority of the total number of votes on the commission are cast in favor thereof. Action of the commission shall be only at a meeting at which a majority of the commissioners are present. The commission shall meet at least once a year. In its bylaws, and subject to such directions and limitations as may be contained therein, the commission may delegate the exercise of any of its powers to the steering committee or the executive director, except for the power to approve budgets or requests for appropriations, the power to make policy recommendations pursuant to article IV and adoption of the annual report pursuant to article III (j).

(c) The commission shall have a seal.

(d) The commission shall elect annually, from among its members, a chairman, who shall be a governor, a vice-chairman and a treasurer. The commission shall provide for the appointment of an executive director. Such executive director shall serve at the pleasure of the commission, and together with the treasurer and such other personnel as the commission may deem appropriate shall be bonded in such amount as the commission shall determine. The executive director shall be secretary.

(e) Irrespective of the civil service, personnel or other merit system laws of any of the party states, the executive director subject to the approval of the steering committee shall appoint, remove or discharge such personnel as may be necessary for the performance of the functions of the commission, and shall fix the duties and compensation of such personnel. The commission in its bylaws shall provide for the personnel policies and programs of the commission.

(f) The commission may borrow, accept or contract for the services of personnel from any party jurisdiction, the United States, or any subdivision or agency of the aforementioned governments, or from any agency of two or more of the party jurisdictions or their subdivisions.

(g) The commission may accept for any of its purposes and functions under this compact any and all donations, and grants of money, equipment, supplies, materials and services, conditional or otherwise, from any state, the United States, or any other governmental agency, or from any person, firm, association, foundation, or corporation, and may receive, utilize and dispose of the same. Any donation or grant accepted by the commission pursuant to this paragraph or services borrowed pursuant to paragraph (f) of this article shall be reported in the annual report of the commission. Such report shall include the nature, amount and conditions, if any, of the donation, grant, or services borrowed, and the identity of the donor or lender.

(h) The commission may establish and maintain such facilities as may be necessary for the transacting of its business. The commission may acquire, hold, and convey real and personal property and any interest therein.

(i) The commission shall adopt bylaws for the conduct of its business and shall have the power to amend and rescind these bylaws. The commission shall publish its bylaws in convenient form and shall file a copy thereof and a copy of any amendment thereto, with the appropriate agency or officer in each of the party states.

(j) The commission annually shall make to the governor and legislature of each party state a report covering the activities of the commission for the preceding year. The commission may make such additional reports as it may deem desirable.

ARTICLE IV

Powers

In addition to authority conferred on the commission by other provisions of the compact, the commission shall have authority to:

(1) Collect, correlate, analyze and interpret information and data concerning educational needs and resources.

(2) Encourage and foster research in all aspects of education, but with special reference to the desirable scope of instruction, organization, administration, and instructional methods and standards employed or suitable for employment in public educational systems.

(3) Develop proposals for adequate financing of education as a whole and at each of its many levels.

(4) Conduct or participate in research of the types referred to in this article in any instance where the commission finds that such research is necessary for the advancement of the purposes and policies of this compact, utilizing fully the resources of national associations, regional compact organizations for higher education, and other agencies and institutions, both public and private.

(5) Formulate suggested policies and plans for the improvement of public education as a whole, or for any segment thereof, and make recommendations with respect thereto available to the appropriate governmental units, agencies and public officials.

(6) Do such other things as may be necessary or incidental to the administration of any of its authority or functions pursuant to this compact.

Cooperation With Federal Government

(a) If the laws of the United States specifically so provide, or if administrative provision is made therefor within the federal government, the United States may be represented on the commission by not to exceed ten representatives. Any such representative or representatives of the United States shall be appointed and serve in such manner as may be provided by or pursuant to federal law, and may be drawn from any one or more branches of the federal government, but no such representative shall have a vote on the commission.

(b) The commission may provide information and make recommendations to any executive or legislative agency or officer of the federal government concerning the common educational policies of the states, and may advise with any such agencies or officers concerning any matter of mutual interest.

Committees

(a) To assist in the expeditious conduct of its business when the full commission is not meeting, the commission shall elect a steering committee of thirty-two members which, subject to the provisions of this compact and consistent with the policies of the commission, shall be constituted and function as provided in the bylaws of the commission. One-fourth of the voting membership of the steering committee shall consist of governors, one-fourth shall consist of legislators, and the remainder shall consist of other members of the commission. A federal representative on the commission may serve with the steering committee, but without vote. The voting members of the steering committee shall serve for terms of two years, except that members elected to the first steering committee of the commission shall be elected as follows: Sixteen for one year and sixteen for two years. The chairman, vice-chairman, and treasurer of the commission shall be members of the steering committee and, anything in this paragraph to the contrary notwithstanding, shall serve during their continuance in these offices. Vacancies in the steering committee shall not affect its authority to act, but the commission at its next regularly ensuing meeting following the occurrence of any vacancy shall fill it for the unexpired term. No person shall serve more than two terms as a member of the steering committee; provided that service for a partial term of one year or less shall not be counted toward the two term limitation.

(b) The commission may establish advisory and technical committees composed of state, local, and federal officials, and private persons to advise it with respect to any one or more of its functions. Any advisory or technical committee may, on request of the states concerned, be established to consider any matter of special concern to two or more of the party states.

(c) The commission may establish such additional committees as its bylaws may provide.
