24-33.5-1208.5. "Volunteer Fire Department Organization Act" - areas without fire protection - state assistance for creation of volunteer fire departments - eligibility for grants - short title - legislative declaration.

(1) This section shall be known and may be cited as the "Volunteer Fire Department Organization Act".

(2) (a) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that:

(I) While the county sheriff is the fire warden and is responsible for wildland fire in unincorporated areas outside of fire protection districts, there is significant land area in Colorado that does not have organized fire protection;

(II) The existence of areas without organized fire protection adversely impacts adjacent fire protection districts and other entities that provide fire protection and related emergency services; and

(III) Fire prevention, fire suppression, and related emergency services provided by not-for-profit, nongovernmental volunteer fire departments are vital to the protection of the safety of the citizens of the state.

(b) The general assembly therefore:

(I) Finds that it is in the public interest to establish and maintain a complete, cooperative, and coordinated fire protection and suppression program for the state; and

(II) Declares that the purpose of this section is to create a framework for the organization of not-for-profit, nongovernmental volunteer fire departments and to promote, encourage, and support their creation in areas of the state where there is no organized fire protection.

(3) (a) In order to be recognized under this section and be considered in good standing, the volunteer fire department must:

(I) Be organized under and in compliance with the "Colorado Revised Nonprofit Corporation Act", articles 121 to 137 of title 7, C.R.S.; and

(II) Enter into an agreement to provide fire fighting, fire protection, or other emergency services with:

(A) The town, city, county, city and county, fire protection district, metropolitan district, or county improvement district providing fire protection services and having jurisdictional authority over the area the unit services;

(B) The appropriate county sheriff for the unincorporated area of the county outside the boundaries of a fire protection district, metropolitan district, or county improvement district providing fire protection services; or

(C) The division for the detection, prevention, or suppression of forest and range fires where state responsibility has been determined pursuant to section 24-33.5-1221.

(b) (I) At a minimum, the agreement required by subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) must specify the types of services to be provided by the volunteer fire department and the boundaries of its service area.

(II) For volunteer fire departments created prior to March 11, 2015, the agreement required by subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) may be replaced by a letter from the jurisdictional authority recognizing the existence of the volunteer fire department and specifying the boundaries of its service area and the services it provides.

(c) A volunteer fire department shall complete and file with the division a fire department registration form specified by the division within sixty days after January 1, 2016, and annually thereafter. The division may issue a fire department identification number to the volunteer fire department based upon the registration filed under this paragraph (c).

(4) A volunteer fire department recognized under this section and considered in good standing that provides services within a jurisdiction may establish a schedule of charges for the services that the volunteer fire department provides.

(5) A volunteer fire department recognized under this section and considered in good standing may enter into agreements with the state or any political subdivision of the state.

(6) (a) The general assembly intends this subsection (6) to provide the division with a means by which the state can encourage and support the creation of volunteer fire departments in areas of the state where there is no organized fire protection.

(b) A group of individuals wishing to establish a volunteer fire department may petition the director for technical or funding assistance.

(c) Prior to providing assistance in the creation of a new volunteer fire department under this subsection (6), the director shall first consult with local officials and consider the question of the appropriateness and viability of:

(I) Inclusion of the proposed service area into one or more existing fire protection districts or metropolitan districts providing fire protection; and

(II) The provision of fire protection by an adjacent or nearby fire department.

(d) Nothing in this subsection (6) permits state assistance in the creation of a volunteer fire department within the boundaries of a fire protection district, metropolitan district, or county improvement district providing fire protection services without permission from such district.

(e) A volunteer fire department recognized under this section and considered in good standing is eligible to receive state funding assistance, including state grant awards, to the extent that a fire department is eligible, unless specifically excluded.

(7) Nothing in this section prohibits a private entity from organizing, training, or equipping itself as a private fire department or providing fire protection services.

24-33.5-1214. Cigarettes - reduced ignition propensity standards - repeal.

(1) Short title. This section shall be known and may be cited as the "Reduced Cigarette Ignition Propensity Standards and Firefighter Protection Act".

(2) Testing - performance standard.

(a) (I) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (g) of this subsection (2), no cigarettes shall be sold or offered for sale in this state, or offered for sale or sold to persons located in this state, after July 31, 2009, unless:

(A) The cigarettes have been tested in accordance with the test method and meet the performance standard specified in this subsection (2);

(B) A written certification has been filed by the manufacturer with the director in accordance with subsection (3) of this section; and

(C) The cigarettes have been marked in accordance with subsection (4) of this section.

(II) The following conditions shall apply to testing and certification:

(A) Testing of cigarettes shall be conducted in accordance with ASTM international standard E2187-04, "standard test method for measuring the ignition strength of cigarettes".

(B) Testing shall be conducted on ten layers of filter paper.

(C) No more than twenty-five percent of the cigarettes tested in a test trial in accordance with this subsection (2) shall exhibit full-length burns. Forty replicate tests shall constitute a complete test trial for each cigarette tested.

(D) The performance standard required by this subsection (2) shall be applied only to a complete test trial.

(E) Written certifications shall be based upon testing conducted by a laboratory that has been accredited pursuant to standard ISO/IEC 17025 of the international organization for standardization or another comparable accreditation standard specified by the division.

(F) A laboratory conducting testing in accordance with this subsection (2) shall implement a quality control and quality assurance program that includes a procedure that will determine the repeatability of the testing results and limit the repeatability value to no greater than nineteen percent.

(G) This subsection (2) shall not require additional testing of cigarettes that have been tested for other purposes in a manner consistent with this section.

(H) Testing performed or sponsored by the division in order to determine a cigarette's compliance with the performance standard required by this subsection (2) shall be conducted in accordance with this subsection (2).

(b) Each cigarette listed in a certification submitted pursuant to subsection (3) of this section that uses lowered permeability bands in the cigarette paper to achieve compliance with the performance standard set forth in this subsection (2) shall have at least two nominally identical bands on the paper surrounding the tobacco column. At least one complete band shall be located at least fifteen millimeters from the lighting end of the cigarette. For cigarettes on which the bands are positioned by design, there shall be at least two bands fully located at least fifteen millimeters from the lighting end and ten millimeters from the filter end of the tobacco column or ten millimeters from the labeled end of the tobacco column for nonfiltered cigarettes.

(c) A manufacturer of a cigarette that the division determines cannot be tested in accordance with the test method prescribed in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) shall propose a test method and performance standard for the cigarette to the division. Upon approval of the proposed test method and a determination by the division that the performance standard proposed by the manufacturer is equivalent to the performance standard prescribed in subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), the manufacturer may employ such test method and performance standard to certify such cigarette pursuant to this subsection (2). If the division determines that another state has enacted reduced cigarette ignition propensity standards that include a test method and performance standard that are substantially similar to those contained in this subsection (2), and the division finds that the officials responsible for implementing those requirements have approved the proposed alternative test method and performance standard for a particular cigarette proposed by a manufacturer as meeting the reduced cigarette ignition propensity standards of such state's laws or rules under a legal provision comparable to this subsection (2), then the division shall authorize the manufacturer to employ the alternative test method and performance standard to certify such cigarette for sale in Colorado unless the division demonstrates a reasonable basis why the alternative test should not be accepted. All other applicable requirements of this subsection (2) shall apply to the manufacturer.

(d) Each manufacturer shall maintain copies of the reports of all tests conducted on all cigarettes offered for sale for a period of three years and shall make copies of these reports available to the division and the attorney general upon written request. Any manufacturer who fails to make copies of such reports available within sixty days after receiving a written request shall be subject to a civil penalty not to exceed ten thousand dollars for each day after the sixtieth day that the manufacturer does not make such copies available.

(e) The division may adopt a subsequent ASTM international standard test method for measuring the ignition strength of cigarettes upon a finding that such subsequent method does not result in a change in the percentage of full-length burns exhibited by any tested cigarette when compared to the percentage of full-length burns the same cigarette would exhibit when tested in accordance with ASTM international standard E2187-04 and the performance standard in subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2).

(f) On or before June 30, 2012, and on or before June 30 of every third year thereafter, the division shall review the effectiveness of this subsection (2) and report to the general assembly the division's findings and, if appropriate, recommendations for legislation to improve the effectiveness of this section.

(g) The requirements of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) shall not be construed to prohibit:

(I) Wholesale or retail dealers from selling their existing inventory of cigarettes on or after July 31, 2009, if a wholesale or retailer dealer can establish that state tax stamps were affixed to the cigarettes before said date and that the inventory was purchased before said date in comparable quantity to the inventory purchased during the same period of the immediately preceding year; or

(II) The sale of cigarettes solely for the purpose of consumer testing. As used in this subparagraph (II), "consumer testing" means an assessment of cigarettes that is conducted by, or under the control and direction of, a manufacturer for the purpose of evaluating consumer acceptance of such cigarettes, utilizing only the quantity of cigarettes that is reasonably necessary for such assessment.

(h) The division shall implement this section in accordance with the implementation in New York of the New York fire safety standards for cigarettes.

(3) Certification.

(a) Each manufacturer shall submit to the director a written certification attesting that each cigarette listed in the certification:

(I) Has been tested in accordance with subsection (2) of this section; and

(II) Meets the performance standard set forth in subsection (2) of this section.

(b) Each cigarette listed in the certification submitted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) shall be described with the following information:

- (I) Brand or trade name on the package;
- (II) Style, such as light or ultra light;
- (III) Length in millimeters;
- (IV) Circumference in millimeters;
- (V) Flavor, such as menthol or chocolate if applicable;
- (VI) Filter or nonfilter;
- (VII) Package description, such as soft pack or box;
- (VIII) Marking pursuant to subsection (4) of this section;
- (IX) The name, address, and telephone number of the laboratory that conducted the tests, if different from that of the manufacturer; and
- (X) The date that the testing occurred.

(c) Certifications under this subsection (3) shall be made available to the attorney general for purposes consistent with this section and to the department of revenue for the purpose of ensuring compliance with this subsection (3).

(d) Each cigarette certified under this subsection (3) shall be subject to recertification every three years.

(e) At the time it submits a written certification under this subsection (3), a manufacturer shall pay to the department of public safety a fee of one thousand dollars for each brand family of cigarettes listed in the certification. The fee paid shall apply to all cigarettes within the brand family certified and shall include any new cigarette certified within the brand family during the three-year certification period.

(f) There is hereby established, in the state treasury, the reduced cigarette ignition propensity standards and firefighter protection act enforcement fund, also referred to in this section as the "fund". The fund shall consist of all certification fees and civil penalties collected pursuant to this section and shall, in addition to any other moneys made available for such purpose, be available to the division to support processing, testing, enforcement, and oversight activities under this section. Any moneys in the fund in excess of the amounts needed for such purposes may be used by the division, subject to annual appropriation, for fire safety and prevention programs, including without limitation firefighter training and certification.

(g) If a manufacturer has certified a cigarette pursuant to this subsection (3), and thereafter makes any change to such cigarette that is likely to alter its compliance with the reduced cigarette ignition propensity standard required by this section, such cigarette shall not be sold or offered for sale in this state until the manufacturer retests the cigarette in accordance with the testing standards set forth in subsection (2) of this section and maintains records of the retesting as required by said subsection (2). Any altered cigarette that does not meet the performance standard set forth in said subsection (2) may not be sold in this state.

(4) Labeling.

(a) Effective July 31, 2009, cigarettes that are certified by a manufacturer in accordance with subsection (3) of this section shall be marked to indicate compliance with the requirements of this section. Such marking shall be in eight-point type or larger and shall consist of one or more of the following:

(I) Modification of the package's UPC symbol to include a visible mark printed at or around the area of the UPC symbol. The mark may consist of alphanumeric or symbolic characters permanently stamped, engraved, embossed, or printed in conjunction with the UPC symbol.

(II) Any visible combination of alphanumeric or symbolic characters permanently stamped, engraved, embossed, or printed on the cigarette package or cellophane wrap; or

(III) Stamped, engraved, embossed, or printed text that indicates that the cigarettes meet the standards of this section.

(b) A manufacturer shall use only one marking and shall apply the marking uniformly to all brands and packages, including but not limited to packs, cartons, and cases, marketed by the manufacturer.

(c) The manufacturer shall notify the division as to the marking selected by the manufacturer.

(d) Prior to the certification of any cigarette, the manufacturer shall present its proposed marking to the division, which shall have discretion to approve or disapprove the marking; except that:

(I) The division shall approve:

(A) Any marking in use and approved for sale in New York pursuant to the New York fire safety standards for cigarettes; or

(B) The letters "FSC", signifying "fire standards compliant", appearing in eight-point type or larger and permanently stamped, engraved, embossed, or printed on the package at or near the UPC symbol; and

(II) Proposed markings shall be deemed approved if the division fails to act within ten business days after receiving a request for approval.

(e) A manufacturer shall not modify its approved marking unless the modification has been approved by the division in accordance with this subsection (4).

(f) Manufacturers certifying cigarettes in accordance with subsection (3) of this section shall provide a copy of the certifications to all wholesale dealers and agents to which they sell cigarettes and shall also provide sufficient copies of an illustration of the package marking utilized by the manufacturer pursuant to this subsection (4) for each retail dealer to which the wholesale dealers or agents sell cigarettes. Wholesale dealers and agents shall provide copies of these package markings received from manufacturers to all retail dealers to which they sell cigarettes. Wholesale dealers, agents, and retail dealers shall permit the director, the department of revenue, the attorney general, and employees thereof to inspect markings of cigarette packaging marked in accordance with this subsection (4).

(5) Penalties - forfeiture. Effective July 31, 2009:

(a) A manufacturer, wholesale dealer, agent, or other person or entity who knowingly sells or offers to sell cigarettes, other than at retail, in violation of subsection (2) of this section shall be subject to a civil penalty not to exceed one hundred dollars for each pack of such cigarettes sold or offered for sale; except that the penalty against any such person or entity shall not exceed one hundred thousand dollars during any thirty-day period.

(b) A retail dealer who knowingly sells or offers to sell cigarettes in violation of subsection (2) of this section shall be subject to a civil penalty not to exceed one hundred dollars for each pack of such cigarettes sold or offered for sale; except that the penalty against any such retail dealer shall not exceed twenty-five thousand dollars for sales or offers to sell during any thirty-day period.

(c) In addition to any other penalty prescribed by law, a corporation, partnership, sole proprietor, limited partnership, or association engaged in the manufacture of cigarettes that knowingly makes a false certification pursuant to subsection (3) of this section shall be subject to a civil penalty of at least seventy-five thousand dollars, not to exceed two hundred fifty thousand dollars for each such false certification.

(d) A person who violates any provision of this section for which a penalty is not specifically provided shall be subject to a civil penalty of up to one thousand dollars for a first violation and up to five thousand dollars for a second or subsequent violation.

(e) Cigarettes that have been sold or offered for sale and that do not comply with the performance standard required by subsection (2) of this section shall be subject to forfeiture as provided in the "Colorado Contraband Forfeiture Act", part 5 of article 13 of title 16, C.R.S. Cigarettes forfeited pursuant to this paragraph (e) shall be destroyed; except that, before such destruction, the true holder of the trademark rights in the cigarette brand shall be permitted to inspect the cigarettes if desired.

(f) In addition to any other remedy provided by law, the director or the attorney general may file an action in district court for a violation of this section, including petitioning for injunctive relief or to recover any costs or damages suffered by the state and enforcement costs, including attorney fees, relating to the specific violation. Each violation of this section or of rules adopted under this section constitutes a separate civil violation for which the director or attorney general may obtain relief under this paragraph (f).

(g) Whenever a law enforcement officer or duly authorized agent of the director discovers cigarettes that have not been marked as required by subsection (4) of this section, such officer or agent is hereby authorized and empowered to seize and take possession of such cigarettes. Such cigarettes shall be turned over to the department of revenue and shall be forfeited to the state. Cigarettes seized pursuant to this paragraph (g) shall be destroyed; except that, before such destruction, the true holder of the trademark rights in the cigarette brand shall be permitted to inspect the cigarettes if desired.

(6) Rules.

(a) The director may promulgate rules in accordance with the "State Administrative Procedure Act", article 4 of this title, as necessary to administer this section.

(b) The department of revenue, in the regular course of conducting inspections of wholesale dealers, agents, and retail dealers as authorized by law, may inspect cigarettes to determine whether the cigarettes are marked as required by subsection (4) of this section. If the cigarettes are not marked as required, the department of revenue shall notify the division.

(7) Enforcement. To enforce this section, the attorney general, the department of revenue, the division, all duly authorized employees and agents thereof, and all law enforcement personnel are hereby authorized to examine the books, papers, invoices, and other records of any person in possession, control, or occupancy of any premises where cigarettes are placed, stored, sold, or offered for sale, as well as any cigarettes on the premises. Every person in the possession, control, or occupancy of any premises where cigarettes are placed, stored, sold, or offered for sale is hereby directed and required to give the attorney general, the department of revenue, the division, all duly authorized employees and agents thereof, and all law enforcement personnel the means, facilities, and opportunity for the examinations authorized by this subsection (7).

(8) Exceptions. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit any person or entity from manufacturing or selling cigarettes that do not meet the requirements of subsection (2) of this section if:

(a) The cigarettes are or will be stamped for sale in another state or are packaged for sale outside the United States; and

(b) The person or entity has taken reasonable steps to ensure that such cigarettes will not be sold or offered for sale to persons located in Colorado.

(a) The general assembly intends that this section shall cease to be effective upon the effective date of a federal reduced cigarette ignition propensity standard that preempts this section. The division, upon receiving notice of the effectiveness of such federal standard, shall forward such notice to the revisor of statutes.

(b) This section is repealed, effective 12:01 a.m. the day after the revisor of statutes receives notice from the division as described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (9).

(c) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the local governmental units of this state may neither enact nor enforce any ordinance or other local law or rule conflicting with, or preempted by, any provision of this section or with any policy of this state expressed by this section.

All moneys in the fund are continuously appropriated to the division to be used for the purposes set forth in section 24-33.5-1216. (1) The division shall collaborate with the state board for community colleges and occupational education created in section 23-60-104 (1)(b), C.R.S., and the board of the trustees for each local community college as specified in section 23-71-122, C.R.S., to develop a system to provide a tuition voucher for three credits per academic year to a qualified volunteer firefighter who is a full-time or part-time student at an institution in the state system of community and technical colleges or a local community college and who agrees to serve as a volunteer firefighter for no less than four years after completing his or her education at the institution.

(2) For purposes of this section, "local community college" includes Aims community college and Colorado mountain college.

(3) The division shall fund the tuition vouchers specified in subsection (1) of this section from the volunteer firefighter tuition voucher fund created in section 24-33.5-1215; except that, if the volunteer firefighter tuition voucher fund does not have sufficient moneys to fund the tuition vouchers, the division may use any existing appropriation.

24-33.5-1217. Prescribed burning program - training and certification of certified burners - rules - fees.

(1) The director shall establish training and certification standards for users of prescribed fire in consultation with the Colorado prescribed fire council or an analogous successor organization. The director may also consult with local fire jurisdictions.

(2) The training and certification standards adopted under this section must:

(a) Create certified burner and noncertified burner designations for users of prescribed fire on private and nonfederal land;

(b) Establish requirements for certified burners to conduct lawful activities pursuant to authorization under section 18-13-109 (2)(b)(IV), regarding firing of woods or prairie;

(c) Identify processes and procedures for certified burners to conduct a prescribed fire;

(d) Recommend organizational structures for prescribed burn operations;

(e) Establish training standards for certified burners and utilize all means available to make the certified burner training as accessible as possible;

(f) Clearly identify preexisting fees, permit requirements, liabilities, liability exemptions, and penalties for prescribed burn personnel and landowners, including those specified in sections 25-7-106 (7) and (8) and 25-7-123; and

(g) Allow for an individual who meets the reciprocity requirements described in subsection (2.5) of this section to apply for and receive a state certification number.

(2.5) (a) An individual who meets the reciprocity requirements described in this subsection (2.5) may qualify for certification as a certified burner.

(b) To receive a valid certification number from the division, the individual must:

(I) Apply for certification to the division, according to the rules and standards of the division, including the payment of any associated fee; and

(II) Submit evidence to the division, according to the rules and standards of the division, that the individual holds a valid certification from a state government or other entity.

(3) (a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, on and after December 1, 2013, a prescribed fire must be attended by a person certified by the division pursuant to this section and rules promulgated thereto or otherwise authorized under section 24-33.5-1217.5 (1)(c).

(b) (I) Nothing in this section requires a private landowner to be certified by the division as a certified burner or qualified by national wildfire coordinating group standards as a prescribed burn boss to conduct prescribed fire on the landowner's own property.

(II) A private landowner or the landowner's designee who is certified by the division as a certified burner or qualified by national wildfire coordinating group standards as a prescribed burn boss is not liable for any civil damages for acts or omissions made in good faith resulting in damage or injury caused by fire or smoke resulting from prescribed burns they conduct on the landowner's own property and in compliance with applicable state laws and local ordinances, unless such private landowner's or designee's acts or omissions are grossly negligent or willful and wanton.

(III) Nothing in this section exempts private landowners from complying with any other applicable local, state, or federal requirements pertaining to open burning.

(4) The director, by rule, may establish a fee at an amount not to exceed the amount required to recover all direct costs that the division incurs in providing training to and processing applications for persons seeking certification as certified burners pursuant to this section. Any fees so collected shall be deposited into the firefighter, first responder, hazardous materials responder, and prescribed fire training and certification fund created in section 24-33.5-1207.

(5) (a) The director, in consultation with the Colorado state forest service described in part 3 of article 31 of title 23 and in accordance with article 4 of this title 24:

(I) May adopt any such rules as the director deems necessary to administer the prescribed burning program within the division; and

(II) Shall adopt rules and standards:

(A) Pertaining to the training and certification of certified burners, including training components; application processes; qualification for and terms and durations of certification, including through reciprocity; types of certification, if applicable; grounds and processes for renewal, suspension, and revocation of certifications; and training, certification, and renewal fees; and

(B) For the use of prescribed burning occurring on state lands or conducted by state agencies on private lands, pursuant to section 24-33.5-1217.5.

(b) The rules and standards promulgated pursuant to sub-subparagraph (B) of subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) constitute the minimum standards for all prescribed burning conducted in the state, except for prescribed burning conducted by an agency of the federal government. To be exempt from these standards, other users of prescribed fire, including local governments and nongovernmental organizations must adopt or have already adopted guidelines or standards that are in substantial compliance with the intent of section 24-33.5-1217.5 for prescribed burning under their control.

(6) (a) Subject to the provisions of paragraph (c) of this subsection (6), the director may enter into an agreement with an owner or other person having legal control of property, including a public agency with regulatory or natural resource management authority over any such property, for the use of prescribed burning consistent with this article to prevent high-intensity wildland fires by reducing the volume and continuity of wildland fuels or to achieve other goals, including forest improvement, consistent with this article.

(b) The director shall not enter into an agreement for prescribed burning pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (6) unless the director first determines that the property owner or other person having legal control of the property has both evaluated all alternatives to prescribed burning and concluded that prescribed burning is an appropriate hazardous fuel reduction method for the property.

(c) Nothing in this section compels any person to enter into an agreement with the director.

(d) (I) Where an agency of the federal government assumes primary responsibility for conducting a prescribed burn in the state, neither the agency nor any other agency of the federal government is required to comply with the rules and standards promulgated pursuant to sub-subparagraph (B) of subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of subsection (5) of this section.

(II) If the director has entered into an agreement with an agency of the federal government as of May 23, 2013, of the type described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (6), nothing in this section shall be construed to require a new agreement or modification of an existing agreement.

(7) (a) The division shall cooperate with and provide advisory services to any person desiring to use prescribed burning, the objective of which is the prevention of high-intensity wildland fires, watershed management, vegetation management, forest improvement, wildlife habitat improvement, or any other objective that is deemed to be in the public interest, or any combination of such objectives.

(b) The division shall provide information and technical assistance to units of local government, upon request from the local government, concerning prescribed burning.

(c) The division may provide standby fire protection to any person using prescribed burning in a manner deemed to be in the public interest, to such extent as personnel, fire crews, and firefighting equipment are requested and available.

(8) The division shall, subject to sufficient funding, institute a public information campaign to promote to the general public the benefits of prescribed burning.

(9) Nothing in this article grants the division authority over any hazardous fuel reduction other than prescribed burning. Forest health, forest improvement, vegetation and watershed management, and hazardous fuel reduction other than prescribed burning remain responsibilities vested in the state forest service.

(10) Notwithstanding any other provision of law:

(a) In performing the duties assigned to the director under subsections (5) and (6) of this section, the director shall consult with the Colorado state forest service as described in part 3 of article 31 of title 23.

(b) The prescribed burning standards adopted by the director pursuant to subsection (5)(a)(II)(B) of this section must be consistent with existing laws and processes that ban, regulate, or have developed recommendations concerning open burning, including sections 18-13-109, 18-13-109.5, 23-31-312, 23-31-313 (6)(a)(II) and (6)(a)(III), 25-7-106 (7) and (8), 25-7-123, 29-20-105.5, and 30-11-124.

(c) Nothing in this section or section 24-33.5-1217.5 or 24-33.5-1217.7 affects the authority of a county government to develop or administer an open burning permit system for the purpose of safely disposing of slash in accordance with the provisions of section 30-15-401 (1)(n.5).

(11) Except as otherwise provided for the fees established and collected pursuant to subsection (4) of this section, all moneys received by the division pursuant to this section shall be credited to the wildland fire cost recovery fund created in section 24-33.5-1220 (4).

24-33.5-1217.3. Authority to permit controlled burns during drought conditions - civil - criminal.

The division may provide written authority to persons seeking to conduct prescribed or controlled fires, such as grassland, forest, or habitat management activities, during drought conditions as specified in section 13-21-105 (2) or 18-13-109 (2)(b)(III), C.R.S. In issuing written authority for prescribed or controlled fires, the division shall conform to and shall not supersede any state or local bans on fires.

24-33.5-1217.5. Minimum prescribed burning standards.

(1) The prescribed burning standards adopted by the director pursuant to section 24-33.5-1217(5)(a)(II)(B) must, at a minimum:

(a) Ensure that prescribed burning is the controlled application of fire to vegetative fuels under specified environmental conditions in accordance with a written prescription plan, which plan:

(I) Is designed to confine the fire to a predetermined area;

(II) Is designed to accomplish planned land management objectives, as those objectives are determined by the property owner or natural resource management authority; and

(III) Conforms to this article and the rules and standards adopted in accordance with this article;

(b) Include information on planning, preparing, and implementing safe, effective prescribed burning, which information:

(I) Is based on the "interagency prescribed fire planning and implementation procedures guide", as amended, published by the national wildfire coordinating group, or by any successor group; and

(II) Contains specific criteria with respect to masticated fuels;

(c) Require at least one person, who must be qualified by national wildfire coordinating group standards as a prescribed burn boss at the level commensurate with the complexity of the burn, to be present on site:

(I) During the conduct of the prescribed burn; and

(II) (A) Until the fire is adequately confined to reasonably prevent escape of the fire from the area intended to be burned; or

(B) Until the prescribed burning is completed and all fire is declared to be out;

(d) Establish appropriate guidelines sufficient to:

(I) Conduct the burn in accordance with the prescription plan; and

(II) Provide adequate protection for the safety of persons and of adjacent property;

(e) Evaluate alternatives to prescribed burning, such as mechanical treatment, and guide the user through the safe and prudent application of prescribed burning, when it is determined to be an appropriate method; and

(f) Set forth requirements for record keeping; public information campaigns; and timely notice of prescribed burning to adjacent landowners, local authorities, and, to the extent practicable, potentially affected neighbors.

(2) All users of prescribed fire shall comply with the applicable provisions of the "Colorado Air Pollution Prevention and Control Act", part 1 of article 7 of title 25, C.R.S., and its implementing regulations, and shall obtain a permit for prescribed fire pursuant to section 25-7-123, C.R.S.

(3) The rules and standards adopted by the director must be promulgated in consultation with the Colorado state forest service as described in part 3 of article 31 of title 23, C.R.S., the Colorado prescribed fire council, or an analogous successor organization, and other subject matter experts as the director deems appropriate. In promulgating such rules and standards, the director shall consider the current state of research and best management practices for prescribed burning.

24-33.5-1217.7. Escaped prescribed fires.

(1) If a prescribed fire exceeds the control capability of on-site resources, the fire is deemed to be escaped, and suppression actions shall be taken immediately to bring the escape under control.

(2) The division shall conduct or cause to be conducted a formal review following escape of a prescribed fire. The purpose of the review is to identify the factors that contributed to the escape, including compliance with policy requirements, in an effort to reduce the occurrence or prevent future escapes.

(3) Wildfires burning uncontrolled on forested, brush, or grassland areas that pose a hazard to life and property constitute a public nuisance. Employees or agents of the division have the right to enter land to control, suppress, or investigate wildfires without liability for trespass.

(4) In order to prevent high-intensity or catastrophic wildland fires, local, state, or federal firefighters may enter lands and construct fire lines or fire breaks to prevent further spread of wildfires, without liability for trespass.

In connection with its powers and duties concerning the protection of the forest lands of the state from fire, the division may cooperate and coordinate with the United States forest service, the United States secretary of the interior, the United States secretary of agriculture, the state board of land commissioners, and the counties for such protection and may advise and aid in preventing forest fires on state and private lands in the national forests in the state, including coordinating with the United States secretary of the interior and the United States secretary of agriculture to develop management plans for federal lands within the state of Colorado pursuant to 16 U.S.C. sec. 530, 16 U.S.C. sec. 1604, and 43 U.S.C. sec. 1712; but nothing contained in this section shall be construed as transferring to the division the duties or responsibilities of the sheriffs of the various counties with respect to forest fire control laws.

The fund consists of all moneys that may be appropriated thereto by the general assembly and all private and public funds, including from counties and the Denver water board, received through gifts, grants, reimbursements, or donations that are transmitted to the state treasurer and credited to the fund. All interest earned from the investment of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund. The moneys in the fund are hereby continuously appropriated for the purposes indicated in this section. (4) (a) There is hereby created in the state treasury the wildland fire cost recovery fund, to be administered by the division for personnel and operating expenses associated with wildland fire suppression activities. The division is authorized to seek and accept gifts, grants, reimbursements, or donations from private or public sources for the purposes of this subsection (4). The fund consists of all moneys recovered for the division's expenditures for wildland fire suppression, moneys that may be appropriated thereto by the general assembly, and all private and public funds, including from counties and the Denver water board, received through gifts, grants, reimbursements, or donations that are transmitted to the state treasurer and credited to the fund. The fund is noninterest-bearing. The moneys in the fund are hereby continuously appropriated for the purposes set forth in this subsection (4). 24-33.5-1221. State responsibility - determination by the director - intergovernmental agreements required - terms included - definitions - legislative declaration.

(1) The director shall determine, in consultation with local authorities and with the approval of the governor, geographic areas of the state, including wildland-urban interface areas, in which the state has a financial responsibility for managing forest and wildland fires. The management of fires in all other areas is primarily the responsibility of local or federal agencies, as the case may be. The director may exclude all lands owned or controlled by the federal government or any agency thereof, and the director shall exclude all lands within the exterior boundaries of incorporated cities or towns.

(2) (a) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that:

(I) Because wildland fires so often traverse the territorial boundaries of political subdivisions, the full cooperation of governmental entities within whose territorial boundaries forest lands, rangelands, or wildland areas are located is necessary to ensure adequate protection against those fires;

(II) Because wildland fires cross territorial boundaries, particularly if cooperative fire mitigation policies are not established and maintained, protecting the public from the dangers of such fires, especially fires occurring in wildland-urban interface areas, is a necessary endeavor and a matter of statewide concern; and

(III) This subsection (2) is enacted for the purpose of requiring intergovernmental cooperation between a county and any state agency that owns wildland areas located within the county to mitigate the harm caused by wildland fires affecting land areas in the interest of protecting the public health and safety.

(b) As used in this subsection (2), unless the context otherwise requires:

(I) "Forest land" means land of which at least ten percent is stocked by forest trees of any size and includes land that formerly had such tree cover and that will be naturally or artificially regenerated. "Forest land" includes roadside, streamside, and shelterbelt strips of timber that have a crown width of at least one hundred twenty feet. "Forest land" includes unimproved roads and trails, streams, and clearings that are less than one hundred twenty feet wide.

(II) "Rangeland" means an expanse of land that is unforested and on which it is suitable for livestock to wander and graze.

(III) "State agency" has the meaning set forth in section 24-18-102.

(IV) "Wildland area" means an area in which development is essentially nonexistent, except for roads, railroads, power lines, and similar infrastructure, and in which structures, if present, are widely scattered.

(V) "Wildland fire" means an unplanned or unwanted fire in a forest land, rangeland, or wildland area, including an unauthorized human-caused fire, an out-of-control prescribed fire, and any other fire in a forest land, rangeland, or wildland area where the objective is to extinguish the fire.

(c) (I) (A) On or before January 1, 2017, each state agency that owns any land constituting forest land, rangeland, or wildland area shall enter into an intergovernmental agreement with each county in which the land is located to mitigate wildland fires affecting the land areas of the state agency and county. In making such intergovernmental agreement, the parties to the agreement shall consult with any utility providers that have facilities in the areas subject to the agreements to the extent that the agreements will affect the providers.

(B) Sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I) does not apply to rights-of-way, conservation easements, or state trust lands. However, the department of natural resources and the state land board shall evaluate the feasibility of entering into intergovernmental agreements similar to those required under sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I) for state trust lands. Prior to September 1, 2014, the department of natural resources shall report to the wildfire matters review committee created in section 2-3-1602, C.R.S., regarding any conclusions reached subsequent to this evaluation, including reasonable alternatives to address wildland fire mitigation and suppression costs with counties in which state trust lands are located.

(II) Any agreement required by subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c) must address the following matters:

(A) The identification of all parties to the agreement and their respective roles and responsibilities regarding the mitigation and management of wildland fires;

(B) The procedures for cooperation and coordination among the parties to the agreement;

(C) Management objectives for forest land and wildland fire prevention, preparedness, mitigation, suppression, reclamation, or rehabilitation, and the designation of the state agency with fiscal and operational authority for each objective;

(D) A description of available emergency or mutual aid resources in the event of wildland fires;

(E) Identification of the party or parties responsible for paying the costs of suppression of wildfires occurring on state-owned lands;

(F) The specification that reimbursement and billing procedures will be handled through the division's existing billing process; and

(G) Action that may be undertaken by one party to the agreement if another party to the agreement fails to satisfy its duties or responsibilities under the agreement.

(d) The agreement required under paragraph (c) of this subsection (2) must be executed by all parties to the agreement.

(e) Nothing in this subsection (2) alters or affects the manner in which suppression costs are handled:

(I) During an agreed-upon mutual aid period; or

24-33.5-1225. Emergencies.

When the governor finds that conditions of extreme fire hazard exist, he or she may by proclamation close such land as he or she may find to be in such condition of extreme hazard to the general public and prohibit or limit burning thereon to such a degree and in such ways as he or she deems necessary to reduce the danger of forest fire. The governor shall declare the end of any such emergency only upon a finding that the conditions of extreme fire hazard no longer exist.

24-33.5-1226. Wildfire emergency response fund - creation - gifts, grants, and donations authorized - rules.

(1) (a) There is hereby created in the state treasury the wildfire emergency response fund, which fund shall be administered by the division. The division is authorized to seek and accept gifts, grants, reimbursements, or donations from private or public sources for the purposes of this section. The fund consists of all moneys that may be appropriated thereto by the general assembly, any moneys transferred to the fund by the state treasurer pursuant to section 24-33.5-706 (4.5) or transferred pursuant to section 10-3-209 (4), C.R.S., and all private and public funds received through gifts, grants, reimbursements, or donations that are transmitted to the state treasurer and credited to the fund. All interest earned from the investment of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund. The moneys in the fund are hereby continuously appropriated for the purposes indicated in this section. Any moneys not expended at the end of the fiscal year remain in the fund and do not transfer or revert to the general fund.

(b) The general assembly finds that the implementation of this section does not rely on the receipt of adequate funding through gifts, grants, or donations. Therefore, the notice requirements specified in section 24-75-1303 (3) are inapplicable to the wildfire emergency response fund.

(2) At a minimum, the division shall use the moneys in the wildfire emergency response fund to provide funding or reimbursement for:

(a) The first aerial tanker flight or the first hour of a firefighting helicopter operating on a wildfire at the request of any county sheriff, municipal fire department, or fire protection district; and

(b) The employment of wildfire hand crews to fight a wildfire for the first two days of a wildfire at the request of any county sheriff, municipal fire department, or fire protection district, with a preference for the use of wildfire hand crews from the inmate disaster relief program created in section 17-24-124, C.R.S.

(2.5) In addition to any other purpose for the use of money in the wildfire emergency response fund specified in this section, the division may use money in the fund to provide wildfire suppression assistance to county sheriffs, municipal fire departments, or fire protection districts throughout the state at no cost to such entities pursuant to annual guidelines published by the division in the wildfire preparedness plan required by section 24-33.5-1227 (2)(a).

(3) On an annual basis, the governor may authorize the division to increase the use of the wildfire emergency response fund to provide funding or reimbursement for additional aerial tanker flights or additional usage of wildfire hand crews to fight a wildfire. The director shall include a request for such authorization in, and in accordance with, the annual wildfire preparedness plan recommendations developed pursuant to section 24-33.5-1227 (2).

(4) Nothing in this section precludes or prevents the governor, in his or her discretion, from authorizing additional increases or decreasing the use of the wildfire emergency response fund if the actual wildfire situation is more or less severe than anticipated at the time the wildfire preparedness plan required under section 24-33.5-1227 (2) was prepared.

(5) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2013.)

(6) (a) On June 15, 2021, if possible, or as soon as possible thereafter, the state treasurer shall transfer six hundred thousand dollars from the wildfire preparedness fund created in section 24-33.5-1227 and one million two hundred thousand dollars from the Colorado firefighting air corps fund created in section 24-33.5-1228 to the wildfire emergency response fund.

(b) On July 1, 2021, the state treasurer shall transfer six hundred thousand dollars from the wildfire preparedness fund created in section 24-33.5-1227 and one million two hundred thousand dollars from the Colorado firefighting air corps fund created in section 24-33.5-1228 to the wildfire emergency response fund.

All interest earned from the investment of money in the fund shall be credited to the fund. The money in the fund is hereby continuously appropriated for the purposes indicated in this section. Any money not expended at the end of the fiscal year shall remain in the fund and shall not be transferred to or revert to the general fund.

(II) On July 1, 2017, and July 1, 2018, the state treasurer shall transfer eighty-six thousand three hundred sixty-four dollars from the general fund to the wildfire preparedness fund.

(III) On March 21, 2021, the state treasurer shall transfer three million dollars from the general fund to the wildfire preparedness fund.

(b) By executive order or proclamation, the governor may access and designate money in the wildfire preparedness fund for wildfire preparedness activities; except that money in the wildfire preparedness fund that has been transferred from the healthy forests and vibrant communities fund created in section 23-31-313 (10) may be used only for the purposes set forth in subsection (1)(c)(II) of this section, and except as set forth in subsection (1)(c)(IV) of this section. The division shall implement the directives set forth in such executive order or proclamation. As soon as practicable after issuing the executive order or proclamation, the governor shall notify the joint budget committee of any money so accessed and designated.

(c) (I) Except as provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (c), the division may use the moneys in the wildfire preparedness fund to provide funding or reimbursement for the purchase of fire shelters by volunteer fire departments in order to comply with applicable federal requirements.

(II) The division shall use money in the wildfire preparedness fund transferred from the healthy forests and vibrant communities fund created in section 23-31-313 (10) to:

(A) Increase upgrades to fire engines acquired through the federal excess personal property program that are on loan to local fire departments;

(B) Increase technical assistance in wildland fire preparedness to counties, municipalities, and fire protection districts; and

(C) Ensure, in conjunction with the wildfire preparedness plan developed pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, that state firefighting equipment is fully operational and both available to and coordinated with the equipment capacities of fire protection districts and that county, municipality, and fire protection districts personnel are fully trained in the use of such equipment.

(III) The division may use moneys in the wildfire preparedness fund for the purpose of training, equipping, or supervising one or more hand crews employed by veterans' fire corps programs in Colorado for wildland fire mitigation and suppression.

(IV) The division of homeland security and emergency management shall use the money transferred to the wildfire preparedness fund in accordance with subsection (1)(a)(III) of this section:

(A) As the state match for federal hazard mitigation assistance grants to local governments that are used to mitigate wildland fire hazards; and

(B) To provide local governments that are eligible to receive the federal grants specified in subsection (1)(c)(IV)(A) of this section with strategic planning assistance for wildland fire hazard mitigation.

(d) The general assembly finds that the implementation of this section does not rely on the receipt of adequate funding through gifts, grants, or donations. Therefore, the notice requirements specified in section 24-75-1303 (3) are inapplicable to the wildfire preparedness fund.

(1.5) (a) At the end of any state fiscal year commencing with the 2022 state fiscal year, the state treasurer shall transfer any money in the aviation resources line of the annual general appropriation act for that same state fiscal year that would otherwise revert to the general fund into the wildfire preparedness fund created in subsection (1)(a) of this section. Money transferred by the state treasurer into the wildfire preparedness fund in accordance with this subsection (1.5)(a) must be used for the purpose of traditional mitigation efforts including but not limited to maintaining staff and necessary equipment for prescribed fire projects; mechanical and other fuels treatment projects; project planning, coordination, and agreements; and community assistance and planning efforts. As long as money transferred into the wildfire preparedness fund pursuant to this subsection (1.5)(a) is being expended for one of the purposes specified in this subsection (1.5)(a), the division may allocate the money to any such purpose as will maximize the impact of such funding as the division may determine in its sole discretion.

(b) Not less than once every three years commencing January 15, 2025, the division shall report to the joint budget committee concerning the amount of money transferred into the wildfire preparedness fund pursuant to subsection (1.5)(a) of this section during the prior three-year period, the amount expended by the division from the money transferred into it, and the purposes for which the money has been expended.

(2) (a) To effectively implement section 24-33.5-1226 and to provide recommendations to the governor related to use of the disaster emergency fund pursuant to section 24-33.5-706 and the wildfire preparedness fund created in subsection (1) of this section, the director, a representative of the county sheriffs of Colorado, a representative of the Colorado state fire chiefs' association, the director of the office of emergency management created in part 7 of this article, and the adjutant general or his or her designee shall collaborate to develop a wildfire preparedness plan designed to address the following:

(I) The amount of aerial firefighting resources necessary for the state of Colorado at times of high and low wildfire risk;

(II) The availability of appropriate aerial firefighting equipment and personnel at times of high fire risk to respond to a wildfire;

(III) The availability of state wildfire engines and staffing of the engines at different levels of wildfire risk;

(IV) The availability of wildfire hand crews, including state inmate wildfire hand crews, at different levels of wildfire risk; and

(V) A process for ordering and dispatching aerial firefighting equipment and personnel that is consistent with, and supportive of, the statewide all-hazards resource mobilization plan prepared pursuant to section 24-33.5-705.4.

(b) The wildfire preparedness plan recommendations developed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) shall be updated each March 15. Notwithstanding section 24-1-136 (11), the director shall submit a written report of the wildfire preparedness plan to the governor and the members of the general assembly no later than each April 1.

(c) The director, the representative of the county sheriffs of Colorado, the representative of the Colorado state fire chiefs' association, the director of the office of emergency management created in part 7 of this article, and the adjutant general or his or her designee shall not receive additional compensation for the collaboration required by this subsection (2) for the development of the wildfire preparedness plan.

(3) The director may enter into agreements to provide firefighting services, including personnel or firefighting aircraft, engines, or other vehicles to federal, state, or local agencies. Any moneys received pursuant to such agreements shall be credited to the wildland fire cost recovery fund created in section 24-33.5-1220 (4).

(1) There is hereby created in the division the Colorado firefighting air corps, also referred to in this section as the "C-FAC".

(2) (a) The division may:

(I) Purchase, acquire, lease, or contract for the provision of firefighting aircraft, facilities, equipment, and supplies for aerial firefighting; and

(II) Retrofit, maintain, staff, operate, and support the firefighting aircraft or contract for the provision of those services.

(b) (I) The director may enter into agreements with federal agencies or other states for the provision of the C-FAC's firefighting aircraft when the aircraft are not being utilized for fires or other emergencies in Colorado.

(II) The director shall establish reimbursement rates for the direct and indirect costs of providing aircraft from the C-FAC that are requested through the interagency dispatch system or pursuant to an agreement described in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b). All reimbursements shall be credited to the Colorado firefighting air corps fund created in subsection (3) of this section.

(c) The director may fulfill any of the duties contained in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) through the use of public-private partnerships with one or more private or public entities.

(2.5) (a) Within eighteen months after May 12, 2014, the division shall operate a center of excellence for advanced technology aerial firefighting, also referred to in this section as the "center of excellence", based on the innovations proposed, analyzed, reviewed, evaluated, or implemented by the C-FAC in the technology, tactics, and economics of aerial resources, particularly in connection with the activities described in subparagraphs (I) and (II) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section. The executive director shall include in his or her annual report required under section 2-7-203, C.R.S., an update regarding the center of excellence, including the center's activities, findings, and needs.

(b) The center of excellence shall perform, but is not limited to, the following functions:

(I) Serve as an integrated repository for science-based evaluation of the three fundamental contributing factors to successful aerial firefighting: Effectiveness, efficiency, and sustainability;

(II) Review current regular research and assessment projects to evaluate:

(A) New and existing technologies for integration into tactical fire scenarios in a variety of settings, such as initial attack, night operations, and operations in wildland urban interface areas; and

(B) Sustainable contracting and value propositions to determine which technologies and contract vehicles are most advantageous and cost-effective to entities performing or providing aerial firefighting;

(III) Review current data and documentation on science and technology relevant to aerial firefighting and make the results of the center of excellence's research and assessment projects available to persons interested in aerial firefighting effectiveness, efficiency, and sustainability, including fire managers, policy decision-makers, scientists, students, and any other requesting persons; and

(IV) Establish and support a Colorado wildland fire prediction and decision support system in accordance with section 24-33.5-1232.

(V) Develop and implement a Colorado team awareness kit for interested public safety agencies in the state.

(c) (I) In addition to performing the functions described in subsection (2.5)(b) of this section, upon receiving sufficient money in the form of gifts, grants, and donations, the center of excellence shall conduct a study concerning the integration of unmanned aircraft systems within state and local government operations that relate to certain public-safety functions. At a minimum, the study must:

(A) Identify the most feasible and readily available ways to integrate unmanned aircraft systems technology within local and state government functions relating to firefighting, search and rescue, accident reconstruction, crime scene documentation, emergency management, and emergencies involving significant property loss or potential for injury or death; and

(B) For each application of unmanned aircraft systems that the center of excellence identifies pursuant to subsection (2.5)(c)(I)(A) of this section, include consideration of privacy concerns, costs, and timeliness of deployment.

(II) Not later than one month after completing the study described in subsection (2.5)(c)(I) of this section, the center of excellence shall submit a report describing the results of its study to the wildfire matters review committee created in section 2-3-1602 and the house agriculture, livestock, and natural resources committee and the senate agriculture, natural resources, and energy committee, or any successor committees. The report must address each item described in subsection (2.5)(c)(I) of this section, as well as the results of the unmanned aircraft system pilot program described in subsection (2.5)(d) of this section.

(d) (I) As part of the study described in subsection (2.5)(c)(I) of this section, upon receiving sufficient money in the form of gifts, grants, and donations, on and after June 5, 2017, the center of excellence shall operate an unmanned aircraft system pilot program, referred to within this section as the "pilot program", to integrate unmanned aircraft systems within state and local government operations that relate to certain public-safety functions.

(II) As part of the pilot program, the department of public safety shall deploy at least one team of unmanned aircraft system operators to a region within the state that has been designated by the division as a fire hazard. The pilot program must train the unmanned aircraft system operators to operate unmanned aircraft systems in various contexts relating to firefighting, search and rescue, accident reconstruction, crime scene documentation, emergency management, and emergencies involving significant property loss or potential for injury or death. Unmanned aircraft system operators may be compensated by the center during their training.

(III) In operating the pilot program, the center of excellence shall not interfere with any active wildfire suppression effort unless the center is granted permission to assist in such effort by a supervising agency with the authority to grant such permission.

(e) Subject to available appropriations, the center of excellence shall study and, if feasible, implement a system to patrol the airspace above a wildland fire. The patrol system must be capable of determining whether the airspace above wildland fires is clear of obstacles, including private unmanned aircraft systems, that may interfere with aerial firefighting.

(3) (a) The division shall administer the Colorado firefighting air corps fund, which fund is created in the state treasury. The division may seek and accept gifts, grants, reimbursements, investments, bond revenues, sales proceeds, commissions for services, sponsorships, advertising fees, licensing fees, profits, or donations from private or public sources for the purposes of this section. The fund consists of money transferred in accordance with subsection (3)(c) of this section; all money that may be appropriated to the fund by the general assembly; and all private and public funds received through gifts, grants, reimbursements, investments, bond revenues, sales proceeds, commissions for services, sponsorships, advertising fees, licensing fees, profits, or donations that are transmitted to the state treasurer and credited to the fund. The money in the fund is continuously appropriated for the purposes indicated in subsection (3)(c) of this section. Any money not expended at the end of the fiscal year remains in the fund.

(a.5) (I) For state fiscal years commencing on or before July 1, 2024, and on or after July 1, 2026, the state treasurer shall credit all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of money in the Colorado firefighting air corps fund to the Colorado firefighting air corps fund.

(II) Notwithstanding subsection (3)(a) of this section, for the state fiscal year commencing on July 1, 2025, in accordance with section 24-36-114 (1), the state treasurer shall credit all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of money in the Colorado firefighting air corps fund to the general fund.

(III) Repealed.

(b) The general assembly finds that the implementation of this section does not rely entirely on the receipt of adequate funding through gifts, grants, or donations. Therefore, the division is not subject to the notice requirements specified in section 24-75-1303 (3).

(c) (I) Except as provided in subsection (3)(c)(III) of this section, the division shall use the money in the Colorado firefighting air corps fund for the purposes of subsection (2.5) of this section and for paying the direct and indirect costs of maintaining the Colorado firefighting air corps, including expenses associated with acquisition, retrofitting, labor, equipment, supply, transportation, air, mobilization, repair, maintenance, and demobilization.

(II) On March 21, 2021, the state treasurer shall transfer thirty million eight hundred thousand dollars from the general fund to the Colorado firefighting air corps fund created in subsection (3)(a) of this section. (A) The purchase by the division of a fire hawk helicopter configured for wildfire and other public safety response needs; and

(B) The leasing by the division of a type 1 helicopter or other available and appropriate aviation resource configured for wildfire mitigation in advance of the 2021 wildfire season and for the operational costs associated with the use of the leased and purchased aviation resources.

(III) Within three days of May 17, 2022, the state treasurer shall transfer fifteen million five hundred thousand dollars from the disaster emergency fund created in section 24-33.5-706 (2)(a) to the Colorado firefighting air corps fund created in subsection (3)(a) of this section. Notwithstanding any other requirement of this section, the division shall use the money transferred pursuant to this subsection (3)(c)(III) for the following purposes in fiscal year 2021-22 and in fiscal year 2022-23:

(A) Establishing and maintaining a statewide fire dispatch center to ensure rapid response of fire-based resources to emerging wildfire and all-hazard incidents in support of local, county, state, and federal agencies in Colorado in accordance with section 24-33.5-1203 (1)(x);

(B) The leasing by the division of appropriate aviation resources configured for wildfire suppression, for the operational costs associated with the use of the leased and purchased aviation resources, and the costs associated with leasing, purchasing, or owning capital infrastructure to house the aviation resources; and

(C) Expanding and further implementing the Colorado team awareness kit systems in accordance with subsection (2.5)(b)(V) of this section.

(IV) On May 12, 2023, the state treasurer shall transfer twenty-six million dollars from the general fund to the Colorado firefighting air corps fund created in subsection (3)(a) of this section.

The division shall use the money transferred pursuant to this subsection (3)(c)(IV) for the purpose of purchasing a fire hawk helicopter configured for wildfire and other public safety response needs.

(d) The Colorado firefighting air corps fund is exempt from the limitations set forth in section 24-75-402.

(4) The director shall include, in his or her annual report to the wildfire matters review committee required under section 24-33.5-1203.5 (3), an update regarding the division's activities under this section, including the number and type of aerial firefighting resources acquired or contracted for during the fire season in which the committee meets, an assessment of the effectiveness of the aerial firefighting program, an estimate of anticipated budget and other resource needs to sustain or improve the C-FAC's operations, and other information related to aerial firefighting that the director deems pertinent.

(5) (a) As soon as practicable after May 12, 2014, the division shall acquire or contract for firefighting aircraft for use during the 2014 fire season. In making such acquisitions or contracts, the division shall adhere, as nearly as feasible and appropriate and within available appropriations, to the recommendations made in the division's "special report: Colorado firefighting air corps, report to the governor and general assembly on strategies to enhance the state's aerial firefighting capabilities", dated March 28, 2014; except that nothing in this subsection (5):

(I) Requires the director to contract for exclusive use of any aircraft; or

(II) Limits the director's ability to determine the actual number, kind, type, and location of aviation assets based on preparedness levels, wildfire risk and activity, weather, location of other aerial assets, available appropriations, and other appropriate criteria.

(b) Nothing in this subsection (5) abrogates, reduces, or otherwise affects the division's powers under subsection (2) of this section with regard to subsequent fire seasons, including the authority to obtain or arrange for suitable aircraft and associated resources.

(c) In addition to the acquisitions or contracts made pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (5), the division may use any appropriations for the Colorado firefighting air corps for the center of excellence described in subsection (2) of this section.

(6) The division shall seek to maximize its aerial firefighting capacity consistent with the recommendations of the director and within the division's available budget.

(7) The director may establish general statements of policy or promulgate rules as he or she deems necessary or convenient to implement this section, including specifying additional functions to be performed by, or methods of operation of, the center of excellence created in subsection (2) of this section. The state treasurer shall credit all interest earned from the investment of money in the fund to the fund. The money in the fund is hereby continuously appropriated to the department for the purposes indicated in this section. Any money not expended at the end of each fiscal year remains in the fund and shall not be transferred to or revert to the general fund.

(2) (a) The division shall use the money in the fund to:

(I) Award need-based grants to governing bodies and volunteer fire departments to provide funding or reimbursement for:

(A) Purchasing equipment or replacing damaged or obsolete equipment, including the costs of disposal of damaged and obsolete equipment; and

(B) Providing training designed to increase firefighter safety and prevent occupation-related diseases;

(II) Reimburse a multiple employer behavioral health trust for the direct costs of providing a program pursuant to part 5 of article 5 of title 29. In fiscal year 2022-23, the total reimbursement pursuant to this subsection (2)(a)(II) must not exceed one million dollars. In subsequent fiscal years, the fire service training, certification, and firefighter safety advisory board, created in section 24-33.5-1204 (1) shall make a recommendation to the division based upon the behavioral health-care and safety needs of firefighters as to the amount of money in the fund that may be used for this purpose.

(b) The division may expend up to three percent per year from the fund for its direct and indirect costs in administering the programs authorized by this section. The general assembly intends that the need-based grants from the fund are in addition to, and do not supplant, other sources of funding regarding firefighting.

(3) The director shall promulgate rules governing the award of grants pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, including consideration of:

(a) The recommendations of the fire service training, certification, and firefighter safety advisory board, created in section 24-33.5-1204 (1), concerning the grant application process, funding priorities, and the criteria for awarding grants, subject to the requirements of subsection (3.5) of this section;

The peer reviewers shall make recommendations to the director on the award of grants under the program.

(c) The findings of the Colorado fire service needs assessment, which the division shall conduct at least every other year; and

(d) An applicant's efforts to finance equipment and training designed to increase firefighter safety other than through an award of a grant pursuant to this section.

(3.5) In awarding grants, the division shall give priority to governing bodies and volunteer fire departments that:

(a) Demonstrate the greatest need for additional funding to ensure the safety of volunteer and seasonal firefighters;

(b) Demonstrate a loss of tax revenue due to decreased assessment values as a result of a wildland fire in the fire department's jurisdiction in the previous five years; or

(c) Rely primarily or solely on volunteer firefighters and are serving communities affected by wildland fires.

(4) (a) (I) For fiscal year 2022-23, the general assembly shall appropriate one million dollars from the general fund to the fund for the implementation of this section. In each of fiscal years 2023-24 and 2024-25, the general assembly shall appropriate five million dollars from the general fund to the fund for the implementation of this section. The general assembly may appropriate additional money to the fund as necessary to meet the needs of fire departments across the state.

(II) On or before September 1, 2025, the staff of the joint budget committee shall review the implementation of this section and make a recommendation to the joint budget committee and to the wildfire matters review committee or any successor committee as to the amount of future appropriations to the fund based on the current needs of fire departments across the state.

(b) (I) Subject to available appropriations, the division shall award grants at least once annually in accordance with this section and shall allow governing bodies and volunteer fire departments to submit applications throughout the year on an as-needed basis due to emergent circumstances.

(II) The division may use a portion of the money in the fund to directly purchase and distribute protective equipment to governing bodies and volunteer fire departments to directly pay for training designed to increase firefighter safety and prevent occupation-related diseases for governing bodies and volunteer fire departments or to reimburse governing bodies and volunteer fire departments for the costs of protective equipment and training without requiring a grant application and peer review process pursuant to subsections (2) and (3) of this section. In distributing equipment, paying for training, or providing reimbursement pursuant to this subsection (4)(b)(II), the division shall prioritize governing bodies and volunteer fire departments in accordance with the criteria specified in subsection (3.5) of this section.

(5) (a) Notwithstanding any other requirement of this section, the division shall use the money transferred pursuant to subsection (5)(c) of this section to directly purchase and distribute protective equipment to governing bodies and volunteer fire departments, to directly pay for training designed to increase firefighter safety and prevent occupation-related diseases for governing bodies and volunteer fire departments, or to reimburse governing bodies and volunteer fire departments for the costs of protective equipment and training without requiring a grant application and peer review process pursuant to subsections (2) and (3) of this section; except that the division may use the money for any purpose authorized by this section prior to January 1, 2022, if the division determines it cannot use the full amount as otherwise required by this subsection (5)(a).

(b) In distributing equipment, paying for training, or providing reimbursement pursuant to subsection (5)(a) of this section, the division shall prioritize governing bodies and volunteer fire departments that it identifies as having the greatest need for assistance to ensure firefighter safety.

(c) Within three days after March 1, 2022, the state treasurer shall transfer five million dollars from the general fund to the fund.

(6) The division shall submit an annual report on the expenditures from the local firefighter safety and disease prevention fund to the wildfire matters review committee created in section 2-3-1602. 24-33.5-1236. Wildfire resiliency code board - powers and duties - rules - cash fund - legislative declaration - definitions.

(a) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(I) Colorado's wildfire risk has continued to increase over the years and more communities are at risk of wildfires;

(II) Colorado wildfires have grown in intensity, frequency, and devastation since the year 2000;

(III) A combined approach of structure hardening and reducing fire risk in the defensible space surrounding structures is necessary to reduce the risk of damage to Colorado communities from the effects of wildfires. This risk includes the loss of life, homes, businesses, and other structures and the loss of jobs and economic vitality. Risk evaluation is based on many factors, including proximity to structures. Hardening structures is the process of making structures more resilient to ignition and involves best practices to protect a structure from the risk of wildfire and to prevent a structure fire from starting a wildfire.

(IV) Building structures, including houses, that are resilient to wildfire risk is as affordable or more affordable than building nonresilient structures and reduces structure loss, the financial investment required to rebuild structures, cost of insurance, and problems related to underinsurance. In light of these financial implications, increasing housing stock with wildfire resilient structures increases and protects the affordable housing stock.

(V) The division and the Colorado fire commission have engaged in a stakeholder-driven strategic planning effort to evaluate the best approach to ensure that Colorado's communities, properties, and structures are protected from the effects of wildfires and have recommended the creation of a wildfire resiliency code board in Colorado; and

(VI) Establishing a code board will allow the state to adopt and enforce best practice approaches to hardening structures and reducing fire risk in the defensible space surrounding structures throughout Colorado while continuing to involve impacted stakeholders in decision-making concerning wildfire resiliency codes. As one of its functions, the code board will endeavor to establish a consistent state-level definition for the wildland-urban interface that can be used by all applicable state agencies.

(b) Therefore, the general assembly declares that establishing a wildfire resiliency code board serves the interests of the state and local communities in constructing safer and more resilient communities and reducing risk to people and property.

(2) Board created. The wildfire resiliency code board, referred to in this section as the "board", is created in the division as a type 2 entity, as defined in section 24-1-105. Except as otherwise provided in subsection (4)(b) of this section, the board exercises its powers and performs its duties and functions under the division and the executive director.

(3) Membership.

(a) The board consists of twenty-one voting members who must be residents of Colorado, appointed as follows:

(C) One architect with experience using wildfire resiliency codes in the state who represents a statewide organization for architects, appointed by the executive director;

(II) Three members, two of which are either a fire marshal, fire chief, or fire engineer and one of which has specialized expertise in wildland fire behavior or wildfire mitigation science and strategies, each appointed by the executive director;

(C) One municipal and one county representative representing a municipality and a county that, prior to September 30, 2023, has adopted a code that provides, minimally, for wildfire resilient structures and best practices, each appointed by the executive director;

(VIII) One member representing a statewide association of property and casualty companies, appointed by the minority leader of the house of representatives;

(IX) One member representing the building trades, appointed by the executive director;

(X) One member representing a statewide association of nonprofit utilities, appointed by the president of the senate;

(XI) One member representing an investor-owned utility, appointed by the speaker of the house of representatives; and

(XII) One member representing a nonprofit home builder for affordable home ownership that serves populations with incomes under eighty percent of an area's median income, appointed by the executive director.

(b) The board includes the following nonvoting ex officio members:

- (I) The director or the director's designee;
- (II) The state forester or the state forester's designee; and
- (III) The director of the Colorado resiliency office created in section 24-32-121 or the director's designee.

In addition to the requirements set forth in subsection (3)(a) of this section, and notwithstanding the requirements set forth in subsection (3)(g) of this section, individuals initially appointed to the board must reside or work within an area of the state that is at high risk for wildfire as determined with input from the Colorado state forest service, and subsequently appointed members must reside or work in areas of the state within the wildland-urban interface as defined by the board pursuant to subsection (4)(b)(I) of this section.

(d) The term of appointments for appointed members is three years; except that the terms shall be staggered so that no more than seven members' terms expire in one year. A member may be reappointed for one additional term. In the event of a vacancy, the applicable person authorized to appoint a member or members as set forth in subsection (3)(a) of this section for the applicable position that is vacant shall appoint a new member to the vacant position for the remainder of the unexpired term. A member appointed to fill a vacancy must meet the qualifications for the vacant position.

(e) Each member of the board serves without compensation but is entitled to reimbursement from the wildfire resiliency code board cash fund created in subsection (8) of this section for actual and necessary travel expenses incurred in the performance of the member's duties as a member of the board.

(f) The executive director shall appoint the chair of the board.

(g) In addition to the requirements of this subsection (3), when making appointments to the board, reasonable efforts must be made to appoint members who reflect the geographic and demographic diversity of the entire state.

(4) Powers and duties.

(a) The mission of the board is to ensure that Colorado communities are safer from and more resilient to wildfires by reducing the risk to people and property through the adoption of statewide codes and standards based on best practice approaches to hardening structures and reducing fire risk in the defensible space surrounding structures in the wildland-urban interface in Colorado.

(b) In furtherance of its mission, the board shall promulgate rules in accordance with article 4 of this title 24 concerning the adoption of minimum codes and standards for hardening structures and reducing fire risk in the defensible space surrounding structures in the wildland-urban interface in Colorado. Notwithstanding section 24-1-105 (1)(c) or any other law to the contrary, the rules promulgated by the board are not subject to approval or modification by the director or the executive director. At a minimum, the rules must:

(I) Define the wildland-urban interface and identify the areas of Colorado that are included within it; except that, notwithstanding the area that the board identifies as included within the wildland-urban interface, any thirty-five acre parcel with only one residential structure on it that does not abut a residential or commercial area is exempt from adherence to the codes. In defining Colorado's wildland-urban interface, the board may consider best practices including but not limited to practices of other states and the federal government; regional differences and risks within the state; environmental, health, and safety impacts; any existing definitions of the term wildland-urban interface; and individual risk profiles identified by the Colorado state forest service. The definition of the wildland-urban interface shall be updated once every three years, as the board determines may be necessary.

(II) Adopt minimum codes and standards, referred to in this section as the "codes", that must:

(A) Be based on best practices to reduce the risk to life and property from the effects of wildfires;

(B) Take into consideration the fiscal impacts of adopting such codes, including but not limited to cost impacts for cities, counties, and property owners related to construction costs, insurance coverage, and reduction of risk for damage or loss of structures from fires, and take into consideration regional risk profiles within the state, environmental impacts, existing model codes, regional differences in affordability, density, and existing building and property maintenance codes, and health and safety impacts;

(C) Apply to permitting and inspections for new construction of structures or defensible space around structures and for new construction for an external addition, alteration, or repair to a structure or the defensible space around the structure in accordance with this subsection (4)(b)(II)(C). Compliance with the codes is required for permits and inspections in connection with increasing the footprint of a structure by five hundred square feet, including adding attachments to the structure. defined or construed in accordance with the provisions of the "Colorado Governmental Immunity Act", article 10 of this title, regardless of whether such activities may be subject to the direction of a local emergency planning committee or a state or local fire or law enforcement agency.

(2) (a) No state commission or agency or county or municipal agency, including local emergency planning committees, incident management teams, citizen corps councils, citizen emergency response teams, medical reserve corps, fire protection districts, and volunteer fire, ambulance, or emergency service and rescue groups, nor their officers, officials, directors, employees, trainees, or volunteers, when engaged in planning, training, or response activities regarding a natural disaster, hazardous material release, public health emergency, or act of terrorism or the threat of any such disaster, release, emergency, or act, shall be liable for the death of or injury to any person or for the loss of or damage to property or the environment except for gross negligence or willful and wanton acts or omissions.

(b) Notwithstanding subsection (2)(a) of this section, a plaintiff may sue and recover civil damages from a person or entity specified in subsection (2)(a) of this section based upon a negligent act or omission involving the operation of a motor vehicle; except that the amount recovered from such person or entity must not exceed the limits of applicable insurance coverage maintained by or on behalf of such person or entity with respect to the negligent operation of a motor vehicle in such circumstances. However, nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the right of a plaintiff to recover from a policy of uninsured or underinsured motorist coverage available to the plaintiff as a result of a motor vehicle crash.

(c) The general assembly intends that the provisions of this subsection (2) and of the "Colorado Governmental Immunity Act", article 10 of this title, be read together and harmonized. If any provision of this subsection (2) is construed to conflict with a provision of the "Colorado Governmental Immunity Act", the provision that grants the greatest immunity shall prevail.

(3) Neither the director nor any member of the subcommittee or any local emergency planning committee shall be liable for the death of or any injury to persons or loss or damage to property or the environment or any civil damages resulting from any act or omission arising out of the performance of the functions, duties, and responsibilities of the director or subcommittee or local emergency planning committee, except for acts or omissions which constitute willful misconduct.

(4) Nothing in this section abrogates or limits the immunity or exemption from civil liability of any agency, entity, or person under any statute, including the "Colorado Governmental Immunity Act", article 10 of this title, or section 13-21-108.5, C.R.S.

PART 16

DIVISION OF HOMELAND SECURITY AND EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

24-33.5-1601. Legislative declaration.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) The threat of terrorism in Colorado is a matter of great concern to the people of the state and affects the public interest. Therefore, this part 16 is enacted for the purpose of protecting the health, peace, safety, and welfare of the people of this state.

(b) The terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001, in New York, Washington, D.C., and Pennsylvania, along with the subsequent sending of anthrax through the mail, the previous attempt to destroy the world trade center, and the bombing of the Alfred P. Murrah federal building in Oklahoma City, and the arson attacks in Vail, Colorado, demonstrate that no part of the United States is immune from the threat of terrorism;

(c) Responsible public agencies must anticipate and protect against new forms of terrorism, including suicide hijacking, use of biological toxins and hazardous materials, arson, and sabotage of telecommunications networks, the food and water supply, and other critical infrastructure;

(d) In response to the threat of terrorism, the federal government and several state governments are creating specialized agencies to coordinate efforts to prevent, protect against, respond to, recover from, and prosecute acts of terrorism. Colorado currently has no such agency, and few of Colorado's criminal laws address terrorism specifically.

(e) In 2005, hurricane Katrina emphasized and reinforced the importance of robust emergency management systems and the need for an all-hazards approach to homeland security, increased autonomy, and responsibility for emergency management;

(f) Coordination across disciplines, among levels of government, and with private and nongovernmental sectors is the best way to ensure that government can deliver, to the best of its collective ability, the most effective and efficient services regardless of the cause of any disaster;

(g) A state agency should be established to coordinate Colorado's response to the threat of terrorism and other threats; facilitate tribal, state, local, and regional homeland security activities; direct homeland security-related federal funding to local governments; and share homeland security information among entities participating in homeland security activities.

(1) Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby:

(a) Finds and determines that:

(I) Increased greenhouse gas emissions and rapidly rising temperatures resulting from human activity are changing the climate in ways that threaten Colorado's economy, the health of its residents, and its natural landscape;

(II) These temperature increases are already having an impact on Colorado's environment, with extreme wildfires, floods, drought, extreme weather events, and heat waves dramatically increasing in recent years;

(III) The economic impacts of these increasingly frequent and severe disasters are enormous, for example with the 2020 wildfires costing seventy-seven million dollars to fight through August, and the 2012 drought resulting in losses of seven hundred twenty-six million dollars for the agriculture sector alone;

(IV) Local governments are on the forefront of responding to these challenges and possess significant experience and expertise in addressing them;

(V) Although state and federal funding is routinely made available to help local communities with immediate disaster response needs, there is no long-term, consistent source of funds to support the investments needed to prevent disasters from happening and to make local communities more resilient against future disasters;

(VI) Making these investments will decrease losses that would otherwise be largely paid by insurers;

(VII) As documented by a 2019 report from the National Institute of Building Science, the benefit of these investments significantly exceed their costs, in some cases by ratios as high as ten to one;

(VIII) Accordingly, funding for ongoing disaster mitigation efforts should be related to property and casualty insurance products; and

(b) Declares that:

(I) The natural disaster mitigation enterprise provides valuable services, benefits, and useful business services to insurers, when, in exchange for payment of the fee described in subsection (4) of this section, the enterprise uses the fees to:

(A) Provide grants to local governments to implement resilience and natural disaster mitigation measures;

(B) Assist entities that apply for federal grants dedicated to assisting in the implementation of pre-disaster natural disaster mitigation measures by issuing grants to help the entities provide the matching funds required for the federal grants; and

(C) Provide local governments technical assistance on natural disaster mitigation;

(II) By providing the benefits and services specified in subsection (1)(b)(I) of this section, the natural disaster mitigation enterprise engages in an activity conducted in the pursuit of a benefit, gain, or livelihood and therefore operates as a business;

(III) Consistent with the determination of the Colorado supreme court in Nicholl v. E-470 Public Highway Authority, 896 P.2d 859 (Colo. 1995), that the power to impose taxes is inconsistent with enterprise status under section 20 of article X of the state constitution, it is the conclusion of the general assembly that the fee collected by the enterprise is a fee, not a tax, because the fee is imposed for the specific purpose of allowing the enterprise to defray the costs of providing the business services specified in subsection (1)(b)(I) of this section to insurers that pay the fee and the fee is collected at a rate that is reasonably calculated based on the benefits received by those insurers;

(IV) So long as the natural disaster mitigation enterprise qualifies as an enterprise for purposes of section 20 of article X of the state constitution, the revenue from the fee collected by the enterprise is not state fiscal year spending, as defined in section 24-77-102 (17), or state revenues, as defined in section 24-77-103.6 (6)(c), and does not count against either the state fiscal year spending limit imposed by section 20 of article X of the state constitution or the excess state revenues cap, as defined in section 24-77-103.6 (6)(b)(I)(B); and

(V) No other enterprise created simultaneously or within the preceding five years serves primarily the same purpose as the natural disaster mitigation enterprise and the natural disaster mitigation enterprise will generate revenue from fees and surcharges of less than one hundred million dollars total in its first five fiscal years. Accordingly, the creation of the natural disaster mitigation enterprise does not require voter approval pursuant to the provisions of section 24-77-108.

(2) Definitions. As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Board" means the board of directors of the enterprise.

(b) "Eligible entity" means a governing subdivision of the state, including counties, municipalities, school districts, and special districts, that implements or intends to implement natural disaster mitigation measures, or that is applying for a federal grant that both requires matching funds and is dedicated to assisting in the implementation of pre-disaster natural disaster mitigation measures.

(c) "Enterprise" means the natural disaster mitigation enterprise created in subsection (3) of this section.

(d) "Fee" means the fee described by subsection (4) of this section;

(e) "Fund" means the natural disaster mitigation cash fund created in subsection (5) of this section.

(f) "Grant program" means the natural disaster mitigation grant program created in subsection (7) of this section.

(g) "Natural disaster mitigation" means taking measures that reduce the risk of loss of life and property from future natural hazard disasters and decreasing costs associated with disaster recovery.

(3) Enterprise.

(a) There is hereby created in the department the natural disaster mitigation enterprise. The enterprise is and operates as a government-owned business within the department for the business purpose of collecting the fee charged to certain insurers, and utilizing the fee revenue to administer the grant program and to provide local governments technical assistance on natural disaster mitigation. The enterprise exercises its powers and performs its duties and functions under the department as if transferred to the department by a type 2 transfer, as defined in the "Administrative Organization Act of 1968", article 1 of this title 24.

(b) The enterprise constitutes an enterprise for purposes of section 20 of article X of the state constitution so long as it retains the authority to issue revenue bonds and receives less than ten percent of its total revenues in grants from all Colorado state and local governments combined. So long as it constitutes an enterprise pursuant to this subsection (3)(b), the enterprise is not subject to section 20 of article X of the state constitution.

(c) The enterprise's primary powers and duties are to:

(I) Collect the fee described in subsection (4) of this section;

(II) Promote natural disaster mitigation by issuing grants as specified in subsection (7) of this section;

(III) Provide local governments technical assistance on natural disaster mitigation;

(IV) By resolution, authorize and issue revenue bonds that are payable only from the money in the fund, which revenue bonds may be issued to promote the hazard mitigation purposes specified in this subsection (3)(c);

(V) Adopt, amend, or repeal policies for the regulation of its affairs and the conduct of its business consistent with this section, including establishing application, review, approval, reporting, and other requirements for grants; and

(VI) Engage the service of contractors, consultants, and legal counsel, including the department and the attorney general's office, for professional and technical assistance and advice and to supply other services related to the conduct of the affairs of the enterprise, without regard to the "Procurement Code", articles 101 to 112 of title 24. The board shall encourage diversity in applicants for contracts and shall generally avoid using single-source bids.

(d) The enterprise is governed by a board of directors. The board consists of the following thirteen members appointed by the executive director of the department of public safety:

(I) One member representing the department of public safety;

(II) One member representing the department of public health and environment;

(III) One member of the Colorado resiliency office;

(IV) One member who has experience in environmental justice and representing underserved communities;

(V) Four members who are representatives of local governments at least one of whom represents a county, one of whom represents a municipality, and all of whom, taken as a whole and to the greatest extent possible, represent the geographic diversity of the state;

(VI) Two members who are scientists with expertise in climate-induced weather hazards, resilience planning, or disaster mitigation; and

(VII) Three members representing the insurance industry.

(e) The member appointed pursuant to subsection (3)(d)(I) of this section shall call the first meeting of the board. The board shall elect a chair from among its members to serve for a term not to exceed two years, as determined by the board.

(f) The term of office of board members is four years; except that the executive director shall designate two members appointed pursuant to subsection (3)(d)(V) of this section, one of the members appointed pursuant to subsection (3)(d)(VI) of this section, and three of the members appointed to subsections (3)(d)(I), (3)(d)(II), (3)(d)(IV), and (3)(d)(VII) to serve initial terms of two years.

(g) A vacancy on the board is filled in the same manner as the original appointment was made. A person appointed to fill a vacancy serves for the remainder of the unexpired term.

(h) The board shall meet at least quarterly and the chair may call additional meetings as necessary for the board to complete its duties.

(i) Each member of the board is entitled to receive from money in the fund reimbursement for the member's travel expenses incurred for attending official board meetings in accordance with state fiscal rules and department policy.

(4) Fee.

(a) Each insurer that has a policy or contract of insurance of the types listed in subsection (4)(e) of this section covering property or risks in the state shall pay a fee imposed and collected by the enterprise. The enterprise shall transmit any fee collected in accordance with this subsection (4) to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the fund. Any fee transmitted to the state treasurer that is collected on behalf of the enterprise is excluded from the state's fiscal year spending. For each insurer, the amount of the fee must equal two dollars multiplied by the number of certain policies or contracts of insurance of the types listed in subsection (4)(e) of this section covering property or risks in the state.

(b) On or before July 1, 2023, an insurer shall:

(I) Pay the fee for the policies or contracts of insurance of the types listed in subsection (4)(e) of this section covering property or risks in the state from March 1, 2022, through December 31, 2022, and held by the insurer from March 1, 2022, through December 31, 2022; and

(II) Report to the enterprise the number of policies or contracts of insurance of the types listed in subsection (4)(e) of this section covering property or risks in the state from March 1, 2022, through December 31, 2022, and held by the insurer from March 1, 2022, through December 31, 2022.

(c) On or before July 1, 2024, and on or before July 1 of each year thereafter through 2029, an insurer shall:

(I) Pay the fee for the policies or contracts of insurance of the types listed in subsection (4)(e) of this section covering property or risks in the state during the previous calendar year and held by the insurer in the previous calendar year; and

(II) Report to the enterprise the number of policies or contracts of insurance of the types listed in subsection (4)(e) of this section covering property or risks in the state during the previous calendar year and held by the insurer in the previous calendar year.

(d) On or before December 31, 2023, and on or before December 31 each year thereafter through 2029, the enterprise shall compare the list of insurers who paid the fee with a list compiled by the division of insurance of those insurers that have policies or contracts of the types listed in subsection (4)(e) of this section covering property or risks in the state and shall notify the division of insurance of any insurer's failure to pay the fee described in this subsection (4). Upon receiving notice of an insurer's failure to pay the fee, the division of insurance shall notify the insurer of the fee requirement. If the insurer fails to pay the fee within fifteen days after receiving the notice, the division of insurance may impose a civil penalty of not more than one hundred twenty percent of the amount due. The insurer shall pay the civil penalty to the division of insurance. The division of insurance shall transfer the amount received to the state treasurer who shall credit the same to the fund.

(e) Insurance companies are liable for the fee on policies or contracts covering property or risks in the state of the following types:

- (I) Fire;
- (II) Allied lines;
- (III) Private crop;
- (IV) Farmers multiple peril;
- (V) Homeowners multiple peril; or
- (VI) Commercial multiple peril.

(f) Each insurer subject to the provisions of this subsection (4) is authorized to recoup the fee described in this subsection (4) from its policy holders.

(g) Each insurer subject to the provisions of this subsection (4) shall not raise its premiums based on the fee described in this subsection (4).

(h) The fee described in this subsection (4) must not be considered a premium for any purpose, including the computation of the gross premium tax described in section 10-3-209 or the producer's commission.

(i) The enterprise shall also ensure, by lowering the fee imposed by this subsection (4) to the extent necessary, that the total amount of fee revenue does not exceed one hundred million dollars over the first five fiscal years of the enterprise's existence.

(a) There is hereby created in the state treasury the natural disaster mitigation cash fund. The fund consists of money credited to the fund pursuant to subsection (4) of this section and any other money that the general assembly may appropriate or transfer to the fund.

(b) The money in the fund shall not be deposited in or transferred to the general fund or any other fund. The state treasurer shall credit all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of money in the fund to the fund. Any unencumbered money in the fund shall remain in the fund and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or another fund.

(c) Money in the fund is continuously appropriated to the enterprise for the purposes of:

(I) Administering the grant program and awarding grants in accordance with subsection (7) of this section;

(II) Providing local governments technical assistance on natural disaster mitigation;

(III) For any direct and indirect administrative expenses incurred by the enterprise; and

(IV) Repaying the general fund loan provided in subsection (5)(e) of this section.

(d) The board may seek, accept, and expend gifts, grants, or donations from private or public sources for the purposes of this section, so long as the combination of grants from the state and local governments is less than ten percent of the enterprise's total revenue.

24-33.5-1621. Essential materials - stockpile - rotation - emergency stockpile rotation cash fund - creation - legislative declaration - definitions.

(1) (a) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(I) At the outset of the COVID-19 pandemic, there was a shortage in the state of ventilators and personal protective equipment that could help slow the spread of the virus, but the division has since acquired a stockpile of these items using federal money;

(II) The division has distributed these materials, along with other items such as shelf-stable foods and personal hygiene supplies, during the current public health emergency; and

(III) It is important for the state to maintain this stockpile to respond to the current pandemic and for any future disaster emergencies.

(b) The general assembly further finds and declares that:

(I) Acquiring and maintaining a reserve of essential materials that may be distributed in response to the COVID-19 public health emergency or future disaster emergencies is a critical government service for the state to provide to the citizens of this state; and Distribution of essential materials for the purpose of ensuring that they can be used in normal, nonemergency times before their useful life ends is a use of such materials in a way that would help protect public health or safety. Subject to available appropriations, the division shall attempt to ensure that, in the event of a national public health emergency, the stockpile has a sufficient supply of personal protective equipment to bridge the gap until the national supply chain can increase production to meet the demand for such items.

(3) It is the intent of the general assembly to supplement the existing law enforcement and prosecution system and provide greater flexibility to respond to the shifting aspects of identity theft and financial fraud crimes and priorities among such crimes. The unit will also provide to the public and relevant groups appropriate information about financial fraud and the unit's activities and results. It is further the intent of the general assembly that the unit will focus its attention on criminal activity involving financial transactions, including but not limited to the types of crime covered under article 5 of title 18, C.R.S.; modifications to these and other relevant crimes; new crimes as they evolve from time to time; and suspicious activity reports required by federal law to be filed by depository institutions.

PART 18

SCHOOL SAFETY RESOURCE CENTER

24-33.5-1801. Legislative declaration.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds that:

(a) A safe and healthy learning environment for all students in Colorado is an important priority for the state;

(b) Research into evidence-based practices continues to demonstrate that academic achievement improves as the level of safety and security in a school increases;

(c) Studies of recent school attacks have established that school violence may be prevented with appropriate information sharing;

(d) Suicide, which remains one of the leading causes of death for Colorado's youth, may also be prevented with appropriate intervention;

(e) Both the physical and psychological well-being of students and school personnel is critically important; and

(f) Improving student engagement, including reducing dropout rates and truancy levels, is an important factor for ensuring that schools are safe and successful.

(2) The general assembly further finds that:

(a) The most appropriate way to prevent and prepare for acts of violence and other emergencies that may occur on school campuses is to foster a cooperative effort by schools, school resource officers, law enforcement agencies, emergency responders, behavioral health experts, parents, and community members to identify, gather, and apply the necessary resources; and

(b) Emergency response and crisis management measures should be implemented in all communities within the state to protect students and school personnel.

(2.5) The general assembly further finds and declares that:

(a) Human trafficking is a matter of statewide concern and has a direct impact on local communities, law enforcement agencies, and organizations that provide services to human trafficking survivors;

(b) Although training resources are available on the front range, many areas of the state have limited training resources pertaining to human trafficking that are easily available or accessible;

(c) Labor and sex trafficking can happen in any community. All areas of the state should have access to training to help identify human trafficking and provide critical services to human trafficking survivors.

(d) Traffickers target and recruit children in schools in Colorado. It is essential to increase awareness of school staff, parents and guardians, and students of the dangers of human trafficking. To assist schools, parents, and children, the Colorado school safety resource center shall annually update and disseminate a list of available human trafficking curricula to schools, including some that are free of charge.

(e) The Colorado human trafficking council has developed a curriculum and train-the-trainer program for law enforcement; and

(f) The council was also charged with developing a curriculum and train-the-trainer program for entities that provide services to human trafficking survivors. The curriculum and training programs may supplement the excellent anti-trafficking work being done by advocacy and service organizations across the state.

(3) Now, therefore, the general assembly declares that:

(a) Safe schools are a matter of statewide concern;

(b) All schools have common needs and goals to ensure a safe environment;

(c) Resources are needed to fully develop safety plans and practices in Colorado's schools, colleges, and universities;

(d) A school safety resource center dedicated to providing evidence-based practices and expertise to all schools is a cost-effective means to improve school safety;

(e) Law enforcement agencies, organizations that provide services to human trafficking survivors, and local communities would benefit from additional training opportunities related to human trafficking;

(f) The division of criminal justice and the Colorado human trafficking council are well placed to develop human trafficking curricula and to help provide training in this critical area; and provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

(g) The Colorado school safety resource center is committed to continuing to make available human trafficking educational resources to schools, parents, and children.

ANNOTATION

I. General Consideration.

II. Fireworks Defined.

III. Items Excluded as Fireworks.

The subject is a valid one for legislative action under the police power. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For article, "A Review of the 1959 Constitutional and Administrative Law Decisions", see 37 Dicta 81 (1960).

Therefore, this statute prohibiting the use or sale of fireworks is constitutional and valid. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

Annotator's note. Since § 24-33.5-2001 is similar to laws antecedent to former § 12-28-101, relevant cases construing those

This statute is not so vague, indefinite, uncertain and ambiguous as to render it void and unenforceable, thus subjecting violators to deprivation of life, liberty and property without due process of law by reason of its failure to specify with more particularity the forbidden areas. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

Colorado by statute has made illegal the sale of fireworks and therein enumerated the broad categories of prohibited items. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Peck, 140 Colo. 56, 342 P.2d 661 (1959).

Because the discernible legislative intent is the protection of life and property from the injury and damage resulting from indiscriminate firing and exploding of fireworks, and the protection as well of the ear drums and nervous systems of the citizenry of Colorado. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

II. FIREWORKS DEFINED.

The selection and use by the general assembly of the term "fireworks" was proper since it has a common and well understood meaning. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959); Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Peck, 140 Colo. 56, 342 P.2d 661 (1959).

It calls to mind the many products and devices designed for display or celebration purposes and which explode, or burn and explode, and traditionally are used in the celebration of Independence Day or other holidays. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959); Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Peck, 140 Colo. 56, 342 P.2d 661 (1959).

Fireworks is a device for producing a striking display, as of light, noise, or smoke, by the combustion of explosive or inflammable composition. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

Fireworks include items which produce a visual or auditory sensation by combustion or explosion. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary defines fireworks as devices for producing a striking display, as of light, noise, or smoke, by the combustion of explosive or inflammable composition. This definition is not unlike the legal one which has been adopted by the general assembly. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Peck, 140 Colo. 56, 342 P.2d 661 (1959).

Both are inclusive of items which produce a visual or auditory sensation by combustion or explosion. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Peck, 140 Colo. 56, 342 P.2d 661 (1959).

The list of examples contained in this section is by way of illustration and not of limitation and is not to be given a strained construction. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959); Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Peck, 140 Colo. 56, 342 P.2d 661 (1959).

The failure of this section to include firearms, ammunition and dynamite does not render the section vague or unreasonable and therefore invalid, since such items are not commonly used for celebration or amusement purposes. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

The general assembly is not required to legislate completely and exhaustively in the entire field. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

Toy cannons clearly come within the statutory definition of fireworks, and the prohibition of their sale is directly related to the promotion of the health, safety, and general welfare of the public. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

It is a matter of common knowledge that the keeping and storage of gunpowder in a building increases the risk of fire, and if so kept in violation of law and in violation of the terms of an insurance policy, the insurer is not liable under a contract of insurance. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Peck, 140 Colo. 56, 342 P.2d 661 (1959).

Where a fire insurance policy provides that coverage thereunder would not be had if loss resulted from illegal trade, and loss resulted from a display of prohibited fireworks, a conclusion of a trial court that the legality or illegality of such display is immaterial and irrelevant is erroneous. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Peck, 140 Colo. 56, 342 P.2d 661 (1959).

III. ITEMS EXCLUDED AS FIREWORKS.

There is a reasonable and proper delineation between harmful and nonharmful fireworks. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

In adopting a statute prohibiting the sale of fireworks it is proper for the general assembly to exclude from the category of prohibited items such devices as it deemed not to be dangerous. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

This classification is not ambiguous or indefinite. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

Each item so excluded has a specific and well understood meaning in common usage and no ordinary person could be misled concerning the import of toy pistols, toy guns, sparklers, etc., People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

The list of excluded items are not set forth in this section as examples of a broad class. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959); Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Peck, 140 Colo. 56, 342 P.2d 661 (1959).

This is a list of items which would normally be embraced within the definition of fireworks. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

The assembly has declared that they are not to be included, and in view of the fact that these sparklers, torches, etc., are listed as exceptions, the list must be construed strictly and cannot be enlarged by construction. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959); Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Peck, 140 Colo. 56, 342 P.2d 661 (1959).

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "A Review of the 1959 Constitutional and Administrative Law Decisions", see 37 Dicta 81 (1960).

Annotator's note. Since § 24-33.5-2002 is similar to laws antecedent to former § 12-28-102, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

It is the legislative intent that the explosion of fireworks should be proscribed as a danger to health and safety and as a nuisance resulting from the unreasonable audible effect. People v. Young, 139 Colo. 357, 339 P.2d 672 (1959).

The definition of "use" as shown generally in recognized dictionaries fails to include any reference which, by the use of the most liberal rules of construction, would encompass a gift or the act of giving. Calkins v. Albi, 163 Colo. 370, 431 P.2d 17 (1967).

The giving of or a gift from one to another is not one of the prohibited acts under this section. Calkins v. Albi, 163 Colo. 370, 431 P.2d 17 (1967).

A violation of any of the provisions of the fireworks statute is a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine, or imprisonment, or both. Calkins v. Albi, 163 Colo. 370, 431 P.2d 17 (1967).

It is axiomatic that a criminal or penal statute be strictly construed in favor of the one against whom it is sought to be enforced. Calkins v. Albi, 163 Colo. 370, 431 P.2d 17 (1967).

The fact that negligence per se or statutory negligence is involved in a case rather than criminal responsibility makes no difference in construing a criminal or penal statute. Calkins v. Albi, 163 Colo. 370, 431 P.2d 17 (1967).

Where negligence per se or statutory negligence is an issue, a penal statute has no different meaning and is not subject to a liberal construction as opposed to the meaning it must be given in a criminal case where the rule of strict construction is applicable. Calkins v. Albi, 163 Colo. 370, 431 P.2d 17 (1967).

To hold this section applicable to minors who have not reached the age of understanding or to those mentally unable to comprehend its requirements is carrying the law of negligence to a point which is unreasonable and is establishing a doctrine abhorrent to all principles of equity and justice. Calkins v. Albi, 163 Colo. 370, 431 P.2d 17 (1967).

24-33.5-2003. Permits - exceptions to permit requirements.

(1) Any governing body has the power to grant nontransferable and nonassignable permits within the area under its jurisdiction for the storage of fireworks or for the facilities used for the retail sales of fireworks, including permissible fireworks, by any person and to adopt reasonable rules for the granting of such permits. The fee for a permit issued pursuant to this subsection (1) shall be limited to what is reasonable and necessary to cover the direct and indirect costs associated with the granting and enforcement of such permits.

(2) Any governing body has the power to grant nontransferable and nonassignable permits within the area under its jurisdiction for displays of fireworks or pyrotechnic special effects performances by any person, fair association, amusement park, or other organizations or groups and to adopt reasonable rules for the granting of such permits.

(3) No permit shall be required for the display of fireworks at the state fair grounds by the board of commissioners of the Colorado state fair authority, at any duly authorized county or district fair, or at any display by any governing body or local authority.

(4) The discharge of fireworks pursuant to a permit provided for in subsection (2) of this section, or as otherwise provided in subsection (3) of this section, shall be lawful in Colorado, if the display or pyrotechnic special effects performance is performed in accordance with the requirements of the national fire protection association as stated in NFPA-1123, code for the outdoor display of fireworks or NFPA-1126, standard for the use of pyrotechnics before a proximate audience.

ANNOTATION

No federal preemption. Subsection (1)(c), which effectively precludes the sale of fireworks to persons in cars bearing Colorado license plates, is not preempted by federal statutes or regulations. Colo. Pyrotechnic Assn. v. Meyer, 740 F. Supp. 792 (D. Colo.

1990) (decided prior to 1991 repeal and reenactment of former § 12-28-103).

Section does not preempt the authority of "governing bodies", other than municipalities, to restrict or prohibit the use of fireworks within their jurisdictions. Starr Fireworks, Inc. v. W. Adams County

Fire Dept., 903 P.2d 1202 (Colo. App. 1995)
(decided under 1991 version of former § 12-

PART 21

SCHOOL ACCESS FOR EMERGENCY RESPONSE (SAFER) GRANT PROGRAM

24-33.5-2101. Short title.

The short title of this part 21 is the "School Access For Emergency Response (SAFER) Grant Program Act".

Source: L. 2018: Entire part added, (SB 18-158), ch. 214, p. 1360, § 1, effective May 16.

24-33.5-2102. Legislative declaration.

- (1) The general assembly finds that:
 - (a) In 2008, the general assembly passed Senate Bill 08-181 calling for the improvement of coordination among agencies when responding to school incidents;
 - (b) In 2011, the general assembly passed additional legislation, Senate Bill 11-173, concerning the interoperability of communications in schools;
 - (c) While progress has been made in coordination, interoperability continues to be an issue due to lack of funding for needed hardware, software, and training to allow for seamless communications between existing school district communication systems and first responder communication systems;

(d) The use of interoperable technology would enable schools and school district stakeholders to communicate across the district and with public safety over existing independent networks during an emergency;

(e) It is necessary to create a program to leverage the public safety radios system serving the region, including but not limited to the state's digital trunked network, which is a standards-based first responder communications system in place statewide, along with other communications networks, and to expand the infrastructure by allowing direct communication from school radios and other communications devices to first responder radios and other communications devices to improve interoperability;

(f) An adaptable system can connect any school's existing radio equipment to the radio of a first responder. In addition, the connection can be switched on and off immediately by public safety personnel and system administrators.

(g) Public safety officials and system administrators must have the ability to enable and disable the interoperable technology;

(h) Going beyond the critical 911 call, it is important to use any available and proven technology that enables emergency services personnel and school officials to communicate in real-time during an incident; and

(i) This interoperable technology is not to be used by schools for day-to-day operations on the public safety communications network.

(2) The general assembly further finds that the purpose of this part 21 is to create the school access for emergency response grant program to provide schools and public safety communications networks with money for needed hardware, software, and training so that when an emergency happens, dispatchers can activate the technology over both the radio system and other communications networks, trained school-safety teams can connect on the radio and other communications devices across the district, and first responders can arrive on the scene informed with the most up-to-date information.

(7) A contract entered into pursuant to this section may authorize a contractor to collect fees directly from an applicant. The contract may allow the contractor to retain all or a portion of the fees as payment for performance of the services under the contract. Fees collected and retained by the contractor shall not be subject to the provisions of article 36 of this title.

24-34-104. General assembly review of regulatory agencies and functions for repeal, continuation, or reestablishment - legislative declaration - repeal.

(1) (a) The general assembly finds that state government actions have produced a substantial increase in numbers of agencies, growth of programs, and proliferation of rules and that the process developed without sufficient legislative oversight, regulatory accountability, or a system of checks and balances. The general assembly further finds that regulatory agencies tend to become unnecessarily restrictive. The general assembly further finds that, by establishing a system for the repeal, continuation, or reestablishment of regulatory agencies and by providing for the analysis and evaluation of regulatory agencies to determine the least restrictive regulation consistent with the public interest, the general assembly will be in a better position to evaluate the need for the continued existence of existing and future regulatory bodies.

(b) It is the intent of the general assembly that the system set forth in this section for repeal, continuation, or reestablishment of agencies in the department of regulatory agencies be extended to the functions of certain specified agencies and to certain specified boards, thereby providing for the review of these functions and boards in the most cost-effective manner.

(2) (a) The divisions in the department of regulatory agencies, the boards and agencies in the division of professions and occupations, and the functions of the specified agencies and the specified boards will repeal according to the repeal schedule outlined in this section. A requirement for periodic reports to the general assembly will expire as set forth in section 24-1-136 (11) and is treated as a function of an agency for purposes of this section except as otherwise provided in this section.

(b) Upon repeal, an agency continues in existence, or, in the case of the repeal of a function, the function continues to be performed, until the date that is one year after the specified repeal date for the purpose of winding up affairs. During the wind-up period, the repeal does not reduce or otherwise limit the powers or authority of the agency; except that a license issued or renewed during the wind-up period expires at the end of the period and original license and renewal fees are prorated accordingly. Upon the expiration of one year after the repeal, the agency shall cease all activities or, in the case of the repeal of a function, the function must cease. When a license issued or renewed before repeal is scheduled to expire after the cessation of activities, the license expires at the end of the wind-up period, and the agency shall refund the portion of the license fee paid that is attributable to the period following the cessation of activities. Any criminal penalty for engaging in a profession or activity without being licensed is not enforceable with respect to activities that occur after an agency has ceased its activities pursuant to this section.

(c) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires, "agency" includes a division or board within an agency that is subject to review pursuant to this section.

(3) If the state constitution imposes powers, duties, or functions on an agency or officer that is subject to the provisions of this section and the agency or officer is repealed and the general assembly does not designate another agency or officer to exercise the powers or perform the duties and functions, the agency or officer continues in existence, after the one-year wind-up period, under the principal department as if the agency or officer were transferred to the department by a type 2 transfer, as defined in section 24-1-105, until the general assembly otherwise designates.

(4) The existence of a newly created agency or function in the department of regulatory agencies may not exceed ten years and is subject to the provisions of this section. The general assembly may continue or reestablish the existence of an agency or function that is scheduled for repeal under this section for up to fifteen years. The general assembly, acting by bill, may reschedule the repeal date for an agency or function to a later date if the rescheduled date does not violate the appropriate maximum life provision described in this subsection (4).

(5) (a) The department of regulatory agencies shall analyze and evaluate the performance of each agency or function scheduled for repeal under this section. In conducting the analysis and evaluation, the department of regulatory agencies shall take into consideration, but need not be limited to considering, the factors listed in paragraph (b) of subsection (6) of this section. The department of regulatory agencies shall submit a report and supporting materials to the office of legislative legal services no later than October 15 of the year preceding the date established for repeal and shall make a copy of the report available to each member of the general assembly.

(b) The department of regulatory agencies shall submit its report to the office of legislative legal services for the preparation of draft legislation based solely on specific recommendations for legislation set forth in the report. The department of regulatory agencies shall submit the report to the office of legislative legal services no later than October 15 of the year preceding the date established for repeal. The office of legislative legal services shall prepare the draft legislation before the next regular session of the general assembly for the committee of reference designated in section 2-3-1201, C.R.S., and shall submit the report from the department of regulatory agencies to the designated committee of reference. The designated committee of reference shall determine the title of the legislation drafted pursuant to this paragraph (b).

(c) This subsection (5) is exempt from the provisions of section 24-1-136 (11), and the periodic reporting requirement of this subsection (5) remains in effect until changed by the general assembly acting by bill.

(6) (a) Before the repeal, continuation, or reestablishment of an agency or function, a legislative committee of reference designated in section 2-3-1201, C.R.S., shall hold public hearings to receive testimony from the public, the executive director of the department of regulatory agencies, and the agencies involved. In the hearing, each agency has the burden of demonstrating that there is a public need for the continued existence of the agency or function and that its regulation is the least restrictive regulation consistent with the public interest.

(b) In the hearings, the determination as to whether an agency has demonstrated a public need for the continued existence of the agency or function and for the degree of regulation it practices is based on the following factors, among others:

(I) Whether regulation or program administration by the agency is necessary to protect the public health, safety, and welfare;

(II) Whether the conditions that led to the initial creation of the program have changed and whether other conditions have arisen that would warrant more, less, or the same degree of governmental oversight;

(III) If the program is necessary, whether the existing statutes and regulations establish the least restrictive form of governmental oversight consistent with the public interest, considering other available regulatory mechanisms;

(IV) If the program is necessary, whether agency rules enhance the public interest and are within the scope of legislative intent;

(V) Whether the agency operates in the public interest and whether its operation is impeded or enhanced by existing statutes, rules, procedures, and practices and any other circumstances, including budgetary, resource, and personnel matters;

(VI) Whether an analysis of agency operations indicates that the agency or the agency's board or commission performs its statutory duties efficiently and effectively;

(VII) Whether the composition of the agency's board or commission adequately represents the public interest and whether the agency encourages public participation in its decisions rather than participation only by the people it regulates;

(VIII) Whether regulatory oversight can be achieved through a director model;

(IX) The economic impact of the program and, if national economic information is not available, whether the agency stimulates or restricts competition;

(X) If reviewing a regulatory program, whether complaint, investigation, and disciplinary procedures adequately protect the public and whether final dispositions of complaints are in the public interest or self-serving to the profession or regulated entity;

(XI) If reviewing a regulatory program, whether the scope of practice of the regulated occupation contributes to the optimum use of personnel;

(XII) Whether entry requirements encourage equity, diversity, and inclusivity;

(XIII) If reviewing a regulatory program, whether the agency, through its licensing, certification, or registration process, imposes any sanctions or disqualifications on applicants based on past criminal history and, if so, whether the sanctions or disqualifications serve public safety or commercial or consumer protection interests. To assist in considering this factor, the analysis prepared pursuant to subsection (5)(a) of this section must include data on the number of licenses, certifications, or registrations that the agency denied based on the applicant's criminal history, the number of conditional licenses, certifications, or registrations issued based upon the applicant's criminal history, and the number of licenses, certifications, or registrations revoked or suspended based on an individual's criminal conduct. For each set of data, the analysis must include the criminal offenses that led to the sanction or disqualification.

(XIV) Whether administrative and statutory changes are necessary to improve agency operations to enhance the public interest.

(c) A legislative committee of reference that conducts a review pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (6) shall determine whether an agency or function should be repealed, continued, or reestablished and whether its functions should be revised and, if advisable, may recommend the consideration of a proposed bill to carry out its recommendations.

(d) (I) If a legislative committee of reference recommends a bill for consideration pursuant to paragraph (c) of this subsection (6), the bill must be introduced in the house of representatives in even-numbered years and in the senate in odd-numbered years. The chair of each legislative committee of reference that recommends a bill for consideration shall assign the proposed bill for sponsorship as follows:

(A) To one or more of the members of the committee of reference; or

(B) To one or more of the members of the general assembly who are not members of the committee of reference if a majority of the committee's members vote to approve the sponsorship.

(II) A member of the general assembly may not sponsor more than two bills introduced pursuant to this subsection (6) in a single legislative session.

(III) After consulting with the minority leader of the house of representatives and the senate, respectively, and receiving permission from the representative or senator to be added as the bill sponsor:

(A) The speaker of the house of representatives shall assign the proposed bill to a representative for sponsorship in the house of representatives in odd-numbered years; and

(B) The president of the senate shall assign the proposed bill to a senator for sponsorship in the senate in even-numbered years.

(e) A bill recommended for consideration by a committee of reference pursuant to paragraph (c) of this subsection (6) does not count against the number of bills to which members of the general assembly are limited by law or joint rule of the senate and house of representatives.

(f) Before the repeal, continuation, reestablishment, or revision of an agency's functions, a committee of reference in each house of the general assembly designated by section 2-3-1201, C.R.S., shall hold a public hearing to consider the report from the department of regulatory agencies and any bill recommended for consideration pursuant to paragraph (c) of this subsection (6). The hearing must include the factors and testimony set forth in paragraph (b) of this subsection (6).

(7) (a) Pursuant to the process established in this section, a committee of reference may not continue, reestablish, or amend the functions of more than one division, board, or agency in any one bill for an act, and the title of the bill must include the name of the division, board, or agency. This paragraph (a) does not apply to requirements for periodic reports to the general assembly.

(b) This section shall not cause the dismissal of a claim or right of a person through or against an agency, or a claim or right of an agency, that has ceased its activities pursuant to this section, which claim is or may be subject to litigation. A person may pursue a claim or right through or against the department of regulatory agencies, the agency that performed the repealed function, or, in the case of a repealed board that is not in the department of regulatory agencies, the specified department in which the board is located. The claims and rights of an agency that has ceased its activities shall be assumed by the department of regulatory agencies, the agency that performed the repealed function, or the specific department.

(c) This section does not affect the general assembly's authority to otherwise consider legislation affecting a division, board, agency, or similar body.

(8) If an agency or function repeals pursuant to the provisions of this section and the general assembly reestablishes the agency or function during the wind-up period with substantially the same powers, duties, and functions, the agency or function continues.

(9) The purpose of this section is to provide a listing of the divisions, boards, agencies, and functions that are subject to review and scheduled for repeal. The provisions of this section do not effectuate the repeal of a statute; the provisions that effectuate the repeal of a statute creating or governing an agency or function are set forth in the substantive statute that creates the agency or function. The repeal provision in a substantive statute does not invalidate the wind-up period allowed by subsection (2) of this section or the provisions of subsection (3) of this section.

24-34-104.1. General assembly sunrise review of new regulation of occupations and professions - definition.

(1) The general assembly finds that regulation should be imposed on an occupation or profession only when necessary for the protection of the public interest. (2) (a) For proposals submitted on or after July 1, 2022, any professional or occupational group or organization, any individual, or any other interested party that proposes the regulation of any unregulated professional or occupational group shall submit the following information to the department:

(I) A description of the group proposed for regulation, including a list of associations, organizations, and other groups representing the practitioners in this state, and an estimate of the number of practitioners in each group;

(II) A definition of the problem or problems to be solved by regulation and the reasons why regulation is necessary;

(III) and (IV) Repealed.

(V) The benefit to the public that would result from the proposed regulation;

(VI) The cost of the proposed regulation; and

(VII) A description of any anticipated disqualifications on an applicant for licensure, certification, relicensure, or recertification based on criminal history and how the disqualifications serve public safety or commercial or consumer protection interests.

(3) (a) (I) Except as provided in subsection (3)(b) or (3)(c) of this section, the department shall conduct an analysis and evaluation of any proposed regulation. The analysis and evaluation must be based upon the criteria listed in subsection (4)(b) of this section.

(II) Repealed.

(III) For a proposed regulation submitted on or after July 1, 2022, the department shall submit a report to the proponents of the regulation and to the general assembly no later than:

(A) June 30 of the year following the year in which the proposed regulation was submitted, for a proposed regulation submitted on or after July 1 and on or before December 31; and

(B) December 31 of the same year in which the proposed regulation was submitted, for a proposed regulation submitted on or after January 1 and on or before June 30.

(b) (I) After review of a proposal to regulate a professional or occupational group that was submitted on or after July 1, 2022, the department may decline to conduct an analysis and evaluation of the proposed regulation only if:

(A) The department previously conducted an analysis and evaluation of the proposed regulation of the same professional or occupational group, issued a report not more than thirty-six months prior to the submission of the current proposal to regulate the same professional or occupational group, and finds that no new information has been submitted that would cause the department to alter or modify the recommendations made in its earlier report on the proposed regulation of the professional or occupational group;

(B) The proposed regulation appears to regulate fewer than two hundred fifty individuals; or

(C) The department determines that at least thirty-three other states license, certify, or require registration of members of the same professional or occupational group.

(II) (A) If the department declines to conduct an analysis and evaluation pursuant to subsection (3)(b)(I)(A) of this section, the department shall reissue its earlier report on the proposed regulation to the proponents of the regulation and the general assembly.

(B) If the department declines to conduct the analysis and evaluation pursuant to subsection (3)(b)(I)(B) or (3)(b)(I)(C) of this section, the department shall notify the proponents of the regulation and the general assembly that it is declining to conduct the analysis and evaluation and the reason for so declining.

(III) Repealed.

(IV) For a proposed regulation submitted on or after July 1, 2022, the department shall reissue its earlier report or issue the notice no later than:

(A) June 30 of the year following the year in which the proposed regulation was submitted, for a proposed regulation submitted on or after July 1 and on or before December 31; or

(B) December 31 of the same year in which the proposed regulation was submitted, for a proposed regulation submitted on or after January 1 and before June 30.

(c) If the department receives a proposal to regulate a professional or occupational group indicating, based on documentation verified by the department, that the unregulated professional or occupational group poses an imminent threat to public health, safety, or welfare, the department shall promptly notify the proponents of the proposed regulation and the legislative council of the general assembly of the imminent threat and shall submit to the legislative council the documentation on which it bases its finding of imminent threat. Within thirty days after receipt of the notice and documentation from the department, the legislative council shall conduct a hearing to examine the documentation and determine whether it concurs with the department's finding that an imminent threat exists. In conducting its examination, the legislative council shall consider whether regulation of the professional or occupational group without first obtaining an analysis and evaluation pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) will substantially alter the impact on public health, safety, or welfare. The department may forego the analysis and evaluation only if the legislative council notifies the department that the legislative council concurs with the department's finding of imminent threat to public health, safety, and welfare.

(4) (a) (Deleted by amendment, L. 96, p. 796, § 7, effective May 23, 1996.)

(b) The determination as to whether such regulation of an occupation or a profession is needed shall be based upon the following considerations:

(I) Whether the unregulated practice of the occupation or profession clearly harms or endangers the health, safety, or welfare of the public;

(I.5) Whether the practitioners of the profession or occupation exercise independent judgment, and whether the public can reasonably be expected to benefit from the direct regulation of the profession or occupation if a practitioner's judgment or practice is limited or subject to the judgment or supervision of others.

(II) Whether the public needs, and can reasonably be expected to benefit from, an assurance of initial and continuing professional or occupational competence;

(III) Whether the public can be adequately protected by other means in a more cost-effective manner; and

(IV) Whether the imposition of any disqualifications on applicants for licensure, certification, relicensure, or recertification based on criminal history serves public safety or commercial or consumer protection interests.

(c) (Deleted by amendment, L. 96, p. 796, § 7, effective May 23, 1996.)

(6) (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (6), the supporters of regulation of a professional or occupational group may request members of the general assembly to present appropriate legislation to the general assembly during each of the two regular sessions that immediately succeed the date of the report required pursuant to subsection (3) of this section without the supporters having to comply again with the provisions of subsections (2), (3), and (4) of this section. Bills introduced pursuant to this subsection (6) shall count against the number of bills to which members of the general assembly are limited by any joint rule of the senate and the house of representatives.

(b) If, pursuant to paragraph (b) or (c) of subsection (3) of this section, the department of regulatory agencies declines to conduct an analysis and evaluation of the proposed regulation of a professional or occupational group and reissues a prior report on the proposed regulation of the same professional or occupational group or finds that the unregulated professional or occupational group poses an imminent threat to public health, safety, or welfare, as confirmed by the legislative council of the general assembly, the supporters of the regulation of the professional or occupational group may request that members of the general assembly present appropriate legislation to the general assembly during each of the next two regular sessions that begin after the date the department reissues its original report on the proposed regulation or the date on which the legislative council notifies the department that it concurs in a finding of imminent threat pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection (3) of this section, whichever is applicable.

(7) This section is exempt from the provisions of section 24-1-136 (11), and the periodic reporting requirement of this section shall remain in effect until changed by the general assembly acting by bill.

24-34-106. Professions and occupations - alternative to existing disciplinary actions.

If, as a result of a proceeding held pursuant to article 4 of this title, it is determined that a person licensed, registered, or certified to practice a profession or occupation pursuant to article 2 of title 10 or title 12, C.R.S., has acted in such a manner as to be subject to disciplinary action, the licensing board, commission, or other agency of the state may, in lieu of or in addition to other forms of disciplinary action that may be authorized by law, require a licensee, registrant, or certificate holder to take courses of training or education relating to his profession or occupation. The licensing board, commission, or other agency of the state shall determine the conditions, on a case-by-case basis, which shall be imposed on such licensee, registrant, or certificate holder including, but not limited to, the type of and number of hours of training or education. All training or education courses are subject to approval by the board, commission, or agency, and the licensee, registrant, or certificate holder shall be required to furnish satisfactory proof that he has successfully completed such courses. Any training or education required by this section shall be in addition to the mandatory continuing education requirements for the profession or occupation, if any.

(1) Every application by an individual for a license issued pursuant to the authority set forth in titles 10, 11, and 12 by any division, board, or agency of the department of regulatory agencies requires the applicant's name, address, and social security number. If the applicant does not have a social security number, the division, board, or agency shall require the applicant's individual taxpayer identification number, or another document verifying the applicant's identity, as determined by such division, board, or agency.

(2) The divisions, boards, or agencies of the department of regulatory agencies shall deny, suspend, or revoke any license pursuant to the provisions of section 26-13-126, C.R.S., and any rules promulgated in furtherance thereof, if such division, board, or agency receives a notice to deny, suspend, or revoke from the state child support enforcement agency because the licensee or applicant is out of compliance with a court or administrative order for current child support, child support debt, retroactive child support, child support arrearages, or child support when combined with maintenance or because the licensee or applicant has failed to comply with a properly issued subpoena or warrant relating to a paternity or child support proceeding. Any such denial, suspension, or revocation shall be in accordance with the procedures specified by rule of any such division, board, or agency of the department of regulatory agencies, rules promulgated by the state board of human services, and any memorandum of understanding entered into between any division, board, or agency of the department of regulatory agencies and the state child support enforcement agency for the implementation of this section and section 26-13-126, C.R.S.

(3) (a) The divisions, boards, and agencies of the department of regulatory agencies may enter into a memorandum of understanding with the state child support enforcement agency to facilitate implementation of this section and section 26-13-126, C.R.S., through the rules promulgated pursuant to subsection (2) of this section.

(b) The divisions, boards, and agencies of the department of regulatory agencies are authorized to promulgate rules to implement the provisions of this section.

(4) For purposes of this section, "license" means any registration, certificate, charter, or membership issued by any division, board, or agency of the department of regulatory agencies for an individual to practice a profession or occupation or for an individual to participate in any recreational activity.

(5) (a) When any division, board, or agency of the department of regulatory agencies determines that an individual applying for a license has been convicted of a crime prior to the application being submitted, it may, subject to the provisions of section 24-5-101, issue a conditional license to that individual.

(b) The individual may request that the conditional designation or any related adverse action be removed a year after the issuance of the conditional license or when the individual applies for renewal of the license, whichever is later:

(I) If the individual remains free of any subsequent criminal conviction or licensing sanction after the conditional license is issued; and

(II) If the individual is no longer serving any term of probation or parole imposed for the criminal conviction.

(c) The division, board, or agency shall grant the request unless it determines that, under the provisions of section 24-5-101, the conditional designation remains necessary.

(d) If the division, board, or agency removes the conditional designation, it shall make the original conditional designation confidential and remove from the individual's professional history any reference to crimes committed before the application for licensure was submitted, unless the removal or designation as confidential violates any federal reporting law.

24-34-300.7. Legislative declaration.

(1) The general assembly finds and declares that each Coloradan has the right to access fair employment, housing opportunities, public accommodations, and advertising that is free from discrimination regardless of their membership in a protected class, as those classes are listed in sections 24-34-402, 24-34-502, 24-34-601, and 24-34-701. CADA prohibits discrimination based on these protected classes and ensures that every Coloradan is able to enjoy freedom from discrimination.

(2) The general assembly further finds and declares that Colorado has a long history of supporting freedom of choice for Coloradans. This includes the choice to make decisions related to safely seeking health-care services, including legally protected health-care activities, as defined in section 12-30-121 (1)(d), that support mental, physical, and emotional well-being for Coloradans, their children, and their family members. It is the public policy of Colorado to ensure these important decisions can be made without unnecessary governmental interference.

The object to be obtained by subsection (4) and § 24-34-402 (1) is to eliminate discrimination in employment on account of physical handicaps. Gamble v. Levitz Furniture Co., 759 P.2d 761 (Colo. App. 1988) (decided prior to 1993 amendment to subsection (4)).

Definition of "handicap", as it appears in subsection (4), creates an ambiguity which requires consideration of extrinsic sources to interpret the term properly. Gamble v. Levitz Furniture Co., 759 P.2d 761 (Colo. App. 1988) (decided prior to 1993 amendment to subsection (4)).

In defining "handicap", the general assembly meant to protect three types of handicapped individuals: Those with present impairments; those with past impairments, and those perceived as having impairments. Gamble v. Levitz Furniture Co., 759 P.2d 761 (Colo. App. 1988) (decided prior to 1993 amendment to subsection (4)).

For an impairment to be considered a substantial limitation, it must prevent or severely restrict an individual from performing a major life activity and must be of a permanent or long-term nature. Plaintiff's attention deficit disorder does not constitute a substantial limitation. Tesmer v. Colo. High Sch. Activities Ass'n, 140 P.3d 249 (Colo. App. 2006).

Applicant for employment was handicapped within the meaning of this section where he was treated as being substantially limited in one or more major life activities, even though he possessed no such substantial limitation. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Fire Prot. Dist., 772 P.2d 70 (Colo. 1989) (decided prior to 1993 amendment to subsection (4)).

In order to demonstrate status as a handicapped person, it is necessary for a plaintiff to establish only one of the disjunctive propositions in subsection (4). Gamble v. Levitz Furniture Co., 759 P.2d 761 (Colo. App. 1988) (decided prior to 1993 amendment to subsection (4)).

However, not all persons with physical impairments are entitled to relief; the impairment must be substantial and should be evaluated on a case-by-case basis. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Fire Prot. Dist., 772 P.2d 70 (Colo. 1989) (decided prior to 1993 amendment to subsection (4)).

Having AIDS or being HIV-positive is a handicap within the definition of this section. Phelps v. Field Real Estate Co., 793 F. Supp. 1535 (D. Colo. 1991).

The Colorado civil rights division and the director of the Colorado civil rights division are type 1 entities, as defined in section 24-1-105.

(2) The director shall appoint such investigators and other personnel as may be necessary to carry out the functions and duties of the division. 24-34-303. Civil rights commission - membership.

(1) (a) There is created in the division the Colorado civil rights commission. The commission is a type 1 entity, as defined in section 24-1-105.

(b) (I) The commission consists of seven members appointed by the governor, with the consent of the senate as specified in subsection (1)(b)(IV) of this section, for terms of four years. The governor shall make appointments in such a manner that there are at all times:

(A) Two members of the commission representing the business community, at least one of whom represents small business; except that, upon the expiration of the terms of the members appointed pursuant to this subsection (1)(b)(I)(A) before July 1, 2018, or upon a vacancy in either position, whichever occurs first, one member appointed pursuant to this subsection (1)(b)(I)(A) must be a majority owner of a small business that employs at least five but less than fifty employees and the other member appointed pursuant to this subsection (1)(b)(I)(A) must be a majority owner of a business that employs more than fifty employees, and thereafter the composition of the commission must continue to reflect this change;

(B) Two members of the commission representing state or local government entities; except that, upon the expiration of the terms of office of the members of the commission appointed pursuant to this subsection (1)(b)(I)(B) before July 1, 2018, or upon a vacancy in either position, whichever occurs first, the governor shall appoint to those positions one member representing a statewide chamber of commerce or other statewide organization representing business and industry and one member from or representing employee associations that represent workers in Colorado, and thereafter the composition of the commission must continue to reflect this change; and

(C) Three members of the commission from the community at large; except that, upon the expiration of the term of office of two members appointed pursuant to this subsection (1)(b)(I)(C) before July 1, 2018, or upon a vacancy in a position under this subsection (1)(b)(I)(C), whichever occurs first, the governor shall appoint two members from or representing employee associations that represent workers in Colorado, and thereafter the composition of the commission must continue to reflect this change.

(II) In addition to the qualifications specified in subsection (1)(b)(I) of this section, the membership of the commission must at all times include:

(A) At least four members who are members of groups of people who have been or who might be discriminated against because of disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, ancestry, marital status, religion, or age; and

(B) No more than six members affiliated with a major political party and no more than three members affiliated with the same political party. A member must have been registered with the same political party or registered as unaffiliated for at least two years immediately preceding the member's appointment to the commission.

(III) The governor shall make appointments to provide geographical area representation insofar as may be practicable.

(IV) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if, in accordance with section 6 of article IV of the state constitution, the governor nominates an individual for appointment to the commission and the senate rejects the nomination, the rejected individual is deemed ineligible to hold the office for two years. During that two-year period, the governor shall not nominate the rejected individual and, if the senate is not in session, shall not appoint the rejected individual to temporarily discharge the duties of the commission. For purposes of this subsection (1)(b)(IV), rejection by the senate of the nomination of an individual for appointment to the commission does not preclude the governor from nominating the rejected individual for another opening on the commission that occurs after an individual other than the rejected individual has filled the immediate opening on the commission.

(2) The governor shall fill vacancies on the commission by appointment, with the consent of the senate in accordance with subsection (1)(b)(IV) of this section, and the term of a commissioner appointed to fill a vacancy is for the unexpired part of the term for which the commissioner is appointed.

(3) Any commissioner may be removed from office by the governor for misconduct, incompetence, or neglect of duty.

(4) Commissioners shall receive a per diem allowance and shall be reimbursed for actual and necessary expenses incurred by them while on official commission business, as provided in section 12-20-103 (6).

(5) The commission may adopt, amend, or rescind rules for governing its meetings. Four commissioners shall constitute a quorum for purposes of conducting the business of the commission.

(B) The commission shall create the volunteer working group by September 1, 2013. The working group shall develop and submit to the commission, by January 1, 2014, an education and outreach plan for the commission to implement for purposes of educating employers and providing outreach regarding part 4 of the article.

(C) In addition to the outreach plan required by sub-subparagraph (B) of this subparagraph (II), the working group shall compile and provide to the commission information on educational resources available to employers regarding the requirements of and compliance with part 4 of this article, including resources for employers on prevention of discriminatory employment practices. The commission shall post the information on its website and shall make the information available in an electronic format to all state departments and agencies that interact with private businesses in the state, including the departments of labor and employment, regulatory agencies, revenue, and state and the governor's office of economic development. Those departments and agencies, within existing resources, shall post the information provided by the commission, or links to that information, on their websites.

(d) (I) To hold hearings upon any complaint issued against a respondent pursuant to section 24-34-306; to subpoena witnesses and compel their attendance; to administer oaths and take the testimony of any person under oath; and to compel such respondent to produce for examination any books and papers relating to any matter involved in such complaint. Such hearings may be held by the commission itself, or by any commissioner, or by any administrative law judge appointed by the commission pursuant to part 10 of article 30 of this title, subject to appropriations for such administrative law judges made to the department of personnel; except that, if no administrative law judge is made available within the time limitations set forth in section 24-34-306 (11), the governor shall appoint an administrative law judge at the request of the commission, and such administrative law judge shall be paid out of moneys appropriated to the division. Refusal to obey such subpoena shall be punishable as contempt.

(II) No person may be excused from attending and testifying or from producing records, correspondence, documents, or other evidence in obedience to a subpoena in any such matter on the ground that the evidence or the testimony required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to any penalty or forfeiture. However, no testimony or other information compelled under order from the commission, or other information directly or indirectly derived from such testimony or other information, may be used against the witness in any criminal case, except a prosecution and punishment for perjury or false statement committed in so testifying.

(e) To issue such publications and reports of investigations and research as in its judgment will tend to promote goodwill among the various racial, religious, age, and ethnic groups of the state and which will tend to minimize or eliminate discriminatory or unfair practices as specified by parts 3 to 7 of this article. Publications of the commission circulated in quantity outside the executive branch shall be issued in accordance with the provisions of section 24-1-136.

(f) To prepare and transmit annually, in the form and manner prescribed by the heads of the principal departments pursuant to the provisions of section 24-1-136, a report accounting to the governor for the efficient discharge of all responsibilities assigned by law or directive to the commission;

(h) To make recommendations to the general assembly for such further legislation concerning discrimination as it may deem necessary and desirable;

(i) To cooperate, within the limits of any appropriations made for its operation, with other agencies or organizations, both public and private, whose purposes are consistent with those of parts 3 to 7 of this article, in the planning and conducting of educational programs designed to eliminate racial, religious, cultural, age, and intergroup tensions;

(k) (I) To receive reports from people alleging mistreatment in the context of maternity care, including care that is not organized for, and provided to, a person who is pregnant or in the postpartum period as defined in section 12-225-103, in a manner that is culturally congruent; that fails to maintain the person's dignity, privacy, and confidentiality; that fails to ensure freedom from harm and mistreatment; and that fails to enable informed choices and continuous support.

(II) Reports shall be collected in a way to ensure that:

(A) Confidential information can be de-identified;

(B) Individuals can identify mistreatment they experienced based on the following mistreatment index categories: Physical abuse, sexual abuse, verbal abuse, stigma and discrimination, failure to meet professional standards of care, or poor rapport between patients or clients and providers; poor conditions and constraints presented by the health-care system; and obstetric racism;

(IV) Reports may be shared internally with staff for study, investigation, reports, publications, or hearings.

(2) Any provision of this article to the contrary notwithstanding, no person shall be required to alter, modify, or purchase any building, structure, or equipment or incur any additional expense which would not otherwise be incurred in order to comply with parts 3, 4, 6, and 7 of this article.

(3) In exercising the powers and performing the duties and functions under parts 3 to 7 of this article, the commission, the division, and the director shall presume that the conduct of any respondent is not unfair or discriminatory until proven otherwise.

(4) Whether by rule, regulation, or other action or whether as a remedy for violation of any provision of parts 3 to 7 of this article or otherwise, the commission shall not prescribe or require the implementation of a quota system.

ANNOTATION

For the jurisdiction of commission to consider complaint regarding discriminatory employment practice, see Dept. of Institutions v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n ex rel. McAllister, 185 Colo. 42, 521 P.2d 908 (1974) (decided under former law).

Power of subpoena is limited to those situations in which the commission, or its delegated hearing representative, is in fact holding a hearing upon a specific complaint made against a specific entity or person. It is further limited by the mandate that the subpoena must have relevancy to matters involved in the complaint. State ex rel. Colo.

Civil Rights Comm'n v. Adolph Coors Corp., 29 Colo. App. 240, 486 P.2d 43 (1971).

Trial court cannot issue subpoena where the commission has no statutory authority to issue or to seek a subpoena. State ex rel. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Adolph Coors Corp., 29 Colo. App. 240, 486 P.2d 43 (1971).

Civil rights commission's sole function is to make a finding of fact as to whether a statutory employer has acted to discriminate against an employee because of race, creed, color, sex, national origin, or ancestry. Umberfield v. Sch. Dist. No. 11, 185 Colo. 165, 522 P.2d 730 (1974).

A district court on review is bound by this finding of fact if it is supported by substantial evidence in the record. Umberfield v. Sch. Dist. No. 11, 185 Colo. 165, 522 P.2d 730 (1974).

Agency is unauthorized to change final order while judicial review pending. An administrative agency is without authority to change, alter, or vacate a final order entered in proceedings before it while review thereof is pending in the district court. Colo. Anti-Discrimination Comm'n v. Continental Air Lines, 143 Colo. 590, 355 P.2d 83 (1960).

And, upon remand, it is without jurisdiction to do other than as directed by court. An attempt by the anti-discrimination commission (now civil rights commission) to vacate its original order is void where a party to the proceedings seeks review by the district court and the district court remands the cause to the commission with directions to make specific findings on specific issues; the commission has no jurisdiction to do other than as directed by the trial court. Colo. Anti-Discrimination Comm'n v. Continental Air Lines, 143 Colo. 590, 355 P.2d 83 (1960).

Industrial commission decision bars subsequent civil rights proceeding. A decision of the industrial commission on the cause of termination of employment bars a subsequent proceeding before the civil rights commission. Colo. Springs Coach Co. v. State Civil Rights Comm'n, 35 Colo. App. 378, 536 P.2d 837 (1975) (decided prior to the 1986 abolition of the industrial commission).

24-34-306. Charge - complaint - hearing - procedure - exhaustion of administrative remedies.

(1) (a) (I) Any person claiming to be aggrieved by a discriminatory or an unfair practice as defined by parts 4 to 7 of this article 34 may, by oneself or through the person's attorney, make, sign, and file with the division a verified written charge stating the name and address of the respondent alleged to have committed the discriminatory or unfair practice, setting forth the particulars of the alleged discriminatory or unfair practice, and containing any other information required by the division.

(II) The division shall include on any charge form or charge intake mechanism an option to select "harassment" as a basis or description of the type of discriminatory or unfair employment practice that is the subject of the charge.

(b) The commission, a commissioner, or the attorney general on its own motion may make, sign, and file a charge alleging a discriminatory or unfair practice in cases where the commission, a commissioner, or the attorney general determines that the alleged discriminatory or unfair practice imposes a significant societal or community impact. The charge shall be filed in the same manner and shall contain the same information as required for a charge filed by an individual pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (1). When the commission, a commissioner, or the attorney general files a charge pursuant to this paragraph (b), the remedy available for the discriminatory or unfair practice shall be limited to equitable relief to eliminate the discriminatory or unfair practice.

(c) Prior to any other action by the division regarding the charge, the division shall notify the respondent of the charges filed against him or her.

(2) (a) After the filing of a charge alleging a discriminatory or unfair practice as defined by parts 4 to 7 of this article, the director, with the assistance of the division's staff, shall make a prompt investigation of the charge. The director may subpoena witnesses and compel the testimony of witnesses and the production of books, papers, and records if the testimony, books, papers, and records sought are limited to matters directly related to the charge. Any subpoena issued pursuant to this paragraph (a) shall be enforceable in the district court for the district in which the alleged discriminatory or unfair practice occurred and shall be issued only if the person or entity to be subpoenaed has refused or failed, after a proper request from the director, to provide voluntarily to the director the information sought by the subpoena.

(b) The director or the director's designee, who shall be an employee of the division, shall determine as promptly as possible whether probable cause exists for crediting the allegations of the charge, and shall follow one of the following courses of action:

(I) If the director or the director's designee determines that probable cause does not exist, he or she shall dismiss the charge and shall notify the person filing the charge and the respondent of the dismissal. In addition, in the notice, the director or the director's designee shall advise both parties:

(A) That the charging party has the right to file an appeal of the dismissal with the commission within ten days after the date the notification of dismissal is mailed;

(B) That, if the charging party wishes to file a civil action in a district court in this state based on the alleged discriminatory or unfair practice that was the subject of the charge filed with the commission, he or she must do so: Within ninety days after the date the notice specified in this subparagraph (I) is mailed if he or she does not file an appeal with the commission pursuant to sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I); or within ninety days after the date the notice that the commission has dismissed the appeal specified in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I) is mailed;

(C) That, if the charging party does not file an action within the time limits specified in sub-subparagraph (B) of this subparagraph (I), the action will be barred, and no district court shall have jurisdiction to hear the action.

(II) If the director or the director's designee determines that probable cause exists, the director or the director's designee shall serve the respondent with written notice stating with specificity the legal authority and jurisdiction of the commission and the matters of fact and law asserted. In addition, the director or the director's designee shall order the charging party and the respondent to participate in compulsory mediation. Immediately after the director or the director's designee serves notice on the respondent, the director or the director's designee shall endeavor to eliminate the discriminatory or unfair practice by conference, conciliation, and persuasion and by means of the compulsory mediation required by this subparagraph (II).

(c) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2009, (SB 09-110), ch. 238, p. 1083, § 6, effective July 1, 2009.)

(3) The members of the commission and its staff shall not disclose the filing of a charge, the information gathered during the investigation, or the efforts to eliminate such discriminatory or unfair practice by conference, conciliation, and persuasion unless such disclosure is made in connection with the conduct of the investigation, in connection with the filing of a petition seeking appropriate injunctive relief against the respondent under section 24-34-507, or at a public hearing or unless the complainant and the respondent agree to such disclosure. Nothing in this subsection (3) shall be construed to prevent the commission from disclosing its final action on a charge, including the reasons for dismissing such charge, the terms of a conciliation agreement, or the contents of an order issued after hearing.

(4) When the director is satisfied that further efforts to settle the matter by conference, conciliation, and persuasion will be futile, he shall so report to the commission. If the commission determines that the circumstances warrant, it shall issue and cause to be served, in the manner provided by section 24-4-105 (2), a written notice and complaint requiring the respondent to answer the charges at a formal hearing before the commission, a commissioner, or an administrative law judge. Such hearing shall be commenced within one hundred twenty days after the service of such written notice and complaint. Such notice and complaint shall state the time, place, and nature of the hearing, the legal authority and jurisdiction under which it is to be held, and the matters of fact and law asserted.

(5) In accordance with rules adopted by the commission, discovery procedures may be used by the commission and the parties under the same circumstances and in the same manner as is provided by the Colorado rules of civil procedure after the notice of hearing under subsection (4) of this section has been given.

(6) The respondent may file a written answer prior to the date of the hearing. When a respondent has failed to answer at a hearing, the commission, a commissioner, or the administrative law judge, as the case may be, may enter his default. For good cause shown, the entry of default may be set aside within ten days after the date of such entry. If the respondent is in default, testimony may be heard on behalf of the complainant. After hearing such testimony, the commission, a commissioner, or the administrative law judge, as the case may be, may enter such order as the evidence warrants.

(7) The commission or the complainant shall have the power to reasonably and fairly amend any complaint, and the respondent shall have like power to amend his answer.

(8) The hearing shall be conducted and decisions rendered in accordance with section 24-4-105; except that the decision shall also include a statement of the reasons why the findings of fact lead to the conclusions. The case in support of the complaint shall be presented at the hearing by one of the commission's attorneys or agents, but no one presenting the case in support of the complaint shall counsel or advise the commission, commissioner, or administrative law judge who hears the case. The director and the staff shall not participate in the hearing except as a witness, nor shall they participate in the deliberations of, or counsel or advise, the commission, commissioner, or administrative law judge in such case. At any such hearing, the person presenting the case in support of the complaint shall have the burden of showing that the respondent has engaged or is engaging in an unfair or discriminatory practice, and the respondent's conduct shall be presumed not to be unfair or discriminatory until proven otherwise.

(9) If, upon all the evidence at a hearing, there is a statement of findings and conclusions in accordance with section 24-4-105, together with a statement of reasons for such conclusions, showing that a respondent has engaged in or is engaging in any discriminatory or unfair practice as defined in parts 4 to 7 of this article, the commission shall issue and cause to be served upon the respondent an order requiring such respondent to cease and desist from such discriminatory or unfair practice and to take such action as it may order in accordance with the provisions of parts 4 to 7 of this article.

(10) If, upon all of the evidence at a hearing, there is a statement of findings and conclusions in accordance with section 24-4-105, together with a statement of reasons for such conclusions, showing that a respondent has not engaged in any such discriminatory or unfair practice, the commission shall issue and cause to be served an order dismissing the complaint on the person alleging such discriminatory or unfair practice.

(11) (a) The jurisdiction of the commission over the complaint ceases if:

(I) Written notice that a formal hearing will be held is not served within four hundred fifty days after the filing of the charge;

(II) The complainant has requested and received a notice of right to sue pursuant to subsection (15) of this section; or

(III) The hearing is not commenced within the one-hundred-twenty-day period prescribed by subsection (4) of this section.

(b) If the jurisdiction of the commission ceases pursuant to subsection (11)(a) of this section, the complainant may seek the relief authorized under this part 3 and parts 4 to 7 of this article 34 against the respondent by filing a civil action in the district court for the district in which the alleged discriminatory or unfair practice occurred. The complainant must file a civil action within ninety days after the date upon which the jurisdiction of the commission ceased. If the complainant fails to file the action within the time specified in this subsection (11)(b), the action is barred, and the district court does not have jurisdiction to hear the action.

(12) The division shall maintain a central file of decisions rendered under parts 3 to 7 of this article, and such file shall be open to the public for inspection during regular business hours.

(13) Any member of the commission and any person participating in good faith in the making of a complaint or a report or in any investigative or administrative proceeding authorized by parts 3 to 7 of this article shall be immune from liability in any civil action brought against him for acts occurring while acting in his capacity as a commission member or participant, respectively, if such individual was acting in good faith within the scope of his respective capacity, made a reasonable effort to obtain the facts of the matter as to which he acted, and acted in the reasonable belief that the action taken by him was warranted by the facts.

(14) No person may file a civil action in a district court in this state based on an alleged discriminatory or unfair practice prohibited by parts 4, 5, and 7 of this article 34 and excluding part 6 of this article 34 and section 24-34-505.6 without first exhausting the proceedings and remedies available to the person under this part 3 unless the person shows, in an action filed in the appropriate district court, by clear and convincing evidence, that the person's ill health which is of such a nature that pursuing administrative remedies would not provide timely and reasonable relief and would cause irreparable harm. This subsection (14) does not apply to civil actions filed in district court based on alleged discriminatory or unfair practices prohibited by either part 6 of this article 34 or section 24-34-505.6.

(15) The charging party in any action may request the division to issue a written notice of right to sue at any time prior to service of a notice and complaint pursuant to subsection (4) of this section. The charging party shall make the request for notice of right to sue in writing. The division shall promptly grant a claimant's request for notice of right to sue made after the expiration of one hundred eighty days following the filing of the charge. If a claimant makes a request for a notice of right to sue prior to the expiration of one hundred eighty days following the filing of the charge, the division shall grant the request upon a determination that the investigation of the charge will not be completed within one hundred eighty days following the filing of the charge. A notice of right to sue shall constitute final agency action and exhaustion of administrative remedies and proceedings pursuant to this part 3.

Commission charge premised on claim of aggrieved person. This section authorizes a commission complaint (now charge) only in those instances where a specific person or persons have been aggrieved by the alleged discriminatory practices charged. Sisneros v. Woodward Governor Co., 192 Colo. 454, 560 P.2d 97 (1977).

Charge must be drawn with sufficient particularity. Before the commission may issue a subpoena on a specific discriminatory or unfair employment practice, the practice must have occurred in fact and not in theory, and the wrongful practice must then be complained of in writing with enough particularity to satisfy the following needs: (1) It must provide the commission with enough information as to the alleged unfair practice that the commission may intelligently investigate and evaluate the unfair practice in order to determine whether a creditable violation of this article may have occurred; and (2) it must afford to the party alleged to have committed the unfair practice enough notice and knowledge of the unfair practice with which it is charged to permit that party to make a written answer to the charges and to refute or defend against the charges at the time it answers or at the time of a hearing on the complaint (now charge). State ex rel. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Adolph Coors Corp., 29 Colo. App. 240, 486 P.2d 43 (1971).

Commission empowered to strike irrelevant testimony. Although the commission is not bound by strict rules of evidence, it has inherent power as a fact-finding body to strike testimony which has no bearing on any question at issue. Tex. Southland Corp. v. Hogue, 30 Colo. App. 560, 497 P.2d 1275 (1972).

Direct evidence is not a prerequisite to a finding of discrimination; a finding may be based on legitimate inferences from the evidence. Tex. Southland Corp. v. Hogue, 30 Colo. App. 560, 497 P.2d 1275 (1972).

Commission's finding of discrimination is legitimate inference from evidence where it is established, among other things, that the employee is black, that he has been a good worker, and that the employer's stated reasons for the discharge of the employee are false. Tex. Southland Corp. v. Hogue, 30 Colo. App. 560, 497 P.2d 1275 (1972).

This section and § 24-34-307 set out two paths for a charge of discrimination in a place of public accommodation: either (1) administrative exhaustion followed by an action in the court system under the specific circumstances delineated by statute, or (2) administrative review followed by an administrative adjudication and judicial appeal, if requested. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc. v. Scardina, 2024 CO 67, 556 P.3d 1238 (decided under former law).

A person must exhaust any administrative remedies before filing an action in the district court. And if the prescribed times for filing an action in the district court pass, and the commission decides to hear and resolve a charge through an administrative adjudication, that claim is removed from the district court path entirely. Masterpiece

Cakeshop, Inc. v. Scardina, 2024 CO 67, 556 P.3d 1238 (decided under former law).

Exhaustion of administrative procedures, as set forth in this section, is not a condition precedent to asserting an "unlawful prohibition" claim under § 24-34-402.5. Galieti v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 840 F. Supp. 104 (D. Colo. 1993).

This section clearly requires plaintiffs to exhaust administrative remedies prior to filing a complaint in district court. Where plaintiff did not assert in her complaint that she had filed an administrative claim and she did not receive a right to sue letter until after the complaint was filed, her claim for tortious interference with employment was barred. Brooke v. Rest. Servs., Inc., 881 P.2d 409 (Colo. App. 1994).

Exhaustion of state remedies not required prior to federal proceedings. Congress has evidenced its intent to provide parallel or overlapping remedies against discrimination. Thus, the exhaustion of state administrative or judicial remedies is not required prior to proceedings in the federal court. Silverman v. Univ. of Colo., 36 Colo. App. 269, 541 P.2d 93 (1975), rev'd on other grounds, 192 Colo. 75, 555 P.2d 1155 (1976).

Administrative remedies under this section need be exhausted only for claims filed pursuant to § 24-34-402, not for common-law sex discrimination claims. Brooke v. Rest. Servs., Inc., 906 P.2d 66 (Colo. 1995).

Exhaustion of administrative remedies under this section is not required for claims based on an alleged breach of a conciliation agreement that resolved claims of discrimination. The claim is not based on an alleged discriminatory act; it is based on an alleged breach of the conciliation agreement and a labor agreement. Given the purely contractual nature of the claim, administrative exhaustion under this section is not required. Cisneros v. ABC Rail Corp., 217 F.3d 1299 (10th Cir. 2000).

Federal court may defer proceedings pending commission's determination. A federal trial court should have discretion, if it so determines, to defer proceedings on a claim pending the determination of the claim by the commission. Silverman v. Univ. of Colo., 36 Colo. App. 269, 541 P.2d 93 (1975), rev'd on other grounds, 192 Colo. 75, 555 P.2d 1155 (1976) (decided under former law).

The 90-day right-to-sue notice issued by the Colorado civil rights division did not trigger the corresponding federal filing period. The division's notice does not fulfill the equal employment opportunity commission's obligation to issue its own right-to-sue notice under title VII, 42 U.S.C. § 2000e et seq. Rodriguez v. Wet Ink, LLC, 603 F.3d 810 (10th Cir. 2010).

Purpose of subsection (11) is to avoid duplicative efforts toward relief. The apparent purpose of the subsection (11) provision in relation to the cessation of jurisdiction is to avoid duplicative and possibly conflicting attempts to pursue relief both in the district court and before the commission. Cont'l Title Co. v. District Court, 645 P.2d 1310 (Colo. 1982); Agnello v. Adolph Coors Co., 695 P.2d 311 (Colo. App. 1984).

The effect of subsection (11) is only to provide an alternative remedy for vindication of the alleged discriminatory and unfair employment practice suffered by an employee, and does not remove an affirmative defense that might otherwise be asserted by the employer, nor does it create substantive rights by retroactively changing what was formerly a lawful employment practice into a discriminatory practice. Cont'l Title Co. v. District Court, 645 P.2d 1310 (Colo. 1982); Agnello v. Adolph Coors Co., 695 P.2d 311 (Colo. App. 1984).

Presentation of an opening statement by counsel was sufficient to "commence the hearing" within the meaning of subsection (11). Accordingly, the commission retained subject matter jurisdiction over the matter because such hearing was held within 120 days of the service of the written notice and complaint on the respondent, as required by subsection (11). May v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n, 43 P.3d 750 (Colo. App. 2002).

The conditions set forth in subsection (11) are not the only means by which the commission can lose its jurisdiction over a claim. Therefore, subsection (11) did not bar plaintiff's claim. Scardina v. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc., 2023 COA 8, 528 P.3d 926, vacated, 2024 CO 67, 556 P.3d 1238 (decided under former law).

The Colorado anti-discrimination act did not permit charging party to file a discrimination complaint anew in district court where none of the pathways to the district court this section offers occurred. Those pathways include: (1) the issuance of a right to sue letter at the charging party's request; (2) a division finding of no probable cause; (3) the commission's failure to issue a notice of a formal hearing within the statutory time frame; or (4) the commission's failure to hold a hearing within the statutory time frame. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc. v. Scardina, 2024 CO 67, 556 P.3d 1238 (decided under former law).

Here: (1) the charging party never requested a right to sue letter; (2) the director found probable cause to investigate the charging party's charge; (3) the commission filed a notice of hearing date within the statutory deadline; and (4) the administrative law judge held a commencement hearing within the statutory deadline. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc. v. Scardina, 2024 CO 67, 556 P.3d 1238 (decided under former law).

Once the commission has taken up a charge by serving notice of a hearing, a charging party cannot request and neither the division nor the commission can issue a right to sue letter. At that point, the statute provides unambiguously that the path to the district court is closed, with only one exception: if the hearing is not held promptly. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc. v. Scardina, 2024 CO 67, 556 P.3d 1238 (decided under former law).

Decision of civil rights commission upholding the dismissal of a claim by the director of the civil rights division upon finding that no probable cause existed to support a claim of discrimination based on existence of a handicap does not constitute a final agency action subject to appellate review. Demetry v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n, 752 P.2d 1070 (Colo. App. 1988).

After director determines that no probable cause exists and dismisses a charge, there is no requirement to appeal this dismissal to the commission prior to the institution of a judicial action on the claim. Montoya v. City of Colo. Springs, 770 P.2d 1358 (Colo. App. 1989).

Omission of a party's name from a charging document should be considered under the relation-back doctrine, C.R.C.P. 15 (c). Craig v. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc., 2015 COA 115, 370 P.3d 272, rev'd on other grounds sub nom. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Ltd. v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n, 584 U.S. 617 (2018).

Thus, administrative law judge did not err when he denied respondents' motion to dismiss. Craig v. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc., 2015 COA 115, 370 P.3d 272, rev'd on other grounds sub nom. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Ltd. v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n, 584 U.S. 617 (2018).

Despite the fact that the division's letter of probable cause determination erroneously referenced § 24-34-402, and not § 24-34-601, that did not violate the requirement that a respondent be notified "with specificity" of the "legal authority and jurisdiction of the commission" as required in this section. The charge of discrimination and the notice of determination correctly referenced § 24-34-601, the public accommodations section, several times, and thus the administrative law judge did not err when he denied respondents' motion to dismiss. Craig v. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc., 2015 COA 115, 370 P.3d 272, rev'd on other grounds sub nom. Masterpiece

Cakeshop, Ltd. v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n, 584 U.S. 617 (2018).

The commission's cease-and-desist order did not exceed the scope of its statutory authority. Individual remedies are merely secondary and incidental to the Colorado anti-discrimination act's primary purpose of eradicating discriminatory practices. Since respondents admitted that their refusal to provide a wedding cake for petitioners was because of the company's policy to decline orders for wedding cakes for same-sex weddings and marriage ceremonies, the commission's order was aimed at the specific discriminatory and unfair practice involved in the petitioners' complaint. Craig v. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc., 2015 COA 115, 370 P.3d 272, rev'd on other grounds sub nom. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Ltd. v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n, 584 U.S. 617 (2018).

Section provides alternative remedy and does not require exhaustion of administrative remedy. Wing v. JMB Prop. Mgmt. Corp., 714 P.2d 916 (Colo. App. 1985).

24-34-307. Judicial review and enforcement.

(1) Any complainant or respondent claiming to be aggrieved by a final order of the commission, including a refusal to issue an order, may obtain judicial review thereof, and the commission may obtain an order of court for its enforcement in a proceeding as provided in this section.

(2) Such proceeding shall be brought in the court of appeals by appropriate proceedings under section 24-4-106 (11).

(3) Such proceeding shall be initiated by the filing of a petition in the court of appeals and the service of a copy thereof upon the commission and upon all parties who appeared before the commission, and thereafter such proceeding shall be processed under the Colorado appellate rules. The court of appeals shall have jurisdiction of the proceeding and the questions determined therein and shall have power to grant such temporary relief or restraining order as it deems just and proper and to make and enter upon the pleadings, testimony, and proceedings set forth in such transcript an order enforcing, modifying, and enforcing as so modified or setting aside the order of the commission in whole or in part.

(4) An objection that has not been urged before the commission shall not be considered by the court, unless the failure or neglect to urge such objection shall be excused because of extraordinary circumstances.

(5) Any party may move the court to remit the case to the commission in the interests of justice for the purpose of adducing additional specified and material evidence and seeking findings thereof, if such party shows reasonable grounds for the failure to adduce such evidence before the commission.

(6) The findings of the commission as to the facts shall be conclusive if supported by substantial evidence.

(7) The jurisdiction of the court shall be exclusive and its judgment and order shall be final, subject to review as provided by law and the Colorado appellate rules.

(8) The commission's copy of the testimony shall be available to all parties for examination at all reasonable times, without cost, and for the purpose of judicial review of the commission's orders.

(9) The commission may appear in court by its own attorney.

(9.5) Upon application by a person alleging a discriminatory housing practice under section 24-34-502 or a person against whom such a practice is alleged, the court may appoint an attorney for such person or may authorize the commencement or continuation of a civil action without the payment of fees, costs, or security, if in the opinion of the court such person is financially unable to bear the costs of such action.

(10) The commission or court upon motion may grant a stay of the commission order pending appeal.

(11) Appeals filed under this section shall be heard expeditiously and determined upon the transcript filed, without requirement for printing. Hearings in the court of appeals under this part 3 shall take precedence over all other matters, except matters of the same character.

(12) If no proceeding to obtain judicial review is instituted by a complainant or respondent within forty-nine days from the service of an order of the commission pursuant to section 24-34-306, the commission may obtain a decree of the district court for the enforcement of such order upon showing that such respondent is subject to the jurisdiction of the commission and resides or transacts business within the county in which the petition for enforcement is brought.

Civil rights provisions were intended to provide mechanism to eradicate causes of discrimination and to halt discriminatory practices. Red Seal Potato Chip Co. v. Colo.

Civil Rights Comm'n, 44 Colo. App. 381, 618 P.2d 697 (1980).

They were not intended to provide relief to individual claimants. Red Seal Potato Chip Co. v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n, 44 Colo. App. 381, 618 P.2d 697 (1980); Agnello v. Adolph Coors Co., 695 P.2d 311 (Colo. App. 1984).

Claimant's benefits can be only enforced through commission action. Any benefits which may inure to a claimant as a result of a Colorado civil rights commission's action can only be enforced by the commission. Red Seal Potato Chip Co. v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n, 44 Colo. App. 381, 618 P.2d 697 (1980); Agnello v. Adolph Coors Co., 689 P.2d 1162 (Colo. App. 1984).

Although as part of the remedial orders in a Colorado civil rights commission proceeding, a respondent may be directed to rehire or compensate a claimant, that fact does not vest the claimant with any rights which the claimant can enforce by judicial decree. Red Seal Potato Chip Co. v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n, 44 Colo. App. 381, 618 P.2d 697 (1980).

Civil rights commission's sole function is to make a finding of fact as to whether a statutory employer has acted to discriminate against an employee because of race, creed, color, sex, national origin, or ancestry. Umberfield v. Sch. Dist. No. 11, 185 Colo. 165, 522 P.2d 730 (1974) (decided under former law).

Direct evidence is not a prerequisite to a finding of discrimination; such a finding may be based on legitimate inferences from the evidence. Tex. Southland Corp. v. Hogue, 30 Colo. App. 560, 497 P.2d 1275 (1972).

Commission's finding of discrimination is legitimate inference from evidence where it is established, among other things, that the employee is black, that he has been a good worker, and the employer's stated reasons for the discharge of the employee are false. Tex. Southland Corp. v. Hogue, 30 Colo. App. 560, 497 P.2d 1275 (1972).

Reviewing court is bound by commission's findings supported by substantial evidence. A district court on review is bound by the commission's findings of fact if they are supported by substantial evidence in the record. Umberfield v. Sch. Dist. No. 11, 185 Colo. 165, 522 P.2d 730 (1974).

Review is limited to whether existence of fact inferred by evidence. The judicial review of findings made by an administrative body such as the civil rights commission is limited to the question of whether, based upon the entire record, the findings are supported by evidence so substantial that an inference of the existence of a fact may be reasonably drawn. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n v. State, 30 Colo. App. 10, 488 P.2d 83 (1971); Tex. Southland Corp. v. Hogue, 30 Colo. App. 560, 497 P.2d 1275 (1972).

Commission may sift evidence, rejecting false and accepting true. In applying the "substantial evidence" rule, a commission such as the civil rights commission has the right to sift evidence, accepting the true, rejecting the false, and basing inferences on what it accepts as true. Colo. Civil Rights

Comm'n v. State, 30 Colo. App. 10, 488 P.2d 83 (1971).

Reviewing court cannot substitute its decisions for tribunal's. In determining whether the commission's order should stand, the question is not whether the court would come to an identical conclusion upon the evidence certified to it. A court cannot, upon the record of the proceedings before the hearing tribunal, substitute its own discretion for that reposed by statute in the tribunal. Due consideration must be accorded the presumption that an administrative body has acted fairly with proper motives, upon valid reasons, and not arbitrarily. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n v. State, 30 Colo. App. 10, 488 P.2d 83 (1971); Agnello v. Adolph Coors Co., 689 P.2d 1162 (Colo. App. 1984).

Agency is unauthorized to change final order while judicial review pending. An administrative agency is without authority to change, alter, or vacate a final order while review proceedings are pending in the district court. Colo. Anti-Discrimination Comm'n v. Cont'l Air Lines, 143 Colo. 590, 355 P.2d 83 (1960).

And, upon remand, it is without jurisdiction to do other than as directed by court. An attempt by the anti-discrimination commission (now civil rights commission) to vacate its original order is void where a party to the proceedings seeks review by the district court and the district court remands the cause to the commission with directions to make specific findings on specific issues; the commission has no jurisdiction to do other than as directed by the trial court. Colo.

Anti-Discrimination Comm'n v. Cont'l Air Lines, 143 Colo. 590, 355 P.2d 83 (1960).

Appeal to civil rights commission prerequisite to court action. The exhaustion of the administrative remedy of appeal to the Colorado civil rights commission from an adverse ruling of a hearing officer is a prerequisite to the maintenance of a court action challenging the hearing officer's ruling. N. Wash. St. Water & San. Dist. v. Emerson, 626 P.2d 1152 (Colo. App. 1980).

Subsection (1) permits a charging party to challenge the commission's "refusal to issue an order" in the court of appeals. Here the commission entered into a binding private settlement with the respondent in federal court, dismissed charging party's charge without her participation, and issued a closure order. The commission's issuance of a closure order deprived charging party of that process and any potential administrative remedy or settlement. The closure order amounts to the kind of "refusal to issue an order" that subsection (1) contemplates. Charging party had a statutorily established path to challenge the commission's conduct in the court of appeals. Under these circumstances, the commission's closure order represents the culmination of just such a refusal. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc. v. Scardina, 2024 CO 67, 556 P.3d 1238.

Where the commission entered a binding private settlement with a respondent in federal court and dismissed charging party's charge without her participation and without issuing the order required under this section, the charging party should have challenged the commission's conduct in the court of appeals. She did not. That choice did not entitle her to pursue the alternate path of filing a district court action. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc. v. Scardina, 2024 CO 67, 556 P.3d 1238.

Exhaustion of state remedies is not required prior to federal proceedings. Congress has evidenced its intent to provide parallel or overlapping remedies against discrimination. Thus, the exhaustion of state administrative or judicial remedies is not required prior to proceedings in the federal court. Silverman v. Univ. of Colo., 36 Colo. App. 269, 541 P.2d 93 (1975), rev'd on other grounds, 192 Colo. 75, 555 P.2d 1155 (1976).

Federal court may defer proceedings pending commission's determination. A federal trial court should have discretion, if it so determines, to defer proceedings on a claim pending the determination of the claim by the commission. Silverman v. Univ. of Colo., 36 Colo. App. 269, 541 P.2d 93 (1975), rev'd on other grounds, 192 Colo. 75, 555 P.2d 1155 (1976) (decided under former law).

Doctrine of res judicata bars relitigation of issues raised before prior administrative body. Where a teacher has a full adversary hearing before the teacher tenure panel, which has the power to determine all his claims of religious discrimination, the doctrine of res judicata operates as a bar to the relitigation of issues before the civil rights commission which the teacher raises or could raise in the hearing before the prior panel and on judicial review. To hold otherwise could result in an anomalous situation where the same reviewing court would be compelled to affirm opposite results of two administrative bodies. Umberfield v. Sch. Dist. No. 11, 185 Colo. 165, 522 P.2d 730 (1974).

24-34-308. Enforcement of federal law prohibited.

Nothing in parts 3 to 8 of this article shall be construed to authorize the commission, the director, or the division to enforce any provision of federal law. Nothing in this section shall prevent the commission from accepting federal grants for the enforcement of parts 3 to 7.

24-34-309. Public education - service and assistance animals - form used in housing.

(1) The division is authorized to educate the public about the definitions of assistance and service animals, as those terms are defined in sections 18-13-107.3 and 18-13-107.7, and the rights that accompany people with disabilities who use those animals. The division may:

- (a) Use its website to include information on how a person with a disability can complain about discrimination encountered in places of public accommodation and housing;
 - (b) Create and publicize public service announcements about the definitions of assistance and service animals and links to the division's website;
 - (c) Create and publicize uniform signage for all places of public accommodation to display to inform the public of the rules surrounding service and assistance animals;
 - (d) Create and publicize one or more forms that landlords, qualified individuals with a disability, and health-care providers may use in making a determination contemplated by section 12-240-144, 12-245-229, or 12-255-133; and
 - (e) Establish an education program for law enforcement officers in Colorado about service and assistance animals and how to provide effective communication to people with disabilities when making inquiries under applicable law.
- (2) If a landlord requires a tenant to provide documentation in connection with the tenant's assistance animal, as that term is defined in section 18-13-107.3, C.R.S., the landlord shall provide the tenant with the form specified in paragraph (d) of subsection (1) of this section if the division has posted the form on its website. The tenant need not use the form.

(1) The general assembly finds that:

(a) All Coloradans should have an equal opportunity to succeed in the workplace and are entitled to a workplace that is safe and free from discrimination and harassment based on their protected status;

(b) When employees have a safe workplace that is free from discrimination and harassment, those employees are more productive and are more inclined to remain in their jobs, and their employers benefit from increased employee productivity and retention;

(c) While many employers have made great strides in improving workplace environments by making them free from discrimination and harassment since this part 4 was first enacted in 1951, many employees in this state still experience discrimination and harassment in the workplace, resulting in mental, physical, and economic harm;

(d) It is critical that employers engage in preventive and corrective actions to eliminate workplace discrimination and harassment and ensure a safe workplace environment for all their employees; and

(2) Additionally, the general assembly:

(a) Finds that the "severe or pervasive" standard created by courts to determine if harassment at work is a discriminatory or an unfair employment practice does not take into account the realities of the workplace or the harm that workplace harassment causes; and

(b) Rejects the "severe or pervasive" standard for proof of workplace harassment in favor of a standard that prohibits unwelcome harassment.

(3) The general assembly further finds and declares that:

(a) It is the public policy of the state to encourage:

(I) Employers to adopt equal employment opportunity policies to prevent and disincentivize illegal harassment and discrimination; and

(II) The free reporting, discussion, and exposure of discriminatory or unfair employment practices in order to better protect employees and discourage discriminatory or unfair employment practices; and

(b) Attempts to interfere with employees' ability to communicate about and report alleged discriminatory or unfair employment practices are contrary to the public policy of the state.

ANNOTATION

Definition of employer includes the Colorado. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Univ. of board of regents of the university of Colo., 759 P.2d 726 (Colo. 1988).

24-34-402. Discriminatory or unfair employment practices - affirmative defense - definition.

(1) It is a discriminatory or an unfair employment practice:

(a) (I) For an employer to refuse to hire, to discharge, to promote or demote, to harass during the course of employment, or to discriminate in matters of compensation, terms, conditions, or privileges of employment against any individual otherwise qualified because of disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, religion, age, national origin, or ancestry.

(II) With regard to a disability, it is not a discriminatory or an unfair employment practice for an employer to refuse to hire, to discharge, or to promote or demote an individual with a disability if there is no reasonable accommodation that the employer can make with regard to the disability that would allow the individual to satisfy the essential functions of the job and the disability actually disqualifies the individual from the job.

(b) (I) For an employment agency to:

(A) Refuse to list and properly classify for employment or refuse to refer an individual for employment in a known available job for which the individual is otherwise qualified because of disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, religion, age, national origin, or ancestry; or

(B) Comply with a request from an employer for referral of applicants for employment if the request indicates either directly or indirectly that the employer discriminates in employment on account of disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, religion, age, national origin, or ancestry.

(II) With regard to a disability, it is not a discriminatory or an unfair employment practice for an employment agency to refuse to list and properly classify for employment or to refuse to refer an individual for employment in a known available job for which the individual is otherwise qualified if there is no reasonable accommodation that the employer can make with regard to the disability that would allow the individual to satisfy the essential functions of the job and the disability actually disqualifies the applicant from the job.

(c) For a labor organization to exclude any individual otherwise qualified from full membership rights in the labor organization, to expel an individual from membership in the labor organization, or to otherwise discriminate against any of its members in the full enjoyment of work opportunity because of disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, religion, age, national origin, or ancestry;

(d) For any employer, employment agency, or labor organization to print or circulate or cause to be printed or circulated any statement, advertisement, or publication, or to use any form of application for employment or membership, or to make any inquiry in connection with prospective employment or membership that expresses, either directly or indirectly, any limitation, specification, or discrimination as to disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, religion, age, national origin, or ancestry or intent to make any such limitation, specification, or discrimination, unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification or required by and given to an agency of government for security reasons;

(e) For any person, whether or not an employer, an employment agency, a labor organization, or the employees or members thereof:

(I) To aid, abet, incite, compel, or coerce the doing of any act defined in this section to be a discriminatory or unfair employment practice;

(II) To obstruct or prevent any person from complying with the provisions of this part 4 or any order issued with respect thereto;

(III) To attempt, either directly or indirectly, to commit any act defined in this section to be a discriminatory or unfair employment practice;

(IV) To discriminate against any person because such person has opposed any practice made a discriminatory or an unfair employment practice by this part 4, because he has filed a charge with the commission, or because he has testified, assisted, or participated in any manner in an investigation, proceeding, or hearing conducted pursuant to parts 3 and 4 of this article;

(f) For any employer, labor organization, joint apprenticeship committee, sponsor of an apprenticeship program registered pursuant to article 15.7 of title 8, or vocational school providing, coordinating, or controlling apprenticeship programs or providing, coordinating, or controlling on-the-job training programs or other instruction, training, or retraining programs:

(I) (A) To deny to or withhold from any qualified individual because of disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, religion, age, national origin, or ancestry the right to be admitted to or participate in an apprenticeship training program, an on-the-job training program, or any other occupational instruction, training, or retraining program.

(B) With regard to a disability, it is not a discriminatory or an unfair employment practice to deny or withhold the right to be admitted to or participate in any such program if there is no reasonable accommodation that can be made with regard to the disability that would allow the individual to satisfy the essential functions of the program and the disability actually disqualifies the individual from the program.

(II) To discriminate against any qualified individual in pursuit of such programs or to discriminate against the individual in the terms, conditions, or privileges of such programs because of disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, religion, age, national origin, or ancestry; or

(III) To print or circulate or cause to be printed or circulated any statement, advertisement, or publication, or to use any form of application for such programs, or to make any inquiry in connection with such programs that expresses, directly or indirectly, any limitation, specification, or discrimination as to disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, religion, age, national origin, or ancestry or any intent to make any such limitation, specification, or discrimination, unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification;

(g) For any private employer to refuse to hire, or to discriminate against, any person, whether directly or indirectly, who is otherwise qualified for employment solely because the person did not apply for employment through a private employment agency; but an employer shall not be deemed to have violated the provisions of this section if such employer retains one or more employment agencies as exclusive suppliers of personnel and no employment fees are charged to an employee who is hired as a result of having to utilize the services of any such employment agency;

(h) (I) For any employer to discharge an employee or to refuse to hire or promote a person solely on the basis that such employee or person is married to or plans to marry another employee of the employer; but this subsection (1)(h)(I) does not apply to employers with twenty-five or fewer employees.

(II) It is not unfair or discriminatory for an employer to discharge an employee or to refuse to hire or promote a person for the reasons stated in subsection (1)(h)(I) of this section under circumstances where:

(A) One spouse directly or indirectly would exercise supervisory, appointment, or dismissal authority or disciplinary action over the other spouse;

(B) One spouse would audit, verify, receive, or be entrusted with moneys received or handled by the other spouse; or

(C) One spouse has access to the employer's confidential information, including payroll and personnel records.

(i) Unless otherwise permitted by federal law, for an employer to discharge, discipline, discriminate against, coerce, intimidate, threaten, or interfere with any employee or other person because the employee inquired about, disclosed, compared, or otherwise discussed the employee's wages; to require as a condition of employment nondisclosure by an employee of his or her wages; or to require an employee to sign a waiver or other document that purports to deny an employee the right to disclose his or her wage information.

(1.3) (a) As used in subsections (1)(a) and (1.5) of this section and in this subsection (1.3), "harass" or "harassment" means to engage in, or the act of engaging in, any unwelcome physical or verbal conduct or any written, pictorial, or visual communication directed at an individual or group of individuals because of that individual's or group's membership in, or perceived membership in, a protected class, as described in subsection (1)(a) of this section, which conduct or communication is subjectively offensive to the individual alleging harassment and is objectively offensive to a reasonable individual who is a member of the same protected class. The conduct or communication need not be severe or pervasive to constitute a discriminatory or an unfair employment practice under subsection (1)(a) of this section and is a violation of subsection (1)(a) of this section if:

(I) Submission to the conduct or communication is explicitly or implicitly made a term or condition of the individual's employment;

(II) Submission to, objection to, or rejection of the conduct or communication is used as a basis for employment decisions affecting the individual; or

(III) The conduct or communication has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with the individual's work performance or creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working environment.

(b) The nature of the work or the frequency with which harassment in the workplace occurred in the past is not relevant to whether the conduct or communication is a discriminatory or an unfair employment practice under subsection (1)(a) of this section.

(c) (I) Notwithstanding subsection (1)(a) of this section, petty slights, minor annoyances, and lack of good manners do not constitute harassment unless the slights, annoyances, or lack of manners, when taken individually or in combination and under the totality of the circumstances, meet the standards set forth in subsection (1.3)(a) of this section.

(II) Factors to consider under the totality of the circumstances include:

(A) The frequency of the conduct or communication, recognizing that a single incident may rise to the level of harassment;

(B) The number of individuals engaged in the conduct or communication;

(C) The type or nature of the conduct or communication, recognizing that conduct or communication that, at one time, was or is welcome between two or more individuals may become unwelcome to one or more of those individuals;

(D) The duration of the conduct or communication;

(E) The location where the conduct or communication occurred;

(F) Whether the conduct or communication is threatening;

(G) Whether any power differential exists between the individual alleged to have engaged in harassment and the individual alleging the harassment;

(H) Any use of epithets, slurs, or other conduct or communication that is humiliating or degrading; and

(I) Whether the conduct or communication reflects stereotypes about an individual or group of individuals in a protected class.

(1.5) (a) When an employee proves that a supervisor unlawfully harassed that employee, as described in subsection (1.3)(a)(III) of this section, the employer may assert an affirmative defense to the harassment claim only if the employer establishes that:

(I) The employer has established a program that is reasonably designed to prevent harassment, deter future harassers, and protect employees from harassment. An employer's program satisfies this subsection (1.5)(a)(I) if the employer can demonstrate that:

(A) The employer takes prompt, reasonable action to investigate or address alleged discriminatory or unfair employment practices, as described in subsection (1)(a) of this section; and

(B) The employer takes prompt, reasonable remedial actions, when warranted, in response to complaints of discriminatory or unfair employment practices, as described in subsection (1)(a) of this section.

(II) The employer has communicated the existence and details of the program specified in subsection (1.5)(a)(I) of this section to both its supervisory and nonsupervisory employees; and

(III) The employee has unreasonably failed to take advantage of the employer's program specified in subsection (1.5)(a)(I) of this section.

(b) Nothing in this subsection (1.5) supersedes or eliminates any other analyses, evaluations, or standards of liability for harassment established in this section and through judicial interpretation of Title VII of the federal "Civil Rights Act of 1964", as amended, 42 U.S.C. sec. 2000e et seq.; the federal "Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967", as amended, 29 U.S.C. sec. 621 et seq.; Titles I and V of the federal "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", as amended, 42 U.S.C. sec. 12111 et seq.; the federal "Civil Rights Act of 1991", as amended, 42 U.S.C. sec. 1981a; and the United States constitution and amendments to the constitution.

(2) Notwithstanding any provisions of this section to the contrary, it is not a discriminatory or an unfair employment practice for the division of unemployment insurance in the department of labor and employment to ascertain and record the disability, sex, age, race, creed, color, or national origin of any individual for the purpose of making reports as may be required by law to agencies of the federal or state government only. The division may make and keep the records in the manner required by the federal or state law, but neither the division nor the department of labor and employment shall divulge the information to prospective employers as a basis for employment, except as provided in this subsection (2).

(3) Nothing in this section shall prohibit any employer from making individualized agreements with respect to compensation or the terms, conditions, or privileges of employment for persons suffering a disability if such individualized agreement is part of a therapeutic or job-training program of no more than twenty hours per week and lasting no more than eighteen months.

(4) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section to the contrary, it shall not be a discriminatory or an unfair employment practice with respect to age:

(a) To take any action otherwise prohibited by this section if age is a bona fide occupational qualification reasonably necessary to the normal operation of the particular employer or where the differentiation is based on reasonable factors other than age; or

(b) To observe the terms of a bona fide seniority system or any bona fide employee benefit plan, such as a retirement, pension, or insurance plan, which is not a subterfuge to evade the purposes of this section; except that, unless authorized in paragraph (a) of this subsection (4), no such employee benefit plan shall require or permit the involuntary retirement of any individual because of the age of such individual; or

(c) To compel the retirement of any employee who is sixty-five years of age or older and under seventy years of age and who, for the two-year period immediately before retirement, is employed in a bona fide executive or a high policy-making position if such employee is entitled to an immediate nonforfeitable annual retirement benefit from a pension, profit-sharing, savings, or deferred compensation plan, or any combination of such plans, of the employer of such employee and if such plan equals, in the aggregate, at least forty-four thousand dollars; or

(5) Nothing in this section shall preclude an employer from requiring compliance with a reasonable dress code as long as the dress code is applied consistently.

(6) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, this section shall not apply to a religious corporation, association, educational institution, or society with respect to the employment of individuals of a particular religion to perform work connected with the carrying on by such corporation, association, educational institution, or society of its activities.

(7) For purposes of this section, "employer" shall not include any religious organization or association, except for any religious organization or association that is supported in whole or in part by money raised by taxation or public borrowing.

(8) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section to the contrary, it is not a discriminatory or an unfair employment practice with respect to sex for a person to consider sex when hiring an employee engaged in child-care-related domestic services.

Annotator's note. Prior to the 1986 amendment to this section, provisions relating to age of an employee as a ground for discharge were found in §§ 8-2-116 and 8-2-117. Whether a private right of action was created pursuant to § 8-2-116 was discussed in Rawson v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 530 F. Supp. 776 (D. Colo. 1982); Rawson v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 554 F. Supp. 327 (D. Colo. 1982); Brenimer v. Great W. Sugar Co., 567

F. Supp. 218 (D. Colo. 1983); Rawson v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 585 F. Supp. 1393 (D. Colo. 1984); Borumka v. Rocky Mtn. Hosp., 599 F. Supp. 857 (D. Colo. 1984); Rawson v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 615 F. Supp. 1546 (D. Colo. 1985); Dirito v. Ideal Basic Indus., Inc., 617 F. Supp. 79 (D. Colo. 1985); Spulak v. K Mart, 664 F. Supp. 1395 (D. Colo. 1985); Brezinski v. F.W. Woolworth, 626 F. Supp. 240 (D. Colo. 1986); and Rawson v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 822 F.2d 908 (10th Cir. 1987).

Section does not impose a constitutionally prohibited burden upon interstate commerce. Colo. Anti-Discrimination Comm'n v. Cont'l Air Lines, 372 U.S. 714 (1963).

Primary purpose of commission is to determine whether a discriminatory practice has occurred and, if so, to take such action as will assure that such practice is satisfactorily eliminated and prevented in the future. While the commission may grant specific relief to a claimant, it is not required to do so. Agnello v. Adolph Coors Co., 689 P.2d 1162 (Colo. App. 1984).

The legislature did not intend to preclude common law harassment claims by enacting this section. This section does not provide an exclusive remedy for sex discrimination claims. Brooke v. Rest. Servs., Inc., 906 P.2d 66 (Colo. 1995).

In amending this section in 1999, the general assembly did not intend the Colorado anti-discrimination act to be the exclusive remedy against an employer who negligently supervises an employee engaging in sexual harassment against a fellow employee. Alarid v. MacLean Power, LLC, 132 F. Supp. 3d 1299 (D. Colo. 2015).

The object of this section and § 24-34-301 (4) is to eliminate discrimination in employment on account of physical handicap. Gamble v. Levitz Furniture Co., 759 P.2d 761 (Colo. App. 1988).

The Colorado anti-discrimination act may form the basis for a claim of wrongful discharge in violation of public policy. Kennedy v. Colo. RS, LLC, 872 F. Supp. 2d 1146 (D. Colo. 2012).

An action for negligent infliction of emotional distress cannot be premised solely on a violation of this statute. The purpose of the statute is to protect disabled workers' jobs, not to protect them from emotional distress. Bigby v. Big 3 Supply Co., 937 P.2d 794 (Colo. App. 1996).

Action for reinstatement and back pay under the anti-discrimination provisions of the Colorado civil rights act is not an action seeking compensatory damages for personal injuries and therefore neither lies in tort nor could lie in tort for purposes of the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act. City of Colo. Springs v. Conners, 993 P.2d 1167 (Colo. 2000).

State regulation of interstate racial discrimination is allowed. The field of racial discrimination by an interstate carrier does not have to be free from diverse state regulation and governed uniformly, if at all, by congress. Colo. Anti-Discrimination Comm'n v. Cont'l Air Lines, 372 U.S. 714 (1963).

Federal legislation prevents enforcement of Colorado's physical handicap discrimination law against airlines. Federal law prohibits any state law that effects services provided by an air carrier. Any restriction on an airline's selection of employees affects the services provided by the airline. Belgard v. United Airlines, 857 P.2d 467 (Colo. App. 1992).

Neither federal aviation nor federal railway labor provisions bar this section. Colo. Anti-Discrimination Comm'n v. Cont'l Air Lines, 372 U.S. 714 (1963).

Consequently, government agencies may be required to include anti-discrimination clauses in contracts. Executive orders may require government contracting agencies to include in their contracts clauses by which the contractors agree not to discriminate against employees or applicants because of their race, religion, color, or national origin. Colo. Anti-Discrimination Comm'n v. Cont'l Air Lines, 372 U.S. 714 (1963).

Intentional discrimination may be presumed by the establishment of a prima facie case that shows that: (1) The complainant belongs to a protected class; (2) the complainant was qualified for the job at issue; (3) despite the complainant's other qualifications, the complainant suffered an adverse employment decision; and (4) the circumstances give rise to an inference of unlawful discrimination. George v. Ute Water Conservancy Dist., 950 P.2d 1195 (Colo. App. 1997).

Once plaintiff establishes at trial that he has a handicap within the statutory definition of § 24-34-301 (4), he must additionally establish that his employer violated the provisions of subsection (1)(a) and (1)(f)(I) in discharging the plaintiff from employment. Gamble v. Levitz Furniture Co., 759 P.2d 761 (Colo. App. 1988).

Public policy exception to general rule that an indefinite general hiring is terminable at will by either party does not exist when subsection (1)(f)(I) provides the employee with a wrongful discharge remedy. Gamble v. Levitz Furniture Co., 759 P.2d 761 (Colo. App. 1988).

A handicapped person is "otherwise qualified" if, with reasonable accommodations, he can perform the reasonable, legitimate, and necessary functions of his job. AT&T Techs., Inc. v. Royston, 772 P.2d 1182 (Colo. App. 1989).

Finding by commission that defendant suffered a physical handicap within meaning of subsection (1)(a) when assigned job which aggravated defendant's symptoms from previous injury to the point that he could not perform said assignment full-time was supported by substantial evidence and is binding on review. AT&T Techs., Inc. v. Royston, 772 P.2d 1182 (Colo. App. 1989).

Once employee makes facial showing that his handicap can be accommodated, the burden shifts to employer to prove that handicap could not be reasonably accommodated, that the handicap actually disqualified the individual from the job, and that the handicap had a significant impact on the job. AT&T Techs., Inc. v. Royston, 772 P.2d 1182 (Colo. App. 1989).

Insurance policy provision excluding disability coverage for normal pregnancies is discrimination on the basis of sex and violates § 29 of art. II, Colo. Const., and this section. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Travelers Ins., 759 P.2d 1358 (Colo. 1988) (decided prior to enactment of §§ 10-8-122.2, 10-16-114.6, and 10-17-131.6).

Provision of group health insurance in conjunction with employment constitutes a matter of compensation. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Travelers Ins., 759 P.2d 1358 (Colo. 1988).

The following procedure applies in claims of employment discrimination: First, the complainant must initially establish a prima facie case of discrimination. If the complainant establishes a prima facie case of discrimination, the burden of production shifts to the employer to articulate some legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for the employment decision. Once the employer meets its burden, the complainant must then be given a full and fair opportunity to demonstrate by competent evidence that the presumptively valid reasons for the employment decision were in fact a pretext for discrimination. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Big O Tires, Inc., 940 P.2d 397 (Colo. 1997); Bodaghi v. Dept. of Natural Res., 995 P.2d 288 (Colo. 2000).

Where a prima facie case of discrimination is proven and the reasons given for discharge are found to be a pretext for discrimination, no additional evidence is required to infer intentional discrimination. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Big O Tires, Inc., 940 P.2d 397 (Colo. 1997);

Bodaghi v. Dept. of Natural Res., 995 P.2d 288 (Colo. 2000).

If the plaintiff establishes a prima facie case of discrimination, a presumption arises that the employer unlawfully discriminated against the plaintiff. The presumption places upon the defendant the burden of producing an explanation to rebut the prima facie case. Bodaghi v. Dept. of Natural Res., 943 P.2d 1 (Colo. App. 1996).

However, the presumption created shifts only the burden of production. The ultimate burden of persuading the trier of fact that the defendant intentionally discriminated against the plaintiff remains on the plaintiff. Bodaghi v. Dept. of Natural Res., 943 P.2d 1 (Colo. App. 1996).

Intentional discrimination under this section may be proven either directly or indirectly. George v. Ute Water Conservancy Dist., 950 P.2d 1195 (Colo. App. 1997).

Direct evidence of overt discrimination is not a prerequisite to finding of discrimination. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n v. State, 30 Colo. App. 10, 488 P.2d 83 (1971).

Racial discrimination may not be inferred where surrounding facts supporting inference are absent. While the commission may contend that the discharge of a complainant was not based upon her inadequacies as a teacher and, in the absence of any other legitimate explanation for such a discharge, the commission is entitled to infer that the motivation for the discharge was racial discrimination, racial discrimination may not be inferred as a basis for a discharge where the surrounding facts supporting such an inference are absent. Even though the commission chooses to disbelieve or disregard material evidence indicating that a proper basis for discharge does exist, the necessary inference of discrimination must be in evidence in the record. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n v. State, 30 Colo. App. 10, 488 P.2d 83 (1971).

The language of subsection (1)(e) unambiguously permits suits against supervisory employees for actions they took within the scope of their employment. The provision draws a clear distinction between an employer and its employees; thus, the statute cannot be reasonably interpreted to consider employer and employee as a single entity. Morales v. Law Firm of Michael W. McDivitt, P.C., 641 F. Supp. 3d 1035 (D. Colo. 2022).

No intent necessary for liability as an aider and abetter. The conduct prescribed is simply conduct that assists others in their performance of prohibited acts and when conduct being assisted is patently discriminatory, one need not have an intent to be considered an aider and abetter. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Travelers Ins., 759 P.2d 1358 (Colo. 1988).

When an insurance company offers and underwrites a discriminatory policy, it aids and abets an employer in a discriminatory act. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Travelers Ins., 759 P.2d 1358 (Colo. 1988).

To prove a claim under this section that plaintiff was discharged for having AIDS, plaintiff must show that the employer knew or should have known of the physical condition and need for accommodation. Phelps v. Field Real Estate Co., 793 F. Supp. 1535 (D. Colo. 1991); Phelps v. Field Real Estate Co., 991 F.2d 645 (10th Cir. 1993).

Even if plaintiff is unable to prove that she has an impairment which substantially limits a major life function, she can succeed on her claim if she can demonstrate that defendant regarded her as having such an impairment. Healion v. Great-West Life Assur., 830 F. Supp. 1372 (D. Colo. 1993).

The imposition of a "bona fide occupational qualification" is not a valid defense to an employment discrimination suit brought under this section. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Conagra Flour Mill Co., 736 P.2d 842 (Colo. App. 1987).

Defense of "business necessity", in case involving alleged employment discrimination due to handicap, is available to employers. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Fire Prot. Dist., 772 P.2d 70 (Colo. 1989).

Where the complainant is demoted because of a handicap, the employer, to avoid liability in a suit brought pursuant to this section, must show that the complainant is actually unable to perform the job. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Conagra Flour Mill Co., 736 P.2d 842 (Colo. App. 1987).

Employer not required to accommodate employees' non-work-related barriers created by personal lifestyle choices. Unrein v. PHC-Ft. Morgan, Inc., 993 F.3d 873 (10th Cir. 2021).

A two-year-and-nine-month age difference between plaintiff and his replacement worker, without more than just plaintiff's subjective view that age was a relevant factor, was insufficient to establish a prima facie case of age discrimination. George v. Ute Water Conservancy Dist., 950 P.2d 1195 (Colo. App. 1997).

"Constructive discharge" concept applicable. The concept of "constructive discharge" developed in unfair labor practice cases is applicable to discrimination cases. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n v. State, 30 Colo. App. 10, 488 P.2d 83 (1971).

Therefore, formal words of firing unnecessary. The fact of a discharge does not depend upon the use of formal words of firing. The test is whether sufficient words or actions by the employer would logically lead a prudent person to believe his tenure has been terminated. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n v. State, 30 Colo. App. 10, 488 P.2d 83 (1971).

Mere signed statement that resignation is voluntary does not relieve employer of consequences of an act amounting to constructive discharge. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n v. State, 30 Colo. App. 10, 488 P.2d 83 (1971).

The fact that a teacher submits her resignation subsequent to a conference with a principal, at which time he had told her that he would not recommend her for rehiring, does not make her separation from employment by the school district a "voluntary" resignation. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n v. State, 30 Colo. App. 10, 488 P.2d 83 (1971).

The federal district court presumed the McDonnell Douglas v. Green, 411 U.S. 792 (1973), analysis would apply to a wage claim under this section, even though no state court has directly endorsed it. Noel v. Medtronic Electromedics, Inc., 973 F. Supp. 1206 (D. Colo. 1997).

Retaliation claims under this section are subject to the same legal standards as federal Title VII retaliation claims. Feltner v. Dragonfly Entm't Grp., LLC, 607 F. Supp. 3d 1160 (D. Colo. 2022).

Nexus between discriminatory acts and discharge must be shown. To establish a claim that a discharge is a result of racial discrimination, a nexus must be shown between the allegedly discriminatory acts and the subsequent discharge. Adolph Coors Co. v. Colo. 24-34-402.3. Prohibition of discrimination - pregnancy, childbirth, and related conditions - reasonable accommodations required - notice of rights - definitions.

(1) (a) An employer shall:

(I) Provide reasonable accommodations to perform the essential functions of the job to an applicant for employment or an employee for health conditions related to pregnancy or the physical recovery from childbirth, if the applicant or employee requests the reasonable accommodations, unless the accommodation would impose an undue hardship on the employer's business;

(II) Not take adverse action against an employee who requests or uses a reasonable accommodation related to pregnancy, physical recovery from childbirth, or a related condition;

(III) Not deny employment opportunities to an applicant or employee based on the need to make a reasonable accommodation related to the applicant's or employee's pregnancy, physical recovery from childbirth, or a related condition;

(IV) Not require an applicant or employee affected by pregnancy, physical recovery from childbirth, or a related condition to accept an accommodation that the applicant or employee has not requested or an accommodation that is unnecessary for the applicant or employee to perform the essential functions of the job; and

(V) Not require an employee to take leave if the employer can provide another reasonable accommodation for the employee's pregnancy, physical recovery from childbirth, or related condition.

(b) An employer may require an employee or applicant to provide a note stating the necessity of a reasonable accommodation from a licensed health-care provider before providing a reasonable accommodation.

(2) If an applicant or an employee requests an accommodation, the employer and applicant or employee shall engage in a timely, good-faith, and interactive process to determine effective, reasonable accommodations for the applicant or employee for conditions related to pregnancy, physical recovery from childbirth, or a related condition.

(3) (a) The employer shall provide written notice of the right to be free from discriminatory or unfair employment practices pursuant to this section to:

(I) New employees at the start of employment; and

(II) Existing employees within one hundred twenty days after August 10, 2016.

(b) The employer shall post the required notice in a conspicuous place in the employer's place of business in an area accessible to employees.

(4) As used in this section:

(a) "Adverse action" means an action where a reasonable employee would have found the action materially adverse, such that it might have dissuaded a reasonable worker from making or supporting a charge of discrimination.

(b) "Reasonable accommodations" may include, but is not limited to, the provision of more frequent or longer break periods; more frequent restroom, food, and water breaks; acquisition or modification of equipment or seating; limitations on lifting; temporary transfer to a less strenuous or hazardous position if available, with return to the current position after pregnancy; job restructuring; light-duty, if available; assistance with manual labor; or modified work schedules as long as the employer is not required to do any of the following:

(I) Hire new employees that the employer would not otherwise have hired;

(II) Discharge an employee, transfer another employee with more seniority, or promote another employee who is not qualified to perform the new job;

(III) Create a new position, including a light-duty position for the employee, unless a light-duty position would be provided for another equivalent employee; or

(IV) Provide the employee paid leave beyond that which is provided to similarly situated employees.

(c) (I) "Undue hardship", in connection with a requested accommodation, means an action requiring significant difficulty or expense to the employer. In determining undue hardship, the following factors may be considered:

(A) The nature and cost of the accommodation;

(B) The overall financial resources of the employer;

(C) The overall size of the employer's business with respect to the number of employees and the number, type, and location of the available facilities; and

(D) The accommodation's effect on expenses and resources or its effect upon the operations of the employer.

(II) The employer's provision of, or a requirement that the employer provide, a similar accommodation to other classes of employees creates a rebuttable presumption that the accommodation does not impose an undue hardship.

(5) It is a discriminatory or unfair employment practice for an employer to violate this section; except that a violation of subsection (3) of this section is not a discriminatory or unfair employment practice.

(6) (a) This section does not preempt or limit any other provision of law relating to sex discrimination or to pregnancy, physical recovery from childbirth, or a related condition.

(b) This section neither increases nor decreases an employee's rights, under any other law, to paid or unpaid leave in connection with the employee's pregnancy.

(7) Notwithstanding section 24-34-405, a court shall not award punitive damages in a civil action involving a claim of failure to make a reasonable accommodation for an employee for conditions related to pregnancy or the physical recovery from childbirth if the defendant demonstrates good-faith efforts to identify and make a reasonable accommodation that would provide an employee who has a health condition related to pregnancy or the physical recovery from childbirth with an equally effective opportunity and would not cause an undue hardship on the operation of the defendant's business.

process with an employee requesting an accommodation to identify employee's precise limitations and to explore whether there is any accommodation that could enable employee to return to work and perform the essential functions of the job. Aubrey v. Koppes, 975 F.3d 995 (10th Cir. 2020).

24-34-402.5. Unlawful prohibition of legal activities as a condition of employment.

(1) It shall be a discriminatory or unfair employment practice for an employer to terminate the employment of any employee due to that employee's engaging in any lawful activity off the premises of the employer during nonworking hours unless such a restriction:

(a) Relates to a bona fide occupational requirement or is reasonably and rationally related to the employment activities and responsibilities of a particular employee or a particular group of employees, rather than to all employees of the employer; or

(b) Is necessary to avoid a conflict of interest with any responsibilities to the employer or the appearance of such a conflict of interest.

(2) (a) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this article, the sole remedy for any person claiming to be aggrieved by a discriminatory or unfair employment practice as defined in this section shall be as follows: He or she may bring a civil action for damages in any district court of competent jurisdiction and may sue for all wages and benefits that would have been due him or her up to and including the date of the judgment had the discriminatory or unfair employment practice not occurred; except that nothing in this section shall be construed to relieve the person from the obligation to mitigate his or her damages.

(b) (I) If the prevailing party in the civil action is the plaintiff, the court shall award the plaintiff court costs and a reasonable attorney fee.

(II) This paragraph (b) shall not apply to an employee of a business that has or had fifteen or fewer employees during each of twenty or more calendar work weeks in the current or preceding calendar year.

This section is read to contain two parts. First part prohibits employers from terminating employees for the reasons enumerated. Second part provides a defense to employer if employer has a restriction on an employee's lawful activities which satisfies one or both of the enumerated exceptions. Thus, issue of restrictions of an employee's activities arises only as part on an employer's defense to an action for violation of the section, and no specific restriction must be adopted by an employer as a predicate to violating the prohibition. Gwin v. Chesrown Chevrolet, Inc., 931 P.2d 466 (Colo. App. 1996).

There is a two-pronged analysis under this section: (1) Did the employer terminate an employee for participation in a lawful activity; and (2) was there a statutory exception to justify that termination. Marsh v. Delta Air Lines, Inc., 952 F. Supp. 1458 (D. Colo. 1997).

This section does not require an employer to adopt specific written restrictions for which it can terminate an employee, but merely requires that any restriction an employer is attempting to enforce must fall under the purview of the statute's exceptions. Marsh v. Delta Air Lines, Inc., 952 F. Supp. 1458 (D. Colo. 1997).

Off-premises activities that constitute violations of state laws can be deemed unlawful even if there are no criminal citations. Oransky v. Martin Marietta Materials, Inc., 400 F. Supp. 3d 1142 (D. Colo. 2019).

This section does not protect an employee who has unique job duties and responsibilities and who chooses a particularly overt way to conduct their off-duty activities. Oransky v. Martin Marietta Materials, Inc., 400 F. Supp. 3d 1142 (D. Colo. 2019).

A conflict exists when an employee engages in activities of a private and personal interest on the employee's own time, but does so in a way that could bring the reputation of the employer with important third parties into question. Oransky v. Martin Marietta Materials, Inc., 400 F. Supp. 3d 1142 (D. Colo. 2019).

To the extent this state has a general public policy of preventing employers from placing restrictions on employee's off-duty, first amendment activities, it is clear that this section reflects an equally important public policy of allowing employers to terminate employees whose off-duty conduct (under the first amendment or not) creates a conflict of interest or interferes with the employee's performance of unique job duties. Oransky v. Martin Marietta Materials, Inc., 400 F. Supp. 3d 1142 (D. Colo. 2019).

State law expressly contemplates that an employer may terminate an employee whose off-duty conduct interferes with their job duties or creates a conflict of interest. Oransky v. Martin Marietta Materials, Inc., 400 F. Supp. 3d 1142 (D. Colo. 2019).

One of the bona fide occupational requirements encompassed within the scope of subsection (1)(a) is an implied duty of loyalty, with regard to public communications, that employees owe to their employers. Marsh v. Delta Air Lines, Inc., 952 F. Supp. 1458 (D. Colo. 1997).

The term "conflict of interest" should be given its generally understood meaning, that is, that it relates to fiduciaries and their relationship to matters of private interest or gain to them or a situation in which regard for one duty tends to lead to disregard of another. Marsh v. Delta Air Lines, Inc., 952 F. Supp. 1458 (D. Colo. 1997).

The term "conflict of interest" is not limited to financial conflicts of interest. Ruiz v. Hope for Children, Inc., 2013 COA 91, 352 P.3d 983.

Nor must a conflict actually interfere with an employee's ability to perform his or her job. Ruiz v. Hope for Children, Inc., 2013 COA 91, 352 P.3d 983.

The plain language of the statute does not require that an employer consider a less drastic alternative to termination of the employee when a conflict of interest exists. Ruiz v. Hope for Children, Inc., 2013 COA 91, 352 P.3d 983.

Subsection (1) unambiguously prohibits only termination or discharge of an employee's employment and does not extend to demotion of an employee to another position with the same employer. Butler v. Bd. County Comm'rs for San Miguel, 2021 COA 32, 491 P.3d 506.

Exhaustion of administrative procedures, as set forth in § 24-34-306, is not a condition precedent to asserting an "unlawful prohibition" claim under this section. Galiati v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 840 F. Supp. 104 (D. Colo. 1993).

The six-month statute of limitations set forth in § 24-34-403 governs all actions under part 4, including actions brought pursuant to this section. Galiati v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 840 F. Supp. 104 (D. Colo. 1993).

The six-month limitation period set forth in § 24-34-403 applies only to claims filed with the Colorado civil rights commission and, therefore, does not apply to claims filed in a district court pursuant to this section. Galvan v. Spanish Peaks Reg'l Health Center, 98 P.3d 949 (Colo. App. 2004).

This section applies to lawful, off-duty conduct, even if it is work-related. Insofar as the section refers to "any lawful activity", it can be presumed that the general assembly meant all activity without limitation. Accordingly, damages could be awarded to person who was terminated for making a complaint off the premises of the employer during nonworking hours about the safety of a work site. Watson v. Pub. Serv. Co., 207 P.3d 860 (Colo. App. 2008).

The defense in subsection (1)(a) is satisfied when an employer can show that an employee's conduct was reasonably and rationally related to the employee's responsibilities, as defined by activities that are necessarily not in direct conflict with the essential business-related interests of the employer. The trial court properly dismissed a complaint under this section where the employer could show that the employee, a manager of a plant that had failed an audit, was discharged for taking a vacation during a post-audit meeting. Williams v. Rock-Tenn Servs., Inc., 2016 COA 18, 370 P.3d 638.

State-licensed medical marijuana use not "lawful activity" for purposes of this section. The statute does not define "lawful", and a plain and ordinary meaning of the word is that which is "permitted by law". Because medical marijuana use is subject to both state and federal law, for such an activity to be lawful in this state, it must be permitted by, and not contrary to, both state and federal law. Because plaintiff's state-licensed medical marijuana use was, at the time of termination, subject to and prohibited by federal law, it was not "lawful activity". Coats v. Dish Network, L.L.C., 2013 COA 62, 303 P.3d 147, aff'd, 2015 CO 44, 350 P.3d 849.

The defendant county was entitled to attorney fees after prevailing under this section even though plaintiff prevailed in her due process claim because the two claims were sufficiently distinct to allow a finding that there was a different prevailing party as to each. Langseth v. County of Elbert, 916 P.2d 655 (Colo. App. 1996).

Claim under this section may not be tried to a jury. Back pay under part 4 of the Colorado Civil Rights Act, which includes this section, is an equitable remedy, the purpose of which is to make the plaintiff whole. If the general assembly intended to provide for a jury trial under this section, it would have specifically done so. Watson v. Pub. Serv. Co., 207 P.3d 860 (Colo. App. 2008).

Section does not provide for prejudgment interest. Watson v. Pub. Serv. Co., 207 P.3d 860 (Colo. App. 2008).

Jury verdict based only upon an instruction that plaintiff would not have been dismissed but for his sexual orientation did not support a violation of this section. The instruction was based on a

Denver ordinance that prohibits dismissal based on sexual orientation, not this section, which prohibits dismissal because an employee engaged in lawful activity away from an employer's premises during nonworking hours. Robert C. Ozer, P.C. v. Borquez, 940 P.2d 371 (Colo. 1997).

Employee's romantic relationship with a client or former client of a small nonprofit organization dedicated to promoting the safety and well-being of children and families created the appearance of a conflict of interest with the employee's job responsibilities. Ruiz v. Hope for Children, Inc., 2013 COA 91, 352 P.3d 983.

24-34-402.7. Unlawful action against employees seeking protection.

(1) (a) Employers shall permit an employee to request or take up to three working days of leave from work in any twelve-month period, with or without pay, if the employee is the victim of domestic abuse, as that term is defined in section 13-14-101 (2), C.R.S., the victim of stalking, as that crime is described in section 18-3-602, C.R.S., the victim of sexual assault, as that crime is defined in section 18-3-402, C.R.S., or the victim of any other crime, the underlying factual basis of which has been found by a court on the record to include an act of domestic violence, as that term is defined in section 18-6-800.3 (1), C.R.S. This section shall only apply if the employee is using the leave from work to protect himself or herself by:

(I) Seeking a civil protection order to prevent domestic abuse pursuant to section 13-14-104.5, 13-14-106, or 13-14-108, C.R.S.;

(II) Obtaining medical care or mental health counseling or both for himself or herself or for his or her children to address physical or psychological injuries resulting from the act of domestic abuse, stalking, or sexual assault or other crime involving domestic violence;

(III) Making his or her home secure from the perpetrator of the act of domestic abuse, stalking, or sexual assault or other crime involving domestic violence or seeking new housing to escape said perpetrator;

(IV) Seeking legal assistance to address issues arising from the act of domestic abuse, stalking, or sexual assault or other crime involving domestic violence and attending and preparing for court-related proceedings arising from said act or crime.

(b) The provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall only apply to employers who employ fifty or more employees and to employees who have been employed with the employer for twelve months or more.

(2) (a) Except in cases of imminent danger to the health or safety of the employee, an employee seeking leave from work pursuant to this section shall provide his or her employer with the appropriate advance notice of such leave as may be required by the employer's policy and such documentation as may be required by the employer.

(b) An employee seeking leave pursuant to this section, prior to receiving such leave, shall exhaust any and all annual or vacation leave, personal leave, and sick leave, if applicable, that may be available to the employee, unless the employer waives this requirement.

(c) All information related to the employee's leave pursuant to this section shall be kept confidential by the employer.

(3) (a) It shall be unlawful for any employer to interfere with, restrain, or deny the exercise of or any attempt to exercise any rights provided under this section.

(b) It shall be unlawful for any employer to discharge or in any other manner discriminate against any individual for exercising his or her rights under this section.

(c) An employee shall have no greater rights to continued employment or to other benefits and conditions of employment than if the employee was not entitled to leave under this section. Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the employer's right to discipline or terminate any employee for any reason, including but not limited to reductions in work force or termination for cause or for no reason at all, other than exercising his or her rights under this section.

(4) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this article to the contrary, the sole remedy for any person claiming to be aggrieved by a violation of this section shall be to bring a civil suit for damages or equitable relief or both in any district court of competent jurisdiction. Such person may claim as damages all wages and benefits that would have been due the person up to and including the date of the judgment had the act violating this section not occurred; except that nothing in this section shall be construed to relieve such person from the obligation to mitigate his or her damages.

Any employer, labor organization, joint apprenticeship committee, or vocational school whose employees or members, or some of them, refuse or threaten to refuse to comply with the provisions

24-34-405. Relief authorized - short title.

(1) This section shall be known and may be cited as the "Job Protection and Civil Rights Enforcement Act of 2013".

(2) (a) In addition to the relief authorized by section 24-34-306 (9), the commission or the court may order affirmative relief that the commission or court determines to be appropriate, including the following relief, against a respondent who is found to have engaged in an unfair or discriminatory employment practice:

(I) Reinstatement or hiring of employees, with or without back pay. If the commission or court orders back pay, the employer, employment agency, or labor organization responsible for the discriminatory or unfair employment practice shall pay the back pay to the person who was the victim of the practice.

(II) Front pay; or

(III) Any other equitable relief the commission or court deems appropriate.

(b) If the commission or court orders back pay, the liability for back pay accrues from a date not more than two years prior to the filing of a charge with the division. The commission or court shall reduce an award of back pay by any amount of actual earnings of, or amounts that could have been earned with reasonable diligence by, the person who was the victim of the discriminatory or unfair employment practice.

(3) (a) In addition to the relief available pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, in a civil action brought by a plaintiff under this part 4 against a defendant who is found to have engaged in an intentional discriminatory or unfair employment practice, the plaintiff may recover compensatory and punitive damages as specified in this subsection (3). The court shall not award a plaintiff compensatory or punitive damages when the defendant is found to have engaged in an employment practice that is unlawful solely because of its disparate impact.

(b) (I) Except as limited by the "Colorado Governmental Immunity Act", article 10 of this title, and except as provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b), a plaintiff may recover punitive damages against a defendant, other than the state or any political subdivision, commission, department, institution, or school district of the state, if the plaintiff demonstrates by clear and convincing evidence that the defendant engaged in a discriminatory or unfair employment practice with malice or reckless indifference to the rights of the plaintiff. However, if the defendant demonstrates good-faith efforts to comply with this part 4 and to prevent discriminatory and unfair employment practices in the workplace, the court shall not award punitive damages against the defendant.

(II) The court shall not award punitive damages in a civil action involving a claim of failure to make a reasonable accommodation for a person with a disability if the defendant demonstrates good-faith efforts to identify and make a reasonable accommodation that would provide the person with a disability an equally effective opportunity and would not cause an undue hardship on the operation of the defendant's business.

(c) A plaintiff may recover compensatory damages against a defendant for other pecuniary losses, emotional pain and suffering, inconvenience, mental anguish, loss of enjoyment of life, and other nonpecuniary losses.

(d) (I) Except as provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (d), the total amount of compensatory and punitive damages awarded pursuant to this subsection (3) shall not exceed the amounts specified in 42 U.S.C. sec. 1981a (b)(3).

(II) For employers who employ fewer than fifteen employees, the total amount of compensatory and punitive damages awarded pursuant to this subsection (3) shall not exceed the following amounts:

(A) If the defendant has one or more employees but fewer than five employees in each of twenty or more calendar weeks in either the current or preceding calendar year, ten thousand dollars; or

(B) If the defendant has five or more employees but fourteen or fewer employees in each of twenty or more calendar weeks in either the current or preceding calendar year, twenty-five thousand dollars.

(III) In determining the appropriate level of damages to award a plaintiff who has been the victim of an intentional discriminatory or unfair employment practice, the court shall consider the size and assets of the defendant and the egregiousness of the intentional discriminatory or unfair employment practice.

(IV) If a plaintiff asserts claims of intentional discriminatory or unfair employment practices under this article and under applicable federal anti-discrimination laws, the plaintiff may recover relief under this section only once for the same injuries, damages, or losses.

(e) Compensatory or punitive damages awarded pursuant to this subsection (3) are in addition to, and do not include, front pay, back pay, interest on back pay, or any other type of relief awarded pursuant to subsection (2) of this section.

(f) The remedies specified in this subsection (3) apply to causes of action alleging discriminatory or unfair employment practices accruing on or after January 1, 2015.

(g) Repealed.

(4) If a plaintiff in a civil action filed under this part 4 seeks compensatory or punitive damages pursuant to subsection (3) of this section, any party to the civil action may demand a trial by jury.

(5) In any civil action under this part 4, the court may award reasonable attorney fees and costs to the prevailing plaintiff. If the court finds that an action or defense brought pursuant to this part 4 was frivolous, groundless, or vexatious as provided in article 17 of title 13, C.R.S., the court may award costs and attorney fees to the defendant in the action.

(6) Except when federal law is silent on the issue, this section shall be construed, interpreted, and applied in a manner that is consistent with standards established through judicial interpretation of Title VII of the federal "Civil Rights Act of 1964", as amended, 42 U.S.C. sec. 2000e et seq.; the federal "Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967", as amended, 29 U.S.C. sec. 621 et seq.; titles I and V of the federal "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", as amended, 42 U.S.C. sec. 12111 et seq.; and the federal "Civil Rights Act of 1991", 42 U.S.C. sec. 1981a.

(7) Nothing in this section precludes a party from asserting any other available statutory or common law claims.

(8) (a) As used in this subsection (8), "aggrieved party" means a person who has filed a complaint alleging an intentional discriminatory or unfair employment practice, including an applicant for a position in the state personnel system or an employee in the state personnel system.

(b) The commission, a commissioner, an administrative law judge appointed pursuant to part 10 of article 30 of this title, or, in cases involving applicants for positions in or employees in the state personnel system, the state personnel board established pursuant to section 14 of article XII of the state constitution shall not award damages to an aggrieved party alleging an intentional discriminatory or unfair employment practice. An aggrieved party who is seeking damages as authorized in subsection (3) of this section must file a civil action in a court of competent jurisdiction to recover those damages; except that punitive damages are not recoverable against the state or any political subdivision, commission, department, institution, or school district of the state.

(c) (I) Upon issuance of an order by the commission pursuant to section 24-34-306 (9) and subsection (2) of this section or of a written decision by the state personnel board pursuant to section 24-50-125.4 in which the commission or state personnel board makes a finding of an intentional discriminatory or unfair employment practice, an aggrieved party may file a civil action in a district court in this state seeking damages as authorized in subsection (3) of this section.

(II) For complaints filed with the commission, the aggrieved party must file the action for damages within thirty days after the date the commission mails notice of the order issued pursuant to section 24-34-306 (9) and subsection (2) of this section. If the aggrieved party fails to file an action for damages within thirty days after the date the notice of the order is mailed, the action is barred, no district court has jurisdiction to hear the action, and the commission's order becomes final and is subject to judicial review pursuant to section 24-34-307.

(III) (A) For complaints filed with the state personnel board, if an administrative law judge issues the initial written decision on behalf of the state personnel board, the aggrieved party may not file a civil action until after the expiration of the thirty-day period specified in section 24-50-125.4 (4) for filing an appeal. If a party does not file an appeal of the administrative law judge's initial decision with the state personnel board in accordance with section 24-50-125.4 (4), the aggrieved party must file the civil action for compensatory damages within thirty days after the expiration of the appeal period specified in section 24-50-125.4 (4). If a party files an appeal with the state personnel board in accordance with section 24-50-125.4 (4), the aggrieved party must file the civil action for compensatory damages within thirty days after the date the state personnel board transmits the notice of its decision on the appeal in accordance with section 24-50-125.4 (6).

(B) If the aggrieved party fails to file an action for compensatory damages within thirty days after the appeal period expires or the date the state personnel board's notice of decision is transmitted, whichever is applicable pursuant to sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (III), the action for compensatory damages is barred, no district court has jurisdiction to hear the action, and the state personnel board's decision becomes final and is subject to judicial review pursuant to sections 24-50-125.4 (3) and 24-4-106 (11).

(d) (I) If the aggrieved party initially filed a complaint with the commission, the aggrieved party and the district court shall serve a copy of the civil action complaint on the commission, and upon receipt of the civil action complaint, the commission's order is automatically stayed pending the outcome of the civil action, in which case the commission's decision is not a final order subject to judicial review pursuant to section 24-34-307 until the district court issues a final judgment in the civil action for damages.

(II) If the aggrieved party is an applicant for a position in or an employee in the state personnel system, the aggrieved party and the district court shall serve a copy of the civil action complaint on the state personnel board, and upon receipt of the complaint, the state personnel board's decision is automatically stayed pending the outcome of the civil action, in which case the state personnel board's decision is not a final order subject to judicial review pursuant to sections 24-50-125.4 (3) and 24-4-106 (11) until the district court issues a final judgment in the civil action for compensatory damages.

(e) (I) In a civil action brought pursuant to this subsection (8) for damages after the commission or state personnel board makes a finding of an intentional discriminatory or unfair employment practice, the district court shall consider the issue of whether the aggrieved party is entitled to damages and the amount of damages, if awarded.

(II) The district court may award attorney fees and costs in connection with the action for damages consistent with subsection (5) of this section.

(III) The district court shall expedite the action for damages and set the matter for trial at the earliest practical time.

(f) Upon entering a final judgment in a civil action brought pursuant to this subsection (8), the district court shall serve notice of the judgment on the parties and the commission or state personnel board, as appropriate. Once the commission or state personnel board receives a final judgment from the district court, the commission or state personnel board shall incorporate the district court judgment in its order or decision, which becomes a final order subject to judicial review in accordance with section 24-34-307 or sections 24-50-125.4 (3) and 24-4-106 (11), as applicable.

(g) A claim filed pursuant to this subsection (8) by an aggrieved party against the state for compensatory damages for an intentional unfair or discriminatory employment practice is not subject to the "Colorado Governmental Immunity Act", article 10 of this title.

Annotator's note. Since § 24-34-405 is similar to § 24-34-405 as it existed prior to its 2013 repeal and reenactment, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Section is equitable in nature. This section was intended to invoke only the equitable powers of the court, and not to create a legal claim for damages. Cont'l Title Co. v. District Court, 645 P.2d 1310 (Colo. 1982).

And does not give rise to jury trial. The award of back pay is an integral part of the equitable remedy provided by this section and is not intended to create a legal remedy invoking the right to a jury trial. Cont'l Title Co. v. District Court, 645 P.2d 1310 (Colo. 1982).

Front pay authorized by subsection (2) is an equitable remedy and is not barred by the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act (CGIA). Williams v. Elder, 2019 COA 172, 479 P.3d 43, aff'd, 2020 CO 88, 477 P.3d 694; Denver Health & Hosp. Auth. v. Houchin, 2020 CO 89, 477 P.3d 149.

Compensatory damages remedy does not and could not lie in tort and is not subject to the CGIA. Compensatory damages do not relieve tort-like personal injuries and are incidental to the primary purpose of ending discriminatory employment practices. Williams v. Elder, 2019 COA 172, 479 P.3d 43, aff'd, 2020 CO 88, 477 P.3d 694; Denver Health & Hosp. Auth. v. Houchin, 2020 CO 89, 477 P.3d 149.

The word "state" in subsection (8)(g) includes all political subdivisions of the state able to seek immunity under the CGIA, including county sheriff's office. Williams v. Cease-and-desist order may be commission's affirmative action, and the commission, in conjunction with such affirmative action, may award medical expenses associated with pregnancy as back pay. Further, the remedy of reinstatement is not a precondition to reimbursement of discriminatorily withheld employment compensation. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Travelers Ins., 759 P.2d 1358 (Colo. 1988).

Victim of discrimination entitled only to back pay which makes her "whole". A victim of discriminatory employment practices is entitled only to the amount of back pay which will make her "whole", i.e., that which she would have received in the absence of the discriminatory conduct. City & County of Denver v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n, 638 P.2d 837 (Colo. App. 1981).

Monetary award for accrued annual leave or secondary training authorized where unfair termination. This section does not authorize a monetary award for accrued annual leave or for the value of secondary training unless the loss of such benefits results from a termination in violation of § 24-34-402. City & County of Denver v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n, 638 P.2d 837 (Colo. App. 1981).

Award of back pay independent of an order requiring affirmative action not permitted. The commission does not have authority to award back pay in the absence of an affirmative action such as reinstatement. World Wide Const. Servs. v. Chapman, 683 P.2d 1198 (Colo. 1984).

State personnel board did not have the jurisdiction to award front pay in a case that originated in 2010, because front pay was not an authorized remedy pursuant to this section until 2015. Williams v. Dept. of Pub. Safety, 2015 COA 180, 369 P.3d 760.

24-34-406. Ruling on unemployment benefits not a bar.

No findings, conclusions, or orders made pursuant to the provisions of articles 70 to 82 of title 8, C.R.S., shall be binding upon the commission in the exercise of its powers pursuant to parts 3 and 4 of this article; except that the commission may consider any explicit findings or conclusions on the issue of discrimination. If the decision under parts 3 and 4 of this article is in favor of the complainant, the respondent may present evidence of any unemployment benefits pursuant to articles 70 to 82 of title 8, C.R.S., which were received by the complainant based on the same occurrence. The relief granted to the complainant shall be reduced by the amount of such benefits, as provided in section 8-2-119, C.R.S.

24-34-407. Nondisclosure agreements - requirements for enforcement - penalties for noncompliance.

(1) A provision in an agreement entered into or renewed on or after August 7, 2023, between an employer and an employee or a prospective employee that limits the ability of the employee or prospective employee to disclose or discuss, either orally or in writing, any alleged discriminatory or unfair employment practice, which provision is referred to in this section as a "nondisclosure provision", is void unless:

- (a) The nondisclosure provision applies equally to all parties to the agreement;
- (b) The nondisclosure provision expressly states that it does not restrain the employee or prospective employee from disclosing the underlying facts of any alleged discriminatory or unfair employment practice:

(I) Including disclosing the existence and terms of a settlement agreement, to the employee's or prospective employee's immediate family members, religious advisor, medical or mental health provider, mental or behavioral health therapeutic support group, legal counsel, financial advisor, or tax preparer;

(II) To any local, state, or federal government agency for any reason, including disclosing the existence and terms of a settlement agreement, without first notifying the employer;

(III) In response to legal process, such as a subpoena to testify at a deposition or in a court, including disclosing the existence and terms of a settlement agreement, without first notifying the employer; and

(IV) For all other purposes as required by law;

(c) The nondisclosure provision expressly states that disclosure of the underlying facts of any alleged discriminatory or unfair employment practice within the parameters specified in subsection (1)(b) of this section does not constitute disparagement;

(d) The agreement includes a condition that if a nondisparagement provision is included in the agreement and the employer disparages the employee or prospective employee to a third party, the employer may not seek to enforce the nondisparagement or nondisclosure provisions of the agreement or seek damages against the employee or any other party to the agreement for violating those provisions, but all other remaining terms of the agreement remain enforceable;

(e) Any liquidated damages provision in the agreement does not constitute a penalty or punishment, and, to be enforced, a liquidated damages provision must provide for an amount of liquidated damages that is:

(I) Reasonable and proportionate in light of the anticipated actual economic loss that a breach of the agreement would cause;

(II) Varied based on the nature or severity of the breach; and

(III) Not punitive; and

(f) An addendum, signed by all parties to the agreement and attesting to compliance with this subsection (1), is attached to the agreement.

(2) (a) Each instance when an employer includes in an agreement a nondisclosure provision that violates subsection (1) of this section constitutes a violation of this section. An employer is liable for actual damages and a penalty of five thousand dollars per violation.

(b) The commission and any employee or prospective employee who is presented with an agreement that includes a nondisclosure provision that violates subsection (1) of this section may immediately bring an action to recover penalties. In addition to penalties, an employee or a prospective employee may recover actual damages, reasonable costs, and attorney fees in any private action brought pursuant to this section.

(3) In any civil action involving a claim of a discriminatory or an unfair employment practice, a plaintiff may present evidence that the employer against whom the action was filed entered into one or more agreements that included a nondisclosure provision involving the conduct of the same individual or individuals who are alleged in the action to have engaged in the discriminatory or unfair employment practice. If such evidence is presented, the evidence shall be considered evidence in support of an award of punitive damages.

(4) In any action brought under this section, if the employer shows that the act or omission giving rise to the action was committed in good faith and that the employer has reasonable grounds for believing that the employer's act or omission did not violate this section, the court may, in its discretion, decline to award a penalty or reduce the amount of the penalty specified in subsection (2)(a) of this section.

24-34-408. Employer record keeping - repository of discrimination complaints - definition.

(1) An employer shall preserve any personnel or employment record the employer made, received, or kept for at least five years after the later of:

- (a) The date the employer made or received the record; or
- (b) The date of the personnel action about which the record pertains or of the final disposition of a charge of discrimination or related action, as applicable.

(2) (a) An employer shall maintain an accurate, designated repository of all written or oral complaints of discriminatory or unfair employment practices, as described in section 24-34-402 (1)(a), that includes the date of the complaint, the identity of the complaining party, if the complaint was not made anonymously, the identity of the alleged perpetrator, and the substance of the complaint.

(b) Records of complaints in an employer's designated repository maintained in accordance with this subsection (2) are not public records, as defined in section 24-72-202 (6), and, for purposes of an employer that is subject to part 2 of article 72 of this title 24, records in a designated repository are considered personnel files, as defined in section 24-72-202 (4.5), and are not open to public inspection pursuant to section 24-72-204 (3)(a)(II)(A). Additionally, in accordance with section 24-72-204 (3)(a)(X), any record of a sexual harassment complaint or investigation is not open to public inspection except as specified in section 24-72-204 (3)(a)(X) or (9).

(3) As used in this section, "personnel or employment record" includes requests for accommodation; employee complaints of discriminatory or unfair employment practices, whether written or oral; application forms submitted by applicants for employment; other records related to hiring, promotion, demotion, transfer, layoff, termination, rates of pay or other terms of compensation, and selection for training or apprenticeship; and records of training provided to or facilitated for employees.

ANNOTATION

A nonparty may not be considered an "aggrieved person", and damages related to such nonparty may not be awarded. Therefore, damages for the injuries suffered by the family members of an aggrieved person were inappropriate. May v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n, 43 P.3d 750 (Colo. App. 2002).

24-34-502. Unfair housing practices prohibited - definition.

(1) It is an unfair housing practice, unlawful, and prohibited:

(a) (I) For any person to refuse to show, sell, transfer, rent, or lease any housing; refuse to receive and transmit any bona fide offer to buy, sell, rent, or lease any housing; or otherwise make unavailable or deny or withhold from an individual any housing because of disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, familial status, veteran or military status, religion, national origin, or ancestry; to discriminate against an individual because of disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, familial status, veteran or military status, religion, national origin, or ancestry in the terms, conditions, or privileges pertaining to any housing or the transfer, sale, rental, or lease of housing or in furnishing facilities or services in connection with housing; or to cause to be made any written or oral inquiry or record concerning the disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, familial status, veteran or military status, religion, national origin, or ancestry of an individual seeking to purchase, rent, or lease any housing; however, nothing in this subsection (1)(a) requires a dwelling to be made available to an individual whose tenancy would constitute a direct threat to the health or safety of other individuals or whose tenancy would result in substantial physical damage to the property of others.

(II) Nothing in this subsection (1)(a) prohibits a written or oral inquiry or record concerning military or veteran status when the purpose of the inquiry or record is to determine a person's eligibility for veteran or military housing or for a veteran or military housing benefit.

(III) For the purposes of subsection (1)(a)(I) of this section:

(A) The mere presence of an assistance animal does not constitute a direct threat to health or safety.

(B) The mere presence of an assistance animal is not presumed to result in substantial physical damage to the property of others.

(C) A housing provider may consider documented, specific conduct of an assistance animal that poses a direct threat to the health or safety of others or causes substantial physical damage to property.

(b) For any person to whom application is made for financial assistance for the acquisition, construction, rehabilitation, repair, or maintenance of any housing to make or cause to be made any written or oral inquiry concerning the disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, familial status, veteran or military status, religion, national origin, or ancestry of an individual seeking financial assistance or concerning the disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, familial status, veteran or military status, religion, national origin, or ancestry of prospective occupants or tenants of the housing, or to discriminate against any individual because of the disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, familial status, veteran or military status, religion, national origin, or ancestry of the individual or prospective occupants or tenants in the terms, conditions, or privileges relating to obtaining or using any such financial assistance;

(c) (I) For any person to include in any transfer, sale, rental, or lease of housing any restrictive covenants, but shall not include any person who, in good faith and in the usual course of business, delivers any document or copy of a document regarding the transfer, sale, rental, or lease of housing which includes any restrictive covenants which are based upon race or religion, or reference thereto; or

(II) For any person to honor or exercise or attempt to honor or exercise any restrictive covenant pertaining to housing;

(d) (I) For any person to make, print, or publish or cause to be made, printed, or published any notice or advertisement relating to the sale, transfer, rental, or lease of any housing that indicates any preference, limitation, specification, or discrimination based on disability, race, creed, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, familial status, veteran or military status, national origin, or ancestry.

(II) This subsection (1)(d) does not apply when the purpose of the notice or advertisement is to promote veteran or military housing or a veteran or military housing benefit.

(e) For any person: To aid, abet, incite, compel, or coerce the doing of any act defined in this section as an unfair housing practice; to obstruct or prevent any person from complying with the provisions of this part 5 or any order issued with respect thereto; to attempt either directly or indirectly to commit any act defined in this section to be an unfair housing practice; to discriminate against any person because such person has opposed any practice made an unfair housing practice by this part 5, because he has filed a charge with the commission, or because he has testified, assisted, or participated in any manner in an investigation, proceeding, or hearing conducted pursuant to parts 3 and 5 of this article; or to coerce, intimidate, threaten, or interfere with any person in the exercise or enjoyment of, or on account of his having exercised or enjoyed, or on account of his having aided or encouraged, any other person in the exercise of any right granted or protected by parts 3 and 5 of this article;

(f) For any person to discharge, demote, or discriminate in matters of compensation against any employee or agent because of said employee's or agent's obedience to the provisions of this part 5;

(g) For any person whose business includes residential real estate-related transactions, which transactions involve making or purchasing loans secured by residential real estate or providing other financial assistance for purchasing, constructing, improving, repairing, or maintaining a dwelling or selling, brokering, or appraising residential real property, to discriminate against an individual in making available such a transaction or in fixing the terms or conditions of such a transaction because of race, creed, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, disability, familial status, veteran or military status, national origin, or ancestry;

(h) For any person to deny an individual access to or membership or participation in any multiple-listing service, real estate brokers' organization, or other service, organization, or facility related to the business of selling or renting dwellings or to discriminate against the individual in the terms or conditions of such access, membership, or participation on account of race, creed, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, marital status, familial status, veteran or military status, national origin or ancestry, or source of income;

(i) For any person, for profit, to induce or attempt to induce any person to sell or rent any dwelling by representations regarding the entry or prospective entry into the neighborhood of any individual of a particular race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, familial status, veteran or military status, creed, national origin, or ancestry;

(j) For any person to represent to any other person that a dwelling is not available for inspection, sale, or rental, when the dwelling is in fact available, for the purpose of discriminating against any individual on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, familial status, veteran or military status, creed, national origin, or ancestry;

(k) For any person to violate the provisions of section 24-34-502.2;

(l) For any person to refuse to rent or lease, to refuse to show housing for rent or lease, to refuse to receive and transmit any bona fide offer to rent or lease, or to otherwise make unavailable or deny or withhold from another person any housing for rent or lease because of a person's source of income;

(m) For any person to discriminate in the terms, conditions, or privileges pertaining to the rental or lease of any housing, or in the furnishing of facilities or services in connection therewith, because of a person's source of income, including a person's receipt of public housing assistance or a person's participation in a third-party contract required by a public housing assistance program; except that, if the initial payment to the landlord is not made timely in accordance with applicable regulations promulgated by the United States department of housing and urban development due to processing delays or a government shutdown, then a landlord may exercise any right or pursue any remedy available under law;

(n) For any person to make, print, or publish or cause to be made, printed, or published any notice or advertisement relating to the rental or lease of any housing that indicates any limitation, specification, or discrimination based on a person's source of income;

(o) For any person to represent to another person that any housing is not available for rent or lease when the housing is in fact available for the purpose of discriminating against the person on the basis of the person's source of income;

(p) For any person, for profit, to induce or attempt to induce another person to rent any housing by representations regarding the entry or prospective entry into the neighborhood of a person or persons with particular sources of income;

(q) For any person to violate section 38-12-904 (1)(c) or (1)(d); or

(r) For any landlord, as defined in section 38-12-1501 (1), to fail to:

(I) Make reasonable efforts to timely respond to requests for information and documentation necessary for a rental assistance application process; or

(II) Cooperate with a tenant who is applying for rental assistance in good faith, including by refusing to provide documents that are required by a state government agency, a local government agency, or other administrating entity to support the tenant's application.

(1.5) (a) Subsections (1)(l) to (1)(p) of this section do not apply to a landlord with three or fewer units of housing for rent or lease.

(b) Nothing in subsection (1) of this section precludes a landlord from checking the credit of a prospective tenant. Checking the credit of a prospective tenant is not an unfair housing practice under this section, provided that the landlord checks the credit of every prospective tenant.

(c) As used in this subsection (1.5) and in subsection (1) of this section, "landlord" means a person who owns, manages, leases, or subleases a unit of housing and who makes that housing available for rent or lease.

(1.7) Notwithstanding any provision of subsection (1) of this section to the contrary, if a landlord owns five or fewer single family rental homes and no more than five total rental units including any single family homes, the landlord is not required to accept federal housing choice vouchers for any of those five single family homes as an acceptable source of income under subsection (1) of this section.

(1.8) It is not a violation of this section for a landlord to ask a residential tenant whether the tenant receives supplemental security income, social security disability insurance under Title II of the federal "Social Security Act", 42 U.S.C. sec. 401 et seq., as amended, or cash assistance through the Colorado works program created in part 7 of article 2 of title 26 for the purposes of complying with section 13-40-110 (1).

(2) The provisions of this section shall not apply to or prohibit compliance with local zoning ordinance provisions concerning residential restrictions on marital status.

(3) Nothing contained in this part 5 shall be construed to bar any religious or denominational institution or organization which is operated or supervised or controlled by or is operated in connection with a religious or denominational organization from limiting the sale, rental, or occupancy of dwellings which it owns or operates for other than a commercial purpose to persons of the same religion, or from giving preference to such persons, unless membership in such religion is restricted on account of race, color, or national origin, nor shall anything in this part 5 prohibit a private club not in fact open to the public which, as an incident to its primary purpose or purposes provides lodgings which it owns or operates for other than a commercial purpose, from limiting the rental or occupancy of such lodgings to its members or from giving preference to its members.

(5) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent or restrict the sale, lease, rental, transfer, or development of housing designed or intended for the use of persons with disabilities.

(6) Nothing in this part 5 prohibits a person engaged in the business of furnishing appraisals of real property from taking into consideration factors other than race, creed, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, familial status, veteran or military status, disability, religion, national origin, or ancestry.

(7) (a) Nothing in this section shall limit the applicability of any reasonable local, state, or federal restrictions regarding the maximum number of occupants permitted to occupy a dwelling. Nor shall any provision in this section regarding familial status apply with respect to housing for older persons.

(b) As used in this subsection (7), "housing for older persons" means housing provided under any state or federal program that the division determines is specifically designed and operated to assist older persons, or is intended for, and solely occupied by, persons sixty-two years of age or older, or is intended and operated for occupancy by at least one person fifty-five years of age or older per unit. In determining whether housing intended and operated for occupancy by one person fifty-five years of age or older per unit qualifies as housing for older persons under this subsection (7), the division shall require the following:

(I) That the housing facility or community publish and adhere to policies and procedures that demonstrate the intent required under this paragraph (b);

(II) That at least eighty percent of the occupied units be occupied by at least one person who is fifty-five years of age or older; and

(III) That the housing facility or community comply with rules promulgated by the commission for verification of occupancy. Such rules shall:

(A) Provide for verification by reliable surveys and affidavits; and

(B) Include examples of the types of policies and procedures relevant to a determination of such compliance with the requirements of subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b). Such surveys and affidavits shall be admissible in administrative and judicial proceedings for the purposes of verification of occupancy in accordance with this section.

(c) Housing shall not fail to meet the requirements for housing for older persons by reason of persons residing in such housing as of March 12, 1989, who do not meet the age requirements of paragraph (b) of this subsection (7) if the new occupants of such housing meet the age requirements of paragraph (b) of this subsection (7) or, by reason of unoccupied units, if such units are reserved for occupancy by persons who meet the age requirements of paragraph (b) of this subsection (7).

(d) (I) A person shall not be held personally liable for monetary damages for a violation of this part 5 if such person reasonably relied, in good faith, on the application of the exemption available under this part 5 relating to housing for older persons.

(II) For purposes of this paragraph (d), a person may only show good faith reliance on the application of an exemption by showing that:

(A) Such person has no actual knowledge that the facility or community is not or will not be eligible for the exemption claimed; and

(B) The owner, operator, or other official representative of the facility or community has stated, formally, in writing, that the facility or community complies with the requirements of the exemption claimed.

(8) (a) With respect to "familial status", nothing in this part 5 shall apply to the following:

(I) Any single-family house sold or rented by an owner if such private individual owner does not own more than three such single-family houses at any one time. In the case of the sale of any such single-family house by a private individual owner not residing in such house at the time of such sale or who was not the most recent resident of such house prior to such sale, the exemption granted by this subsection (8) shall apply only with respect to one such sale within any twenty-four-month period. Such bona fide private individual owner shall not own any interest in, nor shall there be owned or reserved on his behalf, under any express or voluntary agreement, title to or any right to all or a portion of the proceeds from the sale or rental of more than three such single-family houses at any one time. The sale or rental of any such single-family house shall be excepted from the application of this subsection (8) only if such house is sold or rented:

(A) Without the use in any manner of the sales or rental facilities or the sales or rental services of any real estate broker, agent, or salesman, or of such facilities or services of any person in the business of selling or renting dwellings, or of any employee or agent of any such broker, agent, salesman, or person; and

(B) Without the publication, posting, or mailing, after notice, of any advertisement or written notice in violation of this section; but nothing in this section shall prohibit the use of attorneys, escrow agents, abstractors, title companies, and other such professional assistance as necessary to perfect or transfer the title.

(II) Rooms or units in dwellings containing living quarters occupied or intended to be occupied by no more than four families living independently of each other, if the owner actually maintains and occupies one of such living quarters as his residence.

(b) For the purposes of paragraph (a) of this subsection (8), a person shall be deemed to be in the business of selling or renting dwellings if:

(I) He has, within the preceding twelve months, participated as principal in three or more transactions involving the sale or rental of any dwelling or any interest therein;

(II) He has, within the preceding twelve months, participated as agent, other than in the sale of his own personal residence in providing sales or rental facilities or sales or rental services in two or more transactions involving the sale or rental of any dwelling or any interest therein; or

(III) He is the owner of any dwelling designed or intended for occupancy by, or occupied by, five or more families.

(10) (a) Nothing in this part 5 prohibits a seller of property from considering legitimate and nondiscriminatory factors when deciding whether to accept an offer.

(b) Nothing in this part 5 prohibits adherence to requirements under 38 CFR 36 that govern the United States department of veterans affairs benefits, including restrictions on options on a home contract, or prohibits inquiry regarding an individual's veteran or military status to the extent necessary to determine if the individual is eligible for a benefit offered to veterans or members of the military. Such adherence does not constitute a violation of this part 5.

24-34-502.2. Unfair or discriminatory housing practices against individuals with disabilities prohibited.

- (1) It is an unfair or discriminatory housing practice and therefore unlawful and prohibited:
 - (a) For a person to discriminate in the sale or rental of, or to otherwise make unavailable or deny, a dwelling to any buyer or renter because of a disability of a buyer or renter, an individual who will reside in the dwelling after it is sold, rented, or made available, or of any individual associated with the buyer or renter;

(b) For a person to discriminate against an individual in the terms, conditions, or privileges of sale or rental of a dwelling or in the provision of services or facilities in connection with such dwelling because of a disability of that individual, of any individual residing in or intending to reside in that dwelling after it is so sold, rented, or made available, or of any individual associated with the individual.

(2) For purposes of this section, "discrimination" includes both segregate and separate and includes but is not limited to all of the following:

(a) A refusal to permit reasonable modifications of existing premises occupied or to be occupied by an individual with a disability if the modifications are necessary to afford the individual with full enjoyment of the premises;

(b) (I) A refusal to make reasonable accommodations when such accommodations may be necessary to afford the individual with a disability equal opportunity to use and enjoy a dwelling.

(II) For purposes of this subsection (2)(b):

(A) Permitting an assistance animal in housing is presumed to be a reasonable accommodation, so long as a housing provider has been given an opportunity to engage in an interactive accommodation process with the individual requesting the accommodation;

(B) The complete prohibition of assistance animals in housing is presumed to be discriminatory under this part 5; and

(C) A housing provider does not engage in a discriminatory housing practice solely for requesting reasonable documentation supporting the claim of disability or disability-related need for an assistance animal or engaging in a good faith interactive process to evaluate a request for an assistance animal, unless the disability or disability-related need is obvious.

(c) In connection with the design and construction of covered multifamily dwellings for first occupancy after the date that is thirty months after the date of enactment of the federal "Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988", a failure to design and construct those dwellings in such a manner that the public use and common use portions of the dwellings are readily accessible to and usable by individuals with disabilities. At least one building entrance must be on an accessible route unless it is impractical to do so because of the terrain or the unusual characteristics of the site. All doors designed to allow passage into and within all premises within the dwellings must be sufficiently wide to allow passage by individuals with disabilities using mobility devices, and all premises within the dwellings must contain the following features of adaptive design:

(I) Accessible routes into and through the dwellings;

(II) Light switches, electrical outlets, thermostats, and other environmental controls in accessible locations;

(III) Reinforcements in bathroom walls to allow later installation of grab bars; and

(IV) Usable kitchens and bathrooms such that an individual using a mobility device can maneuver about the space.

(3) Compliance with the appropriate requirements of the "Accessible and Usable Buildings and Facilities" standard, or any successor standard, promulgated and amended from time to time by the international code council (commonly cited as ICC/ANSI A117.1) suffices to satisfy the requirements of subsection (2)(c) of this section.

(4) As used in this section, "covered multifamily dwellings" means:

(a) Buildings consisting of four or more units if such buildings have one or more elevators; and

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Significant Changes to Landlord-Tenant Law in 2024", see 53 Colo. Law. 48 (Dec. 2024).

"Reasonable accommodation" as that term is used in subsection (2)(b) may be defined as changing a rule that may be otherwise generally applicable so as to make its burden less onerous on a disabled individual. Weinstein v. Cherry Oaks Retirement Cmty., 917 P.2d 336 (Colo. App. 1996).

Commission did not err in determining personal care boarding home was in violation of the Colorado Fair Housing Act by requiring, without a legitimate reason for such policy, its residents who used walkers or wheelchairs to transfer to ordinary chairs in the dining room. Weinstein v. Cherry Oaks Retirement Cmty., 917 P.2d 336 (Colo. App. 1996).

Because the Colorado Fair Housing Act ("CFHA") is almost identical to the Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988 ("FHAA"), federal case authority is persuasive in interpreting the provisions of the CFHA. Boulder Meadows v. Saville, 2 P.3d 131 (Colo. App. 2000).

To prevail on her claim under the CFHA, tenant assumed the burden of proving discrimination against her in the terms, conditions, or privileges of rental of a dwelling because of a disability. A plaintiff may establish discrimination by demonstrating that the challenged regulation discriminates against disabled persons on its face and serves no legitimate government interest. Alternatively, a complainant must show either discriminatory intent or discriminatory impact. Discriminatory intent is proved by showing that disabilities like those of the plaintiff were, in some part, the basis for the policy being challenged. Discriminatory impact is shown by proof that a given policy or practice has a greater impact upon disabled than non-disabled persons. Boulder Meadows v. Saville, 2 P.3d 131 (Colo. App. 2000).

Colorado and federal fair housing acts create a statutory right to a reasonable accommodation upon proof of a disability and an appropriate request. Whether an accommodation is reasonable is a question of fact, determined by a close examination of the particular circumstances. In evaluating the reasonableness of an accommodation, a trial court may consider the extent to which the accommodation would undermine the legitimate purposes and effects of existing regulations and the benefits the accommodation would provide to the disabled person. The court may also consider whether alternatives exist to accomplish the benefits more efficiently. Boulder Meadows v. Saville, 2 P.3d 131 (Colo. App. 2000).

Record sustains findings of trial court that alternatives offered by mobile home park owner were not reasonable. While paying a maintenance fee of $25 per month in return for which tenant would maintain her yard may be quite reasonable under some circumstances, such a fee cannot be held reasonable as a matter of law. FHAA standards regarding reasonable accommodation may require landlords to assume reasonable financial burdens in accommodating disabled residents. Because trial court's findings of fact have record support and are not clearly erroneous, they will not be disturbed on review. Boulder Meadows v. Saville, 2 P.3d 131 (Colo. App. 2000).

If the charge alleging an unfair housing practice relates to the refusal to show the housing involved, the commission, after proper investigations as set forth in section 24-34-306, may issue its order that the housing involved be shown to the person filing such charge, and, if the respondent refuses without good reason to comply therewith within three days, then the commission or any commissioner may file a petition pursuant to section 24-34-509. The district court shall hear such matters at the earliest possible time, and the court may waive the requirement of security for a petition filed under this section. If the district court finds that the denial to show is based upon an unfair housing practice, it shall order the respondent to immediately show said housing involved and also to make full disclosure concerning the sale, lease, or rental price and any other information being then given to the public.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following cases were decided under former § 24-34-406, which dealt with the hearing procedure for unfair housing practice claims.

For the constitutionality of section, see Colo. Anti-Discrimination Comm'n v. Case, 151 Colo. 235, 380 P.2d 34 (1962).

The requirement that aggrieved person should furnish security is to protect landlords from the filing of unmeritorious claims by persons without probable cause; it is not designed to protect them from procedural errors of the commission over which the complainant has no control. People ex rel. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n v.

Forrester, 29 Colo. App. 158, 480 P.2d 600 (1971).

Requirements for issuance of injunction found complied with. Where the order for the preliminary injunction states that proper notice has been given, that there has been a hearing, that a determination of probable cause has been made by the commission, and that security has been ordered and provided by the complainant, the statutory requirements for the issuance of the injunction are complied with. People ex rel. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n v. Forrester, 29 Colo. App. 158, 480 P.2d 600 (1971).

24-34-504. Time limits on filing of charges.

(1) Any charge alleging a violation of this part 5 shall be filed with the commission pursuant to section 24-34-306 within one year after the alleged unfair housing practice occurred, or it shall be barred.

(2) A civil action filed by the attorney general under this section shall be commenced not later than eighteen months after the date of the occurrence or the termination of the alleged discriminatory housing practice.

(3) The director, not later than ten days after filing or identifying additional respondents, shall serve on the respondent a notice identifying the alleged discriminatory housing practice and advising such respondent of the procedural rights and obligations of respondents under this part 5, together with a copy of the original charge.

(4) The director shall commence an investigation of any charge filed pursuant to subsection (1) of this section within thirty days of such filing. Within one hundred days after the filing of the charge, the director shall determine, based on the facts, whether probable cause exists to believe that a discriminatory housing practice has occurred or is about to occur, unless it is impracticable to do so or the director has approved a conciliation agreement with respect to the charge. If the director is unable to complete the investigation within one hundred days after the filing of the charge, the director shall notify the parties of the reasons for not doing so.

(4.1) After a determination by the director that probable cause exists to believe that a discriminatory housing practice has occurred or is about to occur, the commission shall issue a notice and complaint as provided in section 24-34-306 (4). After such notice and complaint is issued by the commission, the complainant, respondent, or any aggrieved person on whose behalf the charge was filed may elect to have the claims asserted in the charge decided in a civil action in lieu of an administrative hearing. Such election shall be made in writing within twenty days after receipt of the notice and complaint issued by the commission. The commission shall provide notice of the election to all other parties to whom the notice and complaint relates.

(4.2) If all parties agree to have the charges decided in an administrative hearing, the commission shall hold a hearing as provided in section 24-34-306. If any party elects a civil action, the commission shall authorize the attorney general to commence and maintain a civil action in the appropriate state district court to obtain relief with respect to the discriminatory housing practice or practices alleged in the notice and complaint.

(4.3) Final administrative disposition of a charge filed pursuant to this section shall be made within one year of the date the charge was filed, unless it is impractical to do so. If the commission is unable to do so, the commission shall notify the complainant and the respondent, in writing, of the reasons that such disposition is impractical.

24-34-505. Charges by other persons.

Any person whose employees, agents, employers, or principals, or some of them, refuse or threaten to refuse to comply with the provisions of this part 5 may make, sign, and file with the commission a verified written charge in duplicate asking the commission for assistance to obtain their compliance by conciliation or other remedial action.

24-34-505.5. Enforcement by the attorney general.

(1) Upon timely application, the attorney general may intervene in any civil action filed as provided in section 24-34-505.6 if the attorney general certifies that the case is of general public importance. Upon such intervention, the attorney general may obtain such relief as would be available to the director under section 24-34-306 in a civil action to which such section applies.

(2) Whenever the attorney general has probable cause to believe that any person or group of persons is engaged in a pattern or practice of resistance to the full enjoyment of any of the rights granted by this title or that any group of persons has been denied any of the rights granted by this title and such denial raises an issue of general public importance, the attorney general may commence a civil action in any appropriate district court.

(3) The attorney general may commence a civil action in any appropriate district court for appropriate relief with respect to:

(a) A discriminatory housing practice referred to the attorney general by the commission under section 24-34-306; or

(b) Breach of a conciliation agreement referred to the attorney general by the director under section 24-34-506.5.

(4) The attorney general, on behalf of the commission, division, or other party at whose request a subpoena is issued under this section, may enforce such subpoena in appropriate proceedings in the district court for the district in which the person to whom the subpoena was addressed resides, was served, or transacts business.

24-34-505.6. Enforcement by private persons.

(1) Notwithstanding any provision of this article to the contrary, an aggrieved person may commence a civil action in an appropriate United States district court or state district court not later than two years after the occurrence or the termination of an alleged discriminatory housing practice or the breach of a conciliation agreement entered into under this title, whichever occurs last, to obtain appropriate relief with respect to such discriminatory housing practice or breach.

(2) The computation of such two-year period shall not include any time during which an administrative proceeding under this title was pending with respect to a complaint or charge under this title based upon such discriminatory housing practice. This subsection (2) does not apply to actions arising from a breach of a conciliation agreement.

(3) Notwithstanding any provision of this article to the contrary, an aggrieved person may commence a civil action under this section whether or not a charge has been filed under section 24-34-306 and without regard to the status of any such charge, but if the director or local agency has obtained a conciliation agreement with the consent of an aggrieved person, no action may be filed under this section by such aggrieved person with respect to the alleged discriminatory housing practice which forms the basis for such charge except for the purpose of enforcing the terms of such an agreement.

(4) An aggrieved person may not commence a civil action under this section with respect to an alleged discriminatory housing practice which forms the basis of a complaint issued by the commission if an administrative law judge has commenced a hearing on the record under this title with respect to such complaint.

(5) At the request of the aggrieved person, the court may appoint an attorney in accordance with section 24-34-307 (9.5).

(6) In addition to the relief that may be granted in accordance with section 24-34-508, the following relief is available:

(a) If the court finds that a discriminatory housing practice has occurred or is about to occur, the court may award to the plaintiff actual and punitive damages or may grant as relief, as the court deems appropriate, any permanent or temporary injunction, temporary restraining order, or other order, including an order enjoining the defendant from engaging in such practice or ordering such affirmative action as may be appropriate. If the court awards damages to a plaintiff as described in this subsection (6)(a), and the court finds that the defendant violated section 24-34-502 (1)(h), (1)(l), (1)(m), (1)(n), (1)(o), (1)(p), or (1)(r) and that the violation concerns discrimination on the basis of an individual's use of a housing subsidy, as defined in section 38-12-902 (1.7), the court shall award to the plaintiff at least five thousand dollars in damages.

(b) The court, in its discretion, may allow the prevailing party reasonable attorney fees and costs.

(c) Relief granted under this section shall not affect any contract, sale, encumbrance, or lease consummated before the granting of such relief and involving a bona fide purchaser, encumbrancer, or tenant, without actual notice of the filing of a charge with the commission or a civil action under this section.

(8) A calculation of actual damages pursuant to this section must include consideration of losses that a tenant may incur as a result of the tenant forfeiting their housing subsidy as a result of the landlord discriminating against the tenant based on the tenant's source or amount of income.

24-34-506. Probable cause.

In making his determination on probable cause under the provisions of section 24-34-306 (2), the director shall find that probable cause exists if upon all the facts and circumstances a person of reasonable prudence and caution would be warranted in a belief that an unfair housing practice has been committed.

24-34-506.5. Conciliation agreements.

(1) A conciliation agreement arising out of a conciliation shall be an agreement between the respondent and the charging party, and shall be subject to approval by the director.

(2) A conciliation agreement may provide for binding arbitration of the dispute arising from the charge. Any such arbitration that results from a conciliation agreement may award appropriate relief, including monetary relief.

(3) Each conciliation agreement shall be made public unless the charging party and respondent otherwise agree and the director determines that disclosure is not required to further the purposes of this section.

(4) Whenever the director has reasonable cause to believe that a respondent has breached a conciliation agreement, the director shall refer the matter to the attorney general with a recommendation that a civil action be filed under section 24-34-505.5 for the enforcement of such agreement.

24-34-507. Injunctive relief.

(1) After the filing of a charge pursuant to section 24-34-306 (1), the commission or a commissioner designated by the commission for that purpose may file in the name of the people of the state of Colorado through the attorney general of the state a petition in the district court of the county in which the alleged unfair housing practice occurred, or of any county in which a respondent resides, seeking appropriate injunctive relief against such respondent, including orders or decrees restraining and enjoining him from selling, renting, or otherwise making unavailable to the complainant any housing with respect to which the complaint is made, pending the final determination of proceedings before the commission under this part 5.

(2) Any injunctive relief granted pursuant to this section shall expire by its terms within such time after entry, not to exceed sixty days, as the court fixes, unless within the time so fixed the order, for good cause shown, is extended for a like period or unless the party against whom the order is directed consents that it may be extended for a longer period. An affidavit of notice of hearing shall forthwith be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court wherein said petition is filed. The procedure for seeking and granting said injunctive relief, including temporary restraining orders and preliminary injunctions, shall be the procedure provided in the rules of civil procedure for courts of record in Colorado pertaining to injunctions, and the district court has power to grant such temporary relief or restraining orders as it deems just and proper.

(3) The district court shall hear matters on the request for an injunction at the earliest possible time.

(4) If, upon all the evidence at a hearing, the commission finds that a respondent has not engaged in any such unfair housing practice, the district court which has granted temporary relief or restraining orders pursuant to the petition filed by the commission or commissioner shall dismiss such temporary relief or restraining orders. Any person filing a charge alleging an unfair housing practice with the commission, a commissioner, or the attorney general may not thereafter apply, by himself or herself or by his or her attorney-at-law, directly to the district court for any further relief under this part 5, except as provided in section 24-34-307.

24-34-508. Relief authorized.

(1) In addition to the relief authorized by section 24-34-306 (9), the commission may order a respondent who has been found to have engaged in an unfair housing practice:

(a) To rehire, reinstate, and provide back pay to any employee or agent discriminated against because of his obedience to this part 5;

(b) To take affirmative action regarding the granting of financial assistance as provided in section 24-34-502 (1)(b) or the showing, sale, transfer, rental, or lease of housing;

(c) To make reports as to the manner of compliance with the order of the commission;

(d) To reimburse any person who was discriminated against for any fee charged in violation of this part 5 and for any actual expenses incurred in obtaining comparable alternate housing, as well as any storage or moving charges associated with obtaining such housing;

(e) To award actual damages suffered by the aggrieved person and injunctive or other equitable relief;

(f) (I) To pay a civil penalty in the following amount:

(A) No more than ten thousand dollars if the respondent has not been adjudged to have committed a prior discriminatory housing practice;

(B) No more than twenty-five thousand dollars if the respondent has been adjudged to have committed another discriminatory housing practice during the five-year period ending on the date of the filing of the charge; or

(C) No more than fifty thousand dollars if the respondent has been adjudged to have committed two or more discriminatory housing practices during the seven-year period ending on the date of the filing of the charge.

(II) The commission shall require a respondent to pay, in addition to any award of damages pursuant to section 24-34-505.6, a civil penalty to the plaintiff pursuant to this subsection (1)(f) in an amount of at least five thousand dollars if:

(A) The respondent is found to have engaged in a violation of section 24-34-502 (1)(h), (1)(l), (1)(m), (1)(n), (1)(o), (1)(p), or (1)(r); and

(B) The violation concerns discrimination on the basis of an individual's use of a housing subsidy, as defined in section 38-12-902 (1.7).

(2) In addition to the relief authorized by the provisions of subsection (1) of this section, an individual with a disability who has suffered an unfair housing practice based on his or her disability is entitled to the relief set forth in section 24-34-802.

24-34-601. Discrimination in places of public accommodation - rules.

(2) (a) It is a discriminatory practice and unlawful for a person, directly or indirectly, to refuse, withhold from, or deny to an individual or a group, because of disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, national origin, or ancestry the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations of a place of public accommodation or, directly or indirectly, to publish, circulate, issue, display, post, or mail any written, electronic, or printed communication, notice, or advertisement that indicates that the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations of a place of public accommodation will be refused, withheld from, or denied an individual or that an individual's patronage or presence at a place of public accommodation is unwelcome, objectionable, unacceptable, or undesirable because of disability, race, creed, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, national origin, or ancestry.

(c) (I) An educational institution, including an elementary or secondary school and an institution of higher education, denies a person the full and equal enjoyment of a place of public accommodation when the educational institution:

(A) On the basis of one or more of the protected classes described in subsection (2)(a) of this section, excludes a student from participation in, denies a student the benefits of, or otherwise subjects a student to discrimination in any of the educational institution's programs or activities;

(B) Without a legitimate, nondiscriminatory, nonpretextual basis, and based on one or more of the protected classes described in subsection (2)(a) of this section, denies educational services, benefits, or opportunities to a student or group of students by treating them differently from a similarly situated student who is, or group of students who are, part of a different subgroup of students within the same protected class; or

(C) Has actual notice that a hostile environment based on one or more of the protected classes described in subsection (2)(a) of this section exists at the educational institution but fails to take prompt and effective steps reasonably calculated to eliminate the hostile environment, end the harassment that gave rise to the hostile environment, and prevent the harassment from recurring.

(II) In interpreting the standards in subsection (2)(c)(I) of this section, the division and the commission may consider federal nondiscrimination law as persuasive but nonbinding authority. State law governs in the case of a conflict between applicable state and federal law.

(III) The commission may adopt rules specific to complaints of discrimination involving educational institutions.

(2.5) It is a discriminatory practice and unlawful for any person to discriminate against any individual or group because such person or group has opposed any practice made a discriminatory practice by this part 6, because such person or group has requested reasonable accommodations on the basis of a person's disability, or because such person or group has made a charge, testified, assisted, or participated in any manner in an investigation, proceeding, or hearing conducted pursuant to this part 6.

(3) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this section, it is not a discriminatory practice for a person to restrict admission to a place of public accommodation to individuals of one sex if such restriction has a bona fide relationship to the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations of such place of public accommodation.

(4) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires, "nonprofit" means any person that is listed as an exempt organization in 26 U.S.C. sec. 501 (c) and that is exempt from taxation pursuant to 26 U.S.C. sec. 501 (a) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended.

(5) A nonprofit does not directly or indirectly participate or intervene in a political campaign merely by renting out space for a political event at the nonprofit's customary and usual rates.

The first amendment's free speech clause prohibits the state from enforcing the accommodation clause in subsection (2)(a) to compel a website designer to create custom websites celebrating or depicting same-sex weddings or otherwise create or depict original, expressive, graphic, or website designs inconsistent with the designer's beliefs regarding same-sex marriage. 303 Creative LLC v. Elenis, 600 U.S. 570 (2023); 303 Creative LLC v. Elenis, 725 F. Supp. 3d 1235 (D. Colo. 2024).

The first amendment's free speech clause prohibits the state from enforcing the communication clause in subsection (2)(a) to prevent a website designer from posting on the designer's website a proposed statement regarding the designer's religious beliefs that prevent the designer from creating websites promoting and celebrating ideas or messages that violate the designer's beliefs regarding marriage or from making materially similar statements on designer's website and directly to prospective clients. 303 Creative LLC v. Elenis, 725 F. Supp. 3d 1235 (D. Colo. 2024).

The United States supreme court has recognized that, in some cases, conduct cannot be divorced from status. This is so when the conduct is so closely correlated with the status that it is engaged in exclusively or predominantly by persons who have that particular status. The act of same-sex marriage is closely correlated to sexual orientation, because it is engaged in exclusively or predominantly by gays, lesbians, and bisexuals. Craig v. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc., 2015 COA 115, 370 P.3d 272, rev'd on other grounds sub nom. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Ltd. v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n, 584 U.S. 617 (2018).

But for their sexual orientation, petitioners would not have sought to enter into a same-sex marriage, and therefore, the administrative law judge did not err when he found that respondents' refusal to create a wedding cake for petitioners was "because of" their sexual orientation, in violation of the Colorado anti-discrimination act and not, as respondents claim, because of petitioners' intended conduct — to enter into a marriage with a same-sex partner. Craig v. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc., 2015 COA 115, 370 P.3d 272, rev'd on other grounds sub nom. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Ltd. v. Colo. Civil Rights Comm'n, 584 U.S. 617 (2018).

Because baker agreed to make a custom pink cake with blue frosting before the customer disclosed why she wanted it, the baker's refusal was "because of" the customer's transgender status and therefore discriminatory and in violation of this section. This finding was further supported by the baker's acknowledgment that a pink cake with blue frosting "has no intrinsic meaning and does not express any message". Scardina v. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc., 2023 COA 8, 528 P.3d 926, vacated, 2024 CO 67, 556 P.3d 1238 (decided under former law).

The pink and blue cake requested by a customer expressed no message and therefore could not fall within the "offensiveness rule" argued by the baker. Scardina v. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc., 2023 COA 8, 528 P.3d 926, vacated, 2024 CO 67, 556 P.3d 1238 (decided under former law).

Creating a pink cake with blue frosting is not inherently expressive and any message or symbolism it provides to an observer would not be attributed to the baker. Therefore, the baker was not compelled to speak through the creation and sale of the cake to the customer to celebrate her transformation from a man to a woman. Scardina v. Masterpiece Cakeshop, Inc., 2023 COA 8, 528 P.3d 926, vacated, 2024 CO 67, 556 P.3d 1238 (decided under former law).

Right of women to frequent saloons taken away by Denver city charter. If this section, when enacted, gave to women the right equally with men to frequent saloons, and if this right depended solely upon the underlying statutory provision, it was taken away by the general assembly when, at a later date, it adopted a charter for the city of Denver, whereby the authority was conferred upon the city to deprive women of the enjoyment of this so-called right. Adams v. Cronin, 29 Colo. 488, 69 P. 590 (1902), aff'd, 192 U.S. 108 (1904) (decided under former law).

This section applies to organizations that conduct activities in facilities, such as parks and sports fields, that are open to the public. Creek Red Nation, LLC v. Jeffco Midget Football Ass'n, 175 F. Supp. 3d 1290 (D. Colo. 2016).

Bootblacking stand is a place of public accommodation. Darius v. Apostolos, 68 Colo. 323, 190 P. 510 (1920).

Refusal of restaurant to serve a person because of his race is discrimination against which section is aimed. Crosswaith v. Bergin, 95 Colo. 241, 35 P.2d 848 (1934).

Determination that regulation violates student's right to exercise religion outside section's scope. A determination by the Colorado civil rights commission that a school hair regulation violates an Indian student's constitutional right to freely exercise his religion is outside the scope of subsection (2) and is an issue appropriately resolved in a court of law. Sch. Dist. No. 11-J v. Howell, 33 Colo. App. 57, 517 P.2d 422 (1973).

Disparity in the procedure for verifying students' religious beliefs constitutes discriminatory practice prohibited by this section. Sch. Dist. No. 11-J v. Howell, 33 Colo. App. 57, 517 P.2d 422 (1973).

Plaintiff must show that he or she would not have been denied full privileges of a place of public accommodation if it had not been for his or her disability. The plaintiff does not need to establish that the disability was the only cause for being denied full privileges of a place of public accommodation. Tesmer v. Colo. High Sch. Activities Ass'n, 140 P.3d 249 (Colo. App. 2006).

For an impairment to be considered a substantial limitation, it must prevent or severely restrict an individual from performing a major life activity and must be of a permanent or long-term nature. Plaintiff's attention deficit disorder does not constitute a substantial limitation under subsection (2). Tesmer v. Colo. High Sch. Activities Ass'n, 140 P.3d 249 (Colo. App. 2006).

24-34-602. Penalty and civil liability.

Upon finding a violation of section 24-34-601, 24-34-802 (1)(b), or 24-34-803, the plaintiff is entitled to a court order requiring compliance with the provisions of the applicable section, attorney fees and costs, and either:

(I) Recovery of actual monetary damages and, except as otherwise provided in subsection (1)(c) of this section, damages for noneconomic loss or injury, as defined in section 13-21-102.5 (2)(b); or

(c) (I) Recovery of damages for noneconomic loss or injury in accordance with subsection (1)(a)(I) of this section is limited to an amount not to exceed fifty thousand dollars.

(II) (A) A defendant is entitled to a fifty-percent reduction of the statutory cap set forth in subsection (1)(c)(I) of this section on noneconomic loss or injury damages awarded in accordance with subsection (1)(a)(I) of this section if the defendant corrects the violation within thirty days after the complaint is filed; except that a defendant that knowingly, intentionally, or recklessly made or caused to be made the violation is not entitled to a reduction pursuant to this subsection (1)(c)(II).

(B) Notwithstanding the period set forth in subsection (1)(c)(II)(A) of this section, a defendant that is not able to fully correct the violation within the thirty-day period set forth in subsection (1)(c)(II)(A) of this section may be allowed additional time in thirty-day increments not to exceed a total of one hundred twenty days, including the initial thirty-day period set forth in subsection (1)(c)(II)(A) of this section, if the defendant shows good faith effort to correct the violation. If the defendant has not fully corrected the violation within one hundred twenty days, the defendant is not entitled to the reduction set forth in subsection (1)(c)(II)(A) of this section.

(III) Nothing in this subsection (1)(c) reduces actual monetary damages awarded in accordance with subsection (1)(a)(I) of this section.

(1.5) (a) A person aggrieved by a violation of section 1-1-116 may bring an action in any court of competent jurisdiction. Upon finding a violation of section 1-1-116, the plaintiff is entitled to a court order requiring compliance with the provisions of the applicable section and either:

(I) The recovery of actual monetary damages; or

(II) A statutory fine of three thousand five hundred dollars, payable to each plaintiff for each violation.

(b) For a claim brought for a violation of section 1-1-116, each caucus or assembly is considered a single incident and not as separate violations.

(3) The relief provided by this section is an alternative to that authorized by section 24-34-306 (9), and a person who seeks redress under this section is not permitted to seek relief from the commission.

(4) For any suit brought pursuant to this section that relates to discrimination on the basis of disability, the court shall apply the same standards and defenses that are available under the federal "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", 42 U.S.C. sec. 12101 et seq., and its related amendments and implementing regulations.

Section is constitutional. Crosswaith v. Bergin, 95 Colo. 241, 35 P.2d 848 (1934).

Section must be strictly construed. Considering the penal character of this section, the rule of strict construction must be applied. Darius v. Apostolos, 68 Colo. 323, 190 P. 150 (1920).

No proof of pecuniary damage is necessary in an action under this and the preceding section for the refusal to serve a person because of his race in a restaurant. Crosswaith v. Bergin, 95 Colo. 241, 35 P.2d 848 (1934).

Burden on proprietor to show employee's discriminatory action not within scope of authority. Where a cashier refuses to serve a person on account of his color, the burden is on the proprietor to show that the refusal is not committed in the course of the proprietor's business or that it is not within the scope of the cashier's authority. Crosswaith v. Thomason, 95 Colo. 240, 35 P.2d 849 (1934).

Defendant's offer to pay, or deposit, $500.01 did not moot plaintiff's claim. Whether an offer of tender can be considered payment for penalty must be determined on a case-by-case basis. Scardina v. 24-34-803. Rights of individuals with service animals.

(1) A qualified individual with a disability has the right to be accompanied by a service animal individually trained for that individual without being required to pay an extra charge for the service animal in or on the following places or during the following activities and subject to the conditions and limitations established by law and applicable alike to all individuals:

- (a) Any place of employment, housing, or public accommodation;
- (b) Any programs, services, or activities conducted by a public entity;
- (c) Any public transportation service; or
- (d) Any other place open to the public.

(2) A trainer of a service animal, or an individual with a disability accompanied by an animal that is being trained to be a service animal, has the right to be accompanied by the service animal in training without being required to pay an extra charge for the service animal in training in or on the following places or during the following activities:

- (a) Any place of employment, housing, or public accommodation;
- (b) Any programs, services, or activities conducted by a public entity;
- (c) Any public transportation service; or
- (d) Any other place open to the public.

(3) (a) An employer shall allow an employee with a disability who is accompanied by a service animal to keep the employee's service animal with the employee at all times in the place of employment. An employer shall not fail or refuse to hire or discharge any individual with a disability, or otherwise discriminate against any individual with a disability, with respect to compensation, terms, conditions, or privileges of employment because that individual with a disability is accompanied by a service animal individually trained for that individual.

(b) An employer shall make reasonable accommodation to make the workplace accessible for an otherwise qualified individual with a disability who is an applicant or employee and who is accompanied by a service animal individually trained for that individual unless the employer can show that the accommodation would impose an undue hardship on the employer's business. For purposes of this paragraph (b), "undue hardship" and "reasonable accommodation" have the same meaning as set forth in Title I of the federal "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", 42 U.S.C. sec 12101 et seq., and its related amendments and implementing regulations.

(4) The owner or individual with a disability who has control or custody of a service animal or the trainer of a service animal is liable for any damage to persons, premises, or facilities, including places of housing, places of public accommodation, and places of employment, caused by that individual's service animal or service animal in training. The individual who has control or custody of a service animal or a service animal in training is subject to the provisions of section 18-9-204.5, C.R.S.

(5) An individual with a disability who owns a service animal is exempt from any state or local licensing fees or charges that might otherwise apply in connection with owning a similar animal.

(6) The mere presence of a service animal in a place of public accommodation is not grounds for any violation of a sanitary standard, rule, or regulation promulgated pursuant to section 25-4-1604, C.R.S.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Service, Therapy, and Emotional Support Animals", see 44 Colo. Law. 69 (July 2015).

The legitimate suspicions doctrine does not apply with respect to Colorado anti-discrimination act claims governing service animals. The district court erred in applying that doctrine to allow inquiry by a public entity about a student's service animal that exceeded the bounds of federal Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) regulations, and thus the Colorado anti-discrimination act. Public entities may make only two inquiries regarding the legitimacy of service animals allowed under the ADA regulations: (1) Is the animal required because of a disability, and (2) what tasks is the animal trained to perform? Further inquiries about the legitimacy of the animal being a service animal are not permitted. Stalder v. Colo. Mesa Univ., 2024 COA 29, 551 P.3d 679.

(b) Any person who violates subsection (1)(d) of this section commits a class 2 misdemeanor.

(3) (a) (I) Except as provided for in subsections (3)(a)(II) and (3)(a)(III) of this section, a person who violates any provision of subsection (1) of this section is liable to the qualified individual with a disability who is accompanied by a service animal or a trainer of a service animal whose rights were affected for the penalties provided in section 24-34-602.

24-34-805. Family preservation safeguards for families that include a parent with a disability - protections - legislative declaration - definitions.

(1) (a) The general assembly finds and declares that:

-2041-

(I) Persons with disabilities continue to face unfair, preconceived, and unnecessary societal biases, as well as antiquated attitudes, regarding their ability to successfully parent their children;

(II) Persons with disabilities have faced these biases and preconceived attitudes in family and dependency law proceedings concerning parental responsibilities and parenting time decisions, public and private adoptions, guardianship, and foster care;

(III) Because of these societal biases and antiquated attitudes, children of persons with disabilities historically have been vulnerable to unnecessary removal from one or both of their parents' care or are restricted from enjoying meaningful time with one or both parents; and

(IV) Children have been denied the opportunity to enjoy the experience of living in loving homes with a parent or parents with a disability or other caretakers with a disability.

(b) Therefore, the general assembly declares that to protect the best interests of children who are parented by persons with disabilities or children who could be parented by persons with disabilities:

(I) Procedural safeguards are required in adherence to the federal "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", 42 U.S.C. sec. 12101 et seq., and its related amendments and implementing regulations; and

(II) It is necessary to have respect for the due process and equal protection rights of parents and prospective parents with disabilities in the context of child welfare, foster care, family law, guardianship, and adoption.

(2) Achieving the goal of family preservation for a parent or prospective parent with a disability includes the following requirements:

(a) A parent's disability alone must not serve as a basis for denial or restriction of parenting time or parental responsibilities in:

(I) A domestic law proceeding pursuant to title 14, without a clear nexus to the parent's ability to meet the needs of the child;

(II) A minor guardianship proceeding pursuant to title 15, without a clear nexus to the parent's ability to meet the needs of the child; or

(III) A dependency and neglect proceeding pursuant to title 19, except when it impacts the health or welfare of a child;

(b) A prospective adoptive parent's disability alone must not serve as a basis for the denial of his or her participation in a public or private adoption pursuant to article 5 of title 19 unless it would impact the health or welfare of a child;

(c) An individual's disability alone must not serve as a basis for the denial of temporary custody or foster care of a minor, except when it impacts the health or welfare of a child;

(d) In a case brought pursuant to title 14, a minor guardianship proceeding pursuant to title 15, or article 4 of title 19:

(I) Where a parent's or prospective guardian's disability is alleged to have a detrimental impact on a child, the party raising the allegation bears the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the behavior or behaviors of the parent or prospective parent are contrary to the child's best interest; and

(II) If the burden of proof required pursuant to subsection (2)(d)(I) of this section is met, the parent or prospective guardian with a disability must be given the opportunity to demonstrate how the implementation of supportive parenting services can alleviate any concerns that have been raised. The court may require that such supportive parenting services be provided or implemented, given the resources of the family, with an opportunity to review the need for continuation of such services within a reasonable period of time.

(e) In a dependency and neglect case brought pursuant to title 19, when a respondent parent's disability is alleged to impact the health or welfare of a child, the court shall find whether reasonable accommodations and modifications, as required by the federal "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", 42 U.S.C. sec. 12101 et seq., and its related amendments and implementing regulations, were provided to avoid nonemergency removal on the basis of disability.

(f) In a case brought pursuant to title 14, a minor guardianship proceeding pursuant to title 15, or articles 4 and 5 of title 19, if a court determines that the right of a parent or prospective guardian with a disability to parenting time, parental responsibilities, guardianship, or adoption should be denied, restricted, or conditioned in any manner, the court shall make specific findings of fact and law stating the basis for such a determination and why the provision of supportive parenting services is not a reasonable accommodation or remedy to prevent the denial or limitation.

(3) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Disability" has the same meaning as set forth in the federal "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", 42 U.S.C. sec. 12101 et seq., and its related amendments and implementing regulations.

(b) "Supportive parenting services" means the provision of reasonable accommodations and modifications as set forth in the federal "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", 42 U.S.C. sec. 12101 et seq., and its related amendments and implementing regulations, and are directly related to a disability and that enable a parent with a disability to safely fulfill parental responsibilities.

24-34-806. Testing accommodations for Coloradans with disabilities - right of action - legislative declaration - definitions.

(1) (a) The general assembly finds that:

(I) Licensing exams are gateways to employment opportunities;

(II) When an individual is attempting to obtain a professional license or certification for a trade, it is difficult to achieve such goals without sitting for some kind of licensing exam;

(III) While many testing entities have made efforts to ensure equal opportunity for individuals with disabilities, disabled Coloradans continue to question and make complaints about testing entities' excessive and burdensome documentation demands, failures to provide necessary testing accommodations, failures to respond to requests for testing accommodations in a timely manner, and failures to recognize the diagnoses or recommendations provided by an individual's medical or psychological provider;

(IV) The federal "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", 42 U.S.C. sec. 12101 et seq., as amended, ensures that individuals with disabilities have the opportunity to fairly compete for and pursue career opportunities by requiring standardized examination entities to offer exams in a manner that is accessible to persons with disabilities. When needed testing accommodations are provided, a test-taker can demonstrate the test-taker's true aptitude.

(V) Yet, Coloradans with disabilities are being denied the testing accommodations they need, and previously received, unless they undergo additional and costly diagnostic testing or psychological assessment. These denials result in disabled Coloradans either taking the licensing exam without the necessary testing accommodation or spending thousands of dollars on the requested diagnostic testing or psychological assessment in order to take the exam or test with the same testing accommodation they previously received.

(b) Therefore, the general assembly declares that Coloradans with disabilities must be able to receive the testing accommodations they need to adequately demonstrate their aptitude without having to first undergo additional diagnostic testing or psychological assessments if the testing accommodation they are requesting is the same testing accommodation they received previously or is in line with a medical or psychological provider's professional recommendation or diagnosis.

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Licensing exam" means a test that requires, in a given test administration, all test-takers to answer the same questions, in the same way; is scored in a standard or consistent manner; and is required for a professional or trade certification or licensure.

(b) "Testing accommodation" means a change to the regular testing environment or the permitted use of an auxiliary aid or service that allows an individual with a disability to demonstrate the individual's true aptitude or achievement level on a licensing exam test and includes, but is not limited to, the following:

- (I) Braille or large-print exam booklets;
- (II) Screen-reading technology;
- (III) Scribes to transfer answers to bubble sheets or record dictated notes and essays;
- (IV) Extended time;
- (V) Breaks during an exam that are not counted in the total exam time;
- (VI) Wheelchair-accessible testing stations;
- (VII) To the extent possible, rooms that eliminate visual and auditory distractions;
- (VIII) Physical prompts for individuals with hearing impairments; and
- (IX) Permission to bring and take prescribed medication during the exam.

(c) "Testing entity" means any person, business, or state or local government agency that offers examinations or courses related to applications, licensing, certification, or credentialing for secondary or postsecondary education, or for professional or trade purposes.

(3) (a) A testing entity must offer examinations or courses in a place and manner accessible to individuals with disabilities or must offer alternative accessible arrangements for such individuals and grant an individual's request for a testing accommodation on a licensing exam if the individual:

(I) Has a disability that is recognized under the federal "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", 42 U.S.C. sec. 12101 et seq., as amended;

(II) Provides either:

(A) Proof of having received the previous testing accommodation due to the individual's disability on a past standardized exam or high-stakes test; or

(B) A recommendation letter from the individual's treating medical professional that recommends the accommodations requested by the individual and is signed and dated by the treating medical professional making the recommendation; and

(III) Repealed.

(IV) Requests the same testing accommodation that the individual previously received on another standardized exam or high-stakes test.

(b) If the individual meets the requirements specified in subsection (3)(a) of this section, the testing entity must not require the individual to provide additional documentation or undergo diagnostic testing or a psychological assessment to further support the individual's request for a testing accommodation.

(4) An individual adversely affected or aggrieved by a testing entity's decision regarding the individual's request for a testing accommodation pursuant to this section may bring a civil action against the testing entity in a court of competent jurisdiction for a willful violation of this section and is entitled to the following remedies:

(a) The relief set forth in section 24-34-602; and

(5) Upon receipt of a complaint for a violation of this section, the attorney general may investigate the violation. If the attorney general finds that a testing entity has violated or is violating this section, the attorney general may bring a civil action against the testing entity in a court of competent jurisdiction for a willful violation of this section.

(6) This section does not require a testing entity to provide accommodations to an individual with a disability if the accommodation would constitute a fundamental alteration or undue burden as defined in the federal "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", 42 U.S.C. sec. 12101 et seq., as amended.

24-34-901. Proposed continuing education requirements for regulated occupations and professions - review by office of executive director.

(1) Before any bill is introduced in the general assembly that contains, or any bill is amended to contain, a mandatory continuing education requirement for any occupation or profession, the practice of which requires a state of Colorado license, certificate, or registration, the group or association proposing such mandatory continuing education requirement shall first submit information concerning the need for such a requirement to the office of the executive director of the department of regulatory agencies. The executive director shall impartially review such evidence, analyze and evaluate the proposal, and report in writing to the general assembly whether mandatory continuing education would likely protect the public served by the practitioners. Proposals may include, but need not be limited to: Information that shows that the knowledge base for the profession or occupation is changing; that mandatory continuing education of this profession or occupation is required in other states; if applicable, that any independent studies have shown that mandatory continuing education is effective in assuring the competency of practitioners. The proposal may also include any assessment tool that shows the effectiveness of mandatory continuing education and recommendations about sanctions that should be included for noncompliance with the requirement of mandatory continuing education. The provisions of this section shall not be applicable to:

(a) Any profession or occupation that, as of July 1, 1991, has mandatory continuing education requirements in place;

(b) Any bill that is introduced as a result of a legislative interim committee and that as introduced in the general assembly includes a mandatory continuing education requirement.

(2) This section is exempt from the provisions of section 24-1-136 (11), and the periodic reporting requirement of this section shall remain in effect until changed by the general assembly acting by bill.

24-35-109. Collections - distraint and sale.

(1) The department of revenue has every power provided by law to enforce the collection of taxes and license fees due the state by foreclosure of liens against real estate and by execution and sale as for a debt due the state or any taxing division or agency thereof.

(2) Specifically, by way of extension and not of limitation, if any person, firm, or corporation liable to pay any tax for personal property or license fee, all or any portion of which is then due the state, neglects or refuses to pay the same within thirty days after notice and demand therefor to the taxpayer is made in writing by the executive director of the department of revenue or a group, division, or subordinate department head appointed pursuant to this article, it is lawful for the executive director or such group, division, or subordinate department head, to collect the whole of said tax or license fee, together with such interest and other amounts as are required by law, by distraint and sale of the goods, chattels, or effects, including stocks, securities, bank accounts, and evidences of debt of the delinquent taxpayer. Only such property as is exempt from attachment and execution under the laws of this state shall be exempt from distraint and sale under the provisions of this title.

(3) When distraint is made under the power granted in this section, the officer making such distraint shall make or cause to be made an account of the goods, chattels, and effects distrained and shall sign the same in the name of the state of Colorado by authority of the executive director of the department of revenue. A copy of said notice shall be served upon the owner and upon the possessor of any of the distrained property in the same manner as provided by law for the service of summons in judicial actions in the district courts of the state. Said notice shall also specify the total amount of tax, interest, and penalties due, the time and place when the sale thereof shall occur, and the upset or minimum price, if any, at which the distrained property will be sold. A copy of said notice shall likewise be published once in some legal newspaper within the county in which said distraint is made not more than thirty nor less than ten days prior to the date of such sale, and it shall be posted in a conspicuous place in the county courthouse of said county. If there is no legal newspaper published in such county, then the publication of said notice shall not be required.

(4) Every such sale shall be at public auction and shall be held not less than thirty nor more than sixty days after service of the notice of distraint, but any such sale may be adjourned from time to time by the officer making the same if the upset or minimum price is not bid or if for any other reason he deems such adjournment advisable; but no such sale shall be adjourned for a longer period than ninety days in all.

(5) In all cases of sale under distraint, the certificate of such sale shall be prima facie evidence of the regularity of the proceedings in making the sale, and said certificate shall transfer to the purchaser all right, title, and interest of the delinquent taxpayer in and to the property sold; and, if any of the property sold consists of stocks, registered bonds, or other certificates of indebtedness, said certificate of such sale shall be authority for the corporation, firm, or association issuing such stock or having outstanding any such registered bonds or certificates of indebtedness and to all transfer agents thereof to record and transfer the same on their books, accounts, and records the same in all respects as if the certificates of stock or registered bonds or certificates of indebtedness had been duly endorsed for transfer by the delinquent taxpayer as owner thereof.

(6) No such distraint and sale shall occur or be valid unless commenced within three years from and after the date when such tax or license fee becomes due and payable. Every owner of property thus distrained and sold may redeem the same from such sale after the date when the sale occurred by payment of the amount of such tax, together with interest, penalties, and costs of sale. The executive director of the department of revenue shall collect all taxes due the state on real property in the manner provided by law.

(7) If, at any such sale or any adjournment thereof, the price bid is less than the cost of sale, the officer making the sale shall bid in the property in the name of the state of Colorado; except that the proportionate share of any political subdivision derived from any such sale shall be remitted to the political subdivision entitled thereto. If the amount bid at any such sale or at any adjournment thereof is less than the amount of the delinquency plus interest, penalties, and costs, if any, the officer making the sale may bid in the property in the name of the state of Colorado if the property tax administrator shall direct him in writing to do so, certifying in such direction that in the opinion of the property tax administrator the price offered is less than the forced sale value of the distrained property offered for sale.

(8) If any person, firm, or corporation liable for the payment of any tax has repeatedly failed, neglected, or refused to pay the same within the time specified for such payment and the department of revenue has been required to exercise its enforcement proceedings three or more times through the issuance of a distraint warrant to enforce payment of any such taxes due, then the executive director of the department of revenue is authorized to assess and collect the amount of such taxes due together with all the interest and penalties thereon provided by law and also assess and collect an additional amount equal to fifteen percent of the delinquent taxes, interest, and penalties due or the sum of twenty-five dollars, whichever amount is greater, said additional amount being imposed to compensate the department for administrative and collection costs incurred in collecting such delinquent taxes.

24-36-104. Moneys to be deposited.

(1) All moneys received by the treasury department shall be promptly deposited in such national or state banks doing business in this state as the state treasurer shall select. Accounts in such depositories shall be carried in the name of "Treasurer, State of Colorado", and withdrawals therefrom shall be made and signed in such manner as the state treasurer shall direct. The state treasurer may make payments, without appropriation, of all actual and necessary charges made by such depositories for expenses related to the deposit and withdrawal of moneys received by the treasury department in accordance with the constitution or statutes of Colorado. Such payments shall be made from investment income or any other available revenues. The state treasurer shall contract for all such bank services in accordance with the provisions of the "Procurement Code", articles 101 to 112 of this title. The state treasurer shall make the criteria used in selecting a vendor for bank services available to the finance committees of both houses of the general assembly prior to the award of a contract and shall make all contracts submitted or entered into pursuant to this section available for public inspection in accordance with the provisions of part 2 of article 72 of this title.

(2) The state treasurer may authorize any department, institution, or agency collecting or otherwise receiving state moneys to deposit the same to his credit in any such depository in lieu of transmitting the same to the treasury department under procedures approved jointly by himself and the controller.

(2.5) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 11-10.5-111, C.R.S., and section 24-75-202, at the discretion of the state treasurer and the state controller, state moneys may be deposited in bank accounts in other states and in foreign countries to enable a state agency or institution, including institutions of higher education, to operate projects located in other states and foreign countries. Such state agencies and institutions, including institutions of higher education, shall exercise due regard and have full responsibility for the safety of deposits under this article, and the state shall not assume liability for any risk, casualty, or loss of such deposits.

(3) For the purpose of managing deposits of state moneys, the state treasurer may, on a daily basis only, borrow moneys from any such depository to cover advances made by any depository to the state on state warrants and state checks paid by the depository but not yet reimbursed by the state and on uncollected deposits. The state treasurer may negotiate a line of credit with any such depository sufficient to cover anticipated requirements for such advances in the current fiscal year. The state treasurer may pay interest on such moneys borrowed at a rate to be negotiated by the state treasurer and the lending depository and may take such measures as are necessary to implement the provisions of this subsection (3). All such moneys borrowed shall be repaid, together with any interest, before the end of the fiscal year in which the moneys are borrowed, and the state shall not be liable to repay such moneys borrowed from revenues of any later fiscal year. This subsection (3) shall not be construed to expressly or impliedly authorize the state treasurer to do any act or take any action with respect to deposits of state moneys, or with respect to the moneys of any department or agency of the state, other than the acts specifically authorized by this subsection (3).

(4) The state treasurer is authorized to receive and deposit moneys from the United States government. Such federal moneys shall be transmitted to the treasury department as required in section 24-36-103 (1) and deposited as provided in subsection (1) of this section. Such payments shall be made from investment income or any other available revenues. The interest rate payable on such deposits shall be the federal discount rate or such other rate established by federal law.

(2) Warrants and checks shall be paid in the order in which presented to the treasury department for payment. The state treasurer may validate any warrant or any check presented for payment after six months from its date of issue for a period of time not longer than thirty days from the date upon which it is so presented.

(3) All paid warrants and checks shall be canceled and, after being microfilmed or copied through image technology such as optical storage and other recognized state-of-the-art storage technologies, shall be destroyed pursuant to part 1 of article 80 of this title. ANNOTATION

Warrants are paid in order of priority of presentation to the state treasurer, not in the order in which they may have been drawn. Nance v. People, 25 Colo. 252, 54 P. 631 (1898).

Preferred claim must be paid first where revenue shortage. In the case of a shortage of state revenue, a preferred claim must be paid before an earlier presented warrant for a non-preferred claim. Stuart v. Nance, 28 Colo. 194, 63 P. 323 (1900).

For writ of mandamus to compel payment of warrant, see Kephart v. People ex rel. Am. Sav. Bank, 28 Colo. 73, 62 P. 946 (1900).

24-36-107. Warrants or checks endorsed when not paid - exception.

(1) Whenever upon presentation for payment of any issued and outstanding warrant or any issued and outstanding check there are insufficient funds in the state treasury to pay the same, the state treasurer shall endorse thereon the following: "Presented for payment (insert date). Insufficient funds. This warrant or check shall draw interest from this date at the rate of six percent per annum." and shall return such warrant or check to the person presenting it for payment.

(2) Noninterest-bearing general fund warrants and checks lawfully issued pursuant to the provisions of section 24-75-208 are exempt from the provisions of this section.

24-36-108. Notice of payment - when interest ceases.

(1) The treasury department shall maintain a record of the number and amount of each warrant and each check presented for payment and endorsed by the state treasurer as provided in section 24-36-107. Whenever there are sufficient moneys in the state treasury to pay part or all of such endorsed warrants and checks, the state treasurer shall give notice of the date of payment of the same through publication, twice, in some newspaper published in Denver, listing the numbers and amounts of the warrants and checks that he or she is prepared to pay on said date. Interest on the warrants and checks so listed shall cease at the expiration of fifteen days from the last date of publication of said notice.

(2) The state treasurer is authorized to pay interest on any such warrant and any such check at the rate endorsed thereon out of any moneys in the state treasury to the credit of the general fund or such other fund out of which the warrant or check is payable and to charge the amount of interest so paid to such fund.

(3) Interest paid on any such warrant or any such check shall be receipted for thereon by the payee or assignee thereof.

24-36-109. Time deposits.

(1) Subject to the requirements of subsection (2) of this section, the state treasurer is authorized to deposit state moneys with national or state banks doing business in this state for fixed periods of time, not exceeding two years, at such rate of interest as may be negotiated from time to time. For the purpose of making such deposits, the state treasurer may, in his or her discretion, appoint in writing one or more persons to act as custodians of the moneys. Such persons shall give surety bonds in such amounts and form and for such purposes as the state treasurer requires.

(2) (a) The state treasurer shall deposit state moneys for fixed periods in national or state banks that have applied and are eligible as depositories for state moneys pursuant to subsection (1) of this section and pursuant to the time deposit rules established by the department of the treasury that are in effect at that time in accordance with the procedure established in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2) or in paragraph (c) of this subsection (2). Such procedure utilized shall be at the discretion of the treasurer.

(b) (I) Except as provided in paragraph (c) of this subsection (2), when state moneys become available for time deposits pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the state treasurer shall announce the interest rate at which such moneys may be deposited for a fixed period in eligible national or state banks but shall not disclose the amount of state moneys available for deposit.

(II) An eligible national or state bank may request the state treasurer to deposit a specified amount of state moneys with that bank at the interest rate announced by the treasurer. Except as otherwise provided by subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (b), the treasurer shall deposit all or a portion of the state moneys available for deposit with any eligible national or state bank or banks making such a request in an amount equal to the amount requested by that bank.

(III) In the event that the total amount of state moneys requested for deposit by all eligible national or state banks pursuant to subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b) exceeds the amount of state moneys available for deposit, the state treasurer shall determine the total amount of state moneys that all such banks requested for deposit and calculate the percentage of such total that each eligible national or state bank requested. The state treasurer shall deposit with each eligible national or state bank an amount equal to the product of such percentage multiplied by the total amount of state moneys available for deposit.

(c) (I) In the alternative to paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), when state moneys become available for time deposits pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the state treasurer shall announce the amount of state moneys available for deposit for a fixed period in any eligible national or state bank but shall not announce the interest rate at which such moneys shall be deposited.

(II) Except as provided by subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (c), any eligible national or state bank may submit a bid to the state treasurer specifying the interest rate that such bank will pay if state moneys are deposited in such bank and the amount of such moneys the bank will accept for deposit at that interest rate. The bank submitting a bid with the highest interest rate shall be awarded the deposit of state moneys in the full amount requested or the full amount available for deposit at that time, whichever is less.

(III) In the event that two or more eligible national or state banks submit the highest bid for the same interest rate and the total amount requested for deposit by the banks exceeds the amount of state moneys available for deposit at that time, the state treasurer shall determine the total amount of state moneys that all such banks requested for deposit and calculate the percentage of such total that each eligible national or state bank requested. The state treasurer shall deposit with each eligible national or state bank an amount equal to the product of such percentage multiplied by the total amount of state moneys available for deposit.

(IV) In the event that depositing state moneys in the highest bidding eligible national or state bank or banks does not exhaust the total amount of state moneys available for deposit at that time, the state treasurer shall deposit the remaining state moneys in other eligible banks giving priority to the highest remaining bidders.

(V) The state treasurer shall have the authority to establish a minimum acceptable bid for an interest rate. The rate shall be announced before the start of the bidding by any eligible national or state bank.

24-36-112. Deposits in savings and loan associations.

(1) Subject to the requirements of subsection (4) of this section, the state treasurer is authorized to deposit state moneys with any state-chartered savings and loan association, or federally chartered savings and loan association having its principal office in this state, for fixed periods of time not exceeding three years, at such rate of interest as may be negotiated from time to time, but in no event shall any such deposit be in excess of the amount insured by the federal deposit insurance corporation or its successor, unless such savings and loan association has been designated as an eligible public depository by the state commissioner of financial services, pursuant to the provisions of article 47 of title 11, C.R.S.

(2) Any such savings and loan association is authorized to accept deposits of state moneys to the extent permitted in this section.

(3) For the purpose of making such deposits, the state treasurer may, in his discretion, appoint in writing one or more persons to act as custodians of the moneys. Such persons shall give surety bonds in such amounts and form and for such purposes as the state treasurer requires.

(4) (a) The state treasurer shall deposit state moneys for fixed periods in state-chartered or federally chartered savings and loan associations that have applied and are eligible as depositories for state moneys pursuant to subsection (1) of this section and pursuant to the time deposit rules established by the department of the treasury that are in effect at that time in accordance with the procedure established in paragraph (b) of this subsection (4) or in paragraph (c) of this subsection (4). Such procedure utilized shall be at the discretion of the treasurer.

(b) (I) Except as provided in paragraph (c) of this subsection (4), when state moneys become available for time deposits pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the state treasurer shall announce the interest rate at which state moneys may be deposited for a fixed period in eligible state-chartered or federally chartered savings and loan associations but shall not disclose the amount of state moneys available for deposit.

(II) An eligible state-chartered or federally chartered savings and loan association may request the state treasurer to deposit a specified amount of state moneys in that savings and loan association at the interest rate announced by the treasurer. Except as otherwise provided by subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (b), the treasurer shall deposit all or a portion of the state moneys available for deposit with any eligible state-chartered or federally chartered savings and loan association or associations making such a request in an amount equal to the amount requested by that savings and loan association.

(III) In the event that the total amount of state moneys requested for deposit by all eligible state-chartered or federally chartered savings and loan associations pursuant to subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b) exceeds the amount of state moneys available for deposit, the state treasurer shall determine the total amount of state moneys that all such savings and loan associations requested for deposit and calculate the percentage of such total that each eligible state-chartered or federally chartered savings and loan association requested. The state treasurer shall deposit with each eligible state-chartered or federally chartered savings and loan association an amount equal to the product of such percentage multiplied by the total amount of state moneys available for deposit.

(c) (I) In the alternative to paragraph (b) of this subsection (4), when state moneys become available for time deposits pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the state treasurer shall announce the amount of state moneys available for deposit for a fixed period in any eligible state-chartered or federally chartered savings and loan associations but shall not announce the interest rate at which such moneys shall be deposited.

(II) Except as provided by subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (c), any eligible state-chartered or federally chartered savings and loan association may submit a bid to the state treasurer specifying the interest rate that the eligible savings and loan association will pay if state moneys are deposited in such savings and loan association and the amount of such moneys the savings and loan association will accept for deposit at that interest rate. The savings and loan association submitting a bid with the highest interest rate shall be awarded the deposit of state moneys in the full amount requested or the full amount available for deposit at that time, whichever is less.

(III) In the event that two or more eligible state-chartered or federally chartered savings and loan associations submit the highest bid for the same interest rate and the total amount requested for deposit by the eligible savings and loan associations exceeds the amount of state moneys available for deposit at that time, the state treasurer shall determine the total amount of state moneys that all such savings and loan associations requested for deposit and calculate the percentage of such total that each eligible state-chartered or federally chartered savings and loan association requested. The state treasurer shall deposit with each eligible state-chartered or federally chartered savings and loan association an amount equal to the product of such percentage multiplied by the total amount of state moneys available for deposit.

(IV) In the event that depositing state moneys in the highest bidding eligible state-chartered or federally chartered savings and loan association or associations does not exhaust the state moneys available for deposit at that time, the state treasurer shall deposit the remaining moneys in other eligible savings and loan associations giving priority to the highest remaining bidders.

(V) The state treasurer shall have the authority to establish a minimum acceptable bid for an interest rate. The rate shall be announced before the start of the bidding by any eligible state-chartered or federally chartered savings and loan association.

(1) (a) Whenever there are moneys in the state treasury that are not immediately required to be disbursed, the state treasurer is authorized to invest the same in fixed income securities denominated in United States dollars. In making such investments, the state treasurer shall use prudence and care to preserve the principal and to secure the maximum rate of interest consistent with safety and liquidity. The state treasurer shall formulate investment policies regarding liquidity, maturity, and diversification appropriate to each fund or pool of funds in the state treasurer's custody available for investment.

(b) (I) If the state treasurer invests state moneys through an investment firm offering for sale corporate stocks, bonds, notes, debentures, or a mutual fund that contains corporate securities, the investment firm shall disclose, in any research or other disclosure documents provided in support of the securities being offered, to the state treasurer whether the investment firm has an agreement with a for-profit corporation that is not a government-sponsored enterprise, whose securities are being offered for sale to the state treasurer and because of such agreement the investment firm:

(A) Had received compensation for investment banking services within the most recent twelve months; or

(B) May receive compensation for investment banking services within the next three consecutive months.

(II) For the purposes of this paragraph (b), "investment firm" means a bank, brokerage firm, or other financial services firm conducting business within this state, or any agent thereof.

(2) Such moneys may be invested, without limitation, in debt obligations of the United States treasury, any agency of the United States government, or United States government-sponsored corporations.

(2.5) The state treasurer may, in the state treasurer's discretion, invest such moneys in municipal bonds rated in one of the two highest rating categories by a nationally recognized rating organization.

24-36-121. Authority to manage state public financing - state public financing cash fund - rules - legislative declaration - definitions.

- (1) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that:

(a) The state's public financing matters are currently decentralized. Many state agencies incur financial obligations and directly or indirectly pledge or use the credit of the state without centralized management.

(b) Centralized management could have a positive impact on the state's credit rating because credit rating agencies would have a centralized point of contact with the state for state public financing matters;

(c) The issuance and incurrence of financial obligations and the state's outstanding financial obligations should be managed as a whole, by personnel with financial experience and securities market understanding, so that the issuance and incurrence of state financial obligations and the state's outstanding financial obligations can be managed as efficiently and cost effectively as possible, allowing the state to maximize refinancing opportunities;

(d) Centralized management provides a better method of ensuring that federal tax and securities law post-issuance compliance requirements for state financial obligations are met by the state;

(e) Due to changes in the public securities market, increased regulatory requirements, evolving credit criteria, recent technological developments, recent downgrading of certain government credit ratings, and the benefits set forth in this subsection (1), it is necessary to designate the state treasurer as a centralized manager for the issuance and incurrence of financial obligations by the state acting by and through a state agency;

(f) It is also important that the state treasurer develop and promulgate a state public financing policy and, in so doing, collaborate with various experts, including but not limited to the state controller, the office of state planning and budgeting, bond counsel, and the attorney general. Such a policy demonstrates a commitment to long-term financial planning, identifies policy goals, provides for appropriate financing structures, and improves the quality of decision-making. Furthermore, credit rating agencies, the federal internal revenue service, and the federal securities and exchange commission view the existence of state public financing policies favorably.

(g) Senate Bill 12-150, enacted in 2012, is not intended to grant the state treasurer any authority that supersedes a state agency's authority to enter into or incur a financial obligation, nor is Senate Bill 12-150 intended to affect other state laws regarding the general assembly's approval of any financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement over five hundred thousand dollars.

(2) Nothing in this section authorizes the state treasurer or any other public agency to waive an election otherwise required under section 20 of article X or article XI of the state constitution or to hold an election inconsistent with the election requirements of said section 20 of article X. References to financial obligations, debt, or bonds in this section are for reference only and shall not be construed to create debt or a multiple fiscal-year financial obligation contrary to section 20 of article X or article XI of the state constitution.

(3) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) (I) "Financial obligation" means any financial contract, note, warrant, check, bond, certificate, instrument, debenture, or other security, the principal amount of which is one million dollars or more, that is authorized to be issued or entered into by the state acting by and through a state agency under the laws of this state, that is fully or partially secured by any state revenues, and that is directly or indirectly related to the state's credit rating. "Financial obligation" includes, but is not limited to:

(A) Any financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement the principal amount of which is one million dollars or more authorized pursuant to section 24-82-102 and part 8 of article 82 of this title 24; and

(B) Any payment obligation constituting a portion of or related to an energy performance contract as defined in section 24-30-2001 (1) or a capital project financed through a utility cost-savings contract authorized by section 24-38.5-106.

(II) Notwithstanding subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), for purposes of the department of transportation, "financial obligation" does not include:

(A) Any financial contract, note, warrant, check, bond, certificate, instrument, debenture, or other contract, agreement, or security that is authorized to be issued or entered into by or in support of such obligations of the high-performance transportation enterprise created in section 43-4-806 (2), C.R.S.; and

(B) Any financial contract, note, warrant, check, bond, certificate, instrument, debenture, or other contract, agreement, or security that is authorized to be issued or entered into by or in support of such obligations of the statewide bridge enterprise created in section 43-4-805 (2), C.R.S.

(b) "Internal revenue code" means the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, and any regulations thereunder.

(c) (I) "State agency" means a department, board, bureau, commission, division, institution, quasi-governmental entity, or other agency or instrumentality of the state, including a state institution of higher education. "State agency" also includes an enterprise, as defined in section 24-77-102 (3), a nonprofit corporation organized under the laws of this state and created solely for the purpose of issuing financial obligations on behalf of the state acting by and through a state agency, and a trust that may be formed by the state or a state agency to implement financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation financing.

(II) "State agency" does not include:

(A) A county or city and county;

(B) A municipality;

- (C) A school district;
- (D) A charter school;
- (E) A water conservancy district;
- (F) Collegeinvest as described in section 23-3.1-205.5, C.R.S.;
- (G) A district or authority organized or acting pursuant to the provisions of title 29, 30, 31, or 32, C.R.S.;
- (H) A special purpose authority listed in section 24-77-102 (15)(b); or
- (I) Any other political subdivision of the state or other entity that constitutes a local public body as defined in section 24-6-402 (1)(a).

(d) "State institution of higher education" has the same meaning as set forth in section 23-18-102 (10), C.R.S. For purposes of this section, "state institution of higher education" also includes the Auraria higher education center established in article 70 of title 23, C.R.S.

(e) "State revenues" means all income of the state that is received into the state treasury from taxes, fees, and other sources and appropriated for the payment of the state's expenses.

(4) (a) (I) Notwithstanding any other law to the contrary and except as provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a), for the 2012-13 state fiscal year and each state fiscal year thereafter, when a state agency obtains the required approval for the financing of a capital project as specified in law, the state treasurer shall act as the issuing manager, subject to the criteria established in the state public financing policy promulgated as specified in subsection (5) of this section, for all approved financial obligations of the state acting by and through a state agency. The state treasurer has the sole discretion to manage the issuance or incurrence of financial obligations of the state acting by and through a state agency, including all post-issuance compliance with federal and state tax and securities laws, such as arbitrage, rebate, and remedial action requirements. The state treasurer's duties with respect to the management of the issuance or incurrence of financial obligations include, but are not limited to, the following:

- (A) Determining the financing structure and term;
- (B) Deciding the market timing;
- (C) Selecting or hiring, as applicable, the state financing team, including, where appropriate, the lessor, purchaser, underwriter, bond or disclosure counsel, trustee, escrow agent, paying agent, credit enhancer, rating agency, placement agent, liquidity provider, credit support provider, interest rate exchange agreement counterparty, and financial advisor;
- (D) Determining the advisability of a state agency entering into an interest rate exchange agreement pursuant to article 59.3 of title 11, C.R.S.; and

(II) For a state institution of higher education, for the 2012-13 state fiscal year and each state fiscal year thereafter, the state treasurer shall act as the issuing manager, subject to the criteria established in the state public financing policy promulgated as specified in subsection (5) of this section, for any financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement similar to those authorized in section 23-1-106.3, and any financial contract, note, warrant, check, bond, certificate, instrument, debenture, or other security, the principal amount of which is one million dollars or more, that is authorized under the laws of this state to be issued or entered into by the state acting by and through a state agency other than a state institution of higher education and that finances improvements that benefit a state institution of higher education. The state treasurer has the sole discretion to manage the issuance or incurrence of such financial obligations for a state institution of higher education and shall manage the issuance or incurrence of such financial obligations in accordance with the duties set forth in subsections (4)(a)(I)(A) to (4)(a)(I)(E) of this section. The state treasurer shall not act as the issuing manager for any bonds subject to the higher education revenue bond intercept program established in section 23-5-139.

(b) (I) (A) Not less than sixty days prior to the date on which a state agency expects that a financial obligation of the state acting by and through the state agency will be incurred, a state agency shall provide written notice to the state treasurer of that expectation.

(B) Not less than thirty days prior to the date on which a state agency expects that a refinancing of a financial obligation of the state acting by and through the state agency will be incurred, a state agency shall provide written notice to the state treasurer of that expectation.

(II) The state agency shall provide the state treasurer with the information that the state treasurer considers necessary to act as the issuing manager for the issuance or incurrence of the financial obligation, including, if necessary, assumptions of underlying cash flow projections associated with the repayment of the financial obligation. The state agency shall provide the state treasurer with the information that the state treasurer considers necessary to comply with federal and state tax and securities laws and contractual covenants.

(c) In performing his or her duties as the issuing manager, the state treasurer shall consider any relevant factors that the state treasurer considers necessary to protect the financial integrity of the state.

(d) The state treasurer is the elected representative for the purpose of approving the issuance or incurrence of financial obligations by the state acting by and through a state agency when such approval is required under the internal revenue code and is the required signatory on all forms required by the federal internal revenue service to be filed in connection with the issuance or incurrence of financial obligations by the state acting by and through a state agency.

(5) No later than ninety days after May 24, 2012, the state treasurer shall promulgate by rule, in accordance with article 4 of this title, a state public financing policy, and, in so doing, shall collaborate with various experts, including but not limited to the state controller, the office of state planning and budgeting, bond counsel, and the attorney general. The state treasurer shall present the state public financing policy to the capital development committee at the earliest meeting of the capital development committee at which time is available in the meeting schedule after the policy is finalized and shall provide a copy of the final state public financing policy to the joint budget committee. For purposes of this subsection (5), the attorney general is the legal advisor to the state treasurer. - (c) The use of derivatives;

- (e) Credit objectives;
- (f) The structuring practices for each type of financial obligation, including, but not limited to, information about the term, maturity, and type of interest;
- (g) Acceptable methods of sale;
- (h) Policies for determining when selection of external financial professionals is appropriate;

- (l) Policies for investment of proceeds where not otherwise covered by law.

(6) (a) No later than ten days after a state institution of higher education enters into or issues a financial obligation in a principal amount of one million dollars or more that is secured in whole or in part by state revenues or revenues of the institution and that the state treasurer does not manage pursuant to subsection (4) of this section, including any bonds subject to the higher education revenue bond intercept program established in section 23-5-139, C.R.S., the state

institution of higher education shall notify the state treasurer that it has entered into the financial obligation. The notification shall include at least the following information:

(I) A copy of any official statement or other offering document for the issuance or incurrence of the financial obligation;

(II) A copy of any filings or correspondence with the federal internal revenue service with respect to the issuance or incurrence, including, if applicable, a copy of each form 8038 or form 8038G;

(IV) Any other information that is described in the state public financing policy promulgated pursuant to subsection (5) of this section related to the issuance or incurrence.

(b) No later than ten days after the high-performance transportation enterprise created in section 43-4-806 (2), C.R.S., or the statewide bridge enterprise created in section 43-4-805 (2), C.R.S., enters into the financial contracts or instruments specified in sub-subparagraphs (A) and (B) of subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section, the enterprises shall notify the state treasurer that they have entered into or issued such a financial contract or instrument. The notification shall include at least the following information:

(I) A copy of any official statement or other offering document for the issuance or incurrence of such a financial contract or instrument;

(II) A copy of any filings or correspondence with the federal internal revenue service with respect to the issuance or incurrence, including, if applicable, a copy of each form 8038 or form 8038G;

(III) A copy of the continuing disclosure undertaking; and

(IV) Any other information that is described in the state public financing policy promulgated pursuant to subsection (5) of this section related to the issuance or incurrence.

(7) (a) On and after July 1, 2012, the issuance or incurrence of every financial obligation by the state acting by and through a state agency that the state treasurer manages pursuant to subsection (4) of this section must include, to the extent allowed by the internal revenue code, an amount determined by the state treasurer. The state treasurer shall credit the money to the state public financing cash fund, which is hereby created in the state treasury. The fund consists of money deposited in the fund pursuant to this subsection (7)(a) and must be used solely for the purposes described in subsection (7)(b) of this section. The money in the fund is continuously appropriated to the state treasurer. All unexpended and unencumbered money in the fund and all interest and income earned on the deposit and investment of money in the fund remains in the fund and shall not revert to the general fund or any other fund at the end of a fiscal year.

(b) The money in the state public financing cash fund shall be used to reimburse the state treasurer for verifiable costs incurred in performing or overseeing the state's primary issuance compliance and post-issuance compliance responsibilities over the term of a financial obligation, including complying with or monitoring compliance with the requirements of the internal revenue code, making public disclosures or continuing disclosure undertakings required pursuant to federal securities laws or ensuring that such disclosures are made, and performing or coordinating requirements in connection with the financial obligation.

(8) No later than ninety days after May 24, 2012, the state treasurer shall create and maintain a correct and current inventory of all state-owned real property described in section 24-30-1303.5 that is leased property or collateral in any type of financial obligation. 24-36-121.5. Use of security tokens for state capital financing - feasibility study - authorization of use - legislative declaration - definitions.

(1) (a) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(I) Section 3 of article XI of the state constitution prohibits the state from issuing general obligation debt, and section 20 of article X of the state constitution generally requires the state to obtain voter approval in advance before incurring any multiple-fiscal year direct or indirect district debt or other financial obligation whatsoever;

(II) Due to these limitations, the state typically engages in capital financing by:

(A) Issuing short-term tax or revenue anticipation notes, which the state must repay within the same state fiscal year in which they are issued for the purpose of smoothing general fund cash flow; and

(B) Entering into annually renewable financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreements, which grant purchasers of certificates of participation the right to receive lease payments, for the purpose of financing the construction, improvement, or acquisition of capital assets;

(III) Certificates of participation issued in connection with a financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement evidence proportionate interests in the base rentals paid by the state pursuant to the agreement; and

(IV) The use of financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreements by the state for capital financing may limit the universe of investors that can invest in the state and assist in financing state capital projects and may increase the state's capital financing costs.

(b) The general assembly further finds and declares that:

(I) The emergence of decentralized, secure blockchain technology allows security token offerings to be used for capital financing;

(II) A security token offering is a capital financing method in which security tokens, which are digital, liquid contracts made verifiable and secure through the use of blockchain technology that establish a token owner's right to a fraction of a financial asset, are sold to investors;

(III) If the general assembly, after a study by the state treasurer of the feasibility of using security token offerings for state capital financing, authorizes the state to use this new and innovative method of capital financing, the state could substantially reduce its capital financing costs by:

(A) Allowing a much broader range of investors, including ordinary individuals, to invest in underlying financial assets such as certificates of participation issued in connection with financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreements by purchasing security tokens that evidence their investments, thereby increasing investor demand for the underlying financial assets and reducing the rate of interest that the state must pay to investors; and

(B) Reducing the state's dependence on commercial banks, institutional investors, mutual funds, and pension funds when obtaining capital financing and the high underwriting fees, interest, and other transactional costs that result from that dependence;

(IV) In addition to reducing costs, if authorized by the general assembly, the state's use of security token offerings for capital financing will allow ordinary Coloradans, who as taxpayers collectively own state-owned capital assets, to also share in the ownership of leased state capital assets until the state has paid all of its lease obligations and obtained ownership of the assets; and

(V) Because the state has not previously used security token offerings for capital financing and the state treasurer has substantial experience and institutional expertise in capital financing and provides centralized capital financing management on behalf of many state agencies, it is necessary and appropriate to:

(A) Require the state treasurer to study the feasibility of using security token offerings for state capital financing; and

(B) Authorize the state treasurer to recommend to the general assembly that the general assembly enact legislation to authorize the use of security token offerings for state capital financing if, after completing the feasibility study, the state treasurer determines such use to be in the best interest of the state.

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Blockchain technology" means a mathematically secured, chronological, decentralized, distributed, and digital ledger or database that consists of records of transactions that cannot be altered retroactively.

(b) "Security token" means a digital, liquid contract made verifiable and secure through the use of blockchain technology that establishes its owner's right to a fraction of a financial asset such as a stock, bond, or certificate of participation.

(c) "Security token offering" means a capital financing method in which security tokens representing fractional interests in a financial asset are sold to investors in lieu of selling the actual financial asset to investors.

(3) The state treasurer shall study the feasibility of using security token offerings for state capital financing and determine the extent to which the use of security token offerings of state capital financing would be in the best interest of the state. The state treasurer shall complete the study and report the study findings to the house of representatives finance committee and the senate finance committee, or their successor committees, and to the joint budget committee by March 1, 2023. If the state treasurer determines, after completing the feasibility study, that the use of security tokens for state capital financing is in the best interest of the state, the state treasurer may recommend as part of the report that the general assembly enact legislation to authorize such use. The state treasurer shall also post the study findings on the department of the treasury's website.

(4) The state treasurer may use a security token offering for state capital financing and may adopt rules as necessary to implement this section.

(d) Staff services for the board shall be provided by the department of the treasury.

(3) (a) Any employer may request that the board pay the costs of the continuation of benefits for the dependents of an employee who died in a work-related death paid from the fund.

(b) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2023.)

(c) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a county, municipality, special district, or county improvement district from independently paying for the continuation of benefits for the dependents of any person it employs and who dies in a work-related death.

(4) The dependents of an employee who dies in a work-related death are automatically qualified for the continuation of medical and dental benefits through the employer's medical and dental benefit coverage for twelve months from the end of the month in which the work-related death occurred, so long as the dependents had medical or dental benefits through the employer at the time of the employee's work-related death. The medical or dental benefits allowed to dependents pursuant to this section shall be the same coverage that the dependents were enrolled in at the time of the employee's work-related death.

(5) The board shall pay the cost of providing medical or dental benefits on behalf of the employee's dependents for the twelve-month period pursuant to subsection (4) of this section from the fund. The board shall make arrangements with the employer to pay such costs.

(6) (a) The law enforcement officers' and firefighters' continuation of benefits fund is hereby created in the state treasury. The fund consists of money credited to the fund pursuant to subsection (6.5) of this section and any other money that the general assembly may appropriate or transfer to the fund.

(b) The state treasurer shall credit all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of money in the fund to the fund.

(c) The state treasurer shall credit any unexpended and unencumbered money remaining in the fund at the end of a fiscal year to the fund.

(d) Subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly, the board may expend money from the fund to pay the cost of providing medical or dental benefits on behalf of an employee's dependents when the employee died in a work-related death. The board shall make arrangements with the employer to pay such costs.

(6.5) On July 1, 2023, and on July 1 each year thereafter through July 1, 2025, the state treasurer shall transfer one hundred fifty thousand dollars from the general fund to the fund.

(7) At any time, if an employee dies from a work-related death and the money in the fund is insufficient to cover the costs of the continuation of benefits for the dependents of the employee, the state treasurer shall advance sufficient money from the state treasury to the fund to cover such costs. Any money advanced to the fund shall be repaid by the board on a schedule to be set by the board.

(8) The board may develop rules, policies, or procedures to implement this section. Such rules, policies, or procedures may include:

(c) The manner in which an employer notifies the board that an employee died in a work-related death and has dependents who are eligible for a continuation of benefits pursuant to this section;

(d) Procedures for the payment of continuation of benefits after an employee dies in a work-related death; and

(e) Rules, policies, or procedures to address any other issue deemed necessary and appropriate by the board.

(1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Agreement" means one or more financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreements executed as required by subsection (2)(a) of this section.

(b) "Applicable board" means either:

(2) (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of sections 24-82-102 (1)(b) and 24-82-801, and pursuant to section 24-36-121, no later than December 31, 2024, the state, acting by and through the state treasurer, shall execute an agreement for the purposes described in subsection (4) of this section, the total amount of the principal of which agreement shall not exceed two hundred forty-six million nine hundred thirty-six thousand ninety-two dollars, plus reasonable and necessary administrative, monitoring, and closing costs and interest, including capitalized interest.

(b) The anticipated annual state-funded payments for the principal and interest components of the amount payable under an agreement entered into pursuant to subsection (2)(a) of this section shall not exceed seventeen million five hundred thousand dollars, with principal amortization not occurring before July 1, 2027.

(c) The state, acting by and through the state treasurer, at the state treasurer's sole discretion, may enter into an agreement authorized by subsection (2)(a) of this section with any for-profit or nonprofit corporation, trust, or commercial bank acting as a trustee as the lessor.

(d) The agreement must provide that all of the obligations of the state under the agreement are subject to the action of the general assembly in annually making money available for all payments thereunder. Payments under the agreement must be made subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly, as applicable, from the general fund or from any other legally available source of money.

(e) The agreement must also provide that the obligations of the state do not create state debt within the meaning of any provision of the state constitution or state law concerning or limiting the creation of state debt and are not a multiple fiscal-year direct or indirect debt or other financial obligation of the state within the meaning of section 20 (4) of article X of the state constitution. If the state does not renew the agreement, the sole security available to the lessor is the property that is the subject of the nonrenewed agreement.

(f) (I) The agreement may contain such terms, provisions, and conditions as the state treasurer, acting on behalf of the state, deems appropriate, including all optional terms; except that the agreement must specifically authorize the state or the applicable board to receive fee title to all real and personal property that is the subject of the agreement on or before the expiration of the terms of the agreement.

(g) The agreement may provide for the issuance, distribution, and sale of instruments evidencing rights to receive rentals and other payments made and to be made under the agreement. The instruments may be issued, distributed, or sold only by the lessor or any person designated by the lessor and not by the state. The instruments do not create a relationship between the purchasers of the instruments and the state or create any obligation on the part of the state to the purchasers. The instruments are not a note, bond, or any other evidence of state debt within the meaning of any provision of the state constitution or state law concerning or limiting the creation of state debt and are not a multiple fiscal-year direct or indirect debt or other financial obligation of the state within the meaning of section 20 (4) of article X of the state constitution.

(i) The state, acting by and through the state treasurer and the applicable board, is authorized to enter into ancillary agreements and instruments that are necessary or appropriate in connection with an agreement, including but not limited to deeds, ground leases, sub-leases, easements, or other instruments related to the real property on which the facilities are located.

(j) The provisions of section 24-30-202 (5)(b) do not apply to an agreement or to any ancillary agreement or instrument entered into pursuant to this subsection (2). (3) (a) Before executing the agreement, in order to protect against future interest rate increases, the state, acting by and through the state treasurer and at the discretion of the state treasurer, may enter into an interest rate exchange agreement pursuant to article 59.3 of title 11. Such interest rate exchange agreement is a proposed public security for the purposes of article 59.3 of title 11. Any payments made by the state under an interest rate exchange agreement entered into pursuant to this subsection (3) must be made solely from money available to the state treasurer from the execution of the agreement entered into pursuant to subsection (2) of this section or from money described in subsection (2)(d) of this section.

(c) Any money received by the state under an interest rate exchange agreement entered into pursuant to this subsection (3) must be used to make payments on an agreement entered into pursuant to subsection (2) of this section or to pay the costs related to the purposes set forth in subsection (4) of this section for which an agreement was executed.

PART 4

SALE OF INSURANCE PREMIUM TAX CREDITS

24-36-401. Legislative declaration - tax preference performance statement.

(1) The general assembly finds and declares that:

(a) The insurance premium tax credits authorized by this part 4 are not refundable and do not impose an obligation of payment in any future year on the state;

(b) The use of proceeds from the sale of insurance premium tax credits does not require the state to borrow money, extend or pledge the state's credit, or obligate the state to make future payments from state revenue;

(c) The sale and use of the tax credits shall not be deemed or construed as creating indebtedness or other financial obligation whatsoever within the meaning of any provision of the state constitution or the laws of the state concerning or limiting the creation of indebtedness or other financial obligation by the state;

(d) The tax credits allow an insurance company with an insurance premium tax liability to prepay its tax liability for future years, which does not constitute a tax policy change under section 20 (4)(a) of article X of the state constitution; and

(e) Any proceeds from the sale of the tax credits will be offset by decreases in future revenue resulting from the buyer's use of the tax credits and therefore will not cause a net tax revenue gain under section 20 (4)(a) of article X of the state constitution.

(2) (a) In accordance with section 39-21-304 (1), which requires each bill that creates a new tax expenditure to include a tax preference performance statement as part of a statutory legislative declaration, the general assembly further finds and declares that the general purposes of the tax credits provided for in this part 4 are to induce certain designated behavior by taxpayers and provide a reduction in insurance premium tax liability for certain businesses. Specifically, this tax expenditure is intended to induce insurance companies to purchase tax credits that will reduce their future insurance premium tax liability in order to generate money for the health insurance affordability cash fund created in section 10-16-1206 (1) and the general fund.

(b) The general assembly and the state auditor shall measure the effectiveness of the tax credits in achieving the purposes specified in subsection (2)(a) of this section based on the number and value of the credits claimed and the total amount of money generated for the health insurance affordability cash fund and the general fund. The division of insurance shall provide the state auditor with information regarding the total amount of credits claimed and the amount of money generated for the health insurance affordability cash fund and the general fund.

(B) In addition to the tax credit certificates authorized in subsection (2)(a)(I)(A) of this section, the department is authorized to issue tax credit certificates to qualified taxpayers pursuant to this part 4 and part 5 of this article 36 equal to the lesser of a total face value of up to one hundred twenty-five million dollars or total sale proceeds of up to one hundred million dollars plus any reasonable and necessary administrative, monitoring, and closing costs. This subsection (2)(a)(I) takes effect on January 1, 2026, only if the condition specified in section 10-16-1209 (1) occurs.

(3) An insurance company authorized to do business in Colorado seeking to purchase tax credits must apply to the department in the manner prescribed by the department.

(4) Using procedures adopted by the department or, if applicable, by an independent third party, each insurance company that submits an application shall make a timely and irrevocable offer, contingent only on the department's issuance to the insurance company of the tax credit certificates, to make a specified purchase payment amount to the department on dates specified by the department, which must not burden any single tax year. The offer must include:

(a) The requested amount of tax credits, which must not be less than any minimum amount established in procedures by the department or, if applicable, the independent third party;

(b) The qualified taxpayer's proposed tax credit purchase amount for each tax credit dollar requested. The minimum proposed tax credit purchase amount must be the greater of either:

(I) The percentage of the requested dollar amount of tax credits that the department and, if applicable, the independent third party determines to be consistent with market conditions as of the offer date; or

(II) Eighty percent of the requested dollar amount of tax credits; and

(c) Any other information the department or, if applicable, the independent third party requires.

(c) The department may offer to reallocate the defaulted tax credits among other qualified taxpayers, so that the result after reallocation is the same as if the initial allocation had been performed without considering the tax credit allocation to the defaulting qualified taxpayer.

(d) If the reallocation of tax credits under subsection (7)(c) of this section results in the payment by another qualified taxpayer of the amount of tax credit sale proceeds not paid by the defaulting qualified taxpayer, the department may waive the penalty imposed under subsection (7)(b) of this section.

(e) A qualified taxpayer that fails to pay the tax credit sale proceeds within the time specified may avoid the imposition of the penalty by transferring the allocation of tax credits to a new or existing qualified taxpayer within thirty days after the due date of the defaulted installment. (10) The department may pay an independent third party and any consultants reasonable and necessary administrative, monitoring, and closing costs using the proceeds from the sale of tax credits.

HB 25B-1004 became law and took effect August 28, 2025.

(2) Subsection (2)(a)(I)(B) provides that subsection (2)(a)(I) is effective if, by December 31, 2025, the United States congress does not enact and the president does not sign federal legislation that extends, recreates, or otherwise reinstates the enhanced premium tax credit for the 2026 plan year. The commissioner of insurance notified the revisor of statutes in writing on June 8, 2026, that the condition specified occurred. As a result, subsection (2)(a)(I) became effective on January 1, 2026. For more information, see HB 25B-1006 (L. 2025, 1st Ex. Sess., p. 45).

(2) The total credit to be applied by a qualified taxpayer in any one year must not exceed the premium tax liability of the qualified taxpayer for the taxable year. If the qualified taxpayer cannot use the entire amount of the tax credit for the taxable year in which the taxpayer is eligible for the credit, the excess may be carried over to succeeding taxable years and used as a credit against the premium tax liability of the taxpayer for those taxable years; except that the credit may not be carried over to any taxable year that begins after December 31, 2033. Any amount of the credit that is not timely claimed expires and is not refundable.

(3) A qualified taxpayer claiming a credit under this part 4 shall submit the tax credit certificate with its tax return.

(b) An unclaimed tax credit purchased by a qualified taxpayer described in section 24-36-402 (4)(a)(II) may be transferred once to an insurance company authorized to do business in Colorado that has premium tax liability, which insurance company shall not transfer the tax credit except in accordance with subsection (5)(a) of this section or section 24-36-403 (7)(e).

(c) The qualified taxpayer that originally purchased the credit and the resulting entity or insurance company transferee, as applicable, shall notify the department in writing of the transfer or assumption of the credit in accordance with procedures adopted by the department. Upon receipt of a notice of transfer or assumption of the credit, the department shall issue a new tax credit certificate to the transferor and the transferee. The transfer or assumption of the tax credit does not affect the time schedule for claiming the tax credit as provided in this section.

(6) The department shall provide a report to the division of insurance for each fiscal year in which it issues tax credit certificates pursuant to this part 4 within thirty days after the close of the fiscal year. The report must include:

(6) On receipt of payment of the sale proceeds, the department shall issue to each qualified taxpayer a tax credit certificate. The tax credit certificate must state:

- (a) The total amount of income tax credits that the qualified taxpayer may claim;
- (b) The amount that the qualified taxpayer has paid for the issuance of the tax credit certificates and the date of the payment;
- (c) The dates on which the tax credits will be available for use by the qualified taxpayer;
- (d) Any penalties or other remedies for noncompliance;
- (e) The procedures to be used for transferring or assuming the tax credits in accordance with subsection (7)(e) of this section;
- (f) The serial number of the tax credit certificate; and
- (g) Any other requirements deemed necessary by the department as a condition of issuing the tax credit certificate.

(7) (a) The department shall not issue a tax credit certificate to any qualified taxpayer that fails to provide the tax credit sale proceeds within the time the department specifies.

(b) A qualified taxpayer that fails to provide the tax credit sale proceeds within the time the department specifies is subject to a penalty equal to ten percent of the amount of the purchase price that remains unpaid. The penalty must be paid to the department within thirty days after demand.

(c) The department may offer to reallocate the defaulted tax credits among other qualified taxpayers so that the result after reallocation is the same as if the initial allocation had been performed without considering the tax credit allocation to the defaulting qualified taxpayer.

(d) If the reallocation of tax credits under subsection (7)(c) of this section results in the payment by another qualified taxpayer of the amount of tax credit sale proceeds not paid by the defaulting qualified taxpayer, the department may waive the penalty imposed under subsection (7)(b) of this section.

(e) A qualified taxpayer that fails to pay the tax credit sale proceeds within the time specified may avoid the imposition of the penalty by transferring the allocation of tax credits to a new or existing qualified taxpayer within thirty days after the due date of the defaulted installment. Any transferee of an allocation of tax credits of a defaulting qualified taxpayer under this subsection (7) shall agree to pay the tax credit sale proceeds within five days after the date of the transfer.

(9) (a) The department shall provide, within thirty days after the close of the fiscal year, a data file to the department of revenue for each fiscal year in which it issues tax credit certificates pursuant to this part 5. The data file must include:

(I) The name and federal employer identification number of each qualified taxpayer to which the department issued a tax credit certificate;

(II) The total amount of the tax credit allocated to the qualified taxpayer; and

(III) The serial number of the tax credit certificate issued to the qualified taxpayer.

(b) The department shall maintain records of each tax credit certificate issued, transferred, or assumed that are sufficient to allow the department of revenue to verify the issuance and ownership of the credit. The department shall provide the records to the office of the state auditor upon request so that the state auditor can evaluate the effectiveness of the tax credits in accordance with sections 24-36-501 (2)(b) and 39-21-305.

(10) The department may pay an independent third party and any consultants reasonable and necessary administrative, monitoring, and closing costs using the proceeds from the sale of tax credits.

Editor's note: (1) Section 17(2) of chapter 10 (HB 25B-1006), Session Laws of Colorado 2025, First Extraordinary Session, provides that the act changing subsections (2)(a) and (8) takes effect only if HB 25B-1004 becomes law and takes effect one day after the effective date of HB 25B-1004. HB 25B-1004 became law and took effect August 28, 2025.

(2) Subsection (2)(a)(II)(B) provides that subsection (2)(a)(II) is effective if, by December 31, 2025, the United States congress does not enact and the president does not sign federal legislation that extends, recreates, or otherwise reinstates the enhanced premium tax credit for the 2026 plan year. The commissioner of insurance notified the revisor of statutes in writing on June 8, 2026, that the condition specified occurred. As a result, subsection (2)(a)(II) became effective on January 1, 2026. For more information, see HB 25B-1006 (L. 2025, 1st Ex. Sess., p. 45).

24-36-504. Use of corporate income tax credits - carry over.

(1) For a tax credit certificate issued in fiscal year 2025-26, the department, in consultation with the office of state planning and budgeting, prior to the sale, may determine the tax years in which the qualified taxpayer may claim the qualified taxpayer's tax credit against the qualified taxpayer's income tax liability.

(2) For the tax year specified in the tax credit certificate issued pursuant to section 24-34-503 (6), the qualified taxpayer may claim the amount of the tax credit against the qualified taxpayer's income tax liability. If the amount of the tax credit exceeds the qualified taxpayer's actual tax liability for that tax year, the excess is not refunded to the qualified taxpayer. The qualified taxpayer may carry forward and apply the unused tax credit against the income tax liability for any succeeding tax year; except that the tax credit may not be carried forward to a tax year that begins after December 31, 2033. The taxpayer shall apply the carry forward credit against the income tax liability for the earliest of the income tax years possible. Any amount of the tax credit that is not used after this period is not refundable.

(3) A qualified taxpayer claiming a credit under this part 5 shall submit the tax credit certificate with its tax return.

PART 1

OFFICE CREATED

24-37.5-101. Legislative declaration - findings.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) Communication and information resources in the various agencies of state government are valuable strategic assets belonging to the people of Colorado that must be managed accordingly;

(a.5) It is imperative that the long-term sustainability and eventual retirement of information technology systems be considered when initiating a major information technology project and that project plans include the various components that will result in project success;

(b) Technological and theoretical advances in the area of communication and information use are recent in origin, immense in scope and complexity, and progressing rapidly;

(c) The nature of these advances presents Colorado with the opportunity to provide higher quality, more timely, and more cost-effective governmental services;

(d) Agencies independently acquire uncoordinated and duplicative information resource technologies that are more appropriately acquired as part of a coordinated effort for maximum cost effectiveness and use;

(e) The sharing of communication and information resource technologies among agencies is often the most cost-effective method of providing the highest quality and most timely governmental services that would otherwise be cost prohibitive;

(f) Considerations of both cost and the need for the transfer of information among the various agencies and branches of state government in the most timely and useful form possible require a uniform policy and coordinated system for the use and acquisition of communication and information resource technologies; and

(g) It is the policy of this state to coordinate and direct the use of communication and information resources technologies by state agencies and to provide as soon as possible the most cost-effective and useful retrieval and exchange of information both within and among the various state agencies and branches of government and from the state agencies and branches of government to the people of Colorado. To that end, the office of information technology is created.

ANNOTATION

The general assembly intended to grandfather existing classified employees into the state personnel system when their job functions were transferred to the office of information technology. Nontransferring employees of the office are not part of the state personnel system. Gieck v. Office of Info. Tech., 2020 COA 81, 467 P.3d 1277.

Maintaining state personnel system benefits for employees transferred to the office of information technology while denying those benefits to nontransferred employees does not violate the civil service amendment to the state constitution. The general assembly grandfathered the employment status of the employees it transferred from other agencies and created the office of information technology in the governor's office, where employees are exempt from the state personnel system. Gieck v. Office of Info. Tech., 2020 COA 81, 467 P.3d 1277.

(c) If the office implements a security standard in response to an information technology security emergency pursuant to subsection (4.5)(b) of this section, the office shall post the standard on the office's website within seventy-two hours of the implementation of the security standard. (I) Finds that:

(A) Rules adopted by agencies affect many areas of life for Colorado citizens, including water, air, food, energy, mobility, employment, and health care;

(B) Maintaining a vibrant business economy in the state is a goal shared by all Coloradans; and

(C) Public participation in the rule-making process promotes fairness, acceptability, and public accountability and can help foster greater public trust;

(II) Determines that:

(A) Engaging the assistance of lawyers, lobbyists, and technical experts should not be required for Coloradans to access the rules that affect their lives and businesses;

(B) The general assembly created the online transparency task force in House Bill 20-1039, enacted in 2020, to recommend online transparency improvements to the general assembly; and

(C) The task force found that it is unnecessarily burdensome to require both agency and public users to navigate within and between independent departmental resources and reinforced that establishing a clear, centralized agency rule and rule-making resource is necessary; and

(III) Declares that this subsection (10) is necessary to improve access to state rules for all Coloradans and to modernize and enhance the search functionality and transparency of existing web platforms, which are spread across multiple agencies, by creating a single, public-facing search interface for accessing agency rules and state rule-making that meets the minimum standards established in this subsection (10).

(b) Standards for the search interface must include but are not limited to:

(I) A centralized search interface for access to all agency rule-making that is highly visible on the state's main website and that uses search engine optimization to enable it to be located on the internet;

(II) An optimized, intuitive, and full-text search engine that is continuously optimized to increase accuracy and search speed and provide robust search results for users;

(III) An application programming interface that enables quantifiable research on state rules;

(IV) A public comment process that directs users toward the open comment process on the respective agencies' websites when available;

(V) An integrated, subscribable calendar of all agencies' rule-making hearings;

(VI) A fully responsive design that is compatible with mobile and tablet devices; and

(VII) Compliance with section 24-85-103, the federal "Americans Disabilities Act of 1990", 42 U.S.C. sec. 12101 et seq., as amended, and section 508 of the federal "Rehabilitation Act of 1973", 29 U.S.C. sec. 794d, as amended, to make the search interface accessible to people with disabilities.

(c) To facilitate operation of the search interface, the secretary of state shall provide to the office information access to the code of Colorado regulations and Colorado register. To facilitate operation of the search interface, all other agencies shall provide to the office access to their databases and information sources that contain information for rule-making proceedings. The office shall develop the search interface as specified in this subsection (10). The secretary of state shall advise the office in the development of the search interface as necessary and upon request. The office shall make the search interface available for use by June 30, 2022; except that, if an unforeseen technological impediment prevents achievement of this deadline, the office shall:

(I) Identify the impediment, identify a proposed solution, and execute necessary steps to resolve the impediment within existing appropriations;

(II) Notify the joint technology committee of the general assembly in writing that it will not meet the deadline and include in the notice a description of the impediment, the individual tasks comprising the proposed solution, and the anticipated completion date; and

(III) Appear before the joint technology committee at the first practicable opportunity after June 30, 2022, to discuss the implementation of the search interface.

(d) The office may seek, accept, and expend gifts, grants, or donations from private or public sources for the purposes of this subsection (10).

(e) As used in this subsection (10), "agency" has the meaning established in section 24-4-102 (3).

On July 1 of the state fiscal year to which the act applies, the state controller shall credit such amount to the technology risk prevention and response fund.

(d) If the funding source for the appropriation is a combination of the funding sources described in subsections (2)(a), (2)(b), and (2)(c) of this section, then the annual set aside required pursuant to this subsection (2) must be made in proportion to the funding source.

24-37.5-701. Legislative declaration - intent.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) Each state agency, through the provisions of governmental services, collects a significant amount of data about persons having interactions with the state agency;

(b) A unified statewide data governance framework will enhance the effectiveness and efficiency of government services by promoting greater collaboration, innovation, and agility in government operations through data-sharing between state agencies;

(c) A robust and consistent program of information sharing across state agencies that prioritizes interoperability and privacy will enable the state to meet its current challenges and to leverage data to improve the health and quality of life for Coloradans; and

(d) The privacy of Coloradans must remain a central tenet in the state's information sharing program. With the increase of attacks on sensitive data held by public and private entities, information security is critically important. Fundamental data management principles, such as data minimization, not only protect the privacy of Coloradans, but reduce the state's risk in the event of a security incident.

(2) It is the intent of the general assembly to encourage information sharing across state agencies, including the department of law, the department of state, and the department of the treasury, which are principal departments headed by independently elected constitutional officers.

The commission shall authorize disbursements of money from the HCSM for broadband deployment grants only as directed by the broadband office.
- (b) (I) The broadband office may allocate money from the HCSM for the deployment of broadband in unserved and underserved areas of the state pursuant to this section and section 40-15-208 through the use of the HCSM surcharge and surcharge rate in effect on January 1, 2018. In determining the definition of unserved and underserved areas, the standards used by the broadband office must be consistent with broadband benchmark standards and any revisions to the standards, as determined by the federal communications commission and the national telecommunications and information administration in the United States department of commerce. Pursuant to sections 40-15-207 and 40-15-208, the commission shall determine the funds available for broadband deployment from the HCSM money. The money in the fund is continuously appropriated for the purposes set forth in this section. All interest earned from the investment of money in the fund is credited to the fund. All money not expended at the end of a state fiscal year remains in the fund and does not revert to the general fund or any other fund.

(b) Except as required to comply with subsections (2)(b)(II) and (3)(a) of this section, the broadband office shall not award itself money from the HCSM.

(c) The broadband office shall prohibit grant recipients from using grant money to subsidize expenses associated with telecommunications operational expenses, with the exception of a one-time technology and innovation expense and regulatory compliance.

(4) On or before December 31, 2024, the broadband office shall establish grant program criteria and guidelines for awarding HCSM money for new projects to expand broadband access and to increase broadband affordability in the state, which criteria and guidelines must include:

(a) The establishment of a two-tiered grant program that prioritizes funding as follows:

(A) Pole replacements and attachments, line extensions, long drops, network upgrades that strengthen cybersecurity, and network infrastructure, including wireline and wireless facilities such as towers and satellite infrastructure; and

(B) Digital equity initiatives to help close the digital divide in the state, including initiatives for basic internet access, computer and device distribution, digital literacy training, and broadband workforce development training;

(b) The following minimum requirements for projects that are awarded grant money:

(I) Support for broadband deployment in unserved or underserved areas;

- (II) Speed requirements;
- (III) Matching funding requirements;
- (IV) Applicant eligibility requirements;
- (V) Generally accepted industry reliability and performance standards;
- (VI) Timelines for completion of a project;
- (VII) Reasonable cost requirements for a project;
- (VIII) Compliance standards; and
- (IX) Reporting and accountability requirements; and
- (c) The following criteria for reviewing and prioritizing applicants' proposed projects:
 - (I) The purpose and project impacts;
 - (II) The geographic distribution of broadband deployment;
 - (III) Broadband network redundancy, diversity, and latency;
 - (IV) Broadband network speeds;
 - (V) The amount of matching money available;
 - (VI) The cost-effectiveness of the project;
 - (VII) The amount of support the project would provide for low-income households; and
 - (VIII) The extent to which the project would support critically unserved areas.
- (5) In establishing the grant program, the broadband office shall:
 - (a) Solicit input from the general public and various stakeholders, including at least the following groups of stakeholders:
 - (I) Industry associations;
 - (II) Local governments;

(d) As part of a grant application that an applicant files or as part of an appeal of a grant decision that an appellant files, require that the applicant or appellant include a speed test performed:

(I) On an incumbent provider's broadband network; and

(II) In accordance with industry-standard speed-test protocols identified by the federal communications commission;

(e) Include a formal process by which the broadband office, eligible applicants, and incumbent providers may challenge or appeal an applicant's data included in the application to prevent the financing of projects that would cause overbuild or duplication of federal or other state funding; and

(f) Establish a process for ensuring that projects that are awarded grants comply with all state and federal broadband deployment reporting obligations.

(6) Pursuant to section 24-37.5-106 (4), the chief information officer may promulgate rules to implement this section and shall specifically consider promulgating rules to implement subsections (2), (4), and (5) of this section.

(7) The broadband office may contract with a third party to perform administrative functions related to administering the grant program.

(a) The broadband office's grant activities; and

(9) This section is repealed, effective September 1, 2030. Before the repeal, this section is scheduled for review in accordance with section 24-34-104.

PART 1

INCENTIVES FOR BUDGET SAVINGS

24-38-101. Legislative declaration.

The general assembly hereby finds and declares that state agencies should be authorized and encouraged to improve their services and save money wherever possible.

Source: L. 98: Entire article added, p. 1308, § 1, effective August 5.

24-38-102. Definitions.

As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Agency" means every agency in the executive branch of state government that is required by the constitution or statutes of the state to exercise discretion or to perform judicial or quasi-judicial functions. The term includes, but is not limited to, any board, bureau, commission, department, institution, division, section, or office of the state.

(2) "Cost savings" means any money that an agency does not expend from its general fund appropriations for a given fiscal year that is a direct result of cost-cutting measures, including an action that would result in a base reduction due to permanent reductions in spending. In no case shall "cost savings" include or be a result of a case load reduction or personal services contracts that the agency entered into under a managed competition process; except that "cost savings" does include savings realized from personal services contracts entered into pursuant to a public-private initiative agreement between the agency and a nonprofit entity in accordance with part 2 of this article.

Source: L. 98: Entire article added, p. 1308, § 1, effective August 5. L. 2010: (2) amended, (HB 10-1010), ch. 90, p. 309, § 2, effective August 11.

24-38-103. Agency authority and incentives for budget savings.

(1) Beginning with the 1998-99 fiscal year, any agency may implement measures that reduce the costs of delivering the agency's services and products below the amount of the agency's appropriations for a given fiscal year. Any agency that achieves cost savings under this subsection (1) may transfer twenty percent of the amount of the cost savings from one item of appropriation made to the agency in the general appropriation act or any supplemental appropriation act to another item of appropriation made to the same agency in said act. The following limitations shall apply only to transfers made pursuant to this subsection (1):

(a) In no case shall an agency use any of the amount transferred as a result of cost savings to add employment positions or for personal services.

(b) All transfers made pursuant to this subsection (1) shall be between items of appropriations made for the fiscal year in which the cost savings were achieved.

(c) Prior to expending any moneys so transferred, the agency that achieved the cost savings shall enter into a memorandum of understanding with the joint budget committee that details how the agency will spend the transferred moneys.

(d) Any moneys transferred to an agency as the result of cost savings may be spent only for reinvestment in technology or other capital projects related to the item of appropriation to which the moneys were transferred.

(2) The general assembly may reduce an agency's appropriations for the fiscal year following the fiscal year in which the agency achieved the cost savings by the amount of such cost savings if the general assembly determines that the agency is no longer maintaining the measures the agency used to achieve the cost savings or that such cost savings is sustainable for more than one fiscal year. Except as otherwise provided in this subsection (2), the general assembly shall not use a one-time cost savings an agency achieves in a given fiscal year to justify reducing any item of appropriation or the total amount of appropriations the agency may receive in the fiscal year following the fiscal year in which the agency achieved the cost savings. However, nothing in this subsection (2) shall affect the general assembly's authority to reduce an agency's appropriations for any reason other than cost savings.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be construed to allow an agency to avoid any power or duty required by law that otherwise applies to the agency's actions.

PUBLIC-PRIVATE INITIATIVES

24-38-201. Legislative declaration.

The general assembly hereby finds and declares that state government should deliver public services in the most cost-effective and efficient manner, that nonprofit entities that contract for public services leverage the use of public funds with private donations, and that increasing opportunities for nonprofit entities to contract with state agencies will further the cost-effective and efficient delivery of public services. It is the intent of the general assembly in enacting this part 2 only to provide flexibility to state government so that it can deliver public services more cost-effectively and efficiently and not to establish or authorize the establishment of new programs.

24-38-202. Definitions.

As used in this part 2, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Nonprofit contribution" means the supply by a nonprofit entity of resources to accomplish all or any part of the work on a project or the implementation or administration of a program.

(2) "Nonprofit entity" means a corporation or organization authorized to do business in the state that is exempt from taxation pursuant to section 501 (a) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", 26 U.S.C. sec. 501 (a), as amended, and is listed as an exempt organization in section 501 (c)(3) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", 26 U.S.C. sec. 501 (c)(3), as amended.

(3) "Public benefit" means an agency grant of a right or interest in or concerning an agency project or program.

(4) "Public-private initiative" means a nontraditional arrangement between an agency and one or more nonprofit entities that provides for:

(a) Acceptance of a nonprofit contribution to an agency project or service in exchange for a public benefit concerning the project or service other than only a money payment;

(b) Sharing of resources and the means of providing projects or services; or

(c) Cooperation in researching, developing, and implementing projects or services.

(5) "Unsolicited proposal" means a written proposal for a public-private initiative that is submitted by a nonprofit entity for the purpose of entering into an agreement with an agency but that is not in response to a formal solicitation or request issued by the agency.

Source: L. 2010: Entire part added, (HB 10-1010), ch. 90, p. 304, § 1, effective August 11.

24-38-203. Unsolicited proposals.

(1) An agency may consider, evaluate, and accept an unsolicited proposal only if the proposal complies with all of the requirements of this section.

(2) An agency may consider an unsolicited proposal only if the proposal:

(a) Will assist the agency in carrying out its duties in a cost-effective and efficient manner without replacing existing state employees;

(b) Is independently originated and developed by the proposer;

(c) Is prepared without agency supervision;

(d) Includes sufficient detail and information to allow the agency to evaluate the proposal in an objective and timely manner and to determine if the proposal benefits the agency; and

(e) Is not an advance proposal for a known agency requirement that can be acquired by competitive methods unless:

(I) The agency has not established a timetable for satisfying the known requirement; or

(II) The proposal is likely to significantly shorten a timetable for satisfying the known requirement.

(3) Paragraphs (b) and (c) of subsection (2) of this section shall not be deemed to prohibit an agency from encouraging the submission of unsolicited proposals that are well-developed and consistent with the agency's general policy priorities by providing written or oral information to any person regarding the policy priorities or the requirements and procedures for submitting an unsolicited proposal.

(4) If an unsolicited proposal does not meet the requirements of subsection (2) of this section, the agency shall return the proposal without further action. If an unsolicited proposal meets all of the requirements of subsection (2), the agency may further evaluate the proposal pursuant to this section.

(5) An agency shall base its evaluation of an unsolicited proposal on the following factors:

(a) Unique and innovative methods, approaches, or concepts demonstrated by the proposal;

(b) Scientific, technical, or socioeconomic merits of the proposal;

(c) Potential contribution of the proposal to the agency's mission;

(d) Capabilities, related experience, facilities, or techniques of the proposer or unique combinations of these qualities that are integral factors for achieving the proposal objectives;

(e) Cost savings, efficient delivery of services, or enhanced quality of service delivered to the recipient; and

(f) Any other factors appropriate to a particular proposal.

(6) An agency may accept an unsolicited proposal only if:

(a) The unsolicited proposal receives a favorable evaluation; and

(b) The agency makes a written determination based on facts and circumstances that the unsolicited proposal is an acceptable basis for an agreement to obtain services either without competition or, if applicable, after the agency takes the actions required by subsection (7) of this section.

(7) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (8) of this section, if an unsolicited proposal requires an agency to spend public moneys in an amount that is reasonably expected to exceed fifty thousand dollars in the aggregate for any fiscal year, the agency shall take the following actions before accepting the unsolicited proposal:

(a) Provide public notice that the agency will consider comparable proposals. The notice shall:

(I) Be given at least fourteen days prior to the date set forth therein for the opening of proposals through any reasonable method, which may include publication on the agency's internet website, posting on the state's bid information and distribution system, or publication in a newspaper of general circulation;

(II) Be provided to any nonprofit entity that expresses, in writing to the agency, an interest in a public-private initiative that is similar in nature and scope to the unsolicited proposal;

(III) Outline in summary form the general nature and scope of the unsolicited proposal, including the work to be performed on the project and the terms of any nonprofit contributions offered and public benefits requested concerning the project;

(IV) Request information to determine if the proposer of a comparable proposal has the necessary experience and qualifications to perform the public-private initiative; and

(V) Specify the address to and the date by which comparable proposals must be submitted, allowing a reasonable time to prepare and submit the proposals;

(b) Determine, in its discretion, if any submitted proposal is comparable in nature and scope to the unsolicited proposal and warrants further evaluation;

(c) Evaluate each comparable proposal, taking relevant factors into consideration; and

(d) Conduct good faith discussions and, if necessary, negotiations concerning each comparable proposal.

(8) The actions required by subsection (7) of this section do not apply to an unsolicited research proposal if an agency reasonably determines that the actions would improperly disclose either the originality of the research or proprietary information associated with the research proposal.

(9) An agency may accept a comparable proposal submitted pursuant to subsection (7) of this section if the agency determines that the comparable proposal is the most advantageous to the state in comparison to an unsolicited proposal or other submitted proposals. In making the determination, the agency shall use only the proposal evaluation criteria specified in this section and shall not use the methods of source selection set forth in part 2 of article 103 of this title.

(10) If an unsolicited proposal is accepted or if a comparable proposal is accepted pursuant to subsection (9) of this section, the accepting agency shall use the proposal as the basis for negotiation of an agreement.

(11) Subject to the requirements of this section, each agency shall determine its own process for considering, evaluating, and accepting or rejecting unsolicited proposals. If the agency determines that an unsolicited proposal is an acceptable basis for negotiation of an agreement pursuant to this section, the agency's procurement officer shall be responsible for taking the action required by subsection (10) of this section. Before an agency considers an unsolicited proposal or a comparable proposal under this part 2, the agency shall adopt either rules promulgated in accordance with article 4 of this title or other written policy guidelines that it determines are necessary or appropriate to implement this part 2, including rules or guidelines on the evaluation of unsolicited proposals and the receipt, content, and proper handling of unsolicited or comparable proposals. The rules or guidelines shall also require both the nonprofit entity and the agency to disclose any individual or organizational conflicts of interest related to the public-private initiative and to document and properly manage any disclosures.

(12) At the time a principal department of state government submits its annual budget request to the joint budget committee of the general assembly, the department shall report to the committee regarding any public-private initiative agreement then in effect that the department or an agency within the department has entered into pursuant to this part 2. The information reported shall include, at a minimum, a brief description of the purpose and terms of the agreement, the amount of public moneys required to be expended by the state under the terms of the agreement, and the identity of the private partner that is a party to the agreement.

24-38.5-102.7. Colorado energy saving mortgage program - definitions.

(1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Accredited home energy rating provider" means a person who RESNET has accredited through the mortgage industry national home energy rating system accreditation standard as a rating provider and who appears on RESNET's national registry of accredited rating providers or a person who meets other rating provider requirements adopted in guidelines by the Colorado energy office pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection (4) of this section.

(b) "Certified home energy rater" means an individual who an accredited home energy rating provider has certified as a RESNET home energy rater to inspect and evaluate a home's energy features, assign a HERS index score to the home, and recommend energy efficiency improvements or an individual who meets other rater certification requirements adopted in guidelines by the Colorado energy office pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection (4) of this section.

(c) "Colorado energy saving mortgage program" or "program" means the Colorado energy star/energy saving mortgage program administered by the Colorado energy office as of January 1, 2013, as modified by this section or by any program changes implemented by the Colorado energy office within the limitations specified in this section, or any successor program.

(d) "Energy efficient home" means a home that a certified home energy rater has certified as having a HERS index score of not more than fifty or that meets other requirements for being an energy efficient home that the Colorado energy office adopts in guidelines pursuant to subsection (4) of this section.

(e) "Energy saving mortgage" means a mortgage issued to a borrower by a participating lender through the Colorado energy saving mortgage program for the purpose of financing:

(I) The purchase of a newly built energy efficient home; or

(II) Improvements to an existing home that:

(A) Are made in accordance with recommendations made by or approved by the Colorado energy office following a residential energy audit of the home; and

(B) Are confirmed by post-installation verification conducted by the Colorado energy office or a vendor, including but not limited to a participating utility, under contract with the office to have improved the energy efficiency of the home to the extent required by the Colorado energy office.

(f) "HERS index" means the home energy rating system index established by RESNET to measure the energy efficiency of a home.

(g) "Participating lender" means a bank, credit union, other financial institution, or independent mortgage broker that participates in the Colorado energy saving mortgage program by issuing energy saving mortgages and contributing funding that reduces the total cost of the mortgages to the borrowers.

(h) "Participating public utility" means a public utility, as defined in section 40-1-103, C.R.S., including any municipality that operates an electric utility and any cooperative electric or gas association or nonprofit electric corporation or association, that:

(I) Provides electricity or natural gas to residential customers, without regard to whether the utility, association, or corporation is subject to or exempt, in whole or in part, from the "Public Utilities Law", articles 1 to 7 of title 40, C.R.S.;

(II) Chooses to participate in the Colorado energy saving mortgage program by meeting all requirements for participation set forth in guidelines adopted by the Colorado energy office; and

(III) If it is required to comply with the provisions of article 3.2 of title 40, C.R.S., has, prior to its initial participation in the Colorado energy savings mortgage program, had the public utilities commission approve a participation plan.

(i) "RESNET" means the residential energy services network that is a recognized national standards-making body for building energy efficiency rating and certification systems in the United States.

(2) The Colorado energy office may spend any available moneys to fund energy saving mortgages subject to the following limitations:

(a) To the extent feasible, the Colorado energy office shall spend money evenly on energy saving mortgages that finance purchases of newly built energy efficient homes and energy saving mortgages that finance improvements to existing residences;

(b) Each energy saving mortgage may include funding that reduces the total cost of the mortgage to the borrower from both a participating public utility and a participating lender. The Colorado energy office may adopt guidelines to specify minimum percentages of total funding for an energy saving mortgage that each nonstate source of funding must provide.

(c) If a utility chooses to participate in the Colorado energy savings mortgage program by providing demand-side management program moneys, such moneys may only be used towards energy savings attributable to energy efficiency improvements and not towards energy savings attributable to renewable energy or on-site energy generation improvements.

(d) If a utility has existing demand-side management programs for residential new construction or whole-house existing retrofits, the utility must identify, in a demand-side management plan approved by the public utilities commission prior to the utility's initial participation in the Colorado energy mortgage savings program, how it will track participation in all programs, including the Colorado energy savings mortgage program, to ensure that customers do not receive multiple incentives.

(e) The Colorado energy office may only approve an energy saving mortgage that finances improvements to an existing home if the improvements are made by or approved by the office following a residential energy audit of the home and are confirmed by post-installation verification to have increased the energy efficiency of the home to the extent required by the office. The office may adopt guidelines that specify requirements for energy efficiency increases and the conduct of residential energy audits and post-installation testing.

(f) Subject to the following maximum value limitations, the Colorado energy office may adopt energy savings-based guidelines that set forth the maximum total value to the borrower in terms of reduction in the total costs of an energy saving mortgage:

(I) For an energy saving mortgage that finances the purchase of a new energy efficient home, the maximum total value to the borrower in terms of reduction in the total costs of an energy saving mortgage is:

(A) For a home that has a HERS index score of zero, eight thousand dollars or any lower amount that the Colorado energy office establishes in guidelines; or

(B) For a home that has a HERS index score that is greater than zero but no more than fifty, any lower amounts that the Colorado energy office establishes in guidelines subject to the limitation that if the office establishes multiple lower amounts, those amounts must increase as the HERS index score of a home decreases;

(II) For an energy saving mortgage that finances improvements to an existing home, the maximum total value to the borrower in terms of reduction in the total costs of an energy saving mortgage is the lesser of any energy savings-based amount adopted in guidelines by the Colorado energy office or eight thousand dollars.

(g) The Colorado energy office may spend moneys contributed by a participating public utility only for energy saving mortgages for homes within the service area of the participating public utility.

(h) If demand-side management moneys contributed by a participating utility, when combined with moneys from all other sources, yield an incentive amount that exceeds the incremental cost of the energy saving improvements, the utility must set forth the treatment of the demand-side management moneys in its demand-side management plan and have that treatment approved by the public utilities commission.

(i) If the participation of a participating utility causes additional energy savings improvements to be made, due to the matching Colorado energy office and lender moneys, the public utilities commission may include the additional energy savings benefits and exclude the additional leveraged moneys from the benefit-cost ratio calculation described in section 40-1-102 (5)(b), C.R.S.

(3) A participating public utility receives credit for its participation in the program towards any demand side management program targets, contingent upon public utilities commission approval, pursuant to article 3.2 of title 40, C.R.S., or may receive credit towards any greenhouse gas emissions requirements that may be established in the future.

(4) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, if another index or measure supersedes the HERS index as the industry standard for measuring building energy efficiency, the Colorado energy office may adopt guidelines that:

(a) Adopt the other index or measure as the standard for determining the energy efficiency of a new home or existing residence;

(b) Specify values on the new index or measure that are comparable to the HERS index scores and point improvements specified in this section and are to be used to determine eligibility for and the maximum value of energy saving mortgages; and

(c) Specify the requirements and procedures, including any required accreditation of rating providers or certification of raters, that must be complied with in rating a new home or existing residence under the other index or measure.

24-38.5-103. Electric vehicle grant fund - creation - administration - legislative declaration.

(1) (a) (I) There is created in the state treasury the electric vehicle grant fund, referred to in this section as the "fund". The Colorado energy office shall use the fund to:

(A) Provide grants to state agencies, public universities, public transit agencies, local governments, landlords of multifamily apartment buildings, private nonprofit or for-profit corporations, and the unit owners' associations of common interest communities as defined in article 33.3 of title 38 to install charging stations for electric vehicles;

(B) Cover the administrative costs of providing grants pursuant to subsection (1)(a)(I)(A) of this section;

(C) Provide analysis and technical support related to the development, permitting, and energization of electric vehicle charging stations, including providing technical assistance to counties and municipalities in accordance with sections 30-28-213 (6) and 31-23-316 (6);

(D) Support or directly engage in operational and policy work to support electric vehicle adoption, electric vehicle charging, and affordable, clean electricity for electric vehicles, including covering the administrative costs of this work; and

(E) Support the development and enforcement of retail electric vehicle charging rules by the division of oil and public safety in the department of labor and employment.

(II) The Colorado energy office shall prioritize grants provided pursuant to subsection (1)(a)(I) of this section based upon:

(A) The extent to which the proposed recipients' charging locations are likely to effectively serve existing electric vehicles or encourage the acquisition of additional electric vehicles;

(B) The extent to which one or more charging stations would not be installed but for the financial assistance provided by a grant from the fund; and

(C) Any other criteria defined by the Colorado energy office.

(b) The general assembly declares that while the intent of this section is to provide assistance and additional incentive where needed to encourage the installation of charging stations thereby maximizing the number of stations that can be installed using the limited resources available from the fund, the Colorado energy office may grant the full cost of an installation or help offset station operating costs in a location that is especially advantageous for support of the electric vehicle market but where other revenues are not and will not foreseeably be available to defray the costs.

(2) The Colorado energy office is authorized to seek, accept, and expend gifts, grants, or donations from private or public sources for the purposes of this section. All private and public funds received through gifts, grants, or donations shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the fund. The money in the fund is continuously appropriated to the Colorado energy office. Any money in the fund not expended for the purposes of this section may be invested by the state treasurer as provided by law. All interest and income derived from the investment and deposit of money in the fund shall be credited to the fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered money remaining in the fund at the end of a fiscal year must remain in the fund and must not be credited or transferred to the general fund or another fund.

All interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund, and all unexpended and unencumbered moneys in the fund at the end of any fiscal year shall remain in the fund. The fund is hereby continuously appropriated to the state treasurer, who may expend moneys from the fund solely for the purposes of paying principal and interest on bonds issued by a local improvement district or other special district as specified in paragraph (c) of this subsection (1) and defraying any direct and indirect costs incurred by the state treasurer in executing duties required by this section.

(b) (I) If the Colorado energy office instructs the state treasurer to credit moneys from nonstate sources to the clean energy improvement debt reserve fund, with prior written authorization from the director of the Colorado energy office and the state treasurer and after agreeing to pay fees to be credited to the fund to the state treasurer as specified in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b), a local improvement district or other special district that imposes special assessments on real property and issues bonds payable from the revenues generated by the special assessments to generate the moneys needed to pay the up-front costs of making renewable energy improvements or clean energy improvements as authorized by part 6 of article 20 of title 30, C.R.S., or any other provision of law may rely on the clean energy improvement debt reserve fund as a backup source of moneys that may be used, after the depletion of any district debt service reserve fund, for the payment of principal and interest owed to holders of the district's bonds.

(II) A local improvement district or other district that issues bonds and that wishes to rely on the clean energy improvement debt reserve fund as a backup source of moneys for the payment of principal and interest owed to holders of the bonds shall enter into a written agreement with the Colorado energy office to pay to the state treasurer for crediting to the fund such fees for the privilege of relying on the fund as the Colorado energy office may require. Fees to be paid by a district as required by the Colorado energy office shall be deemed to be a portion of the amount of the interest rate savings resulting from more favorable financing terms attributable to the reliance upon the fund. The Colorado energy office may, in its discretion, require that fees be paid on an annual basis, commencing and calculated on the date of issuance of the bonds and on each one-year anniversary of the issuance of the bonds thereafter while the bonds remain outstanding, in an amount equal to a number of basis points of the principal amount of the bonds outstanding as of each calculation date agreed upon by the office and the district.

(c) Whenever the paying agent responsible for making payments to the holders of any bonds issued by a district that has relied upon the clean energy improvement debt reserve fund as a backup source of repayment for the district's bonds has not received payment of principal or interest on the bonds on the tenth business day immediately prior to the date on which such payment is due and any debt service reserve fund for the local improvement district or other special district that issued the bonds has been depleted, the paying agent shall so notify the state treasurer and the district by telephone, facsimile, or other similar communication, followed by written verification, of such payment status. The state treasurer shall immediately contact the district and determine whether the district will make the payment by the date on which it is due and, if the state treasurer confirms that the district will not make the payment, the state treasurer shall expend moneys from the clean energy improvement debt reserve fund to make the payment in a timely manner. If the amount of moneys in the clean energy improvement debt reserve fund is not sufficient to cover the entire amount of the payment, the state treasurer shall pay only so much of the payment as can be paid from available moneys in the fund. If payments on more than one series of bonds issued in reliance upon the clean energy improvement debt reserve fund as a backup source of moneys for repayment are required to be made from the fund at the same time and the amount of moneys in the fund is not sufficient to cover the entire amount of the payments, the state treasurer shall pay from available moneys in the fund only an equal percentage of the amount of each payment due.

(2) This section shall not be construed to create any state debt, to require the state to make any bond payments on behalf of any local improvement district or other special district from any source of moneys other than the clean energy improvement debt reserve fund, or to require the state to fully pay off any outstanding bonds of a district that cannot make scheduled bond payments.

(3) In accordance with section 11 of article II of the state constitution, the state hereby covenants with the purchasers of any outstanding bonds issued in reliance upon the existence of the clean energy improvement debt reserve fund that the state will not repeal, revoke, or rescind the provisions of this section concerning the fund or modify or rescind the same so as to limit or impair the rights and remedies granted by this section to the purchasers of such bonds and that any moneys in the fund shall not revert to the general fund.

24-38.5-106. Financing of capital projects to make state government more energy efficient - financed purchase of asset agreements - legislative declaration - definition.

(1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires, "utility cost-savings contract" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section 24-30-2001 (6).

(2) (a) In order to make state government more energy efficient in accordance with section 24-38.5-102, the Colorado energy office may propose a prioritized list of projects associated with current utility cost-savings contracts that will improve the energy efficiency of state buildings or facilities and that are proposed to be constructed or improved using financing provided in accordance with subsection (3) of this section. If the Colorado energy office creates a prioritized list, the prioritized list shall include an estimate of the total amount of annual utility cost savings expected if all of the projects on the prioritized list are completed; descriptions of the projects, the affected buildings, and the impact of the projects on tenants; a timeline for implementation; a detailed budget for each project; a list of properties recommended for use as collateral, which shall include only properties operated and maintained by agencies that are responsible for the operation and maintenance of at least one state building or facility for which a project is being financed in accordance with subsection (3) of this section; estimates of the amount of annual utility cost savings expected for each of the projects; and expected annual payments for each project, including the expected funding sources for such payments. The Colorado energy office shall submit the prioritized list and referenced supporting documents to the office of state planning and budgeting for review and approval or disapproval. Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), the office of state planning and budgeting shall submit any projects on the prioritized list that it approves to the capital development committee of the general assembly for review and approval or disapproval. Subject to the limitations specified in subsection (3) of this section, if the capital development committee determines after reviewing the projects submitted to it for its review and approval or disapproval that it is appropriate to authorize the state treasurer to pursue financing provided in accordance with subsection (3) of this section to fund some or all of the projects or if the office of state planning and budgeting has approved projects for buildings or facilities operated and maintained by the department of transportation and submitted such projects to the committee for informational purposes only pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), the committee shall provide a letter to the Colorado energy office, the office of state planning and budgeting, the joint budget committee of the general assembly, and the state treasurer that specifies the final approved priority of the projects.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), any projects on the prioritized list proposed by the Colorado energy office and approved by the office of state planning and budgeting for buildings or facilities operated and maintained by the department of transportation shall be deemed to be finally approved and shall be included on the prioritized list submitted to the capital development committee for informational purposes only.

(3) (a) Upon receipt of the letter from the capital development committee regarding its review pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, the state treasurer may enter into one or more financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreements on behalf of the state in order to generate the proceeds needed to complete the projects. A financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement:

(I) May be entered into with any for-profit or nonprofit corporation, trust, or commercial bank as a trustee, as lessor;

(II) Shall be limited to a total par value, including costs of issuance, of all such instruments issued, distributed, and sold of no more than seventy-three million dollars;

(III) Shall include provisions that:

(A) Specify that all payment obligations of the state under the financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement are subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly and that obligations shall not be deemed or construed as creating an indebtedness of the state within the meaning of any provision of the state constitution or the laws of the state concerning or limiting the creation of indebtedness by the state;

(B) Indicate that if the state does not renew the agreement, the sole security available to the lessor shall be the property that is the subject of the nonrenewed agreement; and

(C) Allow the state to receive title to the real and personal property that is the subject of the agreement on or prior to the expiration of the entire term of the agreement, including all optional renewal terms;

(IV) May include:

(A) Provisions for the issuance, distribution, and sale of instruments evidencing rights to receive rentals and other payments made and to be made under the agreement. Such instruments shall not be notes, bonds, or any other evidence of indebtedness of the state within the meaning of any provision of the state constitution or the laws of the state concerning or limiting the creation of indebtedness by the state.

(B) Such other terms, provisions, and conditions as the state treasurer may deem appropriate.

(b) Only a building or facility subject to an energy performance contract, as defined in section 24-30-2001 (1), that is under consideration by the office of the state architect as of thirty days following June 10, 2010, may be the subject of a financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement entered into by the state treasurer pursuant to this subsection (3).

(c) The state, acting by and through the state treasurer, may enter into ancillary agreements and instruments deemed necessary or appropriate in connection with a financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement authorized pursuant to this subsection (3), including but not limited to deeds, leases, subleases, easements, or other instruments relating to the real property on which the facilities are located.

(d) The provisions of section 24-30-202 (5)(b) shall not apply to a financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement or any ancillary agreement or instrument authorized pursuant to this subsection (3). Any provision of the fiscal rules promulgated pursuant to section

24-30-202 (1) and (13) that the state controller deems to be incompatible or inapplicable with respect to such a financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement or ancillary agreement or instrument may be waived by the controller or his or her designee within the office of the state controller.

(e) Interest paid under a financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement, including interest represented by such instruments, shall be exempt from state income tax.

(f) Notwithstanding the authority of the capital development committee of the general assembly to authorize, after approval by the office of state planning and budgeting, the state treasurer to enter into financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreements on behalf of the state, in order to ensure that financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreements are entered into under favorable financial market conditions, the state treasurer shall have sole discretion to determine the timing of the state treasurer's entry into any financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement on behalf of the state pursuant to this subsection (3).

(g) The state treasurer shall coordinate with the office of state planning and budgeting in regard to the schedule of payments required in connection with any financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement.

(h) Once a financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement has been executed, the state treasurer shall submit the schedule for annual payments to the office of state planning and budgeting and the joint budget committee of the general assembly. The office of state planning and budgeting shall submit a budget request to the joint budget committee to reduce any corresponding operating appropriations for state capital facilities realizing utility cost savings from projects financed by financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreements and to appropriate annual payments in the capital construction section of the budget for those facilities for which operation and maintenance is funded in whole or in part with money that is subject to state appropriation. Upon receipt of the budget request from the office of state planning and budgeting, the joint budget committee shall recommend to the general assembly an appropriation for annual payments in the capital construction section of the budget and a reduction of the same amount in the applicable utilities line item of the operating budget. The office of state planning and budgeting and the joint budget committee recommendation shall also include an appropriation of the original funding sources of the utility line item equal to the identified savings for transfer to the energy efficiency project proceeds fund created in subsection (4) of this section unless such transfer is prohibited by the requirements of the original funding source. It is the intent of the general assembly that the utilities line item reduction be permanent, and that any future appropriated increases be defended in relation to the balance for utilities that remain in the line.

(4) The energy efficiency project proceeds fund is hereby created in the state treasury. The principal of the fund shall consist of money received by the state in connection with any financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreements entered into pursuant to subsection (3) of this section and any other legally available money that may be appropriated or transferred to the fund. All interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of money in the fund shall be credited to the fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered money remaining in the fund at the end of a fiscal year shall remain in the fund and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or any other fund. Money in the fund that was received by the state in connection with any financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreement and that is trustee funds may be expended by the state treasurer, and other money in the fund not identified for funding annual payments or to be used to defray any incremental costs incurred by the state controller in managing accounting and reporting requirements related to financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreements entered into pursuant to subsection (3) of this section is hereby continuously appropriated to the state treasurer, for the purpose of making disbursements necessary to complete projects associated with current utility cost-savings contracts that are authorized to be financed through financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreements entered into by the state treasurer on behalf of the state pursuant to subsection (3) of this section. Money in the fund shall also be subject to appropriation by the general assembly for the purpose of paying the principal of and interest on and defraying any incremental costs incurred by the state controller in managing accounting and reporting requirements related to such financed purchase of an asset or certificate of participation agreements.

24-38.5-108. State agency coordination of review of federal license and license exemption applications for hydroelectric energy projects - legislative declaration - definitions - guidelines.

(1) Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) Hydroelectric energy is a reliable, affordable, and sustainable energy source and is the largest source of clean energy in the United States;

(b) As of 2005, there were sixty-two operating hydroelectric energy facilities throughout Colorado, with a combined capacity of one thousand one hundred sixty-two megawatts;

(c) According to a recent bureau of reclamation study, Colorado currently has more than thirty sites on which new hydroelectric energy facilities could be placed and a federal department of energy report identifies another eleven potential sites. If all of the identified sites were constructed, they could power over sixty-five thousand homes each year.

(d) (I) To construct, operate, or maintain a nonfederal hydroelectric energy facility, a person must apply to FERC for a license or a license exemption if the facility is located on navigable waters in the United States, occupies lands of the United States, utilizes surplus water or water power from a United States government dam, or, under some circumstances, is located on a stream over which the United States congress has commerce clause jurisdiction;

(II) As part of FERC's licensing process, an applicant for a hydroelectric energy facility license or license exemption must meet specific prefiling consulting requirements, including a requirement to consult with relevant state agencies about the proposed project and to provide those agencies with an opportunity to comment on the application and request any studies that may be relevant to the proposed project;

(III) To promote the construction and operation of new hydroelectric energy facilities, the United States congress passed the "Hydropower Regulatory Efficiency Act of 2013", federal Public Law 113-23, as amended, which exempts certain hydroelectric energy facilities that have an installed capacity of fewer than ten thousand kilowatts from the licensing requirements and streamlines the approval process for hydroelectric energy facilities generally; and

(e) To further promote the construction and operation of new hydroelectric energy facilities in Colorado, the role of state agencies in consulting on a hydroelectric energy facility application for a federal license or license exemption should be streamlined. To that end, the general assembly designates the office as the coordinating state agency to facilitate the timely state agency review of a proposed project.

(2) Definitions. As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Applicant" means a person applying for a FERC license or license exemption for a hydroelectric energy facility.

(b) "FERC" means the federal energy regulatory commission.

(c) "Hydroelectric energy" means the generation and delivery to the interconnection meter of any source of electrical or mechanical energy by harnessing the kinetic energy of water.

"Hydroelectric energy" includes pumped hydroelectricity, as defined in section 40-2-123 (3.2)(c)(II), C.R.S.

(3) Coordination of state agency review by the Colorado energy office.

(a) An applicant in Colorado must contact, and submit relevant documentation to, the office for the purpose of obtaining state agency review of his or her FERC application, as required as part of the consultation requirements set forth in 18 C.F.R. 4.38 concerning FERC license and license exemption procedures.

(b) The office shall coordinate state agency review of the application by providing the following to all relevant state agencies with potential interest in the applicant's hydroelectric energy project:

(I) Notice via email of the application;

(II) Electronic copies of any documentation received from the applicant;

(III) A general description of the FERC review process; and

(IV) The deadline by which the other state agencies must submit any comments about the application to the office. The office shall set a deadline that is sufficiently in advance of the expiration of the comment period provided for by FERC to allow the office to compile other agencies' comments and its own comments for timely submission to FERC.

(c) Upon the expiration of the deadline set by the office for other agencies to review an application, the office shall compile any comments from other agencies and its own comments and submit the comments to FERC before the expiration of the comment period established by FERC. Thereafter, the office shall serve as a liaison between FERC and the other state agencies concerning any discussion of the comments submitted.

(d) The office shall provide information on its website about the streamlined review process set forth in this section.

(e) The director of the office may establish guidelines concerning the process and deadlines for disseminating information to other state agencies and collecting other state agencies' comments.

24-38.5-109. Aggregation of efficiency or renewable energy projects in small or rural schools and small or rural communities in order to attract private sector investment through performance contracting - legislative declaration - definitions.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) Performance contracting is an important tool that has been utilized by the state for over fifteen years. The state has established powerful working relationships with private sector energy performance contracting professionals, known as energy service companies, to finance energy savings upgrades for state agencies, school districts, special districts, counties and municipalities, and even at the state capitol building.

(b) Some small or rural communities lack the opportunity for the benefits of performance contracting, so engaging such communities through education and existing resources is sound policy;

(c) Such small or rural communities often lack assets or building inventory to attract performance contracting capital;

(d) Since much of the infrastructure in small or rural communities is outdated, costly to maintain, and energy intensive, efficiency upgrades are needed for buildings, mechanical equipment, electrical systems, lighting, water, motor vehicle fleets, and community entity-owned fueling stations for such motor vehicle fleets;

(e) Regional identification of efficiency projects and renewable energy projects in small or rural communities is important;

(f) Aggregating efficiency projects or renewable energy projects in small or rural communities into a dynamic multidimensional portfolio of an acceptable size to attract private sector financing to such communities without creating an obligation of the state will open up the financial market for performance contracting in such communities, will engage the use of local contractors, and will create local jobs; and

(g) As a result of such aggregation, small or rural community leaders will be supported in their pursuit to make Colorado more energy efficient, equip such communities with much needed modernized infrastructure, and reduce life-cycle costs for taxpayer-supported entities.

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Community entity" means a school district, special district, or county or municipality in a small or rural community in the state.

(b) "Diverse" means a range of efficiency projects and renewable energy projects based on geography, size, long-term and short-term payback periods, overall cost, and types of efficiency projects and renewable energy projects.

(c) "Efficiency projects" means one or more projects of a community entity that results in the more efficient use of energy or resources, such as:

- (I) Installing equipment and related infrastructure that will help defray energy costs;
- (II) Improving the energy efficiency of a building including but not limited to addressing lighting issues, improving mechanical systems and equipment, improving the building envelope, or improving operations management;
- (III) Reducing water usage or consumption;
- (IV) Re-engineering or improving water or wastewater treatment facilities; or
- (V) Improving the energy usage of motor vehicle fleets or community entity-owned fueling stations for such motor vehicle fleets, including but not limited to increasing the use of alternative fuel vehicles in such motor vehicle fleets.

(e) "Performance contract" means a contract similar to the contracts described in section 24-30-2001 or 24-38.5-106; except that a performance contract allowed pursuant to this section may not create a financial obligation to the state.

(f) "Renewable energy projects" means one or more projects of a community entity to install equipment and related infrastructure for renewable energy generation, including, but not limited to geothermal, hydroelectric, wind, solar, or biomass energy.

(3) In an effort to simplify the process for small and rural communities, the office shall consult with the energy service companies on its list of prequalified energy service companies and have a list available of those prequalified energy service companies that are interested and prepared to work in each region where the department of local affairs maintains a regional office and field staff.

(4) (a) Without creating a financial obligation to the state, the office may, within existing resources, work together with its prequalified energy service companies to ascertain efficiency projects or renewable energy projects that can be aggregated to create a larger portfolio of diverse efficiency projects or renewable energy projects with costs totaling an amount that in a favorable financial market will attract the investment of private sector banks or investors through performance contracts. In the event such a larger portfolio of diverse efficiency projects or renewable energy projects is established pursuant to this subsection (4) and financed, the financing documents must include a cost of issuance fee payable to the department of local affairs of a percentage of the issuance, not to exceed one percent, that must be credited to the efficient schools and communities performance contracting fund.

(b) Once there is sufficient money in the efficient schools and communities performance contracting fund from the cost of issuance fee described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (4), in the event a community entity's efficiency project or renewable energy project is not financed, the department of local affairs shall consult with the office in cooperation with the prequalified energy service companies determined to work within that community entity's region as described in subsection (3) of this section to review the community entity's need and, if approved, award a grant to such community entity for a reimbursement of a portion of the technical energy audit completed by the community entity from the cost of issuance fees credited to the fund pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (4). A prequalified energy service company may also seek and the department of local affairs, in consultation with the office, may award a grant from the cost of issuance fees credited to the fund for a portion of the energy service company's costs if an efficiency project or renewable energy project is not financed. All grants awarded by the department of local affairs pursuant to this paragraph (b) must be prioritized by need and may not exceed the available cost of issuance fees.

(5) The office shall provide facilitation and technical support for community entities that have been aggregated as described in paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of this section and shall create and provide standardized documents to support local performance contracts.

(6) The office may consult with nonprofit organizations and the department of local affairs to provide education and outreach to community entities regarding the advantages of performance contracting for purposes of completing efficiency projects or renewable energy projects in such community entities.

(7) There is hereby created in the state treasury the efficient schools and communities performance contracting fund, referred to in this section as the "fund", consisting of the cost of issuance fees credited to the department of local affairs pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of this section. The moneys in the fund are continuously appropriated by the general assembly to the department of local affairs for awarding grants as specified in paragraph (b) of subsection (4) of this section. In the event the department of local affairs cannot implement the grant program within existing resources, then the department of local affairs may expend up to five percent annually of the moneys in the fund to offset the costs incurred in implementing the grant program. The state treasurer may invest any moneys in the fund not expended for the purpose of this section as provided by law. The state treasurer shall credit all interest and income derived from the investment and deposit of moneys in the fund to the fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the fund at the end of a fiscal year remain in the fund and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or another fund.

Except where a different methodology is prescribed by law, the Colorado energy office, the department of transportation, and the department of public health and environment shall, when estimating the social costs of greenhouse gas pollution, base their estimate on the most recent assessment of the social cost of carbon dioxide and other greenhouse gas pollutants developed by the federal government using a discount rate that is two and one-half percent or less and does not yield a lower estimate of costs than the costs published in the technical support document of the federal interagency working group on the social cost of greenhouse gases entitled "Technical Update of the Social Cost of Carbon for Regulatory Impact Analysis Under Executive Order 12866".

(i) "Youth" means an individual who is nineteen years of age or younger.

(2) The zero fare transit grant program is created in the office. The purposes of the program are:

(a) To provide grants to CASTA for the purpose of providing grants to eligible transit agencies to offer either:

(I) Free transit services for a minimum of thirty days during ozone season; or

(II) Year-round fare free transit services to youth riders; and

(b) To provide grants to the regional transportation district for the purpose of providing year-round fare free transit services to youth riders.

(3) The office shall administer the program and award grants in accordance with this section and the policies developed by the office pursuant to subsection (7) of this section. Subject to available appropriations, grants are paid out of the fund.

(4) (a) To receive a grant, CASTA or the regional transportation district must submit an application to the office in accordance with the requirements of this section and the policies established by the office in accordance with subsection (7) of this section.

(b) The office shall award a grant of four million five hundred thousand dollars to CASTA and five million dollars to the regional transportation district.

(c) CASTA, the regional transportation district, or an eligible transit agency that receives a grant from CASTA is not required to expend a grant in the year in which it is received and retains the grant amount until it is expended; except that any grant agreement pursuant to this section expires on June 30, 2026.

(5) (a) CASTA may use the money to establish a grant program for eligible transit agencies in accordance with this section. CASTA may use a portion of the grant money to pay its direct and indirect costs in administering the grant program including reasonable costs to create a statewide marketing campaign for use by eligible transit agencies.

(b) To receive a grant from CASTA, an eligible transit agency must submit an application to CASTA that specifies whether it is applying for a grant to provide free transit services for a minimum of thirty days during ozone season or year-round fare free transit services to youth riders. An eligible transit agency may not receive a grant for both purposes in any calendar year. In addition, the application must also describe, at a minimum, either:

(I) For a grant application to provide free transit services for a minimum of thirty days during ozone season, the free transit services that will be newly provided, expanded to include additional free types of service, expanded to include additional free routes, or provided more frequently with the grant money, indicate to what extent the eligible transit agency will match the grant money with other money, and commit to providing the new or expanded free services for at least thirty days during the ozone season; or

(II) For a grant application to provide year-round fare free transit services to youth riders, the free transit services that will be newly provided to youth riders with the grant money, the eligible transit agency's current youth ridership, and the method that the eligible transit agency uses to track youth riders.

(c) (I) An eligible transit agency that receives a grant through CASTA may use the grant money as specified in subsection (5)(c)(II) or (5)(c)(III) of this section, as applicable.

(II) An eligible transit agency that receives a grant to provide free transit services during the ozone season may use grant money to cover the costs associated with providing new or expanded free transit services within its service area during ozone season, including offering additional free services or free routes or increasing the frequency of service on routes for which the eligible transit agency currently offers free service. Grant money may be used to replace fare box revenue and to pay for other expenses necessary to implement and measure the effectiveness of the program, including reasonable marketing expenses incurred to raise awareness of free service and increase ridership, expenses incurred in conducting rider surveys to better measure the impact of the program on ridership and vehicle miles traveled in private motor vehicles, and expenses associated with an increase in ridership as a result of the program. An eligible transit agency shall not use grant money to offset or replace funding for free transit services that the eligible transit agency offers as of January 1 of the funding year; except that an eligible transit agency may use grant money that was not expended in the year in which it was received or grant money from a grant awarded for a subsequent year to continue funding for any such free transit services that were previously funded with grant money.

(III) An eligible transit agency that receives a grant to provide year-round fare free transit services to youth riders may use grant money to provide operating support for its transit operations and general transit programs and to pay for other expenses necessary to implement and measure the effectiveness of the program, including reasonable marketing expenses incurred to raise awareness of free service and increase ridership, expenses incurred in conducting rider surveys to better measure the impact of the program on ridership and vehicle miles traveled in private motor vehicles, and expenses associated with an increase in ridership as a result of the program so long as the eligible transit agency provides uninterrupted fare free year-round transit services for youth riders.

(d) In awarding grants pursuant to this subsection (5), CASTA shall:

(I) For a recipient of a grant to provide free transit services during the ozone season:

(A) Allocate money among applicants with the goals of reducing ozone formation, increasing ridership on transit, and reducing vehicle miles traveled in the state; and

(B) Consider the extent to which the applicant will match grant money with other money; and

(II) For a recipient of a grant to provide year-round fare free transit to youth riders:

(A) Allocate money among applicants with the goals of increasing youth ridership on transit, reducing ozone formation, and reducing vehicle miles traveled in the state; and

(B) Consider distributing grant money using a formula developed by CASTA that takes into account youth ridership in the service area of the applicant and the extent to which the applicant will match grant money with other money; except that an applicant is not required to match grant money to be eligible to receive a grant.

(e) (I) Each eligible transit agency that receives a grant shall report on the use of the money to CASTA in accordance with policies established by CASTA and the office. The report must include the information specified in subsection (5)(e)(II) or (5)(e)(III) of this section, as applicable.

(II) For a recipient of a grant to provide free transit services during the ozone season, the report required in this subsection (5)(e) must include, at a minimum, information on how the grant money was spent; the free services that were offered using the grant money; and estimates of the change in ridership during the period that free services were offered compared to previous months, the same month in previous years, and the months after the program concluded. The report may include additional information, including a narrative analysis, to provide context on the ridership data included in the report.

(III) For a recipient of a grant to provide year-round fare free transit to youth riders, the report required in this subsection (5)(e) must include, at a minimum, estimates of the change in youth ridership during the year in which fare free services were offered to youth riders compared to previous years, any changes that the eligible transit agency would make in how it provides fare free transit services to youth riders or in its use of the grant money based on its experiences, and how the eligible transit agency marketed the fare free transit services for youth riders. The report may include additional information, including a narrative analysis, to provide context on the ridership data included in the report.

(IV) Each eligible transit agency that receives a grant through CASTA shall submit its report to CASTA by November 1, 2024, and by November 1 of each year thereafter.

(f) By December 1, 2024, and by December 1 of each year thereafter, CASTA shall submit a report to the office compiling and summarizing the reported information for all eligible transit agencies that received a grant through CASTA.

(g) (I) CASTA shall develop and publicize policies for the grant, including the process and deadlines for an eligible transit agency to apply for and receive a grant, the information and documentation required for the application, reporting requirements and deadlines, and any additional requirements necessary to administer the grant.

(II) In addition to the requirements specified in subsection (5)(g)(I) of this section, CASTA shall provide notice that if a transit agency is applying for a grant to provide free transit services during the ozone season, the eligible transit agency must identify any period other than June 1 to August 31 of a calendar year for its ozone season in the application.

(6) (a) The regional transportation district may use grant money to provide operating support for its transit operations and general transit programs and to pay for other expenses necessary to implement and measure the effectiveness of the program, including reasonable marketing expenses incurred to raise awareness of free service and increase ridership, expenses incurred in conducting rider surveys to better measure the impact of the program on ridership and vehicle miles traveled in private motor vehicles, and expenses associated with an increase in ridership as a result of the program so long as the regional transportation district provides uninterrupted fare free year-round transit services for youth riders.

(b) On or before December 1 of each year for which the regional transportation district receives a grant, the regional transportation district shall submit a report to the office on the implementation of the program in accordance with the policies established by the office. The report must include, at a minimum, estimates of the change in youth ridership during the year in which fare free services were offered to youth riders compared to previous years, any changes that the regional transportation district would make in how it provides fare free transit services to youth riders or in its use of the grant money based on its experiences, and how the regional transportation district marketed the fare free transit services for youth riders. The report may include additional information, including a narrative analysis, to provide context on the ridership data included in the report.

(c) The state auditor shall audit the regional transportation district's use of the grant money as part of its performance audit of the regional transportation district conducted pursuant to section 32-9-115 (3).

(7) The office shall establish and publicize policies for the program. At a minimum, the policies must address the process and any deadlines for applying for and receiving a grant under the program, the information and documentation required for the application, reporting requirements and deadlines, and any additional policies necessary to administer the program.

(8) (a) The zero fare transit fund is hereby created in the state treasury. The fund consists of money transferred to the fund pursuant to section 24-38.5-114 (8)(e), as it existed prior to its repeal on July 1, 2024, money transferred to the fund pursuant to section 43-4-1103 (2)(e), any other money that the general assembly appropriates or transfers to the fund, and any gifts, grants, or donations credited to the fund pursuant to subsection (9) of this section.

(b) Industrial emissions often:

(I) Disproportionately impact low-income, minority, or housing cost-burdened communities in the state; and

(II) Contain hazardous air pollutants that cause or exacerbate existing health conditions, which, in turn, contribute further to the existing economic disparity between the disproportionately impacted communities and other communities of the state; and

(c) While state and federal regulation of industrial air pollution, including pollution from greenhouse gases, is essential for public health and for achieving state climate goals and addressing ozone nonattainment, voluntary actions are needed to achieve further reductions in industrial pollution.

(2) Definitions. As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Air pollutant":

(I) Has the meaning set forth in section 25-7-103 (1.5); and 24-38.5-118. Geothermal energy grant program - creation - procedures - fund - report - definitions - legislative declaration.

(1) Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) The development of geothermal energy resources is an available and promising technology in the transition from fossil fuels to renewable energy;

(b) The development of geothermal energy resources, including for heating, cooling, and electricity generation, has the potential to create jobs and help address mobility for workers in energy production and transmission, especially in pipeline-related work;

(c) Building new geothermal systems in homes and businesses will provide a stable, predictable cost to consumers;

(d) State investment is important to support public agencies in encouraging investment in geothermal energy for homes, buildings, and energy production;

(e) Geothermal electricity generation can provide opportunities for zero-pollution, renewable electricity generation that is not intermittent, increasing baseload reliability for the electric grid; and

(f) Geothermal electricity generation may be paired with electrolyzers to generate hydrogen from water, providing additional economic opportunities and zero-pollution fuels.

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Fund" means the geothermal energy grant fund created in subsection (7) of this section.

(b) "Grant program" means the geothermal energy grant program created in subsection (3) of this section.

(c) "Office" means the Colorado energy office.

(3) Creation of grant program. There is hereby created within the office the geothermal energy grant program to provide grants to building owners, developers, local governments, geothermal installers, contractors, communities, gas or electric service public utilities, or other entities approved by the office for:

(a) The development of geothermal electricity generation;

(b) The installation of geothermal equipment for use as the primary heating-only or combined heating and cooling systems in new construction or to retrofit existing buildings; or

(c) The development of community thermal systems that are used in new construction or to retrofit existing buildings.

(4) Grants - limitations - qualifications. The grant program consists of three types of grants:

(a) The single-structure geothermal grant, which is awarded to applicants that are constructing a new building or retrofitting an existing building, including a single-family or multifamily residence, and installing a geothermal system for use as the primary heating-only or combined heating and cooling system for the building. A single-structure geothermal grant is subject to the following limitations and qualifications:

- (I) Repealed.
- (II) Commercial buildings and state and local government buildings that are constructed or retrofitted using grant money must meet the standards of the 2021 International Energy Conservation Code, or subsequent edition of the code;
- (III) Developers, geothermal installers, or commercial building owners that apply for a grant must attest that they will use licensed plumbing or mechanical contractors that have an apprenticeship program, as defined in section 8-83-308 (3)(a);
- (IV) The office shall determine the amount of each grant based on per-ton heating capacity as follows; except that the office may change a grant award amount after the first year if the office determines that changes are necessary to advance geothermal development:
 - (A) A nonresidential building constructed or retrofitted by a for-profit entity qualifies for up to two thousand dollars per ton of heating capacity;
 - (B) A nonresidential building constructed or retrofitted by a nonprofit entity qualifies for up to three thousand dollars per ton of heating capacity;
 - (C) A multifamily residence constructed or retrofitted by a for-profit entity qualifies for up to two thousand dollars per ton of heating capacity;
 - (D) A multifamily residence constructed or retrofitted by a nonprofit entity qualifies for up to three thousand dollars per ton of heating capacity; and
 - (E) A single-family residence, including a residence within a townhome or condominium building, qualifies for two thousand dollars per ton of heating capacity; and
- (V) The grants are subject to the following limit on the number of tons of heating capacity that qualify a building for a grant; except that the office may change the tonnage amount after the first year if the office finds that meeting market demands requires the change:
 - (A) A grant for a single-family residence is limited to five tons; and
 - (B) A grant for a nonresidential building is limited to one hundred tons;
- (b) The community district heating grant, which is awarded to support ground-source, water-source, or multisource thermal systems that serve more than a single building. Applicants may apply for grants for a scoping study, a detailed design study, projects, or a combination of these options. Teams consisting of building owners, geothermal installers, public utilities, political subdivisions of Colorado, consultants, developers, or other entities approved by the office are eligible to submit a proposal for a scoping study or a detailed design study. To qualify for a grant for the project, an applicant must successfully complete a study and show proof of a viable project. A community district heating grant is subject to the following limitations and qualifications:

(I) Up to one hundred thousand dollars per project to conduct a scoping study to determine if a community thermal system would help lower greenhouse gas emissions and provide a reasonable-cost approach to primary heating-only or combined heating and cooling a group of buildings;

(II) Up to five hundred thousand dollars per project to perform a detailed design study evaluating issues, including the financial and legal responsibilities, of the building owners that wish to join the community thermal system; and

(III) Up to five hundred thousand dollars for the installation of a community district geothermal project that serves more than one building from a single geothermal loop, subject to the following:

(A) The office may award a grant of up to fifty percent of the first million dollars of the costs of the project; and

(B) A building owner, local government, developer, utility serving the addresses, or geothermal installer shall not apply for more than two grants for project installation in a single year.

(c) The geothermal electricity generation grant, which is awarded to support the development of geothermal electricity generation and projects that pair geothermal electricity generation with electrolyzers for the production of hydrogen from geothermal generation. A person may apply for more than one cost-matching grant in a year. A geothermal electricity generation grant is subject to the following limitations and qualifications:

(I) Local governments, corporations, and gas or electric service public utilities are eligible to apply for and receive the grant;

(II) For applications for a grant to help fund a study to identify and explore resources that may be suitable for geothermal electricity and energy generation, costing up to one million dollars, the office may award a grant of up to fifty percent of the study cost; except that, if the project includes the production of hydrogen from electricity generated using geothermal energy or the utilization of direct air capture technology, the office may award a grant of up to sixty percent of the study cost. Any study funded pursuant to this subsection (4)(c)(II) must include an evaluation of the resources' safety, economic feasibility, cost efficiency compared to renewable energy alternatives, environmental impacts, greenhouse gas and air pollution emissions, quality job creation opportunities, and impacts to neighboring communities.

(III) For applications for a grant to help fund a study to identify and explore resources that may be suitable for geothermal electricity generation or hydrogen generation from electricity generated using geothermal energy, costing more than one million dollars, the office may award a grant of up to five hundred thousand dollars per project; and

(IV) For projects that concern an identified potential geothermal resource but need confirmation through drilling and testing or that are seeking to develop a project generation site:

(A) The office may award a grant of up to fifty percent of the first million dollars of the costs of the project;

(B) The office may award up to five hundred thousand dollars per project in addition to the amount awarded in subsection (4)(c)(IV)(A) of this section; and

(C) A developer may apply for no more than two grants per year.

(5) Application. To receive a grant, a person must submit an application to the office in accordance with the policies and procedures specified by the office.

(6) Use of grants. A grantee shall not use the money received through the grant program for any purpose that is not specified in subsection (4) of this section or in the grant application. If a grantee uses grant money for any other purpose, the grantee is subject to a civil action to recover the entire amount of the grant award or the portion of the grant award used for the other purpose.

(1) The general assembly finds and declares that:

(a) The state's goal that one hundred percent of its energy be generated by renewable sources by 2040 requires the addition of approximately ten gigawatts of renewable energy sources;

(b) New residential solar projects help provide the new renewable sources required for the state to meet its renewable energy goal;

(c) Currently, the permitting and inspection of new residential solar projects is inefficient and is estimated to add one dollar per watt to the cost of a project, with an average added cost of seven thousand dollars per project;

(d) Free automated permitting and inspection software is available to permitting and inspection entities and, when implemented, decreases costs and expedites the permitting and inspection of a new residential solar project by approximately twelve days;

(e) Free automated permitting and inspection software requires technical time and expertise to implement, which can be cost prohibitive and keeps the permitting and inspection software from being used and implemented;

(f) Many local governments are not implementing free automated permitting and inspection software due to a lack of technical resources; and

(g) It is therefore necessary for the general assembly to provide grants for technical support to permitting and inspection entities that will help them implement automated permitting and inspection software that will decrease the time needed to permit and inspect residential solar power systems.

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Authority having jurisdiction" means the local entity with authority to approve building permits and inspections necessary for the operation of electric power systems.

(b) "Automated permitting and inspection software" or "automated permitting software" means a web-based portal that implements automated plan review, verifies local code compliance, and issues permits for electric power systems that is developed by a national organization focused on clean energy research, development, and deployment in collaboration with building and safety industry experts.

(c) "Electric power system" means a residential energy storage system or a residential solar energy system.

(d) "Fund" means the streamlined solar permitting and inspection cash fund created in subsection (7) of this section.

(e) "Grant program" means the streamlined solar permitting and inspection grant program created in subsection (3) of this section.

(f) "Local government" means a statutory or home rule municipality, county, or city and county.

(g) "Office" means the Colorado energy office created in section 24-38.5-101.

(h) "Population" means the population of a city, city and county, or the unincorporated portion of a county, as determined by the most current census data.

(i) "Residential energy storage system" means a device installed behind a customer's residential utility meter that is capable of absorbing electricity generated from a co-located electricity generator or from the electrical grid and that stores energy delivered by the electricity generator or electrical grid and discharges the energy to the customer or for export.

(j) "Residential solar energy system" means a configuration of solar energy devices that collect and distribute solar energy for the purpose of generating electricity and that has a single residential interconnection with the electric utility transmission or distribution network.

(3) The grant program is created to allow an authority having jurisdiction to apply to the office for a grant to help provide implementation support to the authority having jurisdiction for implementation of automated permitting software. In administering the grant program, the office shall:

(a) Establish an application process for an authority having jurisdiction to apply for a grant to help provide technical support for the implementation of automated permitting software;

(b) Develop procedures to award a grant to an authority having jurisdiction for expenses expected to be incurred in adopting automated permitting software, including necessary expenses for staff time, information technology, training, installation, third-party consulting, ongoing maintenance for up to three years after the grantee implements the automated permitting software, and hardware or equipment;

(c) Not award money to an authority having jurisdiction for:

(I) Expected costs associated with software other than automated permitting software;

(II) Activities occurring before being awarded grant program money;

(III) Food or beverage costs;

- (IV) Fines or penalties;
 - (V) Advertising; or
 - (VI) Permit processing fees, including fees charged by the operator of automated permitting software;
- (d) Determine how an authority having jurisdiction must demonstrate the expected costs of implementation of the automated permitting software;
 - (e) Establish periodic reporting requirements for a grantee to demonstrate that the money awarded is being used as authorized by this section;
 - (f) Encourage the grantee to implement automated permitting and inspection software within one hundred eighty days of the award;
 - (g) Require an authority having jurisdiction to submit a written copy of the building department's contemporaneous review procedure as specified in section 12-115-120 (10)(b)(II) and an affirmation from the building department that they are complying with their procedure;
 - (h) Begin approving and allocating money to grantees no later than June 30, 2024; and
 - (i) Award grants to authorities having jurisdiction according to the terms of this section based on population as follows:
 - (I) An authority having jurisdiction with a population of less than fifty thousand may receive a grant that is no more than forty thousand dollars;
 - (II) An authority having jurisdiction with a population of fifty thousand or more and less than one hundred thousand may receive a grant that is no more than sixty thousand dollars;
 - (III) An authority having jurisdiction with a population of one hundred thousand or more and less than two hundred thousand may receive a grant that is no more than eighty thousand dollars; and
 - (IV) An authority having jurisdiction with a population of two hundred thousand or more may receive a grant that is no more than one hundred thousand dollars.
- (4) (a) The office may use up to nine percent of the money in the fund to pay for the direct and indirect costs that the office incurs in administering the grant program.
 - (b) The office may use up to nine percent of the money remaining in the fund as of September 1, 2025, to pay for the direct and indirect costs that the office incurs in administering the grant program.
- (5) In addition to the reporting requirements established pursuant to subsection (3)(e) of this section, one year after receipt of a grant, the grantee shall report to the office automated permitting software and permitting statistics including, for each reporting period, the number of permits issued, permitted solar power system capacity, and the characteristics of each permitted electric power system. The grantee is encouraged to voluntarily report this same information annually thereafter for a period of four years.

(6) (a) On or before January 1, 2025, and on or before January 1 of each year thereafter, the office shall prepare a report summarizing the progress of the grant program and submit the report to the house of representatives energy and environment committee, the senate transportation committee, and the joint budget committee, or their successor committees. The office shall post a copy of the report on its website.

(b) Notwithstanding section 24-1-136 (11)(a)(I), the office's reporting requirements set forth in subsection (6)(a) of this section continue until the grant program repeals pursuant to subsection (8) of this section or until five years after the last grant is awarded, whichever comes first.

(7) (a) (I) The streamlined solar permitting and inspection cash fund is created in the state treasury, and the office shall administer the fund for the purposes of this section. The fund consists of any money that the general assembly may transfer or appropriate to the fund for implementation of the grant program and any federal money or gifts, grants, or donations received pursuant to subsection (7)(a)(II) of this section.

24-38.5-125. Building decarbonization enterprise - creation - membership - powers and duties - building decarbonization enterprise cash fund - legislative declaration - definitions - rules - report - repeal.

(a) The general assembly finds that:

(I) Reducing greenhouse gas emissions from combustion devices in residential and commercial buildings is necessary to help the state achieve its statewide greenhouse gas emission reduction goals set forth in section 25-7-102 (2)(g);

(II) Covered building owners are required to comply with benchmarking requirements and performance standard requirements and would benefit from additional financial and technical assistance to meet those requirements; and

(III) With additional financing and technical assistance, covered building owners may more effectively and efficiently implement building decarbonization measures, including, but not limited to, programs that provide assistance for conducting building energy audits, developing analyses to help building owners evaluate the best strategies for achieving future performance standard targets, employing or consulting with building engineers, purchasing energy use tracking software for covered building owners to more effectively track energy use, and providing training on such software.

(b) Now, therefore, the general assembly declares that:

(I) It is in the public interest to create an enterprise within the office that is committed to financing and providing technical and other support for the implementation of building decarbonization measures;

(II) The activities of the enterprise shall be funded by revenue generated from a building decarbonization fee paid by covered building owners and any gifts, grants, and donations received;

(III) It is appropriate that covered building owners should pay a building decarbonization fee, as covered building owners are the direct beneficiaries of services provided by the enterprise, which services include the financing and technical assistance provided for the building decarbonization measures described in subsection (1)(a)(III) of this section;

(IV) Covered building owners benefit from the implementation of building decarbonization measures because such measures can reduce covered building owners' long-term costs related to energy use;

(V) Consistent with the determination of the Colorado supreme court in Nicholl v. E-470 Public Highway Authority, 896 P.2d 859 (Colo. 1995), that the power to impose taxes is inconsistent with enterprise status under section 20 of article X of the state constitution, the general assembly concludes that the building decarbonization fee is a fee, not a tax, and the enterprise operates as a business because the building decarbonization fee is:

(A) Imposed for the specific business purposes of providing financing and technical assistance to covered building owners to more effectively and efficiently implement building decarbonization measures, including feasibility analyses and improvements that will reduce energy use and emissions; and

(B) Collected at a rate that is reasonably related to the overall cost of the business services being provided; and

(VI) So long as the enterprise qualifies as an enterprise for purposes of section 20 of article X of the state constitution, the revenue from the building decarbonization fee imposed, collected, and administered by the enterprise is not state fiscal year spending, as defined in section 24-77-102 (17), or state revenues, as defined in section 24-77-103.6 (6)(c), and does not count against either the state fiscal year spending limit imposed by section 20 of article X of the state constitution or the excess state revenues cap, as defined in section 24-77-103.6 (6)(b)(I)(G).

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(II) The enterprise is authorized to issue revenue bonds for the expenses of the enterprise, secured by revenue of the enterprise.

(d) (I) The office may transfer money from any legally available source to the enterprise for the purpose of defraying expenses incurred by the enterprise before it receives fee revenue. The enterprise may accept and expend any money so transferred, and, notwithstanding any state fiscal rule or generally accepted accounting principle that could otherwise be interpreted to require a contrary conclusion, such a transfer is a loan from the office to the enterprise that is required to be repaid and is not a grant for purposes of section 20 (2)(d) of article X of the state constitution or as defined in section 24-77-102 (7).

(II) As the enterprise receives sufficient revenue in excess of its expenses, the enterprise shall reimburse the office for the principal amount of any loan made by the office, plus interest at a rate agreed upon by the office and the enterprise.

(III) Any other money that the general assembly may appropriate or transfer to the building decarbonization fund.

(b) (I) Section 24-77-108 does not apply to the enterprise because the total amount of money credited or appropriated to the building decarbonization fund as a building decarbonization fee shall not exceed one hundred million dollars in the first five fiscal years of the enterprise's existence.

(c) Subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly, the enterprise may expend money from the building decarbonization fund for the purposes set forth in this section and to pay the enterprise's reasonable and necessary operating expenses. The state treasurer shall credit all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of money in the building decarbonization fund to the building decarbonization fund.

(d) Any unexpended and unencumbered money remaining in the building decarbonization fund at the end of a fiscal year remains in the building decarbonization fund and is not credited or transferred to the general fund.

(7) Legislative review of building decarbonization enterprise. On or before December 1 of each year, the enterprise shall submit an annual report to the general assembly detailing the enterprise's expenditures and program outcomes from the preceding year and the enterprise's financial projections for the following year.

PART 3

COMMUNITY ACCESS TO ELECTRIC VEHICLE CHARGING AND FUELING INFRASTRUCTURE

Cross references: For the legislative declaration in SB 21-260, see section 1 of chapter 250, Session Laws of Colorado 2021.

24-38.5-301. Legislative declaration.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) Retail deliveries are increasing and are expected to continue to increase in urban and rural communities;

(b) The motor vehicles used to make retail deliveries are some of the most polluting vehicles on the road, which has resulted in additional and increasing air and greenhouse gas pollution at the local community level from idling delivery vehicles in neighborhoods;

(c) The adverse environmental and health impacts of increased local emissions from motor vehicles used to make retail deliveries can be mitigated and offset by investing in the charging and fueling infrastructure needed to support widespread public adoption of electric motor vehicles and zero emission vehicles and by replacing the state's dirtiest passenger vehicles with zero emission vehicles;

(d) Instead of reducing the impacts of retail deliveries by limiting retail delivery activity through regulation, it is more appropriate to continue to allow persons who receive retail deliveries to benefit from the convenience afforded by unfettered retail deliveries and instead impose a small fee on each retail delivery and use fee revenue to fund necessary mitigation activities;

(e) It is necessary, appropriate, and in the best interest of the state and all Coloradans to incentivize, support, and accelerate the use of electric motor vehicles throughout the state and to enable the state to achieve its electric motor vehicle adoption goals as set forth in the Colorado energy office's "Colorado Electric Vehicle Plan 2020" because widespread adoption of electric motor vehicles:

(I) Reduces emissions of air pollutants, including hazardous air pollutants and greenhouse gases, at the community level that contribute to adverse human health effects such as asthma, heart attacks, and lung cancer, and adverse environmental effects, including but not limited to climate change, and helps the state meet its statewide greenhouse gas pollution reduction targets established in section 25-7-102 (2)(g) and its transportation sector greenhouse gas pollution reduction targets established in the Colorado energy office's "Colorado Greenhouse Gas Pollution Reduction Roadmap" and comply with air quality attainment standards;

(II) Helps businesses and governmental entities operate more efficiently and helps individuals and families save money over time by reducing fuel and maintenance costs associated with the use of motor vehicles;

(III) Reduces the social costs of emissions of greenhouse gases and other air pollutants by reducing such emissions; and

(IV) Reduces higher emissions of air pollutants in local communities, including disproportionately impacted communities, where there is increased exposure to transportation-related air pollution and where, as many studies confirm, increased exposure to traffic and air pollution results in a higher risk for adverse health outcomes;

(f) Retiring a relatively small number of high-emitting passenger vehicles and replacing them with low or zero emission vehicles would have a relatively large impact on emissions reductions, as shown by a 2009 study that found that ten percent of passenger vehicles are responsible for more than thirty percent of nitrogen oxide emissions and nearly fifty percent of hydrocarbon emissions;

(g) One of the best ways to incentivize, support, and accelerate the adoption of electric motor vehicles in both urban and rural areas is to reduce range anxiety and inconvenience for electric motor vehicle users by building readily available, robust, easy to use, and efficient electric motor vehicle charging and fueling infrastructure in communities and along major highway corridors throughout the state;

(h) Another way to incentivize, support, and accelerate the adoption of electric motor vehicles, promote equitable access to electrical motor vehicles and less expensive electrical alternatives to motor vehicles, and encourage clean travel is to provide incentives in communities, including but not limited to disproportionately impacted communities, for acquisition or use of electric motor vehicles or electric alternatives to motor vehicles and use of transit. Creating access to electric motor vehicles or electric alternatives to motor vehicles for communities, including but not limited to disproportionately impacted communities, addresses inequities by allowing individuals who cannot afford to upgrade to more fuel efficient motor vehicles to upgrade to motor vehicles that produce little or no emissions in their communities.

(i) By reducing motor vehicle emissions, incentivizing, supporting, and accelerating the adoption of electric motor vehicles at the community level effectively remediates some of the impacts of retail deliveries by offsetting a portion of the increased motor vehicle emissions resulting from retail deliveries.

(2) The general assembly further finds and declares that:

(a) To incentivize, support, and accelerate the construction of electric motor vehicle charging and fueling infrastructure in communities throughout the state; incentivize, support, and accelerate the adoption of electric motor vehicles by businesses, including transportation network companies, governmental entities, and individuals; and thereby increase access to electric motor vehicles, minimize and mitigate the environmental and health impacts caused by transportation-related emissions of air pollutants and greenhouse gases, and allow the state and its citizens to reap the environmental, health, business and governmental operational efficiency, and personal motor vehicle total ownership cost savings benefits of widespread adoption of electric motor vehicles, it is necessary, appropriate, and in the best interest of the state to create a community access enterprise that can provide specialized business services, including impact remediation services, that help communities, businesses, and governmental entities construct the electric motor vehicle charging and fueling infrastructure needed to support widespread adoption of electric motor vehicles, including light-duty, medium-duty, and heavy-duty motor vehicles and motor vehicles used to make retail deliveries, and thereby assuage range anxiety concerns, supply chain disruption concerns, and any other concerns that currently disincentivize the widespread adoption of electric motor vehicles;

(b) The specific focus of the enterprise is the equitable reduction and mitigation of the adverse environmental and health impacts of air pollution and greenhouse gas emissions at the community level through support of the adoption of electric motor vehicles and electric alternatives to motor vehicles at the community level, including but not limited to within disproportionately impacted communities throughout the state;

(c) The enterprise provides impact remediation services when, in exchange for the payment of community access retail delivery fees by or on behalf of purchasers of tangible personal property for retail delivery, it acts to mitigate the impacts of residential and commercial deliveries on the state's transportation infrastructure, air quality, and emissions by:

(I) Funding the construction of electric motor vehicle charging infrastructure that supports the use of clean and quiet electric motor vehicles, including motor vehicles used to make retail deliveries;

(II) Specifically supporting and incentivizing the retirement of old and inefficient motor vehicles powered by internal combustion engines and the adoption of electric motor vehicles, electric alternatives to motor vehicles, and transit use in communities, including but not limited to disproportionately impacted communities, that generally bear the greatest burden of the environmental and health impacts of transportation emissions due to disparities in transportation pollution exposure;

(III) Providing outreach, education, planning funds, or training to support the successful applications for funding and the performance of entities receiving funds;

(IV) Contributing to the comprehensive regulatory scheme required for the planning, funding, development, construction, maintenance, and supervision of a sustainable transportation system; and

(V) Providing additional remediation services to offset impacts caused by fee payers as may be provided by law;

(d) By providing remediation services as authorized by this section, the enterprise provides a benefit to fee payers when it remediates the impacts they cause and therefore operates as a business in accordance with the determination of the Colorado supreme court in Colorado Union of Taxpayers Foundation v. City of Aspen, 2018 CO 36;

(e) Consistent with the determination of the Colorado supreme court in Nicholl v. E-470 Public Highway Authority, 896 P.2d 859 (Colo. 1995), that the power to impose taxes is inconsistent with enterprise status under section 20 of article X of the state constitution, it is the conclusion of the general assembly that the revenue collected by the enterprise is generated by fees, not taxes, because the community access retail delivery fee imposed by the enterprise as authorized by section 24-38.5-303 (7) is:

(I) Imposed for the specific purpose of allowing the enterprise to defray the costs of providing the remediation services specified in this section, including mitigating impacts to air quality and greenhouse gas emissions caused by the activities on which the fee is assessed, and contributes to the implementation of the comprehensive regulatory scheme required for the planning, funding, development, construction, maintenance, and supervision of a sustainable transportation system; and

(II) Collected at rates that are reasonably calculated based on the impacts caused by fee payers and the cost of remediating those impacts; and

(f) So long as the enterprise qualifies as an enterprise for purposes of section 20 of article X of the state constitution, the revenue from the community access retail delivery fee collected by the enterprise is not state fiscal year spending, as defined in section 24-77-102 (17), or state revenues, as defined in section 24-77-103.6 (6)(c), and does not count against either the state fiscal year spending limit imposed by section 20 of article X of the state constitution or the excess state revenues cap, as defined in section 24-77-103.6 (6)(b)(I)(D).

24-38.5-303. Community access enterprise - creation - board - powers and duties - fund - fee - transparency and reporting.

(1) The community access enterprise is hereby created in the Colorado energy office. The enterprise is and operates as a government-owned business within the office to execute its business purpose as specified in subsection (3) of this section by exercising the powers and performing the duties set forth in this section.

(2) (a) The governing board of the enterprise consists of seven members as follows:

(I) The governor shall appoint four members with the advice and consent of the senate for terms of the length specified in subsection (2)(b) of this section. Of the four, at least one of the members must represent disproportionately impacted communities; at least one of the members must represent the interests of the automobile industry including manufacturers and dealers, the electric vehicle charging and fueling businesses, or owners or operators of motor vehicle fleets; and at least one of the members must represent a business or organization that supports electric alternatives to motor vehicles. The governor shall make reasonable efforts, to the extent such applications have been submitted for consideration for the board, to consider members that reflect the state's geographic diversity when making appointments and shall make initial appointments to the board no later than October 1, 2021.

(II) The director of the Colorado energy office or the director's designee;

(III) The executive director of the department of public health and environment or the executive director's designee; and

(IV) The executive director of the department of transportation or the executive director's designee.

(b) The members of the board appointed by the governor serve for terms of four years; except that two of the members initially appointed shall serve for initial terms of three years. A member who is appointed by the governor to fill a vacancy on the board shall serve the remainder of the unexpired term of the former member. The other board members serve for as long as they hold their positions or are designated to serve.

(c) Members of the board serve without compensation but must be reimbursed from money in the fund for actual and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties pursuant to this part 3.

(3) The business purpose of the enterprise is to support the widespread adoption of electric motor vehicles, including motor vehicles that originally were powered exclusively by internal combustion engines but have been converted into electric motor vehicles, in an equitable manner by directly investing in transportation infrastructure, making grants or providing rebates or other financing options to fund the construction of electric motor vehicle charging infrastructure throughout the state, and incentivizing the acquisition and use of electric motor vehicles and electric alternatives to motor vehicles in communities, including but not limited to disproportionately impacted communities, and by owners of older, less fuel efficient, and higher polluting vehicles. To allow the enterprise to accomplish this business purpose and fully exercise its powers and duties through the board, the enterprise may:

(a) Impose a community access retail delivery fee as authorized by subsection (7) of this section;

(b) Invest in transportation infrastructure programs as authorized by subsection (8) of this section; and

(c) Issue revenue bonds payable from the revenue and other available money of the enterprise.

(4) The enterprise constitutes an enterprise for purposes of section 20 of article X of the state constitution so long as it retains the authority to issue revenue bonds and receives less than ten percent of its total annual revenue in grants from all Colorado state and local governments combined. So long as it constitutes an enterprise pursuant to this subsection (4), the enterprise is not subject to section 20 of article X of the state constitution.

(5) (a) The community access enterprise fund is hereby created in the state treasury. The fund consists of community access retail delivery fee revenue credited to the fund pursuant to subsection (7) of this section, any monetary gifts, grants, donations, or other payments received by the enterprise, any federal money that may be credited to the fund, and any other money that the general assembly may appropriate or transfer to the fund. The state treasurer shall credit all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of money in the fund to the fund. Money in the fund is continuously appropriated to the enterprise and may be expended to provide grants and rebates, pay its reasonable and necessary operating expenses, including the repayment of any loan received pursuant to subsection (5)(b) of this section, and otherwise exercise its powers and perform its duties as authorized by this part 3.

(b) The Colorado energy office may transfer money from the energy fund created in section 24-38.5-102.4 to the enterprise for the purpose of defraying expenses incurred by the enterprise before it receives fee revenue or revenue bond proceeds. The enterprise may accept and expend any money so transferred, and, notwithstanding any state fiscal rule or generally accepted accounting principle that could otherwise be interpreted to require a contrary conclusion, such a transfer is a loan from the Colorado energy office to the enterprise that is required to be repaid and is not a grant for purposes of section 20 (2)(d) of article X of the state constitution or as defined in section 24-77-102 (7). All money transferred as a loan to the enterprise shall be credited to the community access enterprise initial expenses fund, which is hereby created in the state treasury, and loan liabilities that are recorded in the community access enterprise initial expenses fund but that are not required to be paid in the current fiscal year shall not be considered when calculating sufficient statutory fund balance for purposes of section 24-75-109. The state treasurer shall credit all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of money in the community access enterprise initial expenses fund to the fund. The community access enterprise initial expenses fund is continuously appropriated to the enterprise for the purpose of defraying expenses incurred by the enterprise before it receives fee revenue or revenue bond proceeds. As the enterprise receives sufficient revenue in excess of expenses, the enterprise shall reimburse the energy fund for the principal amount of any loan from the energy fund made by the Colorado energy office plus interest at a rate set by the Colorado energy office. Upon receipt of such reimbursement, the Colorado energy office shall instruct the state treasurer to transfer from the energy fund to the general fund the amount needed to fully repay the amount of any general fund money appropriated to the energy fund for the purpose of funding the loan made pursuant to this subsection (5)(b) plus the interest included in the reimbursement.

(6) In addition to any other powers and duties specified in this section, the board has the following general powers and duties:

- (a) To adopt bylaws for the regulation of its affairs and the conduct of its business;
- (b) To acquire, hold title to, and dispose of real and personal property;
- (c) In consultation with the director of the Colorado energy office or the director's designee, to employ and supervise individuals, professional consultants, and contractors as are necessary in its judgment to carry out its business purpose;
- (d) To contract with any public or private entity including state agencies, consultants, and the attorney general's office for professional and technical assistance, office space and administrative services, advice, and other services related to the conduct of the affairs of the enterprise. The enterprise is encouraged to issue grants on a competitive basis based on written criteria established by the enterprise in advance of any deadlines for the submission of grant applications. The board shall generally avoid using sole-source contracts.
- (e) To seek, accept, and expend gifts, grants, donations, or other payments from private or public sources for the purposes of this part 3 so long as the total amount of all grants from Colorado state and local governments received in any state fiscal year is less than ten percent of the enterprise's total annual revenue for the state fiscal year. The enterprise shall transmit any money received through gifts, grants, donations, or other payments to the state treasurer, who shall credit the money to the fund.

(f) To publish grant and similar program processes by which the enterprise accepts applications, the criteria used for evaluating applications, and a list of grantees pursuant to subsection (8) of this section;

(g) To promulgate rules for the sole purpose of setting the amount of the community access retail delivery fee at or below the maximum amount authorized in this section; and

(h) To have and exercise all rights and powers necessary or incidental to or implied from the specific powers and duties granted by this section.

(7) (a) In furtherance of its business purpose, beginning in state fiscal year 2022-23, the enterprise shall impose, and the department of revenue shall collect on behalf of the enterprise, a community access retail delivery fee on each retail delivery. Each retailer who makes a retail delivery shall either collect and remit or elect to pay the community access retail delivery fee in the manner prescribed by the department in accordance with section 43-4-218 (6). For the purpose of minimizing compliance costs for retailers and administrative costs for the state, the department of revenue shall collect and administer the community access retail delivery fee on behalf of the enterprise in the same manner in which it collects and administers the retail delivery fee imposed by section 43-4-218 (3).

(b) For retail deliveries of tangible personal property purchased during state fiscal year 2022-23, the enterprise shall impose the community access retail delivery fee in a maximum amount of six and nine-tenths cents.

(c) (I) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (7)(c)(II) of this section, for retail deliveries of tangible personal property purchased during state fiscal year 2023-24 or during any subsequent state fiscal year, the enterprise shall impose the community access retail delivery fee in a maximum amount that is the maximum amount for the prior state fiscal year adjusted for inflation. The enterprise shall notify the department of revenue of the amount of the community access retail delivery fee to be collected for retail deliveries of tangible personal property purchased during each state fiscal year no later than March 15 of the calendar year in which the state fiscal year begins, and the department of revenue shall publish the amount no later than April 15 of the calendar year in which the state fiscal year begins.

(II) The enterprise is authorized to adjust the amount of the community access retail delivery fee for retail deliveries of tangible personal property purchased during a state fiscal year.

(III) (A) Notwithstanding subsection (7)(c)(I) of this section, if imposing the community access retail delivery fee in any amount would cause the enterprise to receive more than one hundred million dollars in total fee revenue in its first five fiscal years, which five-year period for the purpose of section 24-77-108 ends on June 30, 2026, the enterprise shall impose the community access retail delivery fee in a lower amount for all or a portion of a state fiscal year. Any reduction in the amount of the fee imposed pursuant to this subsection (7)(c)(III) does not reduce the maximum amount of the fee that the enterprise may impose in any subsequent state fiscal year.

(B) Notwithstanding subsection (7)(c)(I) of this section, if the enterprise imposes a lower fee amount pursuant to this subsection (7)(c)(III), the enterprise shall notify the department of revenue of the lower amount of the community access retail delivery fee to be collected no later than thirty days after the date of the decision of the governing board to lower the fee and the department of revenue shall publish the lower amount on the first of the month following notification from the enterprise of the lower fee amount, but not later than sixty days following such notification.

(8) In furtherance of its business purpose, and subject to the requirements set forth in this subsection (8), the enterprise is authorized to implement grant, loan, or rebate programs for the following purposes:

(a) To fund the construction of electric motor vehicle charging infrastructure including but not limited to:

(I) Public, workplace, transportation network company, and multifamily electric vehicle chargers;

(II) Electric vehicle chargers for communities, including but not limited to disproportionately impacted communities;

(c) To support the adoption of electric motor vehicles in communities, including but not limited to disproportionately impacted communities, including by incentivizing replacement of high-emitting motor vehicles with electric motor vehicles; and

(d) To provide incentives for transportation network companies and companies that rent motor vehicles to transportation network company drivers for use in providing transportation network company services to increase access to overnight charging capability for drivers.

(9) The enterprise shall contract with the air pollution control division of the department of public health and environment to develop proposed rules for the consideration of the air quality control commission that will support the enterprise's business services, including remediation services, in a manner that maintains compliance with the federal and state statutes, rules, and regulations governing air quality. The division shall collaborate with the Colorado energy office and the department of transportation when developing the rules.

(10) (a) To ensure transparency and accountability, the enterprise shall:

(I) No later than June 1, 2022, publish and post on its website a ten-year plan that details how the enterprise will execute its business purpose during state fiscal years 2022-23 through 2031-32 and estimates the amount of funding needed to implement the plan. No later than January 1, 2032, the enterprise shall publish and post on its website a new ten-year plan for state fiscal years 2032-33 through 2041-42.

(II) Create, maintain, and regularly update on its website a public accountability dashboard that provides, at a minimum, accessible and transparent summary information regarding the implementation of its ten-year plan, the funding status and progress toward completion of each project that it wholly or partly funds, and its per project and total funding and expenditures;

(III) Engage regularly regarding its projects and activities with the public, specifically reaching out to and seeking input from communities, including but not limited to disproportionately impacted communities, and interest groups that are likely to be interested in the projects and activities; and

(IV) Prepare an annual report regarding its activities and funding and present the report to the transportation commission created in section 43-1-106 (1) and to the transportation and local government and energy and environment committees of the house of representatives and the transportation and energy committee of the senate, or any successor committees. The enterprise shall also post the annual report on its website. Notwithstanding the requirement in section 24-1-136 (11)(a)(I), the requirement to submit the report required in this subsection (10)(a)(IV) to the specified legislative committees continues indefinitely.

(b) The enterprise is subject to the open meetings provisions of the "Colorado Sunshine Act of 1972", contained in part 4 of article 6 of this title 24, and the "Colorado Open Records Act", part 2 of article 72 of this title 24.

(c) For purposes of the "Colorado Open Records Act", part 2 of article 72 of this title 24, and except as may otherwise be provided by federal law or regulation or state law, the records of the enterprise are public records, as defined in section 24-72-202 (6), regardless of whether the enterprise receives less than ten percent of its total annual revenue in grants, as defined in section 24-77-102 (7), from all Colorado state and local governments combined.

ANNOTATION

Simultaneous creation of community access enterprise and three other enterprises and expansion of the duties of and renaming of another enterprise by SB 21-260 did not require voter approval under § 24-77-108 or violate the single subject rule set forth in § 21 of article V of the state constitution because none of the enterprises serve primarily the same purpose and all the enterprises, as well as the increase in the excess state revenues cap included in the bill, support the bill's single subject of ensuring the sustainability of the state's transportation system. *Ams. for Prosperity v. (II) In developing the model electric ready and solar ready code language for multi-family and large commercial mixed fuel use for buildings ten thousand square feet or greater, the energy code board shall develop clear guidelines to be included in the model energy ready and solar ready code that seek to minimize the costs that builders, building owners, and developers incur in meeting electric ready and solar ready code requirements while also ensuring that buildings can be converted to high efficiency electric space and water heating equipment and appliances at the lowest possible cost to building owners. These guidelines must include provisions for:

(A) A standard methodology for determining how to calculate or measure when compliance with a model electric and solar ready code reaches a substantial cost differential that would require a waiver or variance for some or all of the provisions of the model electric and solar ready code;

(B) An evidence-based, uniform waiver or variance process to allow a builder, developer, or building owner to request a waiver when it can be demonstrated with reasonable evidence that compliance will create a substantial cost differential; and

(C) As used in this subsection (5)(c)(II), "substantial cost differential" means one percent or greater of the total mechanical, electrical, and plumbing construction costs on the project;

(III) Take into account home affordability;

(IV) (A) Ensure that the model electric ready and solar ready code developed by the energy code board does not apply to construction or renovation that serves the primary purpose of making a building accessible or more accessible for an individual with a disability.

(b) The model low energy and carbon code developed by the energy code board must apply to commercial and residential buildings and must:

(I) Include the more energy efficient of either the 2021 or 2024 international energy conservation code, except as the energy code board may modify those international energy conservation codes pursuant to subsection (7) of this section, including any appendices and resources to the international energy conservation code that the energy code board deems appropriate;

(II) Include the model electric ready and solar ready code language developed for adoption by the energy code board pursuant to subsection (5) of this section, and modified as the energy code board deems appropriate, including accessibility requirements for EV capable, EV ready, and EV supply equipment installed parking spaces that take into consideration design recommendations for accessible electric vehicle charging stations published by the United States access board and any applicable regulations issued by the federal department of justice or department of transportation implementing the federal "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", 42 U.S.C. sec. 12101 et seq., as amended;

(III) Provide compliance pathways for all-electric and mixed fuel use residential and commercial buildings;

(IV) Exempt electricity consumption in residential and commercial buildings from any onsite or offsite renewable energy requirements;

(V) Allow projects consisting of only replacing a space or water heating system, at the end of that system's useful life, with the installation of a new system using the same fuel or power source, without triggering pre-wire requirements;

(VI) Ensure that for any renewable energy measures used to ensure that a home or commercial building is compliant with the model low energy and carbon code developed by the energy code board, any electric renewable energy credits generated may not be double counted between compliance with this section and the requirements under section 25-7-105 (1)(e), section 40-3.2-

108 (3)(b), section 40-2-125.5, or any similar greenhouse gas emission reduction program or set of requirements. Nothing in this section shall preclude a utility from acquiring renewable energy credits from a building owner through a net-metering agreement.

(VII) Take into account home affordability;

(VIII) Minimize overall carbon dioxide emissions associated with new and renovated homes and commercial buildings; and

(IX) Create a process to waive energy code requirements when there has been a declared natural disaster that has destroyed buildings or other circumstances as determined by the energy code board.

(c) In developing a model low energy and carbon code, the energy code board shall:

(I) (A) Ensure that the model electric ready and solar ready code developed by the energy code board does not apply to construction or renovation that serves the primary purpose of making a building accessible or more accessible for an individual with a disability;

(B) As used in this subsection (6)(c)(I), "accessible" means able to be approached, entered, and used; and

(7) Option to relax international energy conservation code appendices and resources. The energy code board may as necessary relax the stringency of any requirements in the international energy conservation code, including appendices and resources that it adopts as part of the model low energy and carbon code language it develops pursuant to subsection (6) of this section if it deems that doing so is appropriate, but the energy code board shall not increase the stringency of any requirements in the international energy conservation code, including appendices and resources that it adopts as part of the model low energy and carbon code language it develops pursuant to subsection (6) of this section.

(8) (a) Process for model code development. In order to develop either the model electric ready and solar ready code pursuant to subsection (5) of this section or the model low energy and carbon code pursuant to subsection (6) of this section, two-thirds of the members of the energy code board must approve each element of the model code.

(b) If two-thirds of the energy code board fail, on or before April 1, 2023, to adopt any element of the model electric ready and solar ready code required by subsection (5) of this section, the executive committee shall vote on that same element on or before May 15, 2023. If two-thirds of the energy code board fail, on or before June 1, 2025, to adopt an element of the model low energy and carbon required by subsection (6) of this section, the executive committee shall vote on that same element on or before August 1, 2025.

(c) Repealed.

(d) Upon a vote of the majority of the executive committee, an element that the energy code board failed to adopt is adopted as part of either the model electric ready and solar ready code or the model low energy and carbon code is adopted as an element of the respective model code.

(e) During the development of both the model electric ready and solar ready code and the model low energy and carbon code, the director of the department of local affairs or the director's designee and the director of the Colorado energy office or the director's designee shall ensure that the energy code board adheres to the requirements of this section.

24-38.5-404. Building electrification for public buildings grant program - creation - report - legislative declaration.

- (1) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that:
- (a) Emissions from heating buildings are one of the five largest sources of greenhouse gas pollution in Colorado;
 - (b) Many public buildings owned by local governments, school districts, institutions of higher education, and other governmental entities are older buildings with both high energy costs and emissions;
 - (c) Energy performance contracting is an important tool that governmental entities can use to upgrade the energy performance of buildings by financing energy upgrades based on projected savings in energy costs;
 - (d) Newer technologies such as cold climate heat pumps and heat pump water heaters offer many opportunities to reduce greenhouse gas and nitrogen oxide emissions and improve indoor air quality; and

(e) Therefore, it is important for state investments to support public agencies in including high-efficiency electric heating upgrades in energy performance contracts for public buildings.

(2) There is created in the Colorado energy office the building electrification for public buildings grant program to provide grants to institutions of higher education, local governments, school districts, state agencies, and special districts for the installation of high-efficiency electric heating equipment.

(3) Grantees may use money received through the building electrification for public buildings grant program for the following purposes:

(a) The purchase and installation of high-efficiency electric equipment for space heating, water heating, or cooking;

(b) The purchase of electrical installations and upgrades necessary to support the installation of high-efficiency electric equipment;

(c) The purchase and installation of other innovative building heating technologies that the Colorado energy office determines will likely achieve equal or lower levels of greenhouse gas emissions than high efficiency heat pumps operated on the projected 2030 electric grid; and

(d) In the case of eligible entities from low-income, disproportionately impacted communities, or just transition communities as those communities are identified by the Colorado energy office, to cover the administrative costs associated with the purchase and installation described in subsections (3)(a), (3)(b), and (3)(c) of this section.

(4) The Colorado energy office shall administer the building electrification for public buildings grant program, award grants as provided in this section, and develop policies and procedures as necessary to implement the grant program.

(5) Grants shall be paid out of the clean air buildings investments fund created in section 24-38.5-406.

(6) The Colorado energy office may develop policies and procedures prioritizing the grant applications of eligible entities from low-income, disproportionately impacted communities, or just transition communities as those communities are identified by the Colorado energy office, and the Colorado energy office shall award at least thirty percent of the total amount of money it awards through grants pursuant to the building electrification for public buildings grant program to such eligible entities.

(7) (a) To receive a grant, an eligible entity must submit an application to the Colorado energy office in accordance with the policies and procedures specified by the Colorado energy office.

(b) The Colorado energy office shall provide technical assistance in applying for grants through the building electrification for public buildings grant program as needed to eligible entities from low-income, disproportionately impacted communities, or just transition communities as those communities are identified by the Colorado energy office.

(8) (a) Each grantee that receives a grant through the building electrification for public buildings grant program shall submit an annual report to the Colorado energy office for the first five years after receiving the grant.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that:

(a) Emissions from heating buildings are one of the five largest sources of greenhouse gas pollution in Colorado;

(b) Over a million Coloradans live in energy burdened households that spend five percent or more of their household income on energy expenditures;

(c) Newer technologies such as cold climate heat pumps and heat pump water heaters offer many opportunities to reduce greenhouse gas and nitrogen oxide emissions and improve indoor air quality;

(d) Energy upgrades to residential and commercial buildings may be more cost effective and easier to implement when deployed at the neighborhood scale, and neighborhood-scale upgrades may allow utilities to avoid or defer investments in gas and electric distribution, thereby reducing costs for all utility ratepayers; and

(e) Therefore, it is important for the state to support investments in neighborhood-scale energy efficiency upgrades.

(2) There is created in the Colorado energy office the high-efficiency electric heating and appliances grant program to provide grants to institutions of higher education, local governments, utilities, nonprofit organizations, businesses and other entities as determined by the Colorado energy office, and housing developers for the installation of high-efficiency electric heating equipment in multiple structures within a neighborhood.

(3) Grantees may use the money received through the high-efficiency electric heating and appliances grant program for the following purposes:

(a) The purchase and installation of high-efficiency electric equipment for drying clothes, space heating, water heating, cooking in multiple residential or commercial buildings located in close proximity, or for other electric equipment as determined by the Colorado energy office;

(b) The purchase of electrical installations and upgrades necessary to support the installation of high-efficiency electric equipment;

(c) The purchase and installation of other innovative building heating technologies that the Colorado energy office determines will likely achieve equal or lower levels of greenhouse gas emissions than high-efficiency heat pumps operated on the projected 2030 electric grid; and

(d) In the case of local governments, electric and gas utilities, nonprofit organizations, businesses and other entities as determined by the Colorado energy office, or housing developers that operate in low-income, disproportionately impacted communities or just transition communities as those communities are identified by the Colorado energy office, to cover the administrative costs associated with the purchase and installation described in subsections (3)(a), (3)(b), and (3)(c) of this section.

(4) The Colorado energy office shall administer the high-efficiency electric heating and appliances grant program, award grants as provided in this section, and develop policies and procedures as necessary to implement the grant program.

(5) Grants shall be paid out of the clean air buildings investments fund created in section 24-38.5-406.

(6) The Colorado energy office may develop policies and procedures prioritizing the grant applications of local governments, electric and gas utilities, nonprofit organizations, businesses and other entities as determined by the Colorado energy office, or housing developers that operate in low-income, disproportionately impacted communities or just transition communities as those communities are identified by the Colorado energy office, and the Colorado energy office shall award at least thirty percent of the total amount of money it awards through grants pursuant to the high-efficiency electric heating and appliances grant program to such local governments, electric and gas utilities, nonprofit organizations, businesses and other entities as determined by the Colorado energy office, or housing developers.

(7) (a) To receive a grant, a local government, electric or gas utility, nonprofit organization, business and other entity as determined by the Colorado energy office, or housing developer must submit an application to the Colorado energy office in accordance with the policies and procedures specified by the Colorado energy office.

(b) The Colorado energy office shall provide technical assistance in applying for grants through the high-efficiency electric heating and appliances grant program as needed to local governments, electric and gas utilities, nonprofit organizations, businesses and other entities as determined by the Colorado energy office, or housing developers that operate in low-income, disproportionately impacted communities or just transition communities as those communities are identified by the Colorado energy office.

PART 5

COMMUNITY ACCESS TO ELECTRIC BICYCLES

24-38.5-501. Legislative declaration.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) Transportation is the largest single source of greenhouse gas pollution in the state and is a major contributing source of other forms of pollution, including ozone precursors, hazardous air pollutants, nitrogen oxides, and particulate pollution;

(b) In 2017, nearly sixty percent of household motor vehicle trips were six miles or less and seventy-five percent were ten miles or less;

(c) For many persons, shorter trips may be completed by bicycle, especially if a person uses an electric bicycle;

(d) Electric bicycles, when compared to nonelectric bicycles, allow a rider to travel greater distances, through more challenging terrain, and carry more cargo;

(e) A wide variety of electric bicycles are available and, along with new models becoming available, are increasingly affordable;

(f) Electric bicycles produce zero emissions and are an important component in a strategy for reducing emissions in the transportation sector; and

(g) It is in the interest of the state to increase the number of electric bicycles used for transportation and to increase the accessibility of electric bicycles to individuals in low- and moderate-income households.

24-38.8-101. Legislative declaration.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) Ensuring a thriving future for the state of Colorado and its citizens requires a collaborative, coordinated, and proactive statewide effort to identify, plan for, address, and avoid any detrimental impacts of climate change. Avoiding future disasters, and detrimental impacts to our natural systems, built environment, and people, by means of thorough and coordinated planning and preparedness will be more efficient and cost effective than short-term solutions.

(b) Undertaking a data-driven, comprehensive, and aggregate analysis of population and environmental trends to understand the likely impact on Colorado's infrastructure, people, landscapes, ecosystems, and communities will aid in informing the state and local governments about potential threats; aligning resources; identifying gaps in policy, coordination, or communication; and developing efficient, effective, and equitable solutions.

(c) A comprehensive, strategic plan for how Colorado can grow in a manner that achieves the state's climate mitigation goals and adapts to a warming climate will provide the state with a path for becoming more climate-resilient, affordable, inclusive, and economically competitive.

(d) In 2015, the state of Colorado wisely undertook a long-term, comprehensive, living approach to evaluating and planning the future of the state's water resources through the development of the Colorado water plan. Much as water is the lifeblood of the state, Colorado's climate future is vital to the health of Colorado communities. The state, therefore, should make the same effort to address its climate future as it does to address water conservation given the demonstrated and increasing impacts of climate change on the state's communities, infrastructure, and natural systems.

(e) The state of Colorado is expected to continue to grow, adding more than one million eight hundred thousand new people between 2020 and 2050. This population growth will lead to dynamic shifts in how the movement of goods and people impacts statewide resources, systems, communities, economies, and the state's public lands, air, water resources, and wildlife resources.

(f) While Colorado grows, a changing climate is already showing increasingly long-term detrimental effects on our water resources, public lands, wildlife populations, and forest health, as well as our public infrastructure, built environment, and public health.

(g) The number of disasters around the world has increased by a factor of five over the previous fifty years, and the rate of increase is expected to continue and accelerate. Colorado continues to experience significant climate change induced natural disasters, including wildfires, drought, flash flooding, and mudslides that have resulted in significant increases in the use of state resources and work time expended by state employees. By 2050, without significant interventions, the average area of our state burned by fire each year is expected to increase anywhere from fifty percent to two hundred percent.

(h) The general assembly, through House Bill 19-1261, enacted in 2019, has set goals to ensure that the state will reduce greenhouse gas pollution. Relative to 2005 levels, the state has set goals to reduce greenhouse gas pollution statewide by twenty-six percent by 2025, fifty percent by 2030, and ninety percent by 2050.

(i) The state's natural systems, lands, waters, air, and wildlife face significant impacts from climate change and changing demographics, and represent foundational elements of Colorado's character, statewide economies, and local economies. A comprehensive approach to climate preparedness must address the needs of the state's natural systems, lands, waters, air, and wildlife to ensure thriving systems and their long-term health. A comprehensive approach to climate preparedness should support the critical role that voluntary and incentive-based conservation measures play in supporting agricultural producers and private landowners while achieving broader ecosystem benefits. A comprehensive approach to climate preparedness should also address the need to ensure resilient and connected landscapes that are critically important for ecosystem health in facing the impacts of climate change.

(j) Following passage of the federal "American Rescue Plan Act", the United States congress has passed the once-in-a-generation, federal "Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act" that will directly provide over three billion dollars to Colorado for critical infrastructure and other areas of needed investment over the next five years. These rare, one-time investments will have a profound impact on the way the state grows. These investments should be planned and undertaken in concert with the goals articulated by House Bill 19-1261, in a manner that seeks to avoid future disasters and support climate adaptation needs, and are assisted by a coordinated effort.

(k) The state can realize the best outcomes in preparing for climate and demographic changes by promoting strong partnerships with local governments and community partners; identifying needs, support, and incentives for local communities; and fostering coordination among local governments to achieve regional and statewide benefits.

(l) The state must ensure that equity, environmental justice, and representation are central considerations of state preparedness, planning, coordination, and outcomes. Equity must be a key value in preparing for a world that is impacted by climate change and ever increasing disasters to ensure the representation of those communities that stand to be the most affected by a changing climate.

24-46-104.3. Transferable income tax credits for certain businesses located in the state - definitions.

- (1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:
 - (a) "Business" means a person doing business in the state.
 - (b) "Department" means the Colorado department of revenue.
 - (c) "Income tax credit" means the income tax credits allowed to a business no sooner than the income tax year commencing January 1, 2019, in section 39-22-531, 39-30-104, 39-30-105.1, or 39-30-105.5.

(e) "Period" means ten consecutive income tax years starting with the business' income tax year that commences immediately following the date the business receives precertification from the commission authorizing the income tax credits to be treated differently pursuant to this section.

(f) "Precertification" means the written precertification the commission may issue as allowed in subsection (2)(a) of this section that must set forth the income tax credits a business may treat differently and the total estimated value of the income tax credits that the business may treat differently pursuant to this section.

(g) "Strategic capital investment" means a capital investment totaling not less than one hundred million dollars that the commission finds will be significant to the state and is expected to be productive over many years.

(h) "Twelve-month interval" means each twelve-month interval from July 1, 2017, through June 30, 2020, during which the commission may issue precertifications.

(2) (a) (I) Subject to the limitations specified in subsection (2)(b) of this section, commencing July 1, 2017, through June 30, 2020, if a business intends to make a strategic capital investment in the state, the commission may issue a written precertification to the business to grant the business the authority to treat its allowed income tax credits during the business' period differently as specified in this section. The strategic capital investment must be initiated after the issuance of the precertification and completed before the end of the business' period; except that, if a business makes a strategic capital investment that could result in allowed income tax credits with a total value greater than the precertification limitations set forth in subsection (2)(b) of this section, the commission may issue a second or third written precertification to the same business in the following twelve-month intervals for the same strategic capital investment, even if the strategic capital investment has already been initiated or completed. If, after precertification and during the business' period, the business meets the requirements of one or more of the income tax credits as set forth in the statutory sections pertaining to each credit, then once the income tax credits are allowed, the business may elect, by filing a written election as specified in subsection (2)(a)(III) of this section, to:

(A) Use the income tax credits as an offset against the business' income taxes in the income tax year that the income tax credit is allowed;

(B) Carry forward the income tax credits to be used against the business' income tax liability for no more than five years, except as provided in subsection (2)(a)(II) of this section, using the carried forward income tax credits in the earliest income tax years possible; or

(C) Transfer the income tax credits during the carry-forward period described in subsection (2)(a)(I)(B) of this section and as allowed in subsection (4) of this section.

(II) The five-year carry-forward period commences when the income tax credit is allowed and is not limited by the end of the business' period described in this section.

(III) If a business elects to treat its allowed income tax credits differently as specified in this section and as allowed in the precertification, the business must file a written election with the office. If the business files the written election, then, except as provided in subsection (2)(b)(II) of this section, the business may not elect to receive a refund as allowed in section 39-30-104 (2.6).

(b) (I) All precertifications issued by the commission in each twelve-month interval may not exceed ten million dollars of estimated total value of all income tax credits. Any portion of the ten million dollars not precertified in a twelve-month interval may not be carried forward to the next twelve-month interval.

(II) If the actual value of the income tax credits that a business is allowed exceeds the precertification's estimated value of the income tax credits, then the business may not treat the difference between the estimated value of the income tax credits and the actual value of the income tax credits differently as specified in this section. Instead, the difference must be treated as specified in the statutory sections for each income tax credit.

(3) The business shall notify the commission when the business has met the requirements of one or more of the income tax credits in the period, shall provide the commission with verifiable evidence that the strategic capital investment was made, and shall submit an audit opinion from an independent certified public accountant attesting that the income tax credit or income tax credits have been properly calculated. If the commission agrees that the business has satisfied the terms of the precertification, then the office shall notify the department in writing of the different treatment of the business' income tax credits for the business' period.

(4) (a) If the business chooses to transfer its allowed income tax credits, then the income tax credits are freely transferable and assignable, subject to the commission's issuance of the precertification pursuant to this section, and subject to any notice and verification requirements to be determined by the office; except that the business may only transfer the portion of the income tax credits that were not applied against the business' income tax imposed by article 22 of title 39.

(b) The transferee may use all or a portion of the transferred income tax credit as an offset against the transferee's income tax imposed by article 22 of title 39. Any unused portion of the transferred income tax credit may be carried forward and used as an income tax credit against the transferee's subsequent years' income tax liability for an interval not to exceed three additional income tax years from the date of the transferee's acquisition and shall be applied first to the earliest income tax years possible. The transferee may transfer any unused portion of the acquired income tax credit to a secondary transferee in that three income tax year interval, but the secondary transferee may only offset its acquired income tax credit against its income tax imposed by article 22 of title 39 for the remainder of the three income tax year intervals from the date of the first transferee's acquisition.

(c) With respect to the income tax credit set forth in section 39-30-104, if the business seeks a waiver of the limitation specified in section 39-30-104 (2)(c) and as allowed in section 39-30-104 (2)(c)(II), and the commission approves such waiver, then the approved waiver of the limitation must be reflected in the precertification and applies to any transferee of the business' income tax credit allowed under section 39-30-104.

(d) The office shall establish notice and verification requirements for transferred income tax credits.

(e) The transferor and the transferee of the income tax credits shall jointly file a copy of the written transfer agreement with the office within thirty days after the transfer. Any filing of the written transfer agreement with the office perfects the transfer.

(f) The office shall develop a system to track the transfers of income tax credits and to certify the ownership of the income tax credits. A certification by the office of the ownership and the amount of income tax credits may be relied on by the department and the transferee as being accurate to the extent the data supplied by the business is accurate, and the office shall not adjust the amount of income tax credits as to the transferee. The office, the department, and any other state agency retain any remedies they may have against the business and any other taxpayer that misrepresents the value of the transferable income tax credit in a transfer. The office shall establish policies to permit verification of the ownership and amount of the income tax credits and shall post those policies on the office's website; except that the policies may not unduly restrict or hinder the transfer of the tax credits as allowed in this section.

(g) The office shall provide a report to the department specifying the ownership and transfers of income tax credits as allowed in this section. The report must be provided on a schedule to be determined by the department and the office.

(5) The commission and the office shall post on the office's website all nonconfidential information related to the precertification and approval of the treatment of the income tax credits as specified in this section. Nothing in this section may be construed to abrogate the confidentiality provisions set forth in section 39-21-113.

(6) The commission shall include information regarding any transferability authorized pursuant to this section, including the names of the businesses and the amounts transferred, in its annual report required to be presented to the general assembly pursuant to section 24-46-104 (2). The commission shall annually report the same information to the finance committees of the house of representatives and the senate, or such successor committees, notwithstanding the limitations in section 24-1-136 (11).

(c) Repealed.

(2) (a) Money in the fund is subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly, except as provided in subsection (2.5) of this section, for the purposes of this part 1. Any money not expended or encumbered from any appropriation at the end of any fiscal year remains available for expenditure in the next fiscal year without further appropriation. Contributions of money, property, or services may be received from any state agency, county, municipality, federal agency, person, or corporation for use in carrying out the purposes of this part 1.

(b) (I) For state fiscal years commencing on or before July 1, 2024, and on or after July 1, 2026, the state treasurer shall credit all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of money in the fund to the revolving account created in subsection (2.5) of this section.

(II) Notwithstanding subsection (2)(a) of this section, for the state fiscal year commencing on July 1, 2025, in accordance with section 24-36-114 (1), the state treasurer shall credit all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of money in the fund to the general fund.

(III) Repealed.

(2.5) (a) The moneys in the fund may be used by the commission to make grants or loans to both public and private persons and entities for use in carrying out the purposes of this part 1, subject to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this subsection (2.5) and subsections (3) and (4) of this section. In determining whether to make a grant or loan, the commission shall consider each of the following guidelines:

(VI) The extent of the public benefits expected to result from the grant or loan.

(b) The commission may establish whatever terms and conditions it deems appropriate in making grants or loans pursuant to this section; except that the terms and conditions established by the commission shall meet or exceed the requirements established in subsection (4) of this section for a grant or loan awarded in part or in whole based on a private person's or entity's creation of full-time permanent new jobs in the state. The loan amount and any interest earned thereon shall be paid back to the commission, and such moneys shall be credited to a special account in the fund to be known as the revolving account. In accordance with subsection (2) of this section, interest earned on the investment or deposit of moneys in the economic development fund shall also be credited to the revolving account. All moneys in the revolving account may be used by the commission to make loans and grants as provided in this subsection (2.5) without further appropriation by the general assembly. 24-46-105.3. Economic development incentives - employers in compliance with federal law - legislative declaration.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the commission encourages, promotes, and stimulates economic development and employment in Colorado by awarding economic development incentives to employers in the form of grants, loans, and performance-based incentives. The general assembly further finds that it is in the best interest of the people of the state to ensure that United States citizens and others lawfully present in the state are the beneficiaries of employment opportunities that are made possible through moneys awarded to employers the commission. The general assembly recognizes that many local governments also participate in programs to develop new businesses, expand existing businesses, promote economic development within their jurisdictions, and create employment opportunities for Colorado. The general assembly further recognizes that it would be in the best interest of the people of the state if local governments would take steps to ensure that United States citizens and others lawfully present in the state are the beneficiaries of employment opportunities created through economic development incentives offered at the local level. Therefore, the general assembly hereby encourages all local governments that participate in economic development incentive programs to develop standards to ensure that all employers who are awarded economic development incentives employ only United States citizens or people who are lawfully present in the state and have the authority to work.

(2) In addition to the requirements specified for any employer to receive a grant, loan, performance-based incentive, or other economic development incentive pursuant to the provisions of this article, an employer shall be in compliance with the provisions of 8 U.S.C. sec. 1324a in order to be eligible to receive such economic development incentive. The commission shall develop a procedure by which an employer that receives an economic development incentive pursuant to this article shall provide proof to the commission that each employee employed by the employer within the United States is a United States citizen or, if not a United States citizen, is lawfully present in the state and authorized to work.

(3) During the process of awarding a grant, loan, performance-based incentive, or other economic development incentive to an employer, the commission shall have the discretion to determine when to verify that the employer is in compliance with the provisions of 8 U.S.C. sec. 1324a.

(4) If the commission determines that an employer who receives an economic development incentive pursuant to this article is not in compliance with the provisions of 8 U.S.C. sec. 1324a, or is unable to prove that it is in compliance with the requirements of 8 U.S.C. sec. 1324a, the commission shall notify the employer by certified mail of the commission's determination of noncompliance. The employer shall repay the total amount of money received as an economic development incentive to the commission within thirty days of receipt of the notice.

(5) Notwithstanding the provisions of this article, any employer that has been issued a notice of noncompliance pursuant to subsection (4) of this section shall be ineligible to qualify for a grant, loan, performance-based incentive, or other economic development incentive awarded pursuant to this article for five years after the date that the employer has repaid the commission in full pursuant to the requirements of subsection (4) of this section.

(6) Upon determination that an employer is ineligible to receive an economic development incentive pursuant to this section, the commission shall allow the employer to appear at a hearing before the commission and to establish proof that the employer is in compliance with the provisions of 8 U.S.C. sec. 1324a. The commission shall satisfy the requirements of this subsection (6) within existing resources.

(7) This section shall be enforced without regard to race, religion, gender, ethnicity, or national origin.

(1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(b) (I) "Taxpayer" means any person doing business in the state, including an affiliated group, that operates in a strategic industry that was disproportionately impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic and experienced significant financial hardship caused by the COVID-19 pandemic.

(II) "Strategic industry" and "significant financial hardship" for purposes of the definition of "taxpayer" in subsection (1)(b)(I) of this section shall be determined by the commission and the office. When determining significant financial hardship, any financial assistance or relief that the taxpayer may have received from other sources including federal, state, or local assistance may be considered but shall not be dispositive for purposes of eligibility.

(2) The commission may allow a taxpayer to carry forward for a period of five years the tax credits set forth in section 39-22-531 and in article 30 of title 39 that would otherwise expire between January 1, 2021, and December 31, 2025; except that the aggregate amount of all tax credits permitted to be carried forward pursuant to this subsection (2) is zero dollars for the first two years in the five-year period, ten million dollars for the third year in the five-year period, and fifteen million dollars for the fourth and fifth year in the five-year period and the tax credit set forth in section 39-30-103.5 is not eligible for the five-year carry-forward period set forth in this section. Taxpayers must apply to the commission and the office pursuant to subsection (3) of this section for approval to carry forward the tax credits as set forth in this subsection (2).

(3) (a) A taxpayer may apply for approval by the commission to carry forward a tax credit as set forth in subsection (2) of this section in accordance with timing, deadlines, policies, and procedures established by the commission, in consultation with the office, and as follows:

(I) A taxpayer shall apply one time to the commission for the extended carry-forward period set forth in subsection (2) of this section and must identify in the application all of the anticipated credits that the taxpayer requests to extend for each tax year that the extended period applies to;

(II) At a minimum, the application must include certification by the taxpayer's president, chief executive officer, or chief financial officer that, based on the taxpayer's current and expected financial results, it is anticipated that the taxpayer will not be able to use the tax credits before the credits expire as the result of losses experienced during tax years 2020 and 2021 due to the COVID-19 pandemic;

(III) The application must include documentation from the taxpayer demonstrating significant financial hardship caused by the COVID-19 pandemic; and

(IV) In consultation with potential applicants, the commission and the office shall determine additional appropriate policies, procedures, requirements, and deadlines to administer the application process and extension approvals pursuant to this section, which may include additional verification procedures to demonstrate that applicants are making bonafide requests for the five-year extension.

(b) In consultation with the office, the commission shall receive, review, and approve applications by taxpayers on a first come, first served, rolling basis. In addition to the application requirements set forth in subsection (3)(a) of this section, the commission may consider additional economic development commitments to the state by the taxpayer in determining approval of applications including:

(I) The size of the taxpayer's current operation in the state relative to both the state as a whole and the region the taxpayer is based in;

(II) Any strategic economic development benefits that the taxpayer provides with existing operations to the state in terms of supply chain, benefits to other industries, or other spillover benefits that the applicant's operations provide to the state or region; and

(III) Any additional forthcoming economic development benefits that the taxpayer may provide to the state or region based on commitments that the applicant has recently made or proposes that are outside the scope of the original incentive award.

(k) "Taxpayer" means a person engaged in advanced manufacturing or semiconductor manufacturing that is subject to tax under article 22 of title 39.

(2) (a) Subject to the limitations set forth in subsection (2)(b) of this section, for state fiscal years 2023-24 through 2028-29, the commission may approve and issue a refund certificate if the applicant demonstrates that the applicant is a taxpayer that is engaged in or will engage in a project eligible for an income tax credit. Subject to the conditions in subsection (7) of this section and any other conditions established by the commission, a taxpayer that holds a refund certificate may claim a refund of eighty percent of the income tax credit types listed on the refund certificate that are earned by the taxpayer during the twelve years following the commission's approval and are not used to offset the taxpayer's state income taxes due. The limitations on the amount of credit allowed per income tax year set forth in sections 39-30-104 (2)(c) and 39-30-105.5 (2) do not apply to income tax credits refunded under this section. (II) The maximum total amount of income tax credits for which the commission may approve refund certificates for all taxpayers for all fiscal years from July 1, 2023, through June 30, 2028, is seventy-five million dollars; except that, if the commission has approved refund certificates for less than seventy-five million dollars of income tax credits on June 30, 2028, the commission may approve refund certificates for new and existing applicants equal to the remaining amount through the fiscal year ending June 30, 2029; and

(III) Compliance with the limitations set forth in this subsection (2)(b) shall be calculated based on the total amount of the income tax credits included in the refund certificates and not eighty percent of such amount.

(c) (I) A taxpayer that receives a refund certificate shall notify the commission promptly if the project included in the certificate is canceled, modified, or otherwise becomes ineligible for the estimated credit, in which case the refund certificate may be canceled or modified.

(II) A refund certificate may be revoked or modified if a taxpayer that receives a refund certificate does not commence the project approved therein within two years of the commission's approval of the refund certificate or otherwise fails to meet the terms of the refund certificate.

(III) Notwithstanding the limitations in subsection (2)(b) of this section, if a taxpayer's refund certificate is canceled or modified pursuant to subsection (2)(c)(I) of this section or revoked or modified pursuant to (2)(c)(II) of this section, the amount of the canceled, revoked, or modified income tax credits shall be available to the commission to use in approving other taxpayers' applications for a refund certificate.

(C) The jobs to be created by the project; and

(III) Identification of the type and estimated or actual amount of any additional income tax credits or other financial assistance from any federal, state, or local government agency received, applied for, or intended to be applied for by the taxpayer related to the same project; and

(IV) Any other information the office or the commission may reasonably require for evaluation of the taxpayer's application for a refund certificate.

(c) Nothing in subsection (3)(b) of this section requires the disclosure to the public of any information that reveals the amount of compensation paid to any individual employee of a business, any Colorado income tax return, any information regarding expenditures on research and development, or other proprietary information of a business included in a taxpayer's application.

(4) In reviewing applications submitted pursuant to subsection (3)(b) of this section, the commission shall prioritize applications deemed eligible for a refund certificate as follows:

(a) For fiscal years 2023-24 and 2024-25, the commission shall give highest priority to taxpayers engaged in semiconductor manufacturing that have received or are expected to receive matching money under ARPA, the CHIPS Act, or other federal legislation that provides incentives for semiconductor manufacturing; and

(b) For fiscal years 2025-26 through 2028-29, the commission shall give highest priority to taxpayers engaged in advanced manufacturing or semiconductor manufacturing that have received or are expected to receive matching money under ARPA, the CHIPS Act, or other federal legislation that provides incentives for advanced manufacturing or semiconductor manufacturing.

(5) The commission, taking into consideration the priority assessment conducted pursuant to subsection (4) of this section, shall approve or deny applications for refund certificates in its discretion based on the following criteria:

(a) Whether the taxpayer was previously awarded a refund certificate under this section;

(b) The type and amount of all federal, state, and local financial assistance received, applied for, or intended to be applied for by the taxpayer, as disclosed pursuant to subsection (3)(b)(III) of this section, and the manner in which the governmental entity offering the applicable financial assistance has benefitted or may benefit therefrom;

(c) The size of the taxpayer's current operation in the state relative to the state as a whole and the region of the state in which the taxpayer is based;

(d) Any strategic economic benefits that the taxpayer provides with existing operations to the state or region in terms of supply chain, benefits to other industries, or other spillover benefits; and

(e) Any additional forthcoming economic development benefits that the taxpayer may provide to the state or region based on commitments that the taxpayer has recently made or proposes to make in the near term.

(6) (a) The commission may approve all, part, or none of the amount of a taxpayer's application for a refund certificate made pursuant to subsection (3)(b) of this section. If the commission approves a taxpayer's application in part, the commission may approve additional refund certificates up to the full amount of the taxpayer's original application in a subsequent fiscal year through fiscal year 2028-29.

(b) Upon approval by the commission, and after the satisfaction of any contingencies imposed pursuant to subsection (10) of this section, the office shall issue a refund certificate that describes the taxpayer's approved project, including the information required under subsection (3)(b)(II) of this section, and sets forth the maximum amount of income tax credits that the taxpayer may claim as a refund in accordance with this section.

(c) If a taxpayer receiving a refund certificate pursuant to this section is a partnership, limited liability company, S corporation, or other similar pass-through entity, the taxpayer may allocate the approved maximum total amount of credit which the taxpayer might earn and use to claim a refund in connection with the taxpayer's project among its investors in any manner agreed to by the investors. The taxpayer shall certify to the office the amount of credit allocated to each investor and the office shall issue refund certificates in the appropriate amounts to each investor. Each investor is allowed to claim a refund of eighty percent of the amount of the credit subject to any restrictions set forth in this section.

(7) To claim a refund in connection with an approved refund certificate, a taxpayer must:

(a) Commence the project approved by the commission in the refund certificate before the refund certificate is canceled, revoked, or modified by the commission pursuant to subsection (2)(c) of this section;

(b) Earn one or more income tax credits in connection with the approved project in accordance with section 39-30-104, 39-30-105.1, 39-30-105.5, or 39-22-531 (2) and (3)(a)(I)(D), not later than twelve years from the date the refund certificate for the income tax credit is approved by the commission;

(c) Apply the income tax credits to the taxpayer's state income tax liability, if any, for the income tax year in which a refund is claimed;

(d) Submit all required records and information to the department on or before the due date, including extensions, for filing the taxpayer's state income tax return for the income tax year in which an income tax credit in excess of the amount applied for pursuant to subsection (7)(c) of this section will be refunded, including:

(I) All records and information necessary to claim the income tax credit earned in connection with the taxpayer's approved project, including the required certification under section 39-30-103 (7) or 39-36-104 (5);

(II) The refund certificate associated with the project through which the taxpayer earned the income tax credit and the amount of the credit;

(III) A refund election statement on a form prescribed by the department; and

(IV) Any additional documentation required by section 39-36-106 (1)(b) or otherwise required by law; and

(e) Subject to the limitation in subsection (8) of this section, agree to receive a refund of the eighty percent of the amount of the credit remaining after applying the credit under subsection (7)(c) of this section and forgo the remaining twenty percent of the amount claimed as a refund.

(8) A taxpayer may not claim cumulative refunds in excess of the maximum total amount of income tax credits that the commission has approved in the refund certificate. Any credit earned in excess of the amount in the refund certificate and forgone under subsection (7)(e) of this section is retained by the taxpayer and may be used in accordance with the statute pursuant to which it was earned.

(9) On or before September 30, 2023, and on or before September 30 of each calendar year thereafter through September 30, 2029, the commission shall provide the department all records and information required by the department to establish that a taxpayer is approved to claim refundable income tax credits up to the maximum total amount approved by the commission in connection with the taxpayer's project as set forth in the taxpayer's refund certificate for the preceding calendar year or any fiscal year ending in the preceding calendar year. The report must contain the following information for each taxpayer:

- (a) The taxpayer's name;
- (b) The taxpayer's Colorado account number and federal employer identification number;
- (c) Each income tax credit type for which the taxpayer may request a refund, as identified pursuant to subsection (3)(b)(I) of this section and in the taxpayer's refund certificate;

- (e) The maximum total amount of credit the taxpayer may use to claim a refund pursuant to this section as stated in the refund certificate.

(10) The commission, in consultation with the office, may establish additional policies, procedures, requirements, and guidelines to administer the application process for and approval of refund certificates pursuant to this section including, but not limited to:

- (a) A limit on the total refund amount that may be approved by the commission for a single taxpayer in a given year;
- (b) A limit on the total refund amount that may be approved by the commission for a single taxpayer for multiple years or all years for which the taxpayer has applied for a refund certificate;

(2) "Certified capital" means an amount of cash that is contributed by a qualified taxpayer to the authority that is deposited in a venture capital fund.

(3) (a) "Distressed urban community" means an area within a city or city and county:

(I) Where a qualified business would not be a qualified rural business; and

(II) That has been designated as an enterprise zone pursuant to article 30 of title 39, C.R.S.

(b) If a distressed urban community's enterprise zone status is terminated pursuant to article 30 of title 39, C.R.S., a certified investment shall nevertheless continue to be considered an investment in a qualified business that has its principal business operation located in a distressed urban community if the location was in an enterprise zone at the time of the first qualified investment by the fund manager in the business.

(5) "Fund manager" means a partnership, corporation, trust, or limited liability company that invests cash in qualified businesses or qualified rural businesses and is selected through the authority's competitive selection process to establish and manage one or more venture capital funds as described in this part 2. A fund manager shall have at least two years of money management experience in the venture capital industry or the equivalent as determined by the authority.

(6) "Premium tax liability" means the liability imposed by section 10-3-209 or 10-6-128, C.R.S., or, in the case of a repeal or reduction by the state of the liability imposed by section 10-3-209 or 10-6-128, C.R.S., any other tax liability imposed upon an insurance company by the state.

(7) "Proceeds" means any revenues arising from the use of certified capital, including, but not limited to, income generated from qualified investments and income generated from all certified capital not currently invested in qualified investments.

(8) (a) "Qualified business" means a business that, subject to paragraphs (b) and (c) of this subsection (8), meets all of the following criteria as of the time of a fund manager's first qualified investment in the business and as otherwise determined by the authority:

(I) The business:

(A) Is headquartered in this state and its principal business operations are located in this state; or

(B) Has entered into a contract with a fund manager to comply, within nine months after finalization of the contract, with sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I) and the contract contains enforceable provisions requiring a return of any investment of certified capital and any other revenues required to be paid in the event of noncompliance with this subsection (8) or a contract provision;

(II) Is a small business;

(III) Is not a business predominantly engaged in:

(A) Professional services provided by accountants, doctors, or lawyers;

(B) Banking; lending; real estate development; insurance; oil and gas exploration; direct gambling activities, which do not include ancillary gambling businesses such as manufacturers of gaming equipment and others as defined by the authority; or

(C) Making loans to or investing in a fund manager or affiliates of a fund manager;

(IV) Does not receive an investment from a venture capital fund that exceeds fifteen percent of the venture capital fund's aggregate total of certified capital; and

(V) Maintains its business in this state for at least five years after first receiving an investment of certified capital and has entered into a contract with a fund manager to comply with this requirement. The contract shall contain enforceable provisions requiring a return of any investment of certified capital and any other revenues required to be paid in the event of noncompliance with this subparagraph (V) or a contract provision.

(b) If a business meets some, but not all, of the criteria set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (8), the business may nevertheless be deemed to be a qualified business if the authority determines that the investment of certified capital in the business proposed by a fund manager pursuant to this part 2 will further the economic development of the state.

(c) Any business that is classified as a qualified business at the time of the first qualified investment in the business by a fund manager shall remain classified as a qualified business, and may receive continuing qualified investments from a venture capital fund. The continuing investments shall be qualified investments even though the business may not meet the definition of a qualified business at the time of the continuing investments; except that a qualified business shall comply with subparagraph (V) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (8) for at least five years after an initial qualified investment to remain a qualified business and to receive continuing qualified investments.

(9) "Qualified distribution" means any distribution out of certified capital from a venture capital fund for expenses related to managing and operating the fund. Qualified distributions shall not exceed two and one-half percent annually of the total amount of certified capital allocated to each venture capital fund unless authorized by the authority after a review of extraordinary items. "Qualified distribution" does not include the use of certified capital for litigation challenging the validity, implementation, or effect of this part 2 or article 3.5 of title 10, C.R.S., lobbying, or governmental relations.

(10) (a) "Qualified investment" means, subject to paragraph (b) of this subsection (10), the investment of certified capital by a fund manager in a qualified business or qualified rural business, as applicable, for the purchase of any debt, debt participation, equity, or hybrid security, including a debt instrument or security that has the characteristics of debt but provides for conversion into equity or equity participation instruments, including, but not limited to, options or warrants; except that a fund manager shall use certified capital only to make seed and early-stage investments in qualified businesses or qualified rural businesses, as applicable; except that the authority may allow a qualified investment in a qualified rural business that is not a seed or early-stage investment if the investment is appropriate and later-stage capital investments are not otherwise available to the qualified rural business. An investment shall be deemed to be a qualified investment only if the qualified business or qualified rural business in which the investment is made expends the qualified investment within Colorado; except that this limitation shall not be deemed to preclude the purchase of services or goods from outside of Colorado if such services are performed and such goods are used in Colorado.

(b) A fund manager shall not make a loan to a qualified business or qualified rural business unless the business has received two written loan rejection letters from two different commercial banks headquartered or chartered in Colorado that make small business loans, one of which shall be a preferred lender designated by the federal small business administration. Any such loan by a fund manager shall not be made through or in connection with any guaranteed loan program.

(11) (a) "Qualified rural business" means a qualified business that has its principal business operations in any county, but not any city and county, in this state that, as of June 9, 2001, has a population of not more than one hundred fifty thousand people and, if the county's population exceeds twenty thousand people, that has a growth rate that does not exceed the statewide average for the period of 1990-2000 by more than twenty-five percent as defined in the two most recent decennial censuses. Additionally, a qualified rural business shall be located in an area designated as an enterprise zone pursuant to article 30 of title 39, C.R.S., unless the authority waives this requirement.

(b) Any business that is classified as a qualified rural business at the time of the first qualified investment in the business by a fund manager shall remain classified as a qualified rural business and may receive continuing qualified investments from a venture capital fund. The continuing investments shall be qualified investments even though the business may not meet the definition of a qualified rural business at the time of the continuing investments; except that, to remain a qualified rural business and to receive qualified investments, a qualified rural business shall comply with subparagraph (V) of paragraph (a) of subsection (8) of this section for at least five years after an initial qualified investment.

(12) "Qualified taxpayer" means an insurance company that has contributed certified capital to the authority and received a tax credit certificate from the authority pursuant to section 24-46-204; except that, upon payment of certified capital by a qualified taxpayer, the qualified taxpayer may transfer or sell all or a portion of its venture capital tax credits to another insurance company, in which case "qualified taxpayer" shall be deemed to refer to such insurance company. A transfer or sale of venture capital tax credits by a qualified taxpayer shall not affect the schedule for taking the venture capital tax credits as provided in this part 2.

(13) "Seed and early-stage investment" means the first investment from a professional venture capital firm to a qualified business. A seed investment is made to a qualified business that has not yet fully established commercial operations or that involves continued research and product development. An early-stage investment is made to a qualified business for product development or initial marketing, manufacturing, or sales activities.

(14) "Venture capital fund" means one or more rural venture capital funds, one or more distressed urban community venture capital funds, or one or more statewide venture capital funds as described in section 24-46-203 (1), located outside of the state treasury, containing certified capital that is managed by a fund manager to make qualified investments.

(c) Any member of the board may be removed by the governor for misfeasance, malfeasance, willful neglect of duty, or other cause, after notice and a public hearing, unless the notice and hearing have been expressly waived in writing.

(d) (I) The board of directors of the authority shall adopt its own rules of procedure, shall elect a chair and a vice-chair from its membership, and shall keep a record of its proceedings. The

(II) The authority shall meet at least once each quarter. Members shall serve without compensation but shall be entitled to reimbursement for actual and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties.

(2) (a) The authority may, by resolution that meets the requirements of subsection (3) of this section, authorize and issue revenue bonds in an amount not to exceed five million dollars in the aggregate for expenses of the authority. Bonds may be issued only after approval by both houses of the general assembly acting either by bill or joint resolution and after approval by the governor in accordance with section 39 of article V of the state constitution. Bonds shall be payable only from the enterprise fund.

(b) All bonds issued by the authority shall provide that:

(8) (a) Except as otherwise provided in the resolution authorizing the bonds, all bonds of the same issue under this section shall have a prior and paramount lien on the net revenues pledged therefor. The authority may provide for preferential security for any bonds, both principal and interest, to be issued under this section to the extent deemed feasible and desirable by the authority over any bonds that may be issued thereafter.

(b) Bonds of the same issue or series issued under this section shall be equally and ratably secured, without priority by reason of number, date, sale, execution, or delivery, by a lien on the net revenue pledged in accordance with the terms of the resolution authorizing the bonds.

(9) The authority may accept grants from any source and shall deposit the grants in the enterprise fund, which fund is hereby created in the authority. The enterprise fund shall be a revolving fund administered by the authority as a government-owned business that provides

Upon receiving a request, the authority shall have thirty working days to determine whether the business is located in a distressed urban community or the business meets the definition of a qualified business or qualified rural business, as applicable, and notify the fund manager of its determination with an explanation of the determination. If the authority fails to notify the fund manager of its determination within thirty working days, the business in which the fund manager proposes to invest shall be deemed to be located in a distressed urban community or to be a qualified business or qualified rural business, as applicable.

- (g) Any other investments approved in advance and in writing by the authority.

(6) (a) The authority's contract with a fund manager shall state the terms governing the distribution, other than a qualified distribution, of certified capital and proceeds. Unless authorized by its contract with the authority and until it has made the distribution specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (6), a fund manager shall not make any distributions from:

The state of Colorado does not endorse the quality of management or the potential for earnings of such fund and is not liable for damages or losses to any investor in the fund or any other entity. Selection by the Colorado Venture Capital Authority to participate in this program does not constitute a recommendation or endorsement of the venture capital fund or its investments by the Colorado Venture Capital Authority.

(9) If a fund manager violates any applicable provision of this part 2 or any material provision of the authority's contract with the fund manager, the authority may require the fund manager to make a payment in an amount up to the amount of certified capital received by the fund manager in addition to penalties as determined by the authority. The payments shall be deposited in the enterprise fund. The authority may use additional remedies, as specified in its contract with a fund manager, to ensure appropriate oversight of the venture capital program. The authority shall conduct an annual review of each fund manager to determine its compliance with the requirements of this part 2 and its contract with the authority.

The authority shall issue tax credit certificates to qualified taxpayers with a total value of fifty million dollars to be taken by one or more qualified taxpayers at the rate of up to five million dollars per year for each of the calendar years from 2005 through 2014; except that if H.B. 04-1206 is enacted at the second regular session of the sixty-fourth general assembly, becomes law, and is subsequently declared to be unconstitutional by a final judgment that invalidates the tax credits enacted by such bill, the authority shall issue tax credit certificates to qualified taxpayers with a total value of one hundred million dollars to be taken by one or more qualified taxpayers at the rate of up to ten million dollars per year for each of the remaining calendar years through 2014. A qualified taxpayer shall submit the tax credit certificate with the taxpayer's tax return.

(2) Upon completion of the authority's competitive selection process for fund managers pursuant to section 24-46-203, but no earlier than January 31, 2004, and no later than December 1 of each year from 2005 until 2014, the authority shall issue a tax credit certificate to a qualified taxpayer pursuant to subsection (5) of this section and shall allocate certified capital contributed to the authority by the qualified taxpayer to one or more fund managers selected by the authority in accordance with section 24-46-203 (2).

(3) If the amount of the tax credit claimed by a qualified taxpayer exceeds the amount due on its premium tax liability in the tax year for which the tax credit is being claimed, the amount of the tax credit not used to offset taxes may be carried forward for up to ten years as tax credits against the qualified taxpayer's subsequent years' premium tax liability.

(4) A qualified taxpayer claiming a tax credit against premium tax liability earned through a contribution of certified capital to the authority shall not be required to pay any additional or retaliatory tax as a result of claiming the credit.

(5) (a) An insurance company shall become a qualified taxpayer if all of the conditions of the tax credit certificate and the following conditions are met:

(I) Pursuant to a form established by the authority, the insurance company shall make a timely and irrevocable offer, contingent only upon the authority's issuance to the insurance company of a tax credit certificate, to make a specified contribution of certified capital to the authority on dates specified by the authority. The offer shall include the requested amount of tax credits, the year for which the tax credits are requested, the insurance company's specified contribution for each tax credit dollar requested, which contribution shall be no less than eighty percent of the requested amount of tax credits, and any other information required by the authority.

(II) The authority shall issue a tax credit certificate to the insurance company. The tax credit certificate shall state the date by which cash contributions shall be made by the qualified taxpayer, the date by which tax credits shall be available for use by the qualified taxpayer, penalties and any other remedies for noncompliance, and any other requirements deemed necessary by the authority as a condition of issuing the tax credit certificate.

(III) Pursuant to subsection (7) of this section, the insurance company timely makes the contribution of certified capital to the authority specified in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a).

(b) The authority shall establish and publicize to insurance companies:

(I) Deadlines for submitting irrevocable offers for contributions and for issuing tax credit certificates;

(II) Forms and requirements for offers and the content requirements of such offers; and

(III) Any other requirement determined to be necessary by the authority.

(c) (I) A tax credit certificate shall specify:

(A) An amount of money that a qualified taxpayer may claim as a tax credit pursuant to this section;

(B) The amount of certified capital that the qualified taxpayer has contributed or will contribute by the dates specified in the tax credit certificate;

(C) The calendar year in which the tax credits may be used against the qualified taxpayer's premium tax liability;

(D) Penalties and remedies in the event of noncompliance by the qualified taxpayer; and

(E) Other conditions deemed necessary by the authority.

(II) The authority shall continue to issue tax credit certificates in the order of the insurance companies that have offered to contribute the next highest value per tax credit dollar requested until the authority has issued five million dollars of tax credit certificates per year, or if H.B. 04-1206 is enacted at the second regular session of the sixty-fourth general assembly, becomes law, and is subsequently declared to be unconstitutional, until the authority has issued ten million dollars of tax credit certificates per year; except that the authority may issue tax credit certificates on an annual basis, a multi-year basis, or periodically as it deems necessary.

(6) On or before January 31, 2006, and on or before each succeeding January 31 until January 31, 2015, the authority shall provide a report to the division of insurance in the department of regulatory agencies. The report shall identify each qualified taxpayer for the tax year that ended during the prior calendar year by name and identifying number issued by the national association of insurance commissioners, or any analogous successor organization, and shall list the amount of the tax credits allowed to the qualified taxpayer.

(7) (a) To become a qualified taxpayer, an insurance company shall pay the specified amount of certified capital to the authority when due.

(b) (I) If an insurance company fails to make a payment of certified capital to the authority when due, the authority shall provide the insurance company with a notice by certified mail that the insurance company has fifteen working days to cure the defect. The fifteen-day period shall begin on the date the notice is postmarked.

(II) Failure by an insurance company to make the payment of certified capital by the end of the fifteenth working day shall result in an immediate forfeiture of any right to claim the tax credits. The authority shall be authorized to reallocate such tax credits to other qualified taxpayers as deemed necessary by the authority. Reallocation shall not diminish the authority's ability to use penalties and remedies as stated in the tax certificate.

(III) The authority shall assess penalties against a qualified taxpayer that fails to make the payment of certified capital by the end of the fifteenth working day as stated in the tax credit certificate and may pursue other remedies and actions as stated in the tax certificate.

24-46-304. Regional tourism project - application - requirements.

(1) Any local government may apply for approval of a regional tourism project, including designation of a regional tourism zone, the creation of a regional tourism authority, and designation of a financing entity to receive, utilize, and disburse state sales tax increment revenue for eligible costs.

(1.5) (a) Before a local government submits an application for a regional tourism project to the Colorado office of economic development pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, the local government shall submit a map showing the proposed boundaries of the proposed regional tourism zone to the office of state planning and budgeting. The office of state planning and budgeting, in conjunction with the Colorado office of economic development, shall determine the baseline growth rate for the area included in the proposed regional tourism zone. In determining the baseline growth rate, the office of state planning and budgeting and the Colorado office of economic development shall consider the growth rate in the area included in the proposed regional tourism zone during the previous five calendar years at a minimum.

(b) The office of state planning and budgeting may charge a local government a submission fee of up to three thousand dollars per submission for the costs incurred in determining the baseline growth rate.

(c) The local government and the third-party analyst retained pursuant to paragraph (i) of subsection (2) of this section shall use the baseline growth rate in their assumptions and economic analyses for the purpose of calculating the total cumulative dollar amount and percentage of the state sales tax increment revenue that can be dedicated to the proposed regional tourism project as required by paragraphs (h) and (i) of subsection (2) of this section.

(2) A local government shall submit an application for a regional tourism project to the Colorado office of economic development in a form and manner to be determined by the commission. The office shall provide the commission with each application received after the director's review pursuant to section 24-46-305. The application shall include, but need not be limited to, the following:

(a) Maps of the proposed project area showing both current conditions and a conceptual rendering of the proposed project in its anticipated built condition;

(b) A map showing the proposed boundaries of the proposed regional tourism zone;

(c) A narrative description of the proposed project, including the location and estimated overall cost, estimated eligible costs, anticipated scope and phasing of eligible improvements, and the infrastructure existing or needed in connection with the project;

(d) A discussion of each of the application criteria and how the project will meet each of the criteria, including an economic analysis detailing projected economic development, impact on future state sales tax revenue during and after the financing term, the number of new jobs to be created by the project by job category as defined by the Colorado department of labor and employment occupational employment statistics survey and the wages and, to the extent that it is reasonably possible, information on health benefits for jobs in each category, market impact, anticipated regional and in-state competition, the ability to attract out-of-state tourists, the fiscal impact to local governments within and adjacent to the regional tourism zone, an analysis of the impact to local school districts and an estimate of the percentage of total program that the state will become responsible to fund through the state's share of total program pursuant to section 22-54-106, if the county revitalization authority or an urban renewal authority is the financing entity for the regional tourism project and uses property tax revenue to finance the project, and any other information reasonably requested by the commission;

(e) A description of the proposed financing entity, a general description of the financing entity's plan for financing the eligible costs and providing the eligible improvements, and whether authorization of a regional tourism authority is requested. A request for authorization of a regional tourism authority shall include a description of the proposed authority's geographic boundaries, requested powers, and anticipated sources of revenue, if any, in addition to state sales tax increment revenue.

(f) If it is anticipated that the financing entity will enter into contractual arrangements with one or more urban renewal authorities, metropolitan districts, local governments, or private parties with respect to the method of financing the eligible costs and providing eligible improvements, a general description of such contemplated contractual arrangements;

(g) If it is anticipated that the eligible improvements will be constructed in phases or that financing of the eligible costs will be accomplished in phases, a description of the contemplated phases and anticipated timing of the phases;

(h) The proposed financing term, the total cumulative dollar amount of revenue that can be allocated to the financing entity, the percentage of state sales tax increment revenue to be allocated to the financing entity, and the portion of the financing term during which such percentage is to be allocated to the financing entity. No single debt issuance of the financing entity shall have a maturity date in excess of thirty years; except that the financing term may exceed thirty years to the extent that the financing entity anticipates issuing a series of bonds or other forms of debt and provided that the financing entity shall have the ability to consolidate or refinance previously issued debt or bonds with a maturity date for such consolidated or refinanced debt or bonds not to exceed thirty years.

(i) Along with the economic analysis submitted with the application, a report by a third-party analyst who is an expert in the field of economic or public financial analysis calculating the total cumulative dollar amount and percentage of the state sales tax increment revenue that can be dedicated to the regional tourism project to be set by the commission pursuant to section 24-46-305 (3)(d). The applicant shall share its data and reasoning with the third-party analyst, and the analyst shall rely on such data and reasoning as it deems appropriate in the exercise of its independent judgment. An applicant dissatisfied with such report may revise its application and request report revisions. The reviewing third-party analyst shall be chosen through a request for proposals issued by the office of state planning and budgeting to ensure an independent and thorough analysis, and the third-party analyst shall report to that office. The office of state planning and budgeting shall charge an application fee to the applicant to pay the costs for the third-party analyst to:

(I) Assess the assumptions used in the application to estimate net new tourism revenues to Colorado;

(II) Calculate the total anticipated sales tax increment revenue in the proposed regional tourism zone;

(III) Calculate the amount and percentage of the total regional tourism zone sales tax increment revenue that each county and municipality that is a party to a multi-party application is eligible to receive; and

(IV) Assess the probability of the proposed project moving forward without funding from tax increment financing.

(3) An application by a local government for designation as a regional tourism project shall be approved by the commission upon a finding by the majority of the commissioners participating in the review of the application that the application demonstrates that each of the following criteria are materially met:

(a) The project is of an extraordinary and unique nature and is reasonably anticipated to contribute significantly to economic development and tourism in the state and the communities where the project is located;

(b) The project is reasonably anticipated to result in a substantial increase in out-of-state tourism;

(c) A significant portion of the sales tax revenue generated by the project is reasonably anticipated to be attributable to transactions with nonresidents of the state. An exception to this requirement may apply if a significant portion of the sales tax revenue generated by the project is reasonably anticipated to be attributable to residents of the state but the revenue would otherwise leave the state due to a lack of a similar project or facility in the state.

(d) The local government has provided reliable economic data demonstrating that, in the absence of state sales tax increment revenue, the project is not reasonably anticipated to be developed within the foreseeable future.

(4) The general assembly shall appropriate fifty thousand dollars to the office of state planning and budgeting for the 2014-15 state fiscal year to be used by the office for necessary and additional analytical work related to the proposed regional tourism projects.

24-46-305. Regional tourism project approval - director - commission - review.

(1) Upon receipt of a local government's application for a regional tourism project, the director or the director's designee shall review the application and shall make an initial determination regarding whether the application has met the criteria for a regional tourism project specified in section 24-46-304.

(2) (a) Upon review of each application for completeness, the director shall forward the application to any county or counties where the regional tourism project will be implemented and to municipalities adjacent to where the regional tourism project will be implemented for an opportunity to review the application and submit comments to the commission. The director shall provide such counties and municipalities with the application at least thirty days prior to the public hearing held pursuant to subsection (3) of this section. The director shall also forward the application to the commission with a recommendation that the commission approve or deny the application or approve the application with conditions; except that the commission shall not approve any project that, if approved, would likely create a state sales tax revenue dedication of more than fifty million dollars to all regional tourism projects in any given year.

(b) The commission shall not approve more than two initial projects pursuant to this subsection (2).

(c) On or after May 31, 2014, but prior to January 1, 2016, the commission may approve two new regional tourism projects.

(3) The commission shall hold a public hearing, subject to the provisions of the "Colorado Sunshine Act of 1972", article 6 of this title, to review and consider the application. After the hearing has been held, the commission shall review each application and give consideration to the director's recommendations. The commission shall take action on the application within a reasonable time after submission. If the commission approves the application, it shall adopt a resolution specifying the following:

(a) The local government that has been approved to undertake a regional tourism project;

(b) The area of the regional tourism zone;

(c) Whether the commission has authorized the creation of a regional tourism authority; and

(d) The total cumulative dollar amount and percentage of the state sales tax increment revenue that will be dedicated to the regional tourism project. Such percentage shall be set at a value that in the best estimation of the commission will result in only the net new revenue likely created by the project and related development being dedicated to the financing entity and shall exclude any sales tax revenue the state would likely have received without the project and development. The total cumulative dollar amount and percentage of the sales tax increment revenue that can be dedicated to the regional tourism project shall not exceed the third-party analyst's calculation of the total cumulative dollar amount and percentage of sales tax increment revenue that can be dedicated to the regional tourism project, as reported pursuant to section 24-46-304 (2)(i), by more than fifty percent; except that the commission may determine a total cumulative dollar amount and percentage of the sales tax increment revenue that can be dedicated to the regional tourism project that exceeds the third-party analyst's calculations by more than fifty percent by a unanimous vote of all members of the commission.

(4) As part of the approval of a regional tourism project, the commission shall authorize the department of revenue to collect the percentage of the state sales tax increment revenue set by the commission pursuant to paragraph (d) of subsection (3) of this section on behalf of the approved financing entity and shall authorize the financing entity to receive and utilize the state sales tax increment revenue for the duration of the financing term. In implementing such authorization, the department of revenue shall remit such revenue to the financing entity on a monthly basis promptly after collection. The commission shall authorize the utilization of the state sales tax increment revenue by the financing entity pursuant to this part 3 and any conditions of approval imposed by the commission and incorporated in writing into the commission's resolution of approval.

(4.5) The total amount of state sales tax increment revenue dedicated to the regional tourism project for the entire duration of the project shall not exceed the total cumulative dollar amount specified by the commission pursuant to paragraph (d) of subsection (3) of this section. The department of revenue shall track the annual and cumulative state sales tax increment revenue remitted to the financing entity for the project and shall notify the commission when cumulative payments approach the limits set by the commission for the commission's concurrence regarding the dollar limits. After the department of revenue has cumulatively remitted such total cumulative dollar amount to the financing entity pursuant to subsection (4) of this section, the department of revenue shall not remit any additional sales tax increment revenue from the state to the financing entity, even if the approved financing term is not completed. The department of revenue shall notify the commission if it is no longer remitting sales tax increment revenue to the financing entity because the financing entity has reached its total cumulative dollar amount of sales tax increment revenue.

(5) Following the commission's approval of an application, the commission shall promptly transmit written notice and a copy of the approval to the executive director of the department of revenue. Such transmittal shall include any information deemed necessary by the department of revenue to fulfill its obligations pursuant to this part 3.
